WAR IS INEVITABLE

Bulgaria and Turkey Bound to Fight in the Course of Time.

EVENTS WILL FORCE THEM.

Revolution Is Spreading—Fifteen Thousand Insurgents Are Under Arms—General Rising This Week—Famous Leader, Sarafoff, Assumes Control in the Salonica District—Villages Burned.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 1.—Both in official and revolutionary circles the opinion is freely held that war between Turkey and Bulgaria is imminent and can be averted by nothing short of a miracle. It is not expected that either government will formally delare hostilities, but that the prevailing conditions will force a war.

Up to 6 o'clock last evening Prince Ferdinand had not arrived in Sofia, and the court officials declare that they are without information as to his movements.

General Rising This Week.

Sofia, Sept. 1.—The Macedonian leaders claim that an aggregate of 2,000 Bulgarians have crossed the frontier in small parties and joined the insurgents during the past ten days. Gen. Zondieff, the president of the Macedonian Committee, and Col. Jankoff, one of the revolutionary leaders, who are now in Macedonia, send word that the insurgent forces number 12,000 to 15,000 men. They expect that a general insurrection will be proclaimed this week.

Turks Occupy Klissura.

Salonica, Sept. 1.—The Turks have occupied Klissura, Albania, without resistance. A number of Bulgarian villages in its vicinity were burned.

Inspector-General Hilmi Pasha recently sent a communication, composed of five Christians and five Turks, to offer amnesty to the insurgents on condition that they lay their arms before the great fast today in honor of the Sultan's coronation.

The revolt has become general at Cassa and Venidje, twenty-five miles from Salonica, and is spreading to Gherghli and Tikhvesh, sixty miles from Salonica.

Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader has arrived in the neighborhood of Salonica for the purpose of directing the movements in this district.

Traced to London Town.

Aden, Arabia, Sept. 1.—The principal sources for the supply of rifles and ammunition to the Mad Mullah's forces in Somaliland have been traced through a complete identification of trade marks by agents at Harrar and Jibutil, Abyssinia, to a London firm. Since the commencement of the operations in Somaliland an aggregate of 3,000,000 rounds of Lee-Metford rifle ammunition and correspondingly large number of Lee-Metford and Gras rifles have been shipped by this London firm to Jibutil and Harrar, by way of Manchester and Marseilles.

A NELSON DROWNING.

Mr. Edward Grier, a Brother of Mayor Grier of Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, Sept. 1.—Mayor W. A. Grier received a telegram last evening, stating that his brother, Mr Edward Grier, had been drowned at Nelson, B. C., and that the body had not been recovered. The victim of the accident is an Owen Sound boy. He was a manufacturing jeweler, and for a time was in business in this town in the firm of Grier & Taylor.

Wm. Guertin Drowned.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—On Saturday at noon at the Cascades, on the Gatineau, Wm. Guertin of River Desert, aged twenty, lost his life. When dinner bell ran ten men got into one boat with Guertin. The boat struck a rock, swung into the swift current, and was swamped. Guertin was the only one drowned, the others being rescued.

Reduced Wheat Freight Rates.

Winnipeg, Aug 31.—(Special).—For ten cents per hundred pounds, or six cents per bushel, wheat is now carried from Winnipeg to Port Arthur over the Canadian Northern Railway. An equal reduction in rates goes into effect to-morrow at all other points on the Canadian Northern in Manitoba. This makes a total reduction in rates secured by the Roblin Government on grain alone of four cents per hundred within three years.

E. A. James, Gen.-Supt. of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, interviewed, he said: "The new rate fixed by the Order-in-Council of the Provincial Government will go into effect to-morrow (Tuesday) morning. All of our agents were notified this afternoon."

Killed by a Train.

Newbury, Sept. 1.—A very sad accident occurred here last evening when Herbert Telfer, a man of this vicinity, lost his life. Mr. Telfer was returning from the Wabash employes' excursion yesterday, and alighting from his train stepped directly in front of the Grand Trunk westbound express, which killed him instantly. The entire train passed over his body. Dr. Walker of Glencoe decided [illegible] necessary.

AGAINST OSLER, M.P.

Charged That He Profited by Government Concessions.

THE GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC.

Mr. Scott's Speech During This Debate Was Enlivened by His Statement That Osler, M.P., Was One of a Body of Grafters Who Cleared $15,000,000 Out of Late Government Concessions.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—When the House resumed yesterday morning Sir Wilfrid Laurier answered the question on the order paper in the name of Mr. Bourassa, as to whether Lord Minto had represented the opinion of his advisers, or was he speaking on his own responsibility when he addressed the recent banquet at Montreal, on trade matters. Sir Wilfrid's reply was: "His Excellency attended the banquet as the guest of the Montreal Board of Trade, and in answer to the toast expressed his own personal views."

Dr. Sproule (East Grey) drew attention to a despatch stating that anthrax had broken out in a herd of cattle west of Chicago. He said that as there were large shipments of western cattle sent through Canada over the Grand Trunk Railway he desired to draw the attention of the Minister of Agriculture to the possible danger that existed.

Mr. Thomas Murray, of Pontiac, followed Dr. Vroman and spoke for the Government in the railway debate yesterday morning. In reply to Col. Hughes, he said, that he was retiring from the House of Commons, but not to the Senate.

Charge Against Mr. Osler, M. P.

That Mr. E. B. Osler, M.P., was one of a body of "grafters" who cleared $15,000,000 out of concessions by the late Government to two western railways was the charge made in the House last night by Mr. Walter Scott, the member for Regina. This statement, which Mr. Scott repeated on his responsibility as a member, was given in some detail in the course of a very vigorous speech on the railway resolution. He said that what with bonuses and land grants given by the Conservative Government, and the difference between the stock and bond issue and the actual cost of the roads, there was that large profit for the promoters. The railways concerned are the Calgary & Edmonton and the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & Saskatchewan. Mr. Scott, in the latter part of his speech, presented the case of the west with vigor for upwards of two hours, enlarging on the needs of more railway accommodation and of the loss which its absence has entailed. Mr. Scott's speech showed careful preparation, was delivered with fluency and force, and added materially to the reputation of the member for West Assiniboia as a debator. There were eleven speakers in the debate yesterday, including Messrs. Vrooman, Murray, Pringle, MacLaren (Huntingdon), Cargill, Parmelee, Ball, Birkett, Beland and Stewart. Some ten or twelve remain, but the end is expected to-night.

AUSTRIA AND ENGLAND.

King Edward Enthusiastically Received by the Emperor Francis Joseph and Populace of Vienna.

Vienna, Sept. 1.—King Edward arrived here at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Marienbad and was accorded an enthusiastic reception. The city was elaborately decorated, and along the route from the railroad station to the Hofburg triumphal arches, displaying the Austrian and British flags entwined, were erected.

Emperor Francis Joseph, wearing the uniform of the British Dragoon Guards and accompanied by several Archdukes and other notables, received King Edward at the station. The King wore the uniform of a colonel of the Austrian Hussars. After the presentation of the Archdukes and others, their Majesties drove to the Hofburg in a landau drawn by six horses, immense crowds lining the streets.

At the Hofburg the King was received by the Archduchesses, Foreign Minister Goluchowski, the Austrian and the Hungarian Premiers and the court and state dignitaries. Thereafter the King retired to his apartments, where he was officially visited by the Emperor.

A State dinner in honor of King Edward was given at the Hofburg last night, the company present included the Emperor, all the Archdukes and Archduchesses, the Ministers, diplomats and the general staff of the army.

Emperor Francis Joseph toasted King Edward in a speech in the course of which he hailed his visit as a fresh pledge for the maintenance of the close confidential relations which have long existed between the two families and countries, and which were all the firmer because there was no political interest or point of antagonism likely to cast the shadow of a cloud between them.

The King, in responding expressed his thanks for the friendly sentiments expressed towards him, and with the cordial reception he had met with. He assured the Emperor of the continuance of the feeling of friendship, which he had inherited from Queen Victoria, and concluded by appointing Emperor Francis Joseph a field marshal in the British army.

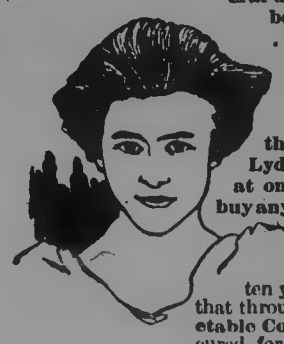
Another club woman, Mrs. Haule, of Edgerton, Wis., tells how she was cured of irregularities and uterine trouble, terrible pains and backache, by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine."—MRS. MAY HAULE, Edgerton, Wis., Pres. Household Economics Club.

When women are troubled with irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, general debility, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.



Frances Cook, Box 670, Kane, Pa., says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for ten years with leucorrhœa, but am glad to say that through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her Sanative Wash I am cured, for which I am very thankful."

TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

The Government Transportation Commission has been completed with the following as commissioners: Mr. John Bertram, Toronto, chairman; Mr. Robert Reford, Montreal; and Mr. E. K. Fry, of Quebec.

Before dealing with the objects of the commission, a consideration of the personnel will be interesting.

Mr. John Bertram, the chairman, will commend himself to the people of Peterborough, who know him so well, as eminently well fitted for the position, and in every way well qualified to direct the important investigation and researches the commission will be called upon to prosecute. Mr. Bertram is a Scotchman by birth, having been born at Fenton-Barnes, Haddingtonshire, about sixty years ago. At Dirleton High School in his native county he was educated, or, rather, began his education, for with his ambitious temperament he has continuously advanced in educational acquirement—practical education in all the active details of commerce, business public concerns and all that go to make the all-round man of affairs. He became connected with a hardware firm in Edinburgh, and came to Canada over 40 years ago, being associated for some time with the late hardware firm of W. Darling & Co., Montreal. In 1859 he became connected with Mr. Mellville Miller under the style of Miller & Bertram, and was connected with the hardware business here from time to time till 1883. In 1884 he went to Toronto and was actively connected with the lumbering business and subsequently became associated with the late Geo. H. Bertram in the great business which has developed into one of the most important industrial concerns in Canada, and he is at present the head of the Bertram Engine Works, of which shipbuilding has become a specialty. His long and varied experience in business, and his natural abilities and shrewd insight, have invested him with qualities that pre-eminently fit him for the position which he has accepted. In addition he has a large knowledge of public affairs. He was elected to the Dominion Parliament as the representative of West Peterborough, in 1872, but was deprived of his seat on a technicality, and kept out of it by a partizan committee. In 1874, the general election following the Pacific Scandal, Mr. Bertram was elected by a large majority, and held his seat until 1878. Mr. Bertram is a graceful and forceful speaker—in his day of active political life, one of the most effective speakers in the country. Then, from a Peterborough point of view, Mr. Bertram will be welcomed as the head of a transportation commission, because he will very probably from his local knowledge be inclined to take a favourable view of the importance of the Trent Canal as a factor in the transportation problem. In every respect he is abundantly well qualified to most efficiently and satisfactorily discharge the great trust which has been committed to himself and his confreres on the Commission.

Mr. Robert Reford, who has been appointed a member of the Transportation Commission, is looked upon as well qualified for work of this character, for not only has transportation been his constant employment for a good many years, but it has been his hobby as well. Mr. Reford, who is an Irishman by birth, having come out to Canada in 1845, is nothing if not an enthusiastic Canadian, but at the same time he is quick to see the faults and deficiencies of the land of his adoption as regards her foreign trade, and no one is quicker in their endeavours to remedy the existing evils, no matter what they may be. With over thirty years' experience behind him in the shipping trade, Mr. Reford is familiar with the ins and outs of the transportation problem as few men are. The Robert Reford Company, of which Mr. Robert Reford is the head, are the Canadian managers of the Thompson, Johnston and Lord Lines, and he was the first to undertake the transportation of Mediterranean fruit direct to the port of Montreal. This for a number of years past has been carried on very extensively — in fact the spring shipments of lemons and oranges to Montreal, immediately after the opening of navigation, is looked upon as one of the features in the fruit trade of the continent. For many years Mr. Reford has been a prominent member of the Montreal Board of Trade, and has represented the shipping interests on the Montreal Harbour Board ever since the death of the late Andrew Allan.

Mr. Edward Karey Fry, Quebec's representative on the Transportation Commission, who has lately been named as a member of the Transportation Commission, was born in Bristol, England, on June 24th, 1842, and is by commercial training, more than thirty years residence in the country, and by marriage, a typical Anglo-Canadian. Mr. Fry is one of the leading merchants of Quebec. He received his education at the Grammar School at Bristol, and at the finish of his studies he came to Canada, and entered the employ of his brother, Mr. Henry Fry, who had become a Canadian shipowner, while several of his other brothers were at sea. It was decided that he should follow their example, and he was accordingly apprenticed, and served time on one of his brother's ships. By this means he acquired a knowledge of the sea and ships. Life on a timber ship was necessarily distasteful to a lad of his stamp, and he joined his brother in his office at Quebec. Mr. Fry made rapid progress in his new duties, and his application and aptitude in business matters caused his brother to take him in as a partner. Mr. Fry is one of the best informed men on the intricacies of the St. Lawrence navigation. His practical knowledge was gained in the forecastle of a timber ship, and still further developed by his studies of navigation. He is looked upon as an authority for information regarding the navigation of the St. Lawrence from the Gulf to the City of Montreal. He is also a member of the Quebec Board of Trade.

It is perhaps worthy of remark that the three commissioners represent the three great British nationalities, English, Irish and Scotch, a combination of the best material the world can produce, and they seem to personally combine all the necessary qualities. Mr. Reford is especially familiar with foreign transportation; Mr. Fry is well acquainted with shipping and navigation, and Mr. Bertram in addition to his extensive general business knowledge, is familiar with shipbuilding.

Canada's peculiar geographical position in relation to the world's markets, and the vast extent of her resources, make the transportation problem one of the greatest and most important to engage the attention of our public men, and very amply justifies the appointment of the commission.

"There appears," says the Globe, "to be some confusion of mind with respect to this commission. A good deal of the criticism appearing in the Conservative papers has been based on the assumption that the merits of such a project as the proposed Grand Trunk Pacific Railway should be submitted to the judgment of this commission. The Globe can speak with some knowledge of the scope of the inquiry to be made, for it has repeatedly called for the appointment of such a commission. There never was any idea that matters of policy—and the construction of a Government railway is certainly a matter of policy—would be submitted to it. The inquiry that was called for was one into the various aspects of the lake and rail transportation problem. The chief of these may be stated as follows: The navigation of the great lakes is divided into what may be called the eighteen-foot channels and the fourteen-foot channels. The two sections are divided at Port Colborne. West of that point loaded vessels of about eighteen feet draught can find sea-room in the lakes, rivers, canals, and some of the harbours. East of Port Colborne the minimum depth is about fourteen feet. Of course, the deep-draught vessels furnish the most economical means of transport, but they must break bulk at some stage of the journey. The report of the commission should help to furnish answers to the questions which arise from this situation of affairs.

An important branch of the inquiry will probably be the rail haul from the ports that have been mentioned. There are many who claim that the ideal route lies by way of an air-line railway from Collingwood to Toronto, at which last-mentioned port it would again be transferred to vessels and barges to be taken to Montreal or Quebec. The merits claimed for this route are that it is the shortest possible rail haul from Fort William to Montreal. It utilizes the advantages of the capacious upper lake grain-carriers, a short rail haul, and the saving of the time spent in steaming the long distance round to the Welland Canal.

There is one encouraging feature of the situation at the present moment. In the past, despite all our efforts to facilitate transportation by the St. Lawrence River, results were disappointingly inadequate. Even last year, when the fourteen-foot channel had been at length fully achieved, there was a feeling of chagrin when it was found that the shipments showed no improvement. The last measure taken was the abolition of canal tolls. This seems to have been the move that was needed to win the game. Shipments from Montreal are beginning to assume unwonted proportions, and the American Atlantic ports are complaining of declining grain shipments. Once this flow of products is fairly put in motion it would be difficult to set a limit to its magnitude. The commissioners will conduct their inquiry in presence of these facts, and will have no difficulty in recognizing that Canada commands the greatest natural channel for the flow of freight from and to the west.

The Globe, as is natural, magnifies the composite half-rail, half-water, route for grain and totally ignores the Trent Waterway, which involves less transhipment, and obviates a second rail haul for grain, and gives safe navigation from Fort William to Montreal, practically land locked navigation from the Soo to Montreal, and positively land locked navigation from Midland to Montreal, with barges of a capacity of about 20,000 bushels. The Commissioners will, doubtless, approach their work with open mind and give due consideration to every available route, and will not be stampeded into adopting sectional attitude. The interests of the whole dominion are at stake in this matter, and the widest point of view should be taken, and the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number should prevail.

CANADIAN RIFLE SHOTS.

36th Meeting Opened at Ottawa on Monday—430 Marksmen Are Entered—The Barlow For Tyros.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—The 36th meeting of the Dominion Rifle Association opened yesterday morning at 8.15, when the men went to the 500 yards range for practice shots.

The morning opened damp, cold and cheerless, with an overcast sky and a raw fish-tail wind, which, however, did not seem to dampen the ardor of the riflemen, who took every advantage of the opening half hour for practice shots. The first match of the meeting, the Barlow for tyros, that is, men who have never won a prize at a national or Dominion Rifle Association match, other than for tyros, was shot off. In this the range is 500 yards, 7 shots for 57 prizes. Pte. E. H. Haystead won first with a score of 34, $15. The tyros shooting numbered 131.

The total entries were 430, making the meeting one of the best on record.

Capt. J. E. Hutchison, 43rd Battalion, opened up the Gibson with a possible. This match is 5 rounds at 500 yards, to be fired in one minute.

The second team of the N. S. Rifle Association took first prize of $20 with 147 points, and the 5th Royal Scots second prize of $15 with 146 points.

Bankers' Match.

In the Bankers' match, seven shots at 500 yards, the shooting showing a considerable falling off from last year; due to a fish-tail wind. Lieut.-Col. Anderson and Corp. Mason captured the first two prizes with 34 each., while last year there were six possibles made and scores of 32 were counted out.

The Walker Match.

The Walker match, 600 and 900 yards, was shot off yesterday afternoon under reasonably good weather conditions, the rain having stopped and the light, but tricky wind, which prevailed in the morning having almost subsided. The Gibson rapid-firing match and running man and revolver competitions were begun and will last throughout the week. The first prize winner in the Walker match was Sergt.-Major Dinnen, 1st Hussars, who, with a score of 66, won $25 and cup.

The team prize, consisting of the Walker Cup and $30, was won by the 13th Regiment of Hamilton, with 372 points. Other teams competing were the 43rd D.C.O.R., which secured second place with 358, and the 10th Royal Grenadiers third, with 352, and Queen's Own Rifles fourth, with 344.

New Shooting Record.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 1.—Jacob Gruhler of the Sacramento Holvetia Shooting Club has broken the world's record at 200 yards, German 25-ring target, by making 463 out of a possible 500. The record heretofore, held by Dr. Rogers of San Francisco, was 461 out of 500. Mr. Gruhler's shooting was off-hand.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.

Customs Revenue Increases.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—The customs revenue for the two months ending yesterday, was $7,131,460, an increase of $1,201,773 compared with the same period of last year. For August only the revenue was $3,907,707, an increase of $581,311.

THE QUEEN'S TRIBUTE.

Funeral of Lord Salisbury Marked by Simplicity—King and Queen Sent Wreaths—Great Statesman Buried.

London, Sept. 1—The body of Lord Salisbury was interred yesterday afternoon beside that of his wife in the burial ground of the Cecils, at Hatfield. The arrangements were of the most private and simple character. All the children of the deceased were present, as were also Premier Balfour, Lord Selborne and a few intimate neighbors. Otherwise the mourners were made up of the dead statesman's tenants, retainers and inhabitants of Hatfield. The coffin was carried to and from the parish church by old servants.

The only floral tribute on the coffin was a wreath sent by Queen Alexandria. Other wreaths sent by the King of Portugal and others were used to decorate the graveyard. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the funeral service.

Attached to the Queen's wreath was a card bearing the words. "To the memory of Lord Salisbury, universally loved and mourned as one of England's best and greatest statesmen. From Alexandra."

The King sent a wreath with the words: "As a mark of deepest regard, greatest respect and sincere friendship."

Simultaneously a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey, which was attended by representatives of King Edward, Emperor William and other members of royal and Imperial families, Cabinet Ministers, former Cabinet Ministers, diplomats, and members of Parliament and others.

KILLED BY C. P. R.

Grassett, Ont., Sept. 1—The Imperial Limited, on the Canadian Pacific, met with a very serious head-on collision three and a half miles west of here, at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning, caused by a light engine and caboose in charge of Conductor Charlebois, who overlooked his instructions and did not sidetrack as directed to allow the limited to cross him.

Fireman P. Moran, who started to jump from his engine, was caught between the engine and tender, which instantly killed him.

Engineer McMahon stayed with his engine until he had reversed the ponderous machine and applied the air brakes. By that time it was too late to get clear of his engine. When the two large engines struck Engineer McMahon was caught by one foot. His leg was scalded terribly from the effects of which he died at two o'clock in the afternoon.

All the passengers escaped with the exception of a few bruises.

Directors in the Dock.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 1.—Seven wealthy and prominent men appeared yesterday in the Essex County Court for trial on an indictment charging them with manslaughter. On Feb. 19 last nine Newark High School students were killed in a collision between a Clifton avenue trolley car and a Lackawanna express train. Indictments were returned against the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the North Jersey Street Railway Company. The indictment of these officials followed a verdict by the coroner's jury fixing responsibility on the North Jersey Street Railway Company.

St. Thomas Engineer Scalded.

St. Thomas, Sept. 1.—By the bursting of a throttle valve on the engine at the Sutherland-Innes stave factory at 8.15 yesterday morning, Charles Hood, the engineer, was so severely scalded, that he may not recover. When the valve burst, Mr. Hood was enveloped in a cloud of steam, and for a time he could not be rescued. He is over 60 and the accident may prove fatal.

CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM.

Latest Word of Science on This Dangerous Malady.

The prevalence of rheumatism in some form or another, and the largely fatal character of its effects, have for a long time set physicians to pondering and investigating as to its cause. The cause ascertained, it would remain only to find the most effective means of removing it. The verdict of experience and study at the present day is that rheumatism, of whatever nature, is a blood disease, and the best authorities agree that it is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. The efforts of students of this affliction, therefore, became concentrated on the most effective means of cure. A remedy must combine the most effective specifics and it must be prepared with such care and skill as to leave no possible element of uncertainty. The result of such study and care is known as "Bu-Ju." This is a vegetable compound in the form of pills which act upon the kidneys in such a way as to stimulate weak organs and overcome clogged or sluggish conditions. The kidneys are the filters of the body. When they work imperfectly the poison they should excrete and expel from the system is returned to the blood. Then ensues blood-poisoning. When the kidneys are well the excess of uric acid and other poisons is expelled, the blood is purified, and rheumatism may be left to nature's recuperative action. Bu-Ju is put up in boxes of 50 pills, selling at 50 cents at all drug stores. The Claflin Chemical Co., Ltd., New York, N. Y., and Windsor, Ont., control the sale of this specific in the United States and Canada.

OUR CITY WATER OF EXCELLENT QUALITY.

According to a Certificate of the Provincial Analyst.

Samples for Analysis Taken From Both Public and Private Sources of Supply.

"Colour, none; odour, cold, none; odour, when heated, none; colon bacilli, none; colonoid bacteria, none; other forms, no pathogenic; chlorine, one part per million.

"Remarks — This is a good drinking water.

"J. A. AMYOT."

The other sample was taken on the same date from the fountain outside the police station. The analysis was identically the same as the other.

THE FIFTY SEVENTH COLOURS FUND.

It now Amounts to the Sum of One Hundred and Twenty Dollars.

Miss Barlee, treasurer of the committee, has kindly supplied the Examiner with a list of contributors to the fund for the purchase of a stand of colours for the Fifty-Seventh Regiment, Peterborough Rangers. As will be seen by the appended list of contributors, and the amounts contributed, the popular idea seems to be that the subscriptions are limited to $1.00 each. The treasurer says there is no such limit, and if any person chooses to give a larger amount it willl not be refused. If, however, the number of one dollar contributors is sufficient, it is, perhaps, better, because the gift of the colours will represent a more popular and more widespread interest than would be represented by a few donations of large amounts. The object aimed at is a deserving one. We are proud of our volunteers, and would all feel the humiliation of seeing them parade on some state occasion with the moth-tattered colours which have done duty for over a generation, and now "lag superfluous on the stage." The fund has now reached $120.75 of the amount of $300, which it is estimated will be required. Below is the list of contributors secured, apart from the bank deposit, mostly in one day — yesterday — by the energetic treasurer, Miss Barlee.

THE OPENING DAY OF THE SCHOOLS.

Work Resumed and Arranged for at the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools.

It is learned that the attendance at the Public Schools to-day was somewhat disappointing, but a number of new scholars were present. It is expected that by the end of the week the unsettling influences of the holiday season will have passed away and attendance will, as a consequence, increase considerably.

The two new teachers entered in upon their duties to-day. They are Messrs. F. E. Carr and R. Roddick. Mr. Carr, who comes from Coldsprings, is teaching in the South Central School, while Mr. Roddick, who comes from Port Hope, is teaching in the Central School.

Necessarily the first day is chiefly devoted to re-arrangement of classes, placing of promoted pupils, assignment of lessons and procuring of the necessary new books, which latter made the bookstores and the streets in their vicinity the scene of unusual activity and juvenile bustle.

Charlotte Street Methodist Church Choir Association.

A meeting will be held at the church on Thursday evening at 7.30 for business and choir practice. As matters of importance require consideration, a full attendance is urgently requested. A. L. Davis, President. 2d

ENGLAND'S GREATEST BAND.

The Splendid Coldstream Guards and Their Visit to Peterborough.

The pulses quicken and the heart beats in the breast of every Britisher as he hears the inspiring music of a military band, and when it happens that he is listening to the finest band in the whole British service, and the band that has inspired through centuries of glory, the oldest regiment in the King's army, it may be considered an opportunity of a life-time. For many years efforts have been made to secure a visit to Canada of a crack regimental band but it was not until this year that the consent of the Imperial authorities could be obtained, and as a result the finest band in the British service belonging to the oldest regiment in the English Army, the famous Coldstream Guards, sailed from England on Aug. 27th, arriving in Toronto on Sept. 7th. The band will be in full regimental strength, numbering 46 splendid musicians, under the leadership of J. Mackenzie Rogan, who is the bandmaster not merely of the Coldstreams, but of the Brigade of Guards.

Arrangements have been made for a visit of the band to Peterborough on Wednesday evening, September 23rd. They will appear at the new rink, Brock street.

Chosen Friends.

The regular meeting of Chosen Friends will be held on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Sons of England Hall. Fifty candidates will be initiated. All the members are asked to be present.—Recorder. 1d

ADJOURNED INQUEST INTO ROBT. McAULIFFE'S DEATH

No Verdict has yet Been Arrived at.

The Important Evidence of the Master Mechanic and the Fireman.

The inquest into the death of Robt. McAuliffe, which occurred on July 5th from scalds received by steam owing to an explosion in the boiler of engine No. 168 blowing out the crown sheet, was resumed last night in the Council Chamber.

The inquest was adjourned until September 21st, next, at 7 p.m., in order that the jurymen might examine the repair record and mileage books pertaining to the engine.

The jury was composed of the following gentlemen:—Mr. Fessenden, foreman, and Messrs. Lech, Meagher, Thompson, Picard, Lynch, Bradburn, Madill, Micks, Fitzgerald, Morphet and Moore.

Nelson B. Whitsel on being sworn said:—I am the master mechanic of the Grand Trunk Company and produce some letters in regard to the repairs to the boiler of engine No. 168. I have no record of the age of the engine, but I think it was built in 1874. It has been running regularly ever since that date. The engine has undergone repairs. The crown plate is situated over the fire-box. It is between the water and the fire. I have never heard of the crown plate undergoing repairs, neither did I hear that the crown plate of the engine had warped previous to the accident. This engine has been running between Midland and Belleville, and the accident occurred on the road between Belleville and Lindsay, and in the vicinity of Madoc Junction. Since 1891 there was a patch put on the side of the fire-box but not on the crown plate. I do not know any engineer refusing to take out the engine. I know men named Haines and Paton. The water running dry would soften the crown sheet. When a crown sheet warps the stays will leak as the crown sheet expands away from them. This would not occur unless the sheet was unduly heated. I was present when the engine was examined after the accident. The injectors, steam guages and all other appliances, which had not been touched between the accident and the time I saw them, were examined and found to be in a good condition.

THE FIREMAN'S TESTIMONY.

Herbert Porter, the second witness to be examined, on being sworn said, I hold the position of fireman on the G. T. Railway, and was on engine No. 168 on July 5th, when the accident occurred. I had never been on the engine before although I had been employed as a fireman for four months. It was also my first trip with McAuliffe. We took out the engine on July 4th. We ran to Belleville and the accident occurred on the return journey. The engine was taken out in the forenoon of July 4th at Lindsay. I was the first to board her, but Craigben, an engineer, came shortly afterwards, oiled up, looked at the engine and got her ready. He also went down to the yard, made up a train and got ready to go. Craigben, however, did not run the engine, but I do not know why. The engine was down at the yard when McAuliffe boarded her. On the trip to Belleville the engine did not steam well. She worked water. By "working water" I mean to say that the water was forced out with the steam, worked through the cylinders and thrown up the smoke stack. Another engine was with us, behind us, and we arrived at Belleville that night. About midnight between July 4th and 5th we commenced the return journey. The accident occurred near Madoc Junction, at the top of a stiff up grade, one mile in length. She was not steaming any better than on the previous day. Before we came to the big hill McAuliffe said we would put on both injectors to get in all the water possible. At that time my injector was on. McAuliffe turned on his some fifteen minutes before we came to the foot of the up grade. There was about three-quarters of a glass in the water guage when I shut off my injector. When we got to the top of the hill McAuliffe told me to turn on my injector, which I did. At that time his was on, and had been on all the way up the hill. After I had turned my injector on I looked to see if it was working all right, which I found it was. It was at this time, when I was at the cab door, that the explosion occurred. I am satisfied that one injector was working up the hill; two until we came to the foot of the hill, and two after we had arrived at the top. I have no theory to offer as to the cause of the accident. I noticed as we were climbing the hill that there were about two and a half inches of water in the guage, which I think would be sufficient as I have been on engines when the water became lower than that.

CROSS-EXAMINATION.

Answering questions asked by Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, Mr. Dennistoun and some of the jurymen, witness said:

The accident occurred half a minute or a minute after I had turned on my injector; I think both injectors were of the same size. I have previously ridden the grade. I noticed the water glass a short time before I turned on the water. I worked at the fire all the way up the grade and did not pay much attention to the water gauge. However, it was customary for me to see the height of the water in the glass before and after turning on the injector. The accident occurred about two o'clock in the morning, but it was not very dark. I had been on duty since ten o'clock the previous day, and had had no sleep during that time; I think we spent about two hours in Belleville. The water glass on the engine was about 6 inches long, and was a slanting one. In it two and a half inches would hardly be half a glass.

THE THIRD WITNESS.

The third witness called was Frank Paton, who on being sworn, said: I was an engine driver with the G. T. R., and was in the company's employ for about four years. I was dismissed on June 15th last, probably by Mr. Whitsel, the master mechanic. I fired the engine as No. 80, but never ran her. I never refused to go out on her. I occasionally had both injectors working. The boilers engines are only tested once a month unless some defect is reported. Nothing could happen to the crown sheet as long as there were 2 1-2 inches of water in the gauge and if the water was above the crown sheet when the second injector was turned on the accident could not have occurred.

H. Porter on being recalled stated that he would know by looking at the guage whether communication between it and the boiler had been blocked up. He said that there were try cocks by which the water guage could be tested. He was positive McAuliffe tried the try cocks when going up the hill.

On the consent of the jury the engine was handed back to the Company for repairs.

The two following were filed as exhibits No. 1 and No. 2, respectively, in connection with the engine:—

Montreal, July 14, 1903.

Mr. W. W. Pope, office of General Counsel, Belleville,—

Dear Sir, — In regard to Engine 168, the crown sheet of which dropped near Halloway on the 5th inst., resulting in fatal injury to Engineer R. McAuliffe, and serious injury to Fireman Porter.

This is an old Great Western Engine, built by the Rhode Island Locomotive Works in 1871. Its original number in our records is 788, changed to No 80 in 1898, and to 168 in December last.

The records show a new boiler applied to this engine in April, 1883, but owing to not being able to locate the Great Western stock records I cannot say by whom the boiler was built or where applied, but it was probably built by the Great Western Railway at Hamilton and applied to the engine there. I am trying to get information on this point from ex-locomotive foreman Hall, who was at Hamilton with the Great Western Railway for many years, and will advise you if I can ascertain anything definite.

The engine last received a new fire box at Stratford in June, 1891, and was last re-tubed and tested, also at Stratford, in November, 1900.

Yours truly,
W. M. ROBB,
Supt. of Motive Power.

AMERICA'S CUP RACE

Race on Monday Was Unfinished —Wind Died Out.

THE RELIANCE AGAINST TIME

Shamrock III. Miles Behind the Reliance, Which Failed to Cross the Line Before Time Limit Had Expired—Slow Progress Made During the First Half Hour—Reliance Within Half Mile.

New York, Sept. 1.—An autumnal storm which had kept Reliance and Shamrock for 72 hours within the shelter of Sandy Hook Bay, had blown itself out sufficiently yesterday morning to enable the two racers to venture once more into the open sea for a continuance of their races for the America's Cup. The gale, however, had left as a token of its strength a very heavy swell, so that when the two boats turned the point of Sandy Hook they at once began to roll and wallow like a counle of coal barges.

When the Regatta Committee boat reached the lightship it was found that to start a race from that point 15 miles to leeward or windward would be impossible and a signal was hoisted postponing the start until a line could be established sufficiently south of the lightship to send the yachts off to windward.

Half a minute before the starting gun was fired jib topsails were broken out on both boats. The starting gun was fired at 11.45, with the boats to the leeward of the line. They immediately trimmed in their sheets and went across the line on the starboard tack, Reliance a little to windward. The wind at the start was blowing about seven miles an hour, and both yachts at once headed towards the Long Island shore Each carried large club topsails and intermediate baby jib topsails.

During the first half-hour after the start the yachts made three tacks, and, the wind being light, at 12.15 they had scarcely covered more than two miles of the course. Reliance seemed to gain steadily, and at 12.20 was apparently leading by an eighth or a quarter of a mile.

At 1.50 p.m. the yachts were both holding inshore. Reliance's position to windward having been considerably increased by a change in the direction of the wind. When both boats straightened out for the board towards Long Beach it was easy to see what a great advantage Reliance had established. Barr was over a mile to the windward of the Lipton boat.

Within one mile of the mark Reliance made two short hitches to fetch it. She left the mark on the starboard, and gybing over as she went around at 3.00.45 (unofficial).

As she headed straight for the finish, 15 miles away, she had just two hours and 15 minutes within which to reach the finish line in the time limit. When Reliance turned Shamrock was still over two miles from that point.

At 3.10 Shamrock was on the starboard tack, heading in towards the Long Island shore, and about three-fourths of a mile from the mark. Shortly after she crossed the wake of the Reliance, who was homeward bound, though slowly, she did not stand in very far, and at 3.16 took the port tack. Shamrock pointed for the mark, and at 3.21, slowly gybed around. She immediately set her balloon jib topsail, broke out her spinnaker and started her long, stern chase. Reliance was nearly three miles away.

Reliance failed to register her third victory because the wind died to nothing, and the time limit of five and a half hours expired before she could reach the finish line. She was less than half a mile from the finish when the gun sounded. Shamrock was fully two and a half miles astern.

The time at the outer mark was:

Reliance.....3.00.37
Shamrock.....3.21.00

Will Race Again To-Day.

The Regatta Committee of the New York Yacht Club announced last night that the yachts would race again to-day.

EVIDENCE THAT NONE CAN DOUBT.

W. E. Ellis got so he Could not Walk Alone or Feed Himself—he Tells of His Cure.

Cedar Dale, Aug. 31. — (Special.) — Every day seems to furnish fresh proofs that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure and permanent cure for Rheumatism. This village furnishes evidence that no one can doubt in the person of W. E. Ellis. His story is best given in his own words.

"Two years ago," says Mr. Ellis, "I got Muscular Rheumatism. I tried all sorts of medicines, but none of them did me any good.

"At last my wife would send for a doctor. When he arrived, I said, 'Doctor, can you cure muscular rheumatism?' 'No,' said the doctor. 'Then I said,' you are of no use to me.'"

"I got so bad that I could not feed myself or walk alone. Then I was induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took six boxes of them which drove all the rheumatism out of me and left me in good health again."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Rheumatism by removing the cause — by putting the Kidneys in shape to take the uric acid out of the blood. They always cure Lumbago and Sciatica in the same way.

THE LOG HOUSE ON THE HILL.

Clifton Grove, on the Grand River.

There's a sunny spot that draws me
With a strange and subtle charm,
'Tis the birthplace of my kindred,
The old log house on the farm.
'Mid the hawthorne trees it nestles
In a garden once so bright,
'Twas the tired teamsters' haven
And the travelers' delight,
When the ancient, lumb'ring stage coach
Failed its duty to fulfil
All on board found food and shelter
At the log house on the hill.

In its day it was a mansion,
Two full storeys, gables grand,
Standing close beside the roadway,
First and foremost in the land;
Proud of its well-hewn timbers
It appeared to look with scorn
On some other lowlier cabin
In a clearance all forlorn.
For had not the ladies curtseyed
Oft before its oaken sill,
In the minuet so stately,
At the log house on the hill.

Brave old log house, vainly striving
With the best to hold its own,
Brightened here and there with whitewash,
Solitary, ivy-grown.
Frowned upon by haughty rivals,
Modern in its shape and size,
Naught care they for reverend rafters,
Sad, sweet memories, stifled sighs;
Wealth they know is fame and power,
All else nowadays is nil,
Ichabod is plainly written
On the log house on the hill.

Drear, deserted, all has vanished
Save the river at its feet,
Gone the happy, smiling faces
Round the hearth that used to meet,
For the little ones have mastered
All the good, old-fashioned R's,
Long they've been in life's fierce battle,
Some are safe beyond the stars;
Sometimes they come back at even',
In the gloaming calm and still,
Just to dream that they are children
In the log house on the hill.

They say people are progressing,
Seems to me they're faster, too;
Folks have so much education
That they can't tell what to do:
They know more than their Creator
About this world and the next,
Over ologies and isms
They are often sorely vexed;
But perchance they'd have a better
Knowledge of the mysteries still
If they'd stood the catechising
In the log house on the hill.

—H. Isabel Graham.

"Who Can He Be?"

The game "Who can he be?" is instructive and also helps to refresh the memory. One of the party selects a historical personage without naming him and relates an anecdote or anything that is interesting about him and names the country in which he lived. The player who guesses the name, having previously the privilege of asking one question, gives a description of another character, and so the game progresses. Here is an example:

"There was a celebrated Swiss, a famous archer, a champion of liberty and who was the first to strike a blow for freedom. He refused to bow to the Austrian governor's hat, that had been placed on a pole that all should do homage to it, and as a punishment for his disobedience he was ordered to shoot an arrow at an apple placed on his son's head or else the son should be put to immediate death before his sight. With horror at the fearful alternative he at first refused, begging that vengeance might fall on him only, but his son assured him that he did not fear the result and begged him to make the trial. He yielded to his persuasions, took aim, drew his bow and struck the apple without injuring his son. Who was he?"

"Who but William Tell?" says a player, who instantly proceeds with another description of a hero or heroine.

Many Helpless With Paralysis.

Who Could now be Well had They but Known of

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

We do not claim that every one who is paralyzed can be cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for many are beyond the reach of any medical treatment and must finish their days in helplessness and suffering.

It is rather to those who are only partially paralyzed and to those who are slowly but surely developing the symptoms which indicate the approach of such ailments that we would suggest the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure for diseases of the nerves.

When you find yourself lying awake nights, suffer from indigestion and headache, feel drowsy after meals and losing energy, ambition and courage, it is time to pay attention to the nerves. You may find yourself irritable at times, worried over little things, unable to concentrate the mind, forgetful and absent-minded, disheartened and discouraged. Better give some attention to the nerves.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures and prevents paralysis and locomotor ataxia. It does not ease by inducing unconsciousness and unnatural sleep. It does not deaden the nerves as do opiates and narcotics. But, on the other hand, by assisting nature and supplying the elements from which are formed new blood and nerve force, effects thorough and lasting cure and is bound to benefit all who use it.

Seldom, if ever, has any medicine secured such hearty endorsement of physicians and people alike. The cures which it has brought about have often been most extraordinary, and anyone who regularly and persistently uses this great food cure is sure to find it of inestimable value as a nerve restorative and blood builder.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove that new, firm flesh and muscular tissue are being added to the body. 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the family receipt book author, are on every box. 1

MORE WHISTLERISMS.

His Vitreolic Qualities and His Satanic Laugh—Tested His Own Horn—Fooled by His Own Pictures.

James A. McNeill Whistler, the American artist, who died in London recently, gave himself the credit of being "an adept at the gentle art of making enemies." He was almost always in hot water with somebody, and was as fond as an old-fashioned Scotchman of getting into a lively lawsuit, enjoying litigation almost equally well whether he won or lost.

Whistler was not particularly proud of being a native American, resembling in that respect William Waldorf Astor. A Frenchman once sized him up as being "an American in his origin, an Englishman in his manners and a Frenchman in his esprit." The critic added that about the man there constantly floats an indefinable fragrance of sulphur. Others have described the artist's laugh as satanic in its cynicism; and yet he felt disappointed and hurt if his companions failed to join in his mirth. He had the habit of buttonholing those to whom he talked, not figuratively merely, but actually, that they might not escape him until he had his say.

It was well worth while though, to listen to him, for his wit was irresistible. The mere repetition of his mots did them injustice, for it was not the remarks themselves but the way in which they were made that made them funny. His personality was enriched by all sorts of mannerisms and stereotyped words and phrases.

Artist-like, he spent a great deal of pains with his hair, which curled beautifully. But the remarkable feature of this part of his toilet was that, while he dyed nearly all of his hair a rich, glossy black, he left one tell tale lock with the whiteness of age.

Tested His Own Horn.

Whistler had no false modesty about praising his own work. When struggling for recognition early in his career, he made it a point to laud his pictures so loudly and persistently that other folk finally began to take him at his own valuation, because no critic thought it worth while to say anything against the obscure young artist. This self-esteem served him all his life.

"Come now, this is all nonsense, you trying to do this," he said once to a fellow-painter who thought he had lit upon a promising bit of landscape to paint. "It is much too good a subject to be wasted upon you. You'd better let me see what I can do with it."

In his struggling days he lived in the top of an old palace in Venice, starving on a diet of maccaroni and polenta, unable to sell any of his pictures except at starvation prices. It was only by dint of industriously crying up his own wares that he finally induced some to believe in him.

Dealing With Creditors.

Even in his days of prosperity, Whistler was perpetually in debt. He had no head for money matters. Here is the way he once tamed a London bailiff who had a bill against him to collect:

When the officer first appeared he wore his hat in the drawing-room and smoked and spat all over the house. Mr. Whistler soon settled that. He went out into the hall, armed himself with a cane and jauntily whacked his visitor's hat off. The man was so surprised that he forgot to be angry. One morning, when Whistler was shaving, a message was brought to him that the bailiff wished to speak with him.

"Very well; send him up," said Whistler, but he kept on shaving. "Now, then, what do you want?" he continued, as the man appeared.

"I want my money, sir," was the reply.

"What money?"

"My possession money, sir."

"What, haven't they given it to you?"

"No, sir, it's you that has to give it to me."

"Oh, the deuce I have!" this with one of his fiendish laughs.

"Well, I think it's very hard, sir," snivelled the man. "I have my own family to keep and my own rent to pay."

"I'll tell you what I advise you to do," returned Whistler, as he pushed his caller out of the room; "you should do as I do, and have a man in yourself."

Tilts in the Courts.

Some of Whistler's lawsuits became famous. One in particular he enjoyed as a sweet morsel, although he lost it and was taxed heavily for the luxury. He received a commission from Sir William Eden to paint a portrait, and when the picture was about finished, but before it was delivered, Whistler received a "valentine" from Sir William enclosing a cheque for 100 guineas for the work. This so angered the artist, who placed a much higher valuation on the canvas, that he painted out the face and retained both picture and money. He even cashed the cheque in a great hurry rather than return it and accept a larger one, which his patron offered. Eden began suit, which Whistler fought viciously, but the plaintiff won, getting judgment not only for his 100 guineas, but heavy damages besides.

But Whistler sometimes was plaintiff himself. He sued Ruskin for libel for calling him a cockney in a severe art criticism, and got damages of one farthing (half a cent). He also quarreled with DuMaurier for caricaturing him, as he thought, in the character of "Joe Sibley" in the novel "Trilby." He carried the controversy into the newspapers, until the novelist (who was also an artist) cut the objectionable character out of his book.

While Carlyle was still alive, Whistler painted his portrait as a labor of love, and when the great essayist died he set a price upon it of only 400 guineas, a subscription having been circulated to buy the portrait. But when he learned that the paper ungraciously disclaimed approval of himself, his art or his theories, he promptly raised the price to 1,000 guineas. The picture remains unsold to this day.

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. BIG SEA SNAKE SCARED ELDER.

Pious Fisherman One of Many to See St. Croix River's Monster.

A reign of terror exists among the good folk who inhabit the little village of Bayside. They have seen the dreaded sea serpent—head, tail, and fins. No one will venture into the St. Croix River either to swim or to fish, and several small cannon have been mounted and trained on the peaceful waters and with sharp-eyed gunners ready to hurl shells at the monster of the deep should he again make his appearance.

Unlike the majority of sea serpent rumors the latest story can be corroborated by dozens of eye-witnesses. Walter Greenlaw is one of the best-known fishermen in the village. He is probably forty years old, has been all his life a total abstainer, and is an Elder in the quaint little Presbyterian Church on the hill. He is the last man one would suspect of manufacturing a sea serpent story.

Monday Greenlaw and his younger brother dropped down the St. Croix for a day's fishing. Just after noon, when the tide began to rush in, Greenlaw the elder heard a peculiar noise. Looking down the river, about a mile away, he saw an object swishing through the calm water at a terrific speed. As it approached to within a few hundred yards Greenlaw saw the animal's head suddenly disappear and the tremendous fins still were kept above water and cut through with terrible swiftness. The first sets of fins were about 20 feet apart, and the next set fully 50 feet behind these. These relative positions they maintained all the time that Greenlaw, with frighted eyes, was gazing upon them. He yelled to his brother to man the oars while he himself seized a marlin-spike and prepared to defend himself from the animal's attacks. But evidently the sea serpent was not in a pugnacious mood, for it shot past the terrified fishermen, and, leaving a torpedo boat trail, was soon lost to sight.

Knowing that there was shallow water up the river, Greenlaw concluded that the serpent would soon return, and he thereupon made for the shore. His brother through fear had collapsed and lay almost senseless in the bottom of the boat. As they neared shore the serpent was again descried coming down the river. This time the animal's head was up out of the water, but so frightened were the fishermen that they cannot even describe the conformation of the monster's head, except that the eyes were of remarkable size and as green as starboard lights.

On the river bank was a party of Sunday school children. When they saw the strange fish approaching they rushed ashore screaming loudly, and none of them would again venture into the water. When Greenlaw told the village folks of his experience steps were immediately taken to capture the monster if he should again venture up the river. Heavy seines were sunk in the river, and it is hoped that the sea serpent or mammoth eel will be secured. Meanwhile the village folks are afraid to go near the river.

Old salts are telling that fifteen years ago Capt. Stinson, the veteran pilot of the St. Croix River, declared he saw a monster serpent in practically the same spot where the Greenlaws had their stirring adventure. Not only is this corroborative evidence at hand, but the coast records tell of a more wonderful incident nearly forty years ago when a small boat belonging to the steamer Queen was bitten in two by an animal that was described as a sea serpent of the most terrifying sort.

Scientists are agreed that sea serpents are very rare, but their life tenacity is something remarkable. Three hundred or 400 years are believed to be the usual span of a sea serpent's existence. They travel at a speed estimated to be about 150 knots an hour, so that one of these animals can shoot across the Atlantic in less than twenty-four hours' time.—St. Andrews (N. B.) Dispatch.

An African Metropolis.

The recent extension of British administrative authority over the Kano, Katsena and Sokoto districts, in Northern Nigeria, has attracted attention to this prosperous and fertile country. Kano, which has a hundred thousand inhabitants, is the metropolis of that part of Africa.

It has been called the Manchester of the Soudan. For centuries the Hausas, as the people are called, have been the clothmakers of Northern Africa. They raise cotton, spin the yarn, dye it with indigo or scarlet, and then weave it. But there is not a factory in all the country. The work of weaving is done on handlooms in the homes of the people.

Much of the morocco leather comes from Kano, and this, too, is prepared and tanned by workmen at home. Their caravans carry their goods across the continent to Alexandria, and thence down the eastern shore of the Red Sea even to Mecca.

The city has been the centre of a great slave-trade, for much of the work in the fields and practically all the work of transportation is done with the assistance of slaves. It is said that not less than five hundred men and women are offered for sale every day in the slave pens of the city. This traffic, and slavery itself, will be abolished at once.

The money of the country is slaves and cowrie shells; the slaves are the large bills and the shells the small coin. When the owner of a caravan runs short of provisions he buys more and pays for them with a slave, taking his change in the shells.

Thick walls of mud, thirty feet high, surround the city, which is fifteen miles in circumference. The large area thus enclosed will accommodate not only the population, but many big farms as well, on which grain is raised and cattle pastured. Thus the city is capable of withstanding a long siege.

The British have extended their authority over the city and the surrounding territory because the native rulers refused to surrender the murderers of a British official.

The Coach Still in Favor.

There is something delightfully reposeful and old fashioned about driving on a coach. The gentle crawl of the team is positively delightful after a long course of whizzing through the air on one's friends' motors. We live and move in such a distracting hurry that I foresee a time when a reaction will set in and we shall look upon the Chinaman who tears up railways and telegraphs and lives on tea and rice with far greater respect than we now bestow on the energetic inventors of mechanical and electric horrors.—A Countess in London Outlook.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Love is unequally yoked with sickness. Labor is lightened by love, but love cannot lighten pain or relieve it. Many a man looks on at his wife's suffering willing to do anything to aid her and able to do nothing.

Sometimes, however, the husband's attention is directed to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and its remarkable cures of womanly diseases. He may not have much hope of a cure, but he is led to try the medicine, with the result that in almost every case there is a perfect and permanent cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity. It dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run-down "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled.

"In answer to your letter I will say, my wife commenced to complain twenty years ago," writes Lewis A. Miller, ex-Chief-of-Police, of 33 Prospect St., Weissport, Pa. "We have tried the skill of twelve different doctors. She took gallons of medicine during the time she was ill, until I wrote to you and you told us what to do. She has taken eight bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and six of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She can do her own work now and can walk around again and is quite smart."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Messrs. E. M. Poussette & Co., have received the following:—

New York, Sept. 1st, 10.30 a.m.—We look for a repetition to-day in most respects of yesterday's market. Probabilities are that we may see some further advance from opening or during early trading as London comes strong and higher, and what news developments have occurred over night have been favourable with the publication of an especial statement of earnings by R. G. Co., for July, showing an increase in surplus of $1,527,000 against a deficit on July a year ago of $531,000. The weather and crop news more favourable, and the short interest is believed to have been increased moderately. We see nothing better in the market than a purely local professional scalping market and think that on any rise of 1 or 2 points traders will have stocks for sale again, but do not go short on an advancing market.—M. & M.

Grain—Liverpool, opening; wheat 1-4 lower; corn, 1-8 higher. No rains except few light showers in Ohio and N. W.T. It is generally clear with little higher temperature, west, north-west and south-west.—M. & M.

McMillan & Maguire have closed their wire quotations for a couple of days to enable them to instal their new Grain and Stock wires, after which they will be in a position to give their patrons the best quotations and service on grain from Chicago Board of Trade and stocks from the New York Stock Exchange that has ever been given in Canada. Their new wires will run direct to both exchanges. The firm are not sparing any expense to give their patrons a continuous and the very best service possible to obtain.

MR. FRED McGRATH'S CHALLENGE.

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Replying to a letter which appeared in yesterday's Review, I will say that while I pose as a runner, I have not any advantages that any of the other local sprinters have not. As I am very much opposed to newspaper notoriety I have up to the present refrained from speaking through the press. However, to show the author of yesterday's letter that I am willing to run, I will therefore challenge the following local gentlemen, who all have an even chance with me, to run 100 yards race (Not 101 yds.) namely,—Messrs. THE MANITOBA CROP.

The news from our prairie country continues to be satisfactory. Weather is fairly good for harvesting which is in full swing. Between 8,000 and 10,000 harvest hands have arrived at Winnipeg to help the farmers. The first wheat of the new crop was received in Winnipeg on Wednesday last, coming from Altona, south of Winnipeg and close to the Dakota border. It is a fair sample, but badly cleaned, grading No. 2 Northern. The Annual Report of the Northwestern Grain Dealers' Association was issued yesterday, and contains the following estimates. Presumably some pains has been taken in compiling them. They make out that the wheat area is 3,123,603 acres and that the yield will be 57,163,032 bushels. Oats 1,101,333 acres, yield 40,438,921 bushels. Barley 381,135 acres, yield 10,900,461 bushels. Flax 61,330 acres, yield 743,348 bushels. We also get the following from our special correspondent. It is dated Thursday noon. "The weather during the past week has been cloudy and cool with frequent rains. If we have favourable weather, wheat cutting cutting will be finished in another week. Nearly all points report that the yield will be much better than was expected earlier in the season."

The Autocrat of the Home.

When baby coos, sputters, is lively and bright, he is truly the autocrat of the home, and his importance is readily acknowledged. If baby is weak, puny and miserable as a result of improper feeding, it cannot make home a perfect paradise for the tender mother and loving father.

The use of Lactated Food will effect a wondrous change. It will make baby healthy, vigorous and contented. Lactated Food is a perfect substitute for pure and healthy breast milk, and is recommended by over thirty thousand physicians. Wise mothers are using it, and find that it makes their babies plump, strong and healthy. Ask your druggist for it, and take no other.

'TIS INSURRECTION.

Macedonian Leaders Have Made Formal Announcement.

MORE TURKISH MASSACRES.

Turks Have Cut Off Entire Population of the Villages of Armenso and Velesi—Inspector-General Receives Warning of Retaliation—Malkotenovo in a State of Anarchy—Turks' Unspeakable Atrocities.

Sofia, Sept. 2.—The Macedonian revolutionaries awaited the anniversary of the Sultan's accession to proclaim the long-anticipated general insurrection in Northern Macedonia, the proclamation of which was issued yesterday, signed by all the members of the insurgent general staff. The new outbreak is headed by the famous Macedonian leaders, Gen. Sontchieff, president of the Macedonian committee, and Col. Jankoff, who was wounded in the rising of 1902.

The new territory covers the district in the Valley of the Struma, at the base of the Rhodope Mountain chain and to the north of the river Varder. Col. Jankoff is directing the movements of the bands in the southern part.

News of Severe Fighting.

News of severe fighting is still coming in. At the village of Armensi, after a day's fighting, the Turkish troops in the night massacred the entire population of 180 men and 200 women. The Turks also have massacred the inhabitants of the village of Velosi.

It is reported that Hilmi Pasha, the inspector general for Macedonia, fears to leave his headquarters in the Konak at Monastir. The insurgent leader, Grueff, in a letter to Hilmi Pasha, demanded that he prevent the barbarous acts of the Turkish soldiers and bashibazouks, otherwise the revolutionaries would massacre all the Turkish inhabitants. The insurgents have occupied the mountain pass of Gergeleon, the main line from Salonica to Uskub, and Turkish troops have been sent to dislodge them. The town of Malkoter Novo is reported to be in a state of anarchy, the Turks plundering the houses and committing unspeakable atrocities on the women.

TWO MEN MEET DEATH.

Traction Engine Went Through Bridge in Mosa Township.

Alvinston, Sept. 2.—Neil Munroe and Alexander McKenzie were killed yesterday while crossing the bridge opposite B. Leitch's, in the Township of Mosa, with a traction engine. The bridge gave way and the engine fell backwards over the men. Munroe was killed instantly by the lever penetrating his breast. McKenzie was pinned under the engine in the creek and drowned. Munroe, aged about 40, leaves a widow and four children; McKenzie, aged 40, leaves a widow and three children.

Father O'Reilly's Jubilee.

Oakville, Sept. 2.—In this town a unique event occurred yesterday. Though there has been a Catholic church here for considerably more than half a century, this was the first time an Oakville priest celebrated an ecclesiastical jubilee. The jubilarian was Rev. Frank O'Reilly, the highly esteemed pastor of St. Andrew's Church, who commands the respect of all his fellow-townsmen without distinction of creed. The celebration, though informal, was of the happiest character.

Vienna, Sept. 2.—King Edward yesterday visited the Capuchin Church and its sarcgophagi enclosing the remains of the members of the Russian royal family. Later he was entertained at a luncheon at the British Embassy, at which Emperor Francis Joseph and a number of notable personages were present. A family dinner was given last evening by the Archduchess Maria Joseph, the Emperor and King Edward being present.

KLONDIKE CONCESSIONS.

Mr. Boyle in the Box All Day Monday—Hearing in Anderson Concession and Herman Grant Begun.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 2.—Before the Treadgold Commission at Dawson Boyle's Klondike and Quartz Creek concessions were the subject of investigation Monday. Mr. Boyle was in the box practically all day. He stated that the former tract secured was 40 acres in extent, but the latter was smaller. The terms of the lease required five thousand dollars to be expended yearly. The witness admitted that he had not complied with these regulations, and also that he had not supplied the tract with hydraulic machinery within a year of securing the grant, as required. He said that last year he had expended one thousand dollars, but it was proved subsequently that this was for Boyle's sawmill apparatus. He had prohibited miners cutting wood on his concession, and charged the woman keeping the road house on it $25 a month for the privilege. Boyle admitted that the lower end of the Klondike concession would average fifty cents to one dollar per yard.

The Anderson concession on Hunker Creek followed. This is the oldest district and is conceded to be rich, for, having been worked by ordinary placer methods for five years, on a small scale, it produced two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. It was described as the Klondike Government concession, limited, with a million and a half capital.

The Herman concession, covering five miles on Gold Bottom Creek, was heard yesterday morning. The morning was devoted to an examination of documentary evidence.

GREAT WHEAT WEST.

Berry So Plump in Regina That It Burst the Shell.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 2.—Crops in MacLeod district are of the best quality. Fall wheat is running from 28 to 37 bushels to the acre. Considerable anxiety was felt for the safety of the spring crop during the recent rains but the clouds have disappeared and everything is now promising.

Around Regina wheat cutting has commenced and will be general by the end of the week. So plump is the berry that in the great bulk of the fields it has burst through the shell ten days before it is ripe.

AGAIN NO RACE.

Absolute Calm Off Sandy Hook, But They Expect to Finish To-Day.

New York, Sept. 2.—Yesterday's attempt to sail the third race of the series for the America's Cup was a failure. There was no wind to make it worth while even to send the yachts across the line. An absolute calm, varied at intervals by faint draughts of wind from the southeast and southwest

Reliance and Shamrock III. with mainsails and club topsails set, sailed in ghostly fashion about and through the fleet.

At 10.40, the committee tug Navigator signalled that the start would be postponed until later in the day. There was no sign either of wind or of a lift of the fog haze when, at 12.30, the Navigator secured the consent of the racing skippers to postponement, and signalled that the race was off, and that another attempt to sail would be made today.

FRIGHTFULLY MANGLED.

Thomas McKay Died From Broken Back and Other Injuries.

Hamilton, Sept. 2.—Last evening, shortly before 6 o'clock, Thos. McKay, 5 Spring street, fell from the roof of the T., H. & B. freight house extension. His body was frightfully mangled. His back was broken in two places, his hips dislocated, his head cut and nearly his whole body covered with bruises. He was hurried off to the City Hospital in the ambulance, but the doctors could do little for him. About 10 o'clock he passed away. He was employed by Jno. E. Riddell, and was an unmarried man about 22 years of age.

Won't Live Till Morning.

At a late hour last night the doctors at the hospital said that it was very doubtful if Geo. Blackmore, 48 Oxford street, who fell from a roof at the Deering Works Monday, would live till morning.

Told to Keep Out.

Pekin, Sept. 2—A telegram has been received here announcing that the steamer Stanley Doller, owned by an American, sent by a Russian company from Tien-Tsin to Yongampho, Corea, for a cargo of lumber from the Russian concession on the Yatu River, was prevented from entering the port by a Japanese gunboat, whose commander said Yongampho was not an open port, and that foreign merchant vessels had no right to enter it.

Venezuelan Arbitration.

The Hague, Sept. 2.—Prof. Lammasch, of Austria, has been appointed one of the arbitrators of the claims of the allied powers for preferential treatment in the settlement with Venezuela. The first session yesterday of the court was occupied by the discussion of the procedure to be followed. The Press was excluded from the court. Several representatives of the interested Governments have not yet arrived.

CHICAGO, ILL., 427 Monroe St.—"As far as I have observed Peruna is the finest tonic any man or woman can use who is weak from the after effects of any serious illness.

"I have seen it used in a number of convalescent cases, and have seen several other tonics used, but I found that those who used Peruna had the quickest relief.

ONTARIO'S INTESEST IN THE RAILWAY.

Some Ontario journals and Ontario representatives in the House of Commons are appealing to the people of the part of this Province already inhabited to oppose the construction of a new transcontinental line of railway far to the north of existing settlements. They argue that the cost of such a scheme will fall heavily on this Province, which contributes a very large proportion of the Dominion revenue; that it is unwise to push a railway through far in advance of settlement; that there is no proof of the existence of a region fit for colonization; that it will be difficult, if not impossible, to secure a good route for a railway of low grades and easy curves; and so on. It is just as well to take stock of the project from the standpoint of Ontario as a whole, and see what rejoinders the case admits of.

In the first place, while much of the land north of the Temiskaming district may be of little value for settlement, much of it is undoubtedly capable of sustaining a prosperous farming population. The region north of the height of land, seems to be peculiarly adapted for raising cattle. The soil is fertile, the country is abundantly watered, the climate is mild, and the new railway will bring it as close to Great Britain as the western peninsula of Ontario is. Comparisons between northern Ontario and the Canadian northwest as to attractiveness are useless; there will always be a host of people who, having a chance to choose, will prefer woodland to prairie, other things being equal. They are not at all equal in this case, for the northern Ontario farmer is, on the average, a thousand miles nearer his market than the northwest farmer is.

There is no force in the objection raised against building the railway in advance of settlement. Before the days of railways long and costly colonization highways were constructed to make settlement possible. We are still using the Kingston road, Dundas street, the Garafraxa road, the Elora road, and many others constructed to promote settlement. Those who object to a colonization railway as premature, would in the early days have insisted on the settler struggling to his future habitation through the trackless forest to wait there for a road to follow him. In these days of perfect administrative systems there is no reason why the pioneer railway should not take the place of the pioneer turnpike or plank.

As a matter of fact, while the cost of the railway will never be felt by the people of Ontario, they will derive a largely increased revenue from the sale of Crown lands and timber, which are at present inaccessible. The only Government contribution to the expenditure on the road will be the payment of interest for seven years on the cost of construction. After that the railway company operating the line will pay three per cent on the outlay, and the Government will be able to borrow the money at that rate.

Lastly, there is no reason to believe that the engineering difficulties in the way of securing favourable grades and curves will be at all formidable. The country north of the height of land from the Quebec boundary to Nepigon is known to be flat, not filled with rocky hills and mountains like the districts between it and Lakes Huron and Superior. In any event the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company has agreed to operate the line after it has been constructed by the Government, and to pay a rental of three per cent. for the privilege. The company is to have a concurrent voice in determining both the route and the character of the railway, and as it is to the advantage of both the company and the Government to have it constructed as efficiently as may be, there is little to be gained just now by conjuring up difficulties.—Globe.

NO COMPARISON POSSIBLE.

The following appears in the Globe:—

Nothing so cynical has been seen in Ontario journalism in recent years as the Hamilton Spectator in the act of weaping glad tears of reconciliation on Mr. Tarte's shoulder. Every elector in Ontario remembers how in 1890 it held up to scorn the "traitor Tarte," as in some vague way allied with the Boers and the Empire's enemies generally. This is how the loyal Spectator welcomes back the "traitor Tarte" in last Thursday's issue: "After a temporary aberration Mr. Tarte is himself again. We have always known that J. Israel Tarte was a sensible man. Mr. Tarte will now be catalogued, in Grit circles, with the Manitoulin man. Tarte carried Quebec province the last two elections. D'ye suppose he has forgotten how to do it?"

Mr. Tarte is no longer identified with the Liberal party. It is natural that he should ally himself with those who most nearly represent his views on fiscal matters, but does the Spectator imagine that the late Minister of Works has burned up his scrap books and fumigated his memory?

"Grit circles" may not all entertain the same cordiality towards Mr. Tarte, as when he was pulling steadily in harness, and doing good work, too. Neither the "Grits" nor anybody else, could for a moment think of bracketting Mr. Tarte and Mr. Gamey together. Mr. Tarte, with all his peculiarities, is a man of ability and principle, while the man for Manitoulin is neither. Mr. Tarte has been a good friend to Canada, and has done good work in promoting its interests. He had large ideas and a restless energy which carried him beyond the bounds within which custom prescribes that a responsible Minister should confine himself. In separating himself from his party he has not forfeited his right to the respect which is the due of a public man who has served his country faithfully. Mr. Gamey has never done, nor aimed to do anything, beyond advancing his own personal interests, and his fidelity to his party is only to be measured by the degree of personal profit he can extract from the connection. He set out in public life with the avowed object of looking out for number one. He was willing to give his support where he thought he could make the most personal advantage. Mr. Tarte is a man of culture and broad ideas; Mr. Gamey is just the opposite, and no "Grit," nor any other person, would, or will for a moment think of cataloguing the two together, unless on the same principle, and in the same way, romancers bracket Beauty and the Beast—more by way of contrast than comparison.

ABOUT GAMEY.

"What about Gamey?" was asked, as Mr. Whitney made an effort to escape. "What is his position in the party?"

"Mr. Gamey," said Mr. Whitney oracularly, "is a member of the Legislature, and a member of the Conservative party."

"In good standing?" suggested the questioner.

"Now, that's an impossible question," said Mr. Whitney wearily. Mr. Whitney refused to discuss Mr. Gamey.—Ottawa Journal.

It would have been better, suggests the Brantford Expositor, for Mr. Whitney's reputation as a public man, had he refused from the outset to discuss the member for Manitoulin or to take up his cause. It is too late now, after the tocsin, "We'll stick by Gamey!" has been adopted, to attempt to retreat.

MORE WORDS FROM CARNEGIE.

Speaks of Unpopularity of Canadian Wheat Preference.

London, August 25. — In a letter to the Times to-day Andrew Carnegie replies to Richard Dawson, M. P. He says that in the United States the measure would meet with unpopularity generally if a preferential tax were imposed in favour of Canada. If cereals were attacked the agricultural community would suffer.

Apart altogether from the merits of the question of preference, it might be suggested in reference to Mr. Carnegie's statement that the chief question is whether the preference would be popular in Canada and Great Britain. The United States has never taken thought of the unpopularity of its tariff legislation in Canada, and Canada can afford to feel the same indifference as to the United States feeling

PREMIER ROSS DELIVERS A NOTEWORTHY SPEECH.

In Toronto Saturday Night Before the Touring Chambers of Congress Delegates.

He Strikes a Strong Note for a Preferential Tariff and Imperial Unity.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—Premier Ross made a noteworthy speech at the banquet of Lord Strathcona on Saturday night, which was attended by the touring members of the Chamber of Commerce. He delivered on behalf of Canada, the message that the three cardinal graces of Imperial power are faith, force, and unity; but the greatest of these is unity.

The people of Canada believe first, last and always in the unity of the Empire. He hoped the delegates would explain that, so that even the little Englanders will understand it, that no matter what untrust there may be in Australia or distress in India, Canada is loyal to the core. Continuing he said: "Canada is the buttress of a gigantic structure that stands four square and is able to bear the burdens that may be put against it. We have faith in Canada. We fear no attack from without, nor dissension from within, and we will do our share in strengthening the bonds of the Empire.

"We believe we have the force of character to make the most of our resources. These cities didn't grow up in a night, they are the product of Canadian energy. These great railways which span our vast country are the product of Canadian energy. Canada is old enough to take care of herself but we want a preferential tariff and we're not ashamed to say so, for it is for the good of the Empire Why should they let Great Britain eat United States flour, when Canadian flour is better. We want them to send their Capital to Canada. There is an unlimited field for investment here, which applied for Canadian industry and enterprise will yield good returns. We want them to send us a million or two of men. I never look upon the preferential tariff as a Canadian cry," the premier said in conclusion, "its an Imperial cry. We don't want a preference if it is not good for England. We would not be loyal if we asked any sacrifice of Great Britain."

RESULTS OF EXPERIMENTS WITH WINTER WHEAT.

VARIETIES OF WINTER WHEAT.

Three varieties of winter wheat were distributed throughout Ontario by the Experimental Union in the autumn of 1902, for co-operative experiments. Good reports of successfully conducted experiments have been received this year from 18 counties, extending from Essex in the south, to Haliburton in the north. The following is the average yield in weighed bushels of grain per acre for each variety for five years at the College and for 1903 throughout Ontario:—

College.

Imperial Amber	31.0
Buda Pesth	57.2
Turkey Red	53.4

Ontario.

Imperial Amber	24.9
Buda Pesth	21.4
Turkey Red	20.7

All the varieties are bearded. The chaff of the Imperial Amber is red, and that of the others is white. The grain of each variety is red, hard, and of good quality. All three varieties are rather weak in the straw. The Imperial Amber is a close rival to the Dawson's Golden Chaff in yield of grain per acre.

FERTILIZERS WITH WINTER WHEAT

In the co-operative experiments with different manures applied in the spring of the year, the average results show a yield of 29.7 bushels of winter wheat from an application of one hundred and sixty pounds of nitrate of soda per acre, and 35.7 bushels from a top dressing of twenty tons of well rotted cow manure per acre. The unfertilized land gave an average yield of of wheat per acre of 22.7 bushels. The yield of wheat from one hundred and sixty pounds of nitrate of soda surpassed the yield from four hundred pounds of common salt by 3.5 bushels per acre. Nitrate of soda when applied in the spring gave better results than when applied in the autumn. The usual cost of nitrate of soda is about three and a half cents per pound in ton lots.

WINTER WHEAT, ETC., AS FODDER CROPS.

An interesting co-operative experiment was made for the first time by sowing winter wheat, hairy vetches and crimson clover in the autumn for the purpose of producing green fodder in the following summer. The reports show that the crimson clover received the greatest injury from the early spring frosts. The highest individual yield were produced by the hairy vetches. In the average results however the winter rye surpassed the hairy vetches by 420 lbs. of green fodder per acre, but the quality of the feed of the latter was much superior to that of the former. In ten out of a dozen tests, the Hairy Vetches were eaten readily by farm animals, and seemed particularly suitable as a feed for hogs. A Bruce farmer reported that "the Hairy Vetches gave a large yield, and were relished by all classes of animals."

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED FOR EXPERIMENTAL PURPOSES.

Material for any one of the five experiments here mentioned will be sent free to any Ontario farmer applying for it, if he will conduct an experiment with great care and report the results after harvest next year. The seed will be sent out in the order in which the applications are received as long as the supply lasts.

1. Testing Hairy Vetches, Crimson Clover, and Winter Rye as fodder crops, 3 plots.
2. Testing three varieties of winter wheat, 3 plots.
3. Testing five fertilizers with winter wheat, 6 plots.
4. Testing autumn and spring applications of nitrate of soda and common salt with winter wheat, 5 plots.
5. Testing winter barley and winter rye for grain production, 2 plots.

The proper size of each plot is one rod wide by two rods long. The material for either of the first two experiments, or for No. 5 experiment, will be forwarded by mail, and for each of the other two by express. Each person wishing to conduct one of these experiments should apply as soon as possible, mentioning which test he desires; and the material, with instructions for testing and the blank form on which to report, will be furnished free of cost until the supply of experimental material is exhausted. It might be well for each applicant to make a second choice for fear the first could not be granted.

DIVISION ON G. T. P.

Government Majority on Main Resolution Was 46.

FATE OF THE AMENDMENTS.

Mr. Boyd's Amendment Was Lost by a Majority of 85—Mr. Puttee's Amendment Defeated on a Vote of 135 to 50—Mr. Casgrain's Was Voted Down by 117 to 70—Close of the Debate.

Ottawa, Sept. 2—At 1.45 the House divided on the national transcontinental railway resolution. Several members consented to remain silent in order to secure an early division. Seymour Gourley closed the debate.

The first division was on Mr. Boyd's amendment to Mr. Puttee's amendment. It declared in favor of the extension and development of Dominion Government railways and freeing the management from political influence. Mr. Boyd's amendment was lost on a vote of 119 to 66. Tarte and Blair voted against it. Jabel Robinson supported it.

The House then divided on Mr. Puttee's amendment, declaring in favor of Government ownership and operation of railways. The amendment found no supporters on the Government side of the House. Tarte and Blair both voted against it. All the support came from the Opposition. Mr. Puttee's amendment was defeated on a vote of 135 to 50.

As the main motion was about to be put, Mr. Casgrain moved an amendment that confirmation of the agreement be suspended until such time as the House is in possession of the report of the Transportation Commission and members have had a chance to consult their constituents regarding the scheme.

Mr. Casgrain's amendment was defeated on a vote of 117 to 70. Blair supported it. Tarte voted with the Government.

The vote was then taken on the main motion, which was carried by 117 to 71.

Tarte and Blair voted against the motion. Otherwise it was a straight party division.

Mr. Borden's Policy.

Mr. F. D. Monk, the Conservative leader in Quebec, in the absence of Mr. Borden, who is confined to the house through indisposition, last night gave notice of an amendment to the motion for the second reading of the bill to ratify the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement, as follows:

"That it is not expedient to ratify the agreement set forth in the schedule to the bill now before this House entitled an act respecting the construction of a National Transcontinental Railway.

"2.—That the Government has failed to lay before the House such information as would justify Parliament in committing the country to the agreement as a whole and especially to that portion of the agreement which provides for the construction of nearly 1,900 miles of railway, constituting the eastern section of the railway therein mentioned.

"3.—The Government in declaring its policy in the speech from the Throne at the opening of the present session gave a direct and specific pledge that it would immediately appoint a commission of experienced men to report on the whole question of transportation and terminal facilities.

"4.—That in pursuance of this pledge the Government on the 19th day of May, 1903, by an order-in-Council touching the question affecting transportation in Canada further declared its policy in the following words:

"5.—That no such inquiry or investigation has been conducted or held and the 'required information' referred to in order-in-Council, has not been obtained or laid before this House.

"6.—That the Government system of railways should be developed and improved in the Province of Quebec and in the Maritime Provinces and should also extend from Montreal westward to such point or points as will enable it to transport to Eastern Canada and to our national ports on the St. Lawrence and on the Atlantic the rapidly increasing products of our great western country.

"7.—That this House is of opinion that the Intercolonial Railway should continue to be owned and operated by the Government of Canada.

"8.—That by (a) developing and extending the Government system of railways either by the construction of new lines or sections of railway, or by acquiring and improving existing lines of railways. (b) Securing under Government control and direction or where expedient under Government ownership, common haulage or running facilities in sections where one railway can usefully accommodate several systems. (c) Giving where necessary material aid by way of guarantee or otherwise to railway construction in the great west and to colonization railways in the older provinces (d) Enlarging and improving our canal system, developing our magnificent lake and river routes and thoroughly equipping our national ports on the Great Lakes, the St. Lawrence and the Atlantic seaboard (e) Perfecting a system of elevator warehousing and creating free terminal facilities and (f) Securing absolute and thorough control of rates in consideration for assistance thus given, we would open up new territories, provide for our products the best and cheapest transportation to the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, connect without delay the great railway systems of the East and the West, relieve any threatening congestion of traffic and secure the transportation of our products through Canadian channels, while at the same time we would stimulate and promote interprovincial trade between the various communities by whom the cost of such national undertaking must necessarily be mainly borne.

"9.—That the management of Government and of all other railways under the control directly of the Government should be freed from party political control, influence and interference.

"10—That for the purpose of accomplishing these results the Government, in accordance with the policy wisely laid down in the order-in-Council above recited should avail itself of the best expert advice and assistance before seeking to commit the country to expenditure upon any national transportation scheme or project."

The Debaters on Tuesday.

Mr. Fowler resumed the Grand Trunk Pacific debate, and he was followed by Hon. William Paterson in an effective and incisive speech. The other speakers were Messrs. E. F. Clarke, Angers, and Seymour Gourley.

G.T.P. Bill Passed in Senate.

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Dandurand moved the third reading of the Grand Trunk Pacific Bill. Senator Watson moved to amend the bill by making the choice of a Canadian port on Lake Superior "subject to the approval of the Governor-in-Council." He also moved to verbally amend the clause giving the company power to hold the stock. The amendments were carried, and the bill read a third time and passed.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

The Fires of Eczema.

So keen is the suffering of many people who endure the stinging, itching sensation of Eczema that they speak of the skin as being on fire. By its soothing, healing, antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment positively cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, and every form of itching skin disease. It is of inestimable value in every home, and when once introduced becomes a household necessity. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard the world over, and has no worthy rival.

THE FOURTH ESTATE

Ontario Editors Bring Sunshine to the Dominion Exposition.

DAY OF THE NEWSPAPERMEN

Visiting Journalists the Guests of the Directors of the Exposition at Luncheon and Supper—Speeches That Were Echoed by Every Newspaperman Present—Mr. J. A. Macdonald's Tribute.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Press day attendance at the Dominion Exhibition is estimated by the officials at 22,000, but they were not all editors. There was a good crowd of newspaper men at the directors' luncheon at one o'clock.

New Ontario Excursion.

At the press tent in the afternoon, the Executive Committee of the Canadian Press Association, consisting of President H. J. Pettypiece, First Vice-President J. A. Cooper, Secretary J. T. Clark, Assistant Secretary J. R. Bone, and D. Williams and D. McGillicuddy, were in session. September 21 was determined upon as the date of the regular press excursion. Only forty members can go, and the first to announce their intention will secure the reservations. They go via North Bay, Mattawa, Temiskaming Lake, New Liskeard, back to North Bay, over the Government railroad. It was arranged that the next annual meeting shall occur the first Thursday and Friday in February.

In the evening the editors and their wives were given a formal luncheon by the directors.

Some of Those Present.

Among the visiting press men who registered at the tent were H. J. Pettypiece, Forest Free Press; John A. Cooper, Canadian Magazine; D Williams, Bulletin, Collingwood; D. McGillicuddy, Goderich; Harry Patterson, Type and Press, Toronto; M. J. Hutchinson, Examiner, Peterboro; R. W. Dillon, Argus, St. Mary's; N. Phelps, Times, North Bay; C. W. Lawton, Paris; G. E. Gibbard, Toronto; J. J. Ball, Canadian Engineer, Toronto; D. F. Burk, Herald, Port Arthur; E. P. Park, Brantford; C. W. Young, Freeholder, Cornwall; George Young, Courier, Trenton; J. J. Salmond, Monetary Times, Toronto; W. J. Dyas, Canadian Druggist, Toronto; W. L. Edmonds, MacLean's trade papers, Toronto; J. T. Clark, Star, Toronto; E. B. Biggar, Canadian Engineer, Toronto; Vernon H. Consert, The Union, Brantford; W. M. O'Beirne, Beacon, Stratford; F. W. Smart, Globe, Toronto; J. R. Bone, Star, Toronto; R. B. Faith, Journal, Ottawa; Lud. K. Cameron, King's Printer; J. T. Johnston, Toronto Newspaper Union; James Haveron, Sentinel, St. George; W. Panton, Champion, Milton; T. H. Champion, Telegram, Toronto; H. A. Vandusen, Leader, Tara; H. P. Moore, Free Press, Acton; J. B. Maclean, Maclean Publishing Company, Toronto; L. G. Jackson, Era, Newmarket; W. J. Watson, Central Press, Toronto; J. N. Walker, World, Toronto; J. A. MacLaren, Examiner, Barrie; W. E. McLellan, Chronicle, Halifax; E. G. Stairs, News, Toronto; James Hannay, St. John.

The Luncheon.

At the one o'clock luncheon, after proposing the health of the King, President McNaught said the Association was always deeply indebted to the press for the way in which they had altogether joined in making the Industrial Fair the greatest annual exhibition on the continent.

President Pettypiece.

H. J. Pettypiece, President of the Canadian Press Association, thanked the chairman on behalf of the press men of Canada for the invitation to the Fair. The fact, he said, that Toronto holds year after year the greatest annual Exhibition on this continent, was a credit to the city and to the province and through them two, to the country generally. There were gathered together at this Exhibition from all parts of the country examples of Canada's resources, agriculturally, minerally, commercially and industrially, showing indisputably that Canada was now enjoying unexampled prosperity. The press were glad to join hands with the Exhibition Association and make the Dominion Fair the greatest annual one of the world.

D. McGillicuddy spoke for only a minute or two, and his remarks were more of a jocular character, delivered in his own inimitable style.

W. J. Douglas, general manager of The Mail and Empire, said it seemed to be the motto of the association that "What we have we'll hold, and what we haven't got we'll get."

Tribute to Newspaper Men.

J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Globe, made a brilliant and witty address. There were times, he said, when newspaper men did not agree, but on an occasion such as this all were of one mind, and he could express that, he thought, in saying that they were glad to be present.

He knew of no profession or calling that demanded so much energy, ability and perseverance, where men made so many personal sacrifices, and yet where the remuneration was so inadequate.

It was strange how men did stick to the work, though other things were continually opening for them. They must love the work to stay at it so.

It could truly be said that the newspaper business was for the "general good of Canada," and there was not as much for the men behind it as there was for the promoters of other things under the same heading.

Protests Against Liberals.

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—Protests were entered yesterday against the election of Greenway, for Mountain, and Mickle, for Birtle. The disqualification of both members will be asked.

Mr. Fitzgerald called 10c; Mr. Brentnall 10 1-4; Mr. Cook pulled it up a quarter, Mr. Fitzgerald went to .5-8, which Mr. Wrighton raised to 10 3-4; Mr. Brentnal offered 10 13-16; Mr. Wrighton took it up to 7-8; Mr. Brentnal offered 15-16, and Mr. Kerr topped at 11 cents.

At this price the following factories accepted his call: Melrose Abbey, Ormonde, Keene, Shearer, Central Smith, Villiers, Westwood, Oakdale, Percy, Dartford, Brickley, Fleetwood, Warsaw, Lakefield, Pinegrove, Peterborough, Otonabee Union, Lang, Indian River, Ballyduff, Cavanville, East Emily, Trewern, Bensfort, Mount Pleasant, Buckhorn, Shamrock, Myrtle, Fraserville, Maple Leaf, North Dummer, Young's Point, and Missing Link.

At the same price Mr. Rollins cleaned off the rest of the Board,—Warminster, North Smith, Cedardale, Stony Lake, South Burleigh and Apsley.

The secretary read the following letter:—

Montreal, August 26th, 1903.

Secretary Peterborough Cheese Board, Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—At your last Cheese Board, August 19th, your market was cleared of all the offerings at 10 7-16 to 10 1-2 cents. It is reported here that some of the buyers of these Cheese are refusing to take them for no cause excepting that they agreed to pay too much for the goods. We must enter our protest against this kind of competition, it is unfair and unless your Board takes some steps to enforce these contracts, we will be obliged to withdraw from the market. We believe that buyers have the right to reject or get an allowance on all Cheese not up to the standard of finest, but should be compelled to take all finest goods and pay for them at whatever figure they agree upon at the Board, and that no offers should be entertained from members who default until all claims of non-fulfilment of contracts are settled in full.

Yours truly,
J. A. AYER & Co., Limited,

JAS. ALEXANDER.

The president stated that owing to a number of complaints from salesmen, the Executive of the Board had recommended that Mr. McGrath, the alleged guilty person, be expelled from the Board.

Mr. Whitton rose and stated that he was to blame for the occurrence, mentioned in the letter, and that he exonerated his employer, Mr. McGrath, from all blame.

He further stated that he had purchased cheese on the Board for twenty years and it had been his first offense. He concluded by stating that it should never occur again and that he would always in the future pay the price offered at the Board meeting.

A number of others both salesmen and buyers expressed their opinions on the matter.

Owing to Mr. Whitton's lengthy connection with the Board and his promise that it would never occur again it was resolved that the matter be dropped.

The Board adjourned for three weeks.

He was unmarried.

A JOLLY PARTY OF PITTSBURGH CAMPERS.

Bivouac in Town on their Way Home From Sandy Point.

This morning the rotunda and parlours of the Snowden House presented a scene of unusual bustle, activity and hilarity. A party of twenty Pittsburgers came down by their special car from Lakefield at 9.40 this morning. They had been spending a fortnight under canvas at Sandy Point, Clear Lake, and report having had a most enjoyable experience. The party are members of the Pittsburg Hunting and Fishing Club, and when the muster roll was called at the Snowden House this morning, the following answered to their names: Frank J. Russ, president; Geo. Bich, E. Burger, David Geier, Oscar Neubert, F. J. Miller, jr., John Miller, Emil Hasselman, Samuel Lennox, R. Reinheimer, Julius Specht, Gus. Lewis, Thos. Fife, Philip Reinheimer, J. R. Deagan, Philip Kleamer, Frank H. Smith, Max Weber, Frank Brethholley. A cook and assistant contributed to the gastronomic welfare of the party, which declared that it had spent a jolly and enjoyable fortnight, and that in spite of the fact that the fishing had not been quite up to the mark this season.

While waiting at the Snowden House for their car, the returning campers enjoyed themselves immensely. As will be seen by the list of names, the Teutonic element predominated, and the well-known musical ability of the Germans was exhibited in the singing of many rousing songs and choruses.

Mr. Fred Roy, who had taken a group photograph of the party, was busy distributing his pictures. Only one member of the party seemed to have an enlarged copy and he was very proud of it. Holding it forth at arms length, and fondly gazing upon it, he exclaimed, "Ach! How I enchoy meinselluf ven I see on dot pitcher! Und Hustleheimer vas the only von of the hardy vat vas fool. Say, Hustleheimer, how vas dot for oop?" and a deep guttural laugh in solo by Hustleheimer and a chorus in the same key, was the jolly answer to the jocular question.

With a parting vocal chorus, and a recitative chorus of "Auf Wiedersehen," the jolly party departed for their special car, and are now bowling along on their way to the dust and dirt and grime of the smoke of smoky Pittsburg.

A VERY PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. S. P. Metcalfe and Miss Annie M. Westlake.

A pretty house wedding took place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the residence of Mr. W. G. Westlake, No. 501, Aylmer street, when his second daughter, Miss Annie M. Westlake, was united in marriage to Mr. S. P. McFadden, eldest son of Mr. T. McFadden, of Dublin street. Rev. J. P. Wilson conducted the ceremony in the presence of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The bridesmaid was Miss Stella McFadden, sister of the groom, while Mr. Benjamin Simpson supported the groom. An appropriate wedding march was played by Miss Fannie McFadden.

There was a very large number of beautiful presents among which were a picture from the bride's companions in Turnbull's store, with which she has been connected for sometime, and a picture and a Morris chair from the men of the pattern shop of the Wm. Hamilton foundry, where the groom is employed.

The newly married couple who left on the 5.10 C. P. R. train this evening for Toronto and points west, will reside on Reid street.

The attendance of pupils was about 200, the highest forms being well filled. A COMPLIMENT TO PETERBOROUGH.

Successful Rehearsal for the Musical Festival.

Interest in the Musical Festival is wide-spread. Subscriptions have been received from as far away as Hamilton, Ont. The Festival is spreading the reputation of Peterborough as a musical community. More than one hundred Peterborough singers have been practising faithfully for weeks, and Peterborough townspeople will want to patronize and encourage their home talant in getting up such fine music. The Peterborough Band is also given a prominent place upon the programme and is preparing some new and fine concert music. The management should also have the support of the townspeople when engaging local musicians. At the Festival chorus rehearsal last evening, there was a big attendance. Friday evening a special rehearsal at 7.30 for ladies, and 8.30 for gentlemen. A powerful organ is to be sent from Toronto for use at these concerts, and Miss K. Hurley, organist of St. Peter's Cathedral, has been engaged to play it. Subscribers' reserved seat plan, (seats nearest stage) open at Peterborough Music Company's store Saturday morning at ten o'clock. The chorus (over 140 voices in all) the ladies in white and gentlemen in dark suits, will make a splendid appearance on the stage in the new rink.

SUGGESTION FROM A FORMER CITIZEN.

Rev. Dr. Symonds Commends an Important Article to Peterborough Public.

Rev. Dr. Symonds, with the thoughtfulness and interest in literary and ethical matters, characteristic of the scholar and moralist he is, addresses the following letter to the Examiner:—

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I shall esteem it a favour if you will allow me through the medium of your columns, to draw the attention of such of my old friends of the Peterborough Reading Circles and of the Fortnightly Club as may not yet have read it, to an essay by Principal Eliot, of Harvard University, on "A New Definition of a Cultivated Man," which is to be found in the August number of "The World's Work." It is to be hoped that it will be published by and by in booklet form, for it is a masterpiece of calm and lucid statement, and at the same time is distinguished by a lofty spiritual and moral tone which pervades the entire essay.

Yours truly,
HERBERT SYMONDS.

DOMINION EXHIBITION BY PETERBOROUGH EYES.

Interesting Letter From Examiner's Staff Correspondent.

Peterborough Exhibitors Take a Prominent Position.

(By Examiner Staff Correspondent.)

Toronto, September 2nd.—An innovation introduced by the Industrial Exhibition this year was two full weeks during which the Fair might be seen to equal advantage on any day, and the efforts to induce the our-of-town visitors to come during the first week has evidently been successful, as Monday and yesterday have seen record crowds, notwithstanding the rather inclement weather prevailing during the early part of each day. The hotelmen, too, are experiencing an unprecedented demand for accommodation, for such an early stage of the Fair, and, already all the down-town hotels are overflowing. If the visitors continue to arrive at the present rate, next week will see the greatest number in the history of Toronto.

Yesterday was Press Day at the Exhibition and a number of the wielders of the quill were entertained at luncheon by the Directors. A meeting of the Canadian Press Association Executive was held in a secreted tent which they have pitched at the rear of the Exhibition Association offices. The principal subject of discussion was the proposed trip to Temiscaming, and arrangements were concluded. Among the press men who were at the luncheon were the following:—H. J. Pettypiece, of the Forest Free Press, president of the Canadian Press Association; John A. Cooper, 1st vice-president; Joseph T. Clark, Toronto Star, secretary-treasurer; John R. Bone, assistant secretary-treasurer; D. Williams, Collingwood; D. McGillicuddy, Goderich, members of the executive; N. Phelps, North Bay Times; R. Dillon, St. Mary's Argus; J. J. Bell, Canadian Magazine; D. F. Burk, Port Arthur Herald; E. F. Park, Brantford; C. A. Young, Cornwall Freeholder; M. J. Hutchinson, Peterborough Examiner; Harry Palmer, Type and Press, and others. All of whom were the guests of the Association for the day, and right royally did they entertain the men of the press.

A visitor to the Exhibition is at once impressed with the many improvements made in the grounds and buildings for this year's Fair, chief of which is the erection of a new Manufacturers' Building, and Canadian Exhibitors have shown their appreciation of the better provision thus made for the showing of their products, by arranging exhibits which do them credit, and indeed, are a credit to Canada. The new building is 625 ft. long, and 265 ft. wide, with a floor space of 165,000 square feet. In it may be found some of the most georgous displays of the result of applied science ever assembled in this country. It was gratifying to note that Peterborough manufacturers were represented in this building. The handsome "Owain Martin" pianos, of which a description has already been given in these columns occupy a prominent place among the musical instruments on exhibit, and their handsome appearance is the subject of much favourable comment. Mr. Frank Stanley, vice-president of the Martin & Stanley Piano Company, is in charge of the exhibits and is meeting many friends, who at once fall in love with the new piano.

PETERBOROUGH PROMINENT.

The most conspicuous of all the cereal food exhibits is that of the American Cereal Company, of Peterborough. Their booth is a large one, and the interior is made to represent a genuine Quaker kitchen, which it very truthfully does. The Examiner correspondent along with many others tasted the edible qualities of the now famous Quaker Oats, and, all those so favoured went away with the firm conviction already possessed by all Peterborough citizens, that for the production of the "smile that wont come off" nothing equals "Quaker Oats." Mr. A. H. Hitchcock, of Chicago, is representing the interests of the company. Miss Reed, also of Chicago, is chief demonstrator, and has as assistants Miss Mamie Stewart, Miss Wells and Miss McCoy, of Toronto. Miss Reed has travelled throughout the United States giving Quaker Oats demonstrations at exhibitions, and she stated to the Examiner that the exhibit made this year at the Toronto Industrial compares favourably with any that she has visited. The young ladies are thoroughly courteous, and it is no exaggeration to say that the "Quaker Oats" kitchen is the most popular of the numerous cereal food exhibits.

In the woollen section the Auburn mills of Peterborough, have a most creditable showing of suitings, and dress goods, and to those who saw the exhibit it was a genuine surprise that a Canadian woollen mill could manufacture such high class goods, goods which compare very favourably with the best English and Scotch goods. The display made by the Auburn Mills is easily the best in that section of the Manufacturers' Building.

In the quarters occupied by the National Cash Register Company, a card displayed on one of the best registers in the exhibit, states that it has been sold to Messrs. E. F. Mason & Co., Peterborough. The register purchased by Mr. Mason is one of the very latest models, and is the second "National" that he has bought. The representative of the company from whom Mr. Mason made the purchase stated to the Examiner that he considered him one of the most enterprising business men he had met.

THE ROYAL EXHIBIT.

Perhaps the exhibit in which the greatest interest is being taken is that of the "Jubilee Presents." His Majesty the King, has graciously directed that the Jubilee presents of the late Queen Victoria be exhibited at this Fair. The collection, which is valued at $12,000,000, has been placed under the grand stand, and is enclosed in 26 large glass cases. The early morning is the better time to visit this building, as, at any other time an immense crowd is anxious to see the very interesting exhibit. A guard of the Grenadiers constantly stands sentry over the valuables.

A visit to the exhibition this year amply verifies the promise made by the directors that the Fair of 1903 would eclipse all former efforts, and it must be gratifying to them to see that so early in the week the people of the Dominion are patronizing it.

WHEAT IS NOT ALL.

(Montreal Herald.)

Both in the Parliamentary debates on the new national transcontinental line and in all discussions on the trade problem, rather too much attention is given to the importance of wheat. The district through which the Grand Trunk will run from Quebec to Winnipeg is a country for mixed farming. The country through which it will run after it passes Winnipeg is a country for mixed farming. Wheat will be grown, undoubtedly, and plenty of it, and there will be much wheat to move from Winnipeg east, but it is just as well not to be carried away by the idea that wheat is everything Mr. Meighen told the Chambers of Commerce the other day that 120,000 more farmers in the Canadian West would suffice to supply Great Britain with all the wheat she can use, and Mr. Meighen probably knows as much about the wheat producing capacity of the West as the next man. But that many farmers means only about half a million people, and who imagines that the population of the West is to be limited to that?

The truth is that in the Canadian West, as elsewhere, the tendency will be for the proportion of wheat grown on any farm to decrease, and for local consumption to make larger and larger draughts upon production. The migratory movement in the southern section proves this. The men who are coming in from across the border are men who began growing wheat in Dakota ten or twenty years ago on land that cost them from nothing to three or four dollars an acre. As time passed and circumstances changed they altered their mode of farming, set out to raise live stock, and presently found their farms worth from fifty to a hundred dollars an acre. These they sold and invested the proceeds in Canadian wheat lands, again at four or five dollars an acre. And who can doubt that as time passes the same process will be repeated, and the land be made too valuable for exclusive, or even extensive, wheat growing? To the north, in the Saskatchewan valley, whither many settlers are going by preference, avoiding the prairie and its risks of frost, mixed farming is what the conditions of the soil and landscape call for. Hon. Mr. Fisher therefore, merely mentioned what ought to be obvious, but what has certainly been overlooked in the debates, when he argued that Parliament would do well to consider the future of the live stock industry of the West, to consider the West as a country which in a few years will present the familiar aspect of the older sections of Canada, rather than to base all calculations upon the amount of grain there may be to carry. Everybody is glad to think that we will have, in a few years, a great deal more wheat to sell; but a large surplusage of wheat is, after all, an incident of pioneering, and, as pioneering goes, an exceptional incident at that. The West is going to pass the pioneer stage presently, and then the exportable surplus will run, as it does in Ontario, to flour and meats and dairy products.

EVIDENCE THAT NONE CAN DOUBT.

That Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one Sure Cure for Rheumatism.

W. E. Ellis got so he Could not Walk Alone or Feed Himself he Tells of His Cure.

Cedar Dale, Aug. 31. — (Special.) — Every day seems to furnish fresh proofs that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure and permanent cure for Rheumatism. This village furnishes evidence that no one can doubt in the person of W. E. Ellis. His story is best given in his own words.

"Two years ago," says Mr. Ellis, "I got Muscular Rheumatism. I tried all sorts of medicines, but none of them did me any good.

"At last my wife would send for a doctor. When he arrived, I said, 'Doctor, can you cure muscular rheumatism?' 'No,' said the doctor. 'Then I said,' you are of no use to me.'"

"I got so bad that I could not feed myself or walk alone. Then I was induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took six boxes of them which drove all the rheumatism out of me and left me in good health again."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Rheumatism by removing the cause — by putting the Kidneys in shape to take the uric acid out of the blood. They always cure Lumbago and Sciatica in the same way.

Chamberlain Refuses Jamaica Aid.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 31.—Consternation was caused here yesterday afternoon by the receipt of information that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain had refused to sanction the proposal of Governor Hemming to raise a loan of $2,500,000 to assist the ruined planters and provide relief work for persons who are destitute and without employment because of the recent hurricane. Mr. Chamberlain says he fails to appreciate the necessity for such a step.

A $10,000,000 Decision.

Butte, Montana, Aug. 31.—Judge Clancy, in the District Court Saturday, rendered his decision in the Nipper Mine case, which involved mining property valued at $10,000,000, giving the plaintiffs, F. Augus Heinz, and others, everything they asked against the Washoe Copper Company and the Anaconda Copper Company.

ALASKAN PREPARATION.

Canadian Counsel Issue Statement, But Express No Opinion.

London, Sept. 1.—Lord Chief Justice Alvestone, the British member of the Alaskan Boundary Commission, called on Elihu Root yesterday morning, and Ambassador Choate called on him later. John W. Foster, former Secretary of State, saw Mr. Choate during the afternoon, and they discussed the final arrangements for the meeting of the Commission at the Foreign Office Thursday.

Counsel for Canada have issued a statement giving an outline of the controversy, but not expressing an opinion. It is rumored that Secretary Henry White, of the United States embassy, may be chosen secretary of the Commission.

Boyles' Quartz Creek Grant Investigation—Kruger Complaint Thrown Out.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 1.—At Dawson yesterday morning Boyle's Quartz Creek concession was taken up by the Treadgold Commission. The same allegations are found as regards the others. Affidavits say the ground was more suitable for hydraulic than placer mining. It is alleged false information was given in order to secure the concession.

Inquiry into the Klondike River concession follows; then Anderson concession on Hunker Creek will be investigated. This is the oldest and first granted in the territory. It covers the bed of Hunker Creek for two and a half miles. It is very rich and has been worked four years by ordinary placer methods with great success.

The complaint against the Kruger concession on Indian River, was thrown out. It was filed by Mr. Brandon, editor of the Record. The commission will sit at the Forks on Thursday, and for the balance of the week. They will sit two days next week at Gold Bottom, the principal settlement on the Hunker.

Another Cure of Chronic Disease

Of the Kidneys and Bowels—Well known Steamboat Man Endorses

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills

Statement Vouched for by Minister.

Mr. Jas. A. Buchner, St. Catharines, Ont., was for years a steamboat man and is favourably known in every port from Cleveland to Montreal. Until a few months ago he was for years a great sufferer from kidney disease, rheumatism and constipation. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have made him well and for the benefit of others he has made the statement below:

Mr. Buchner writes: "For many years I was the unhappy victim of kidney trouble, rheumatism, and constipation, which became so severe as to make life a burden. I was a constant sufferer, entirely unfit for work; appetite was fickle. I became emaciated; could not sleep, but arose in the morning tired and enfeebled. I lingered on in this condition, gradually growing worse, and became despondent and discouraged because I could not obtain any relief from the many medicines used.

"Friends advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and now I feel thankful that this medicine came to my hands when I was in such a miserable condition. The first box gave relief and, filled with joy at the thought of again recovering my health, I continued the use of these pills until I had used six or eight boxes and was again enjoying my former health and vigour. I shall always recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as an ideal medicine."

Rev. W. D. Masson, Methodist Minister, Port Robinson, Ont., writes: "Being personally acquainted with Mr J. A. Buchner, who was cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I can say that I do not believe he would make a statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

It is by curing just such chronic and complicated cases as this that Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have become so well known as a medicine of exceptional merit. Their direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels makes them successful where ordinary medicines fail. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 2

A CAMERA LESSON.

Likewise a Hint to Canadian Orators—The Sign Given: "Keep Your Hands Out of Your Pockets."

A young woman stood up beside Sir Thomas Lipton and snapped her camera, an eye-witness avers, until all the films in her machine were filled with pictures of the Irish knight. All over Ontario similar young women are behaving similarly to all kinds of persons, says Day by Day, in Toronto News. Muskoka is full of amateur photographers, who keep their shutters going without so much as a "by your leave." It is regrettable to state that there are few persons who are verecund enough to protest. They pose with unconcealed delight. If they are good-looking, they hope the camera will do them justice. If fortune has not favored them with pleasing countenances, they reflect that the camera is able to make a Hyperion out of a Satyr. And so the young men go on being snapped at. In this connection it may be well here to give a brief account of an important improvement in photography. It is commended especially to "Sir Lipton," as La Presse will persist in calling him. The inventor of this improvement has no intention of applying for a patent. He prefers to dedicate his great invention to the Canadian public. He says that in the past three years he has examined a very large number of photographs and process engravings made from photographs, portraits of men. He finds that a high percentage of them—85.7, to be accurate—are marred by a single serious blemish. The object of his invention is to get rid of this blemish.

The apparatus is very simple. It consists of a sign, to be placed on the camera facing the sitter, bearing the legend: "Keep your hands out of your pockets!" It is to be hoped that every photographer in Canada, amateur and professional, will acquire one of these inventions. Why Sir Thomas Lipton and pretty nearly every other man preparing for his counterfeit presentment for his friends or for the public should suddenly be possessed by an impulse to make that picture awkward and undignified the inventor is unable to conjecture. Yet they all—or nearly all—do that same thing. If the observant citizen, in the midst of his strenuous life, will take time to peer into the show windows of our photographic artists, he will find that eight men out of ten, having summoned courage to be "taken," endeavored to square themselves by jamming one hand—or sometimes both hands—into their trousers pockets. Recently one of our most respectable newspapers printed a portrait of a very prominent politician, who is a good citizen, a fond father and a thorough churchman. Behold! This estimable gentleman had stood in the eye of the camera with both hands stuck into those perpendicular slits! His attitude was that of a boy who feared that his pennies would joggle out of his pockets. What was lacking in the photographer? Had he no judgment, or did he want for moral courage, when he neglected to tell his subject to show his hands?

This curious mania exhibits itself elsewhere than in the picture gallery. Our oratory suffers from it. You don't get our greatest orator rendering himself guilty of any such gaucherie. Sir Wilfrid knows better. But, both here and in Ottawa, few men can rise to make a speech without immediately thrusting one hand into a pocket. When they get up to reply to an after-dinner toast, they shove both hands in. The wives of such speech-makers should sew up the pockets in the dress suits. Perhaps this would be disastrous at first, as it might disconcert the speaker, and cause him to forget what he had to say, like the schoolboy whose jacket button was surreptitiously cut off by Walter Scott. But in the end it would produce one of two needed reforms. It would compel men to stand gracefully, or it would keep a lot of platitudinous bores where they belong—in their chairs.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

Rural School Libraries.

According to the reports of inspectors just received at the Education Department in Toronto rural school libraries are being established in a great number of districts throughout the province.

These libraries are supported by the Government under an order in council, July, 1902, of which the following are extracts:

Section 2.—"Any rural school board which provides a library for the scholars shall be entitled to a share of whatever money may be appropriated for the purpose by the Legislature, if it purchases such books as are contained in the approved list."

Section 3.—"Every rural school board which establishes a library under these conditions shall be entitled to a grant equivalent to half the amount expended, but not to exceed $10 in any one year, and provided the appropriation made by the Legislature will warrant such payment."

The list referred to includes biography, history, geography, travel, mythology and a very large list of works on elementary science, particularly on nature study.

Van Horne's Beginning.

Sir William Van Horne, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, was interviewed in New York not long ago by a young gentleman who insisted on treating him like a foreigner. The Montreal capitalist took it as a matter of course until the interviewer asked innocently:

"Did you ever have anything to do with our American railroads, Sir William?"

The good knight's eyes sparkled as he answered: "Oh, yes. I served on both Alton and Illinois Central."

"In what offices?" asked the scribe, with pencil ready.

"I sold books on Alton and oranges on Illinois Central," said the chairman of the Canadian Pacific quietly; "but that was some little time ago."—New York Times.

IT SOARES PEOPLE

Who come of a consumptive family when they begin to cough and the lungs are painful. But it is a fact beyond disproof that consumption is not and cannot be inherited. The microbe which breeds disease must absolutely be received by the individual before consumption can be developed.

Men and women who have been afflicted with obstinate coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, emaciation and weakness, have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures the cough, heals the lungs, and builds up the body with solid flesh.

"When I commenced taking your medicines, eighteen months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs Cora I. Sunderland of Chaneyville, Calvert Co., Md. "At times I could not even walk across the room without pains in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I had lung trouble, and that I would never be well again. At last I concluded to try Doctor Pierce's medicines. I bought a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better, then you directed me to take both the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Favorite Prescription' which I did. Altogether I have taken eighteen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' twelve of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and five vials of 'Pellets.' I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and can run with more ease than I could formerly walk."

The first Americans had a hard time keeping warm. Their trials are unnecessarily carried into many homes of to-day. and Oxford Radiators which form the perfect system of home heating.

The accompanying illustration shows where the water is introduced into the fire-pot at the rear and is thrown by a diaphragm from the rear towards the front of the fire-chamber and then passes over the surface of the horizontal sections. Thus the coldest water of this system is kept on outside of heater preventing the radiation of heat into the cellar.

CANADIANS IN LONDON.

Lady King and the Viscountess Avonmore Are Both Canadians.

Lady King is a Canadian, the daughter of Dr. Jenkins, at one time the leading clergyman of Montreal. Her brother is Edward Jenkins, who was one of the pioneers in imperialism. When it was the fashion to profess Little Englandism, he and a few other enthusiastic spirits preached a nobler ideal, one result of which was the founding of the Royal Colonial Institute. In addition to his political essays, Mr. Jenkins has written that delightful book, "Ginx's Baby."

There are in all eight peeresses of colonial birth whose husbands either hold an Irish title or possess estates in Ireland. One of them, Viscountess Avonmore, is a Canadian. Her grandfather, the Rev. George Evans, a descendant of a Welsh captain of horse who settled in Ireland during the reign of Charles I., went to Canada in 1851. Here he married, and it was not until his eldest son succeeded to the estates on the death of an uncle in 1889 that the family returned to Ireland.

The following year Viscountess Avonmore was married from the ancestral home, Gortmerron House, County Tyrone. Her husband is the sixth of his line. The first peer was a distinguished orator and statesman, who lived at the end of the eighteenth century. He was Attorney General and afterward Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer when there was a Parliament in Dublin, and was rewarded for his political and judicial services with a peerage.

Things Worth Fighting For.

Two Western Ontario farmers on adjoining lands have run up a big law bill apiece over the possession of seventeen cents worth of useless land.

There is no particular principle involved. The land is close beside a fence and can not be cultivated. But each man is determined to have it, and so the merry war goes on.

Of course the ultimate outcome will be that the lawyers in the case will own the seventeen cents worth of land—and the two adjoining farms.

Those two farmers represent a too frequent modern type.

There is nothing in the world so pleasant as having one's own way in everything. But when a few thousand people, or a few million, live together, and two individuals desire the same thing, one has to give away.

The big-natured man in the trifles of life gives away to the other fellow. A fight that costs more than the object fought for, is a mistake.

It is only in the large things of life, the matters of principle, that the big men fight, fight to the very end.

The possession of a few cents worth of property is not worth a momentary feeling of anger, and when the sale notice is tacked to their front gate post the two Western Ontario farmers will realize this. —Ottawa Journal.

A Greeting to the King.

The London correspondent of The Liverpool Post says: "I believe that the King recently received a message of cordial loyalty from one of the most meagre communities in the British Empire. This is the Finnish settlement on Malcolm Island, British Columbia. The colony, which does not number more than 200 souls, is run as a joint stock company, and is incorporated by a special Act of the Legislature. Each colonist holds a share valued at 200 dollars, women exercising the same rights and privileges as men. The community is entirely non-sectarian in character, but is, all the same, possessed by a deep religious sentiment. The purpose of the message to the King was to assure his Majesty of their gratitude for the liberty and equality which they enjoy under the British flag. They assured his Majesty that they had conveyed a knowledge of this to their compatriots, and that they expected a considerable addition to their numbers.

Ontario's Wonderful Soil.

The best crop stories of recent years are placed in the shade by a report of a yield of red winter wheat on a farm in Norfolk County, Ontario. Well-authenticated information from that district is that a production of 1,410 bushels was obtained from 27 acres, or an average of 52 bushels. In some portions of this area the yield was 64 bushels. The grain is described as being of excellent quality, some of it weighing 63 to 65 pounds to the bushel.

Antiquities in the Colonies.

Some of the British Colonies are sufficiently old for an antiquarian value to attach to their coinage. At the Murdoch sale recently a twenty-dollar gold piece of British Columbia, dated 1862, made £116, and the ten-dollar piece of the same type realized £53. It is believed that no specimen of these two coins has ever before been offered for sale by public auction; in fact, the only other specimens known are in the British Museum.

The Antiquity of the Ballet.

Strictly defined, the ballet is properly a theatrical exhibition of the art of dancing in its highest perfection, complying generally with the rules of the drama as to its composition and form. It was in existence in Italy as far back as A. D. 1500, the court of Turin in that day making especial use of it and the royal family and nobles taking part in it. The ballet was first introduced in France in the reign of Louis XIII., and both that monarch and Louis XIV. occasionally took part in its dances.

In its earliest presentation the ballet appeared dexterously in combination with the other theatrical acts and is said to have "completed the chaotic medley exhibited in these spectacles, which were at once mythological, allegorical, fantastic, warlike and pastoral." The reader will not be slow to observe that its development in the present day has not apparently lost sight of these conditions.

About the year 1700 women made their first appearance in the ballet, which up to that time had been performed exclusively by men, as was the case also with plays and operas, but no woman ballet dancer of any note appeared until 1700.

TORTURING DISFIGURING

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

From Pimples to Scrofula From Infancy to Age

Speedily Cured by Cuticura When All Else Fails.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in Eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in acne and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum,—all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humour remedies of the civilized world.

Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry, without rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete local and constitutional treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humours of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all else fails.

THE COLDSTREAM'S COLONEL

Is King Edward VII The Band's Famous Leader.

His Majesty the King is Colonel-in-Chief of the Coldstream Guards and is greatly interested in common with the officers in the very fine band of the Regiment, which in recent years under the direction of the talented bandmaster Mr. J. Mackenzie Rogan, has reached the foremost place among the bands of the British service. Not that the Coldstreams have not always had a fine band but Mr. Rogan is a musician of exceptional ability and his merits have won him the recognition of Bandmaster of the Brigade of Guards. He is withal a fine soldier and has seen active service in South Africa, in India and in Burmah. He received for his work on active service a medal and two clasps from Queen Victoria and has been decorated by King Edward VII. with the silver medal of the Royal Victorian Order. Mr. Rogan is a composer and a conductor. At a celebration at Eton he conducted a chorus of voices numbering 1,200 and was specially complimented by the Queen on the magnificence of the effect. He has composed march band music and arranges all the parts for the massed bands of the Guards Brigade. This notable band and leader will be in Peterborough on Wednesday, Sept. 23, and will appear in the new rink, Brock street.

SAPPHIRE CORUNDUM COMPANY

Failure Said to be Due to the Small Capital.

The official receiver's statement of the winding up of the Saphire Corundum Mining Company has been published. The accounts show increased debts amounting to £3,080, and assets of £112,242, of which some £100,000 is returned as the value of the mines in Burleigh and Methuen, Peterborough County, Ontario. Detailed particulars are furnished of the operations of the company, and the failure of Mr. Carling Kelly, of Ottawa, to float his scheme, when Mr. E. T. Hooley appeared on the scene. The failure of the company is attributed to the want of working capital.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The Annual Show Will be Held on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 11th and 12th.

The annual exhibition of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society, will be held in the drill Hall, Peterborough, on Friday and Saturday, September 11th and 12th.

It will be well for intending exhibitors to recollect that entries must be made with the secretary before Friday, the 11th, and exhibits must be delivered at the exhibition hall on Friday morning. Children, to whom the Society gave plants for growth in pots, are requested to enter them, so that the competition will be as complete as possible. There will be no entrance charge made and prizes will be awarded the best grown plants.

This year special prizes of $5 and $2 will be awarded for the best kept lawns.

The band will perform at a promenade concert in the evening, and as the park concerts are discontinued, this feature should be a great attraction, in addition to the exhibits which promise to be large, as the entries will probably be much larger than those of last year. It is hoped that the people will extend the exhibition a liberal patronage, for its object is to beautify the town by developing a taste and fondness for the culture of flowers, and adornment of the lawns of the town, as well as adding to the beauty and attractiveness of the streets and public places. Very little effort in the direction of general co-operation would make Peterborough the most beautiful town in Canada. With its magnificent tree growth, the added virtue of tidiness of premises and the street fronts abutting upon them, would ensure superb results.

THE BAND AND THE PARK CONCERTS.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — The band concerts in the park are nominally at an end, but as a matter of fact the band has not kept its contract with the town, whereby it received its grant. It was to play once a week for three months, which means thirteen concerts, but it is a matter of notoriety that there have not been much over half that number, let the causes be what they may. I submit that in all fairness, the band should keep the spirit of its contract, and give the balance of its concerts, especially now that the weather is so favourable.

Hoping that there will be a continuation of the concerts upon whatever nights may suit the band, I am still

AN ADMIRER.

While the band may not have kept the letter of the "contract," cited by our correspondent, it is not unfair to ask if it has not fulfilled the spirit of it; and if the quality of their music has not very fairly compensated for lack of quantity. It must be recollected that at the beginning of the season the park concerts were interfered with by absence of lights and deficiency of band stand accommodation. Other legitimate causes may have prevented more frequent concerts, but we are certain that lack of will on the part of the band, was not one of the causes. No doubt with the fine weather of this month the public would welcome more band concerts, but the band has important engagements, which require considerable practice. If the 57th Band plays in Toronto, as it will do on the 9th, everybody is anxious that they should, as they can do, do so creditably, for they will be pitted, in a sense, against splendid musical organizations. They have an engagement in connection with a musical festival, in which large numbers of our citizens are directly, and the public generally, indirectly, much interested. The band has an engagement for Labour Day also, and also one for the Flower Show. Therefore it does not seem practicable to give park concerts in the immediate future, at least. "Admirer" pays a compliment to the band in desiring further concerts, and no doubt the public sympathize with him. But our band is too important a musical asset to justify keeping too strict and too closely itemized an account of Dr. and Cr.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 3, 1903.

A BASELESS FEAR.

A few Conservative newspapers still write as if the proposed transcontinental line were some project intended to close up the great lakes and the St. Lawrence River. These timid souls can be assured that there is no such purpose in any sane man's mind. When the Grand Trunk Pacific is built there will be more products carried on the great lakes during the season of navigation than ever there has been, The aim of the Government is to keep steadily improving the water route, so that no railway, however low its grades or smooth its roadbed, could hope to compete with it. While it is open it will be the main channel along which the products of the west will pour towards their markets. But there is not much sense in overlooking the fact that for almost half the year it is closed by ice. Under present conditions, when that occurs, western grain is virtually shut in We have the word of the Canadian Pacific authorities themselves as to this fact. Sir William Van Horne, in a recent interview, said that his railway had no profit on the grain it moved east during the winter. It moves some as a favour to eastern millers, but there is no profit in it.

When navigation closes therefore grain that has not been moved out before that time has to remain in the west. A great deal of it is in the elevators, and has to pay elevator charges for storage until the following spring, and all of it has to pay insurance rates wherever it may be stored, or be exposed to the risk of total loss by fire. This is the situation to-day It is hoped that the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will change it so far as the country which it will serve is concerned. It is hoped that by getting a line of easy gradient and first-class roadbed in every respect grain may be carried from the west, not as cheaply as it can be carried by the water route, but as cheaply as or more cheaply than the cost of transportation by that route, with all the charges of a winter's storage, insurance, etc., added.

This, we believe, is the expectation and the fact that wheat is carried all-rail to the Atlantic seaboard from the Kansas wheat fields with profit would indicate that the expectation is not an unreasonable one. To talk as Mr. Roblin did about the farmer's wheat being "forced through a channel for shipment at a loss of five cents a bushel" is to talk partisan nonsense. Mr. Roblin appears to be a man of common sense and, of course, knows that grain could not be "forced through" one channel while there was another available carrying it five cents a bushel cheaper The Winnipeg Telegram, which was greatly shocked at The Globe's ignorance in criticising Mr. Roblin's platform exaggerations, accepts his view with the meek discipleship that is its customary attitude towards the only great man it knows. We confess that we have watched the Conservative press in the west with some attention and not without hope, but if any words of light and leading have fallen from it on this railway question they have escaped our observation. Of one thing the west may be assured, namely, that either the water route will be employed in the new transcontinental railway system, or products will be carried all-rail as cheaply as if the water route had been employed. Of course no one doubts that the Grand Trunk Pacific will connect with Lake Superior for its own sake, although it suits newspapers which have somewhat puerile ideas of party "tactics" to pretend otherwise.—Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Gazette this morning proves that all Canadian industries are prosperous. "Let's see," monologues the Montreal Herald, "wasn't it in the Gazette that Sir Charles Tupper in 1897 heard that sorrowful wail raised by Canadian industries about to be destroyed?"

Civilized nations may be justified in standing neutral while Turkey wages war to bring her rebellious subjects into line. But no considerations of policy can justify them in permitting Turkey to outrage the laws of war by ruthless slaughter of her subjects, including women and children, with details of atrocity that make humanity stand aghast. Neutrality is not only not justified, but is a national crime.

THE NORTHWEST DRIFT.

According to the New York Sun, the Canadian section of an American geography, published in the United States in 1868 contained the following:—

"It is generally supposed that the climate of the North-west Territories is so severe that the country must forever remain a desolate waste."

The boy who learned that lesson in school is only a middle-aged man to-day.

History records few quicker metamorphoses than the change in a generation of a desolate waste to the granary of the empire.

The ninety-four million bushels of wheat grown in the Canadian west last year produced two and a quarter million tons of flour, or enough bread to keep ten million people alive for a year.

To-day they speak of the Keewatin, the Ungava and the Mackenzie districts in similar terms to those used of the North-west a third of a century ago.

And even as the despised north-west of thirty-five years ago now blossoms like a great garden, so may the desolate places of to-day around Canada's inland sea sparkle with great cities, whose ships go to every land, with the commerce of Northern Canada.

"Go west young man," said the fathers of thirty years ago; "Go north" may be the advice of the fathers of thirty years to come.—Ottawa Journal.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Miss Jessie Kidd of Lakefield, is spending a few days as the guest of Miss Lily Duff.

Mr. Ben Fife who has been in the Northwest during the past month, has returned home.

The annual harvest home under the auspices of the Baptist church, is to be held on Wednesday evening, September 16th. As this event has always been a success a large crowd is expected.

Several of our citizens are complaining of the gipsies camping at the school and church corners. About once a month in summer a band takes possession of the roadside, and sometimes part of the road also. They occasionally preempt the church sheds as well as the school yard. If a horse is not as quiet as the animals they drive there is generally some trouble in getting past. When the council receive a bill for damages caused by some runaway they will probably wake up.

Fishing in the river here is reported good. Mr. Arthur Fife has caught quite a number of large lunge and Mr. Jas. Hall caught one weighing seven pounds.

Judging by the large number of beer barrels lying around here while the Italians made this their stopping place, the visitor would not imagine this was such a prohibition town as is generally supposed.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.

AN EXCURSION TO ROCHESTER

Very Well Described by a Citizen Excursionist.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — Kindly give me space in your paper to let the people know where I have been. I left Peterborough on Thursday, August 20th with the excursion to Rochester, and got on board the steamer North King at Port Hope at 3.30 p.m. The lake was a little rough, and it was not long before some of them were calling "Europe," they were so sick. We arrived at Summerville at nine, and I was met there by friends whom I went to visit. We crossed over on a ferry to Charlotte, and were around there till about 10.15; when we got on the train for Rochester.

The next day, the 21st, we got ready and embarked on the trolley cars for the Genessee Valley Park, a very pretty park, and then went on to Hiland Park, which is also a very pretty place; I saw trees and bushes there which I never saw before. There is a fountain in the park which shoots up about 35 feet; the water comes 29 miles and supplies the city. On our way we saw ten or twelve convicts working in a potato patch of about 15 or 20 acres. We called at Mount Hope and heard the $7000 brass pipe organ. Leaving that place we came to a gun, which I should think was at least 15 feet long and was donated to the city of Rochester by Admiral Dewey. It is a Spanish cannon and comes from Manilla Bay, Philippine Islands. We saw the canal which runs through the city, and crosses the river some 14 feet above it. At the "Rattle Snake Pete" we saw all kinds of relics, and several different varieties of snakes. On our way back to dinner we called at the Power Block tower, which is 227 feet high.

After dinner we got on the trolley cars for Roundiquit Boy, Sea Breeze where I saw Japanese acting of all kinds; it was the neatest I ever saw. They have what they call a roller coaster which I and others got on. Next time you see Robert Nurse at Fowler's Corners ask him how he and Dan felt when going up and down on the roller coaster. We ought to have one at Chemong Park.

On Saturday, the 22nd, we got ready to return home. When we arrived at Summerville there was no boat as it was so rough as to prevent her leaving Brighton to cross, consequently we had to go back to Rochester. We crossed by the ferry from Summerville to Ontario Beach Park and then to Rochester by the trolley cars. After dinner we started for Charlotte on the steam railway. At Charlotte we changed to trolley cars for Manhattan Beach, where we stopped for one or two hours. We came back to Charlotte, and at night I saw all kinds of fireworks and also saw a man jump from a scaffold fifty feet high into a tank of four feet of water.

On Sunday, the 23rd, we walked over the bridge on Platt street, which is above the Genessee River. Here the river falls 93 feet. We next went to Seneca Park, where there were all kinds of birds and animals. All of the different parks were large and crowded with people. We crossed the New York Central Railroad, which here has four tracks, and runs from Buffalo to New York. While standing looking at the track the Empire State Express came along going west. It was the fastest thing I ever saw on wheels. Before I could ask my friend where it was going it was out of sight.

I never enjoyed any trip as much as I did the one to Rochester, as I met two of my best friends there, and I was used like a king. The good people there did not make any difference who I was or what colour I was. Some came to visit where I was and said to be sure and call on them the next time I was over.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain, yours truly,

THE DEMAND GREAT

People Want Tickets to Enable Them to Hear Chamberlain.

ALASKA BOUNDARY QUESTION

London Times Thinks the Real Problem Is One of Law—Mr. Goldwin Smith's Interesting Article on the Irish Question — Public Opinion in Canada Anent Mr. Chamberlain's Fiscal Proposals.

(By Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 3.—The demand for tickets of admission to hear Hon. Joseph Chamberlain speak at Liverpool on Monday is so great that it is proposed to erect a special building to hold 20,000 persons. It is believed in well-informed quarters that Premier Balfour's statement before the conference of the National Union of Conservative Associations in Sheffield will have an important effect, resulting in subsequent consideration of the fiscal question.

There was much talk in political circles yesterday of a possible compromise at next Saturday's meeting of the Cabinet on the tariff question.

The Standard, the chief Conservative organ, whose recent denunciation of Mr. Chamberlain's proposals aroused so much interest, suggests that a small duty might be imposed upon grain and flour for revenue purposes only. If the Cabinet agreed upon these lines the Unionist free traders might accept it. "Then," says The Standard, "when the present heated discussion has subsided, we can calmly canvas any proposal which Canada is inclined to lay before us."

A letter in The Morning Post suggests that wheat from the colonies should be admitted free, and that emigration to Canada should be assisted by the Government.

Of Interest to Irishmen.

Yesterday's Irish Times says Dr. Goldwin Smith's paper in The Monthly Review excites greater interest among Irishmen than did Sir Michael Hicks-Beach's article giving his view of the fiscal controversy.

Referring to emigration The Irish Times says that the Irish people must remain in Ireland. "We look to them," says The Times, "to combat that feeling of antagonism toward Britain which Dr. Goldwin Smith says has been developed in Ireland through the influence of transatlantic fenianism."

Supposed Canadian Attitude.

The Daily Mail publishes extracts from Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Halifax and Winnipeg newspapers, and says that the extracts show that public opinion in Canada is not only indifferent, but hostile, to Mr. Chamberlain's proposals. The sentiment is strong in favor of a continuance of the bond between the Mother Country and the colonies, but it would be suicidal to overstrain it. "Canada, in short," says The Mail, "does not wish her recent noble services to the Empire to be paid at the expense of the British taxpayer."

Exhibits on Voyage.

It is reported that a floating industrial exhibition of British manufactures to tour the Empire, has been organized. The movement has the support of prominent shipping and manufacturing firms. It will cover all classes of manufactured articles which Great Britain supplies or can supply to the colonies. The exhibits would be on voyage for six months.

Canadian Apples Wanted

Contracts have already been made for the shipment to Great Britain this year of over two million bushels of Canadian apples. Exports say that Canadian pippins, Ribstons and Baldwins are equal to the English fruit of the same name.

Bolt From Canon Brock.

Rev. Canon Brock, of Kentville, Nova Scotia, has aroused the indignation of a congregation on the Island of Jersey by declaring his non-belief in the doctrine of eternal punishment.

Question of Law.

The London Times, commenting on the Alaskan Boundary Commission, says: "Questions relating to occupation may give rise to difficulties, due to feeling and sentiment, but they cannot affect the question of law, which is the main question referred to the Commission. When that is settled by a practical compromise other matters ought to be."

Hutton in Australia.

The Melbourne correspondent of The Morning Chronicle says that General Hutton has not only unified the federal defence, but also has conceded much to Australian democracy

Sticks to Marconi.

A protocol has been adopted at the International Congress of Wireless Telegraphy held at Berlin, and signed by the United States, Germany, Austria, Spain, France and Russia But England dissented to the majority of its conclusions, affirming that no system should be used unless a certainty of connection was guaranteed Italy associated herself with England, announcing that she could not break her contract with Marconi.

Will Appeal Case.

At a meeting of the Institute of Journalists at Bristol, it was decided to appeal against Justice Joyce's judgment that no copyright could be granted on reporters' work.

THE DOMINION EXPOSITION.

Manufacturers Make Speeches at Directors' Luncheon—Interesting Day at the Dairy Building.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Sunshine made things pleasant and brought a generous crowd to the grounds of the Dominion Exhibition here yesterday. The live stock is now coming in with a rush.

Yesterday was Manufacturers' Day, but there were not so many present at the directors' luncheon as were expected, although the leading manufactures of the Dominion were represented.

Vice-President W. K. George and Secretary R. J. Younge of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association delivered optimistic addresses, in response to the welcome given the manufacturers by President McNaught of the Exhibition Association.

An interesting exhibition of butter and cheese making was given in the dairy building yesterday morning. The work was done by P. W. Burns of Havelock, N.B., and J. Bouchard of St. Hyacinthe, Que., who made 14 pounds of butter from 60 pounds of cream. The cheese was made by J. H. Kerr of Belleville. Two vats of milk were set at different times in order to allow the spectators to see the cheese-making process in different stages.

In the afternoon G. G. Publow, Chief Inspector of the Dairy Section of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, gave an address on the system of dairy instruction in Eastern Ontario.

The judging of horses was begun yesterday, and awards were made in many large classes. Over 100 horses turned out for the parade at 11 o'clock. In the line were horses of all kinds, thoroughbreds, roadsters, standard breds, carriage horses, to harness, hunters and saddle, Clydesdales, and heavy draughts

CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM.

Latest Word of Science on This Dangerous Malady.

The prevalence of rheumatism in some form or another, and the largely fatal character of its effects, have for a long time set physicians to pondering and investigating as to its cause. The cause ascertained, it would remain only to find the most effective means of removing it. The verdict of experience and study at the present day is that rheumatism, of whatever nature, is a blood disease, and the best authorities agree that it is caused by the presence of uric acid in the blood. The efforts of students of this affliction, therefore, became concentrated on the most effective means of cure. A remedy must combine the most effective specifics and it must be prepared with such care and skill as to leave no possible element of uncertainty. The result of such study and care is known as "Bu-Ju." This is a vegetable compound in the form of pills which act upon the kidneys in such a way as to stimulate weak organs and overcome clogged or sluggish conditions. The kidneys are the filters of the body. When they work imperfectly the poison they should excrete and expel from the system is returned to the blood. Then ensues blood-poisoning. When the kidneys are well the excess of uric acid and other poisons is expelled, the blood is purified, and rheumatism may be left to nature's recuperative action. Bu-Ju is put up in boxes of 50 pills, selling at 50 cents at all drug stores. The Claflin Chemical Co., Ltd., New York, N. Y., and Windsor, Ont., control the sale of this specific in the United States and Canada.

Drowned in 3 Feet of Water.

Kingston, Sept. 3.—A sad accident happened on Buckshot Lake recently, when Robert Laraby, a 19-year-old lad, was drowned in three feet of water. He had been subject to epileptic fits for some time, and there is no doubt this was the direct cause of his falling out of his boat.

Lost at Sea.

London, Sept. 3.—The British schooner Maud Moulton, Capt. Poole, which left Cadiz, April 11, for Burgeo, Newfoundland, has been posted at Lloyds as missing.

Dysentery causes the death of more people than small pox and yellow fever combined. In an army it is dreaded more than a battle. It requires prompt and effective treatment. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery in the United States with perfect success, and has cured the most malignant cases, both of children and adults, and under the most trying conditions. Every household should have a bottle at hand. Get it to-day. It may save a life. Sold by all druggists.

To Go Across Maine.

Montreal, Sept. 2.—Vice-President D. D. Mann, of the Canadian Northern, stated yesterday that the short line to the sea will probably be carried across a corner of Maine, in view of the fact that the Grand Trunk Pacific will probably secure the charter of the Quebec and New Brunswick, of which Hon. John Costigan is president.

The Fires of Eczema.

So keen is the suffering of many people who endure the stinging, itching sensation of Eczema that they speak of the skin as being on fire. By its soothing, healing, antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment positively cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, and every form of itching skin disease. It is of inestimable value in every home, and when once introduced becomes a household necessity. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard the world over, and has no worthy rival.

We are doing one thing extremely well—making Good Glasses. In fact the best Glasses made in Canada today. Perhaps you may think this a strong statement, but it is writen deliberately and meant to be convincing.

We examine your eyes carefully, and in our examining room we have all the latest instruments for that purpose. We are Eye Specialists, and our long years of experience make us experts. In the rear of the office is a work shop equipped with the most modern machinery for optical work—the only shop of the kind in Peterborough. Surface grinding of lenses is done on the premises. Our patients are in all parts of the Dominion. We will be pleased to answer mail orders. Particular care is given to the fit of frames and mounts.

One of our patients, Miss Beavis, writes: "Before coming to you for Glasses I had spent over $50.00 in my endeavour to get satisfactory Glasses, but, thanks to your skill as opticians, I am now enjoying perfect vision and comfort."

THE T. A. S. BAND.

Mr. Broderick the Teacher and Leader Arrived in Town.

Mr. R. P. Broderick, of Montreal, the bandmaster and instructor, who has been engaged for the T.A.S. Band, arrived in town last night, and will at once enter upon his duties, the first meeting of the members for organization and practice taking place next Tuesday evening. Mr. Broderick comes well recommended as an efficient teacher and leader, and his thirty years of experience in band music especially well qualify him for his duties. He was for seven years a member of the band of the 2nd battalion of Scottish Rifles, formerly the 90th Light Infantry. He has has a large experience in the instruction of bands, both in Ireland and Canada, and is familiar with all the instruments of a band and a practical performer on the cornet and flute. With such a teacher and leader, with an equipment of first-class instruments, the T.A.S. Band with deligent and regular practice, which all members should remember is a prime necessity for success, should soon take a prominent place in our local musical organizations. Apart from music, Mr. Broderick is a house-painter, but it is to be hoped the demands upon his musical services will obviate the necessity of a demand upon his services in another capacity.

Miss Rebecca Maxwell, of New York, accompanied by her little niece, Miss Uriel Renner, of New York, has returned home, for a few months' visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Maxwell, London street.

The numerous friends of the family will learn with regret that there is no improvement in the condition of Miss S. Fair, sister of Mr. Robt. Fair. She has for some time been very seriously ill and no hope is entertained of her recovery.

Mr. William Record and son, of St. Louis, Missouri, are in town visiting relatives, and renewing old acquaintances, after an absence on Mr. Record's part, of thirteen years, he having only paid the town one visit since his departure from Peterborough in 1879. Mr. Record is enthusiastic over the vastly improved condition of Peterborough since his last visit. He notes a very great improvement in every way, and declares that it is the brightest, briskest, most progressive and well-kept town between here and St. Louis. Mr. Record, being a truthful gentleman, could not say otherwise. Peterborough is always glad to have a good Record, but would rather have him here than in St. Louis. However the good Record, in a double sense, will travel back to the World's Fair Metropolis of the south.

THE TOWN'S ELECTRIC LIGHT SUPPLY.

A Letter to the Mayor from the Otonabee Power Company.

The Examiner has been favoured, for publication, with the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

G. M. Roger, Esq., Mayor of Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—On the 26th of June last, we addressed to you a letter which read as follows:—

"Some time ago we put in a tender to supply the Town of Peterborough with electric light for municipal purposes. We beg to state that our offer has not been withdrawn, but is still open for the town to accept, and will not be withdrawn by us until we send you notice in writing to that effect. If you desire to have the offer made in a more binding form we are prepared to put in our tender in that way. We are also prepared to put in the most modern and up-to-date lamps for street lighting purposes that are on the market.

"We believe that the town are taking steps to accept a tender for lighting purposes that will cost the town in the neighbourhood of $1800.00 per year more than our Company are willing to supply light for. We trust that we have been misinformed and that our tender will receive your favourable consideration and that the Council will see their way clear to accept it."

Our offer is still open for you to accept. We notice that a bylaw affecting the lighting of the Town of Peterborough for the next ten years comes up for consideration on Monday evening. We would like to know if the Council would like to have our offer in a more binding form than it has been submitted to you. If so, we will be very pleased indeed to comply with your wishes.

We regret that you have not seen your way clear to even favour us with an acknowledgment of the receipt of our letter of 26th June, and that no action has been taken respecting it.

We beg to state that if the Council accepts our offer in preference to the one it is proposed to accept that the town will save in ten years, fully from $18,000.00 to $25,000.00.

We are therefore at a loss to understand why the Council proposes to pay that large sum as a bonus to an opposition Company. Does the Council suppose that the ratepayers will endorse their course when they learn the true facts?

We trust that you will yet give our proposition your favourable consideration.

Yours respectfully,
OTONABEE POWER CO., (Limited.)
William G. Ferguson,

FALL OF A CHIMNEY.

A Startling Episode of This Morning.

A ten foot high chimney, on Mr. Robert Fair's residence, No 105 Dickson street, fell with a crash this morning while the family were at breakfast. The bricks in about five feet length of the chimney, fell with a crash upon the roof, which, if it had not been unusually strong and steep, would have been broken through. As it was, however, the shock was exceedingly startling, and made much more serious by the fact of serious illness existing. The chimney as well as the residence as a whole, is very solidly built, and the only way of accounting for its collapse is that often repeated slight shocks, due to necessary blasting operations in the neighbourhood, gradually loosened the mortar binding the bricks together.

ANNUAL REVIVAL OF LOCAL RUGBY.

Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night.

Will Peterborough Enter the Senior Series?—Proposition to Finance the Club—Views Expressed.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Peterborough Rugbyists was held in the Oriental Hotel last night for the purpose of discussing the prospects for the coming season. It was not the annual general meeting of the Club—it was just a "feeler," as Capt. McPherson put it. There was a very large attendance, considering the fact that the meeting was called on half a day's notice. There were present many who have done service on the gridiron and those who have done service in the management of the Club, whilst there were not a few who appeared to be eager to get into the game for the first time.

In the absence of the President of the Club, Mr. Hal. Burnham, the chair was occupied by the Capt. Mr. A. W. McPherson. Among those who were in attendance were Messrs. Wm. Crowley, vice-president; H. R. H. Kenner, manager; E. S. Clarry, secretary-treasurer; A. W. Spence, Art. Noble, Ben. Simpson, Fred Clarke, —. Reynolds, Ross Cameron, Fred Whitecroft, J. Hertubise, Gordon Lee, N. Jolliffe, George Lundy, Geo. Rogers, M. Lowry, A. Scriver, —. Kelly, J. O'Brien and a great many others.

The chairman explained that it was not the annual meeting of the Club, but that it was necessary to know at once if possible as to what series the Peterborough Club should be entered in. He referred to the new snap-back system and claimed that it would suit Peterborough players splendidly. He thought that the Peterborough team this year would be very strong and he saw no reason why they should not be entered in the senior series along with Ottawa, Kingston, and the teams from the west. Capt. McPherson made an earnest appeal to the boys not to let the game die out in town especially in view of the fact that the Peterborough Club was the first Club to advocate the snap-back style of play, which is to be introduced for the first time in the O.R.F.U. this fall. He thought the intermediate series would be poor this year and Peterborough would have no greater travelling to do if they were in the senior class.

Mr. Will Crowley, one of the oldest and most enthusiastic members of the team, expressed the belief that the Peterborough team would be quite strong this year. It would be too bad to see the game die out in town—of course the only drawback was the financing of the team.

Mr. E. S. Clarry claimed that the entire difficulty was in raising sufficient funds to carry the team through the season.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner was of the opinion that there was material for a good team but the matter of finances was the drawback. He had decided to drop out of the management of the club, as he was tired begging dollar subscriptions.

Mrssrs. A. W. Spence, Art Noble, Gordon Lee and others spoke.

After protracted discussion it was resolved to call a meeting for Tuesday night next in the council chamber. It is proposed to have the meeting attended by the prominent business men of the town when the cause of the Rugby Club will be laid before them, and a grand effort made to finance the club during the season. It is believed that if the business men of the town can be interested in the matter and shown the advantage to the town of having Peterborough well advertised by a first class Rugby team, they will come forward with some reasonable proposition whereby the officers of the club may have finances to see the team through the season.

It is almost superfluous to repeat the many disadvantages under which Peterborough is placed in regard to maintaining a Rugby team. The fact that the Nicholls oval, on which the boys play, is not fenced in, and affords no means of collecting a gate necessitates the boys resorting to voluntary contributions for running the club. This is anything but a pleasant task, and those who have undertaken the work in the past are not anxious to assume the responsibility again this season. It requires considerable money to maintain a Rugby team, as the distance to travel — to Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and London — is great, and the expense correspondingly high. However, it is hoped that by some means or other there will be a solution of the present difficulty. The Rugbyists look for a grand rally in the council chamber on Tuesday night of next week. It will not be the annual meeting of the club but just a mass meeting of those interested in the grand old game.

Captain McPherson is arranging for the formation of a junior city Rugby League to consist of teams of boys under 18 years of age. A meeting is called for the purpose of organizing.

Captain MacPherson will not be in Peterborough after October 1st, as he leaves to resume his studies in Toronto. However, he will play the season through with Peterborough.

President Hal. Burnham, to the regret of all, is leaving town, and the team will be weakened considerably thereby. However there is lots of new blood, and with a good energetic management Peterborough will still be a prominent factor in Rugby circles in Canada. The matter of what series the team will enter is still unsettled.

Reproves the Monastir Committee for Inactivity.

PORTE'S BROKEN PROMISES.

Turkish Officials Rewarded After Having Been Proved Guilty of Malpractices—Col. Jankoff, Insurgent Leader, With Strong Forces, Operating Southwards of Demotikyka. Will Destroy Bridges.

Salonica, Sept 3.—The revolutionary movement in Monastir gives indications of extinguishment. Boris Saraloff, who is now at the head of the two sections of the Macedonian General Committee, has severely reproved the Monastir Committee for its inactivity. Fifteen Bulgarian villages have been burned between Kliseura and Kastoria.

Porte's Broken Promises.

Sofia, Sept. 3.—The Bulgarian agent at Uskub reports that notwithstanding the Porte's promises on the occasion of the Russian demonstration in Ontada Day to dismiss 24 officials accused of malpractices by the Russian and Austrian Consuls, only nine of them have been dismissed, while some of the others have been given higher posts.

Col. Jankoff Busy.

Constantinople, Sept. 3.—According to Government advices Col. Jankoff, the insurgent leader, who, with a strong following, is operating southwards of Demotikyka, has been entrusted with the task of destroying the larger bridges of the railroad over the Maritza and Arda Rivers, so as to cut off communication with Adrianople from the south and delay the troops who are on their way to the threatened city.

TWENTY-NINE KILLED.

Three Disastrous Explosions on the Austrian Steamer Vaskapau.

Constantinople, Sept. 3.—Three explosions occurred yesterday on the Austrian steamer Vaskapau soon after leaving the Bulgarian port of Burgas on route for Constantinple by which 29 persons perished. The steamer caught fire, and had to be beached. A telegram conveying this news was received by the agent here of the Hungarian Levant Line, to which the Vaskapau belongs.

The captain and officers of the steamer and six of her crew were among the dead. The Vaskapau sailed from Varna, Bulgaria, and after calling at Burgas, was steaming through the Black Sea to Constantinople, when three explosions took place on board. The deck of the vessel took fire, and she had to be run ashore at Misivria Bay, 18 miles north of Burgas, where she is still burning.

The steamer was of 1,076 tons, 260 feet long, had 36 feet beam and a depth of 16.9 feet.

WHAT THOUSANDS SAY

The Great cry of Those who Have Been Relieved From the Miseries of Dyspepsia by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets

That's what Miss Gusty V. Campbell, of Little Shippegan, Gloucester Co., N.B., says, and it's what thousands of others are saying every day. They can give you their reasons for saying it too. Miss Campbell gives hers as follows:

"I suffered from Dyspepsia for two months and was always getting worse till reading of cures by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets led me to try them. One box cured me completely and I can honestly recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all who are suffering from Dyspepsia."

It is cures like this that have made Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a household word throughout Canada. They promptly relieve the aches and pains of Dyspepsia; they drive away the despondency that is one of the worst features of this too common complaint. But they do more. They cure Dyspepsia once and for all. You can't find a Dyspeptic who has ever used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

FLORISTS OF CANADA.

Sixth Annual Convention Now Being Held in Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—The Horticultural Association of Canada opened at St. George's Hall yesterday with a large attendance from all parts of the country. The president, Thomas Manton of Eglington, occupied the chair. The Mayor made an address of welcome.

President Manton delivered his annual address.

Reports from the secretary, A. H. Ewing of Woodstock, and the treasurer, Hermann Simmers of Toronto, showed the receipts for the year at $490 and there is a balance of $90 on hand.

The delegates were entertained at luncheon by the Steel, Briggs Co., at their grounds on East Queen street, and at the afternoon session technical papers were read and demonstrations were given.

Ottawa was selected as the place of meeting next year at the evening session. Papers were also read at this session.

The Solar Plexus.

Is the largest nerve centre in the sympathetic nervous system, is situated just back of the stomach, and supplies nervous energy, the vital force of the human body, to the stomach, heart, kidneys, liver, etc. By creating nerve force Dr. Chase's Nerve Food directly aids the solar plexus in supplying the power which runs the machinery of digestion and cures nervous dyspepsia, headache, dizzy spells and bodily weakness.

MANITOBA PROSPECTS PLEASANT.

Threshing Has Already Begun, and C.P.R Report Is Very Encouraging.

Winnipeg, Sept. 2.—The farming interests of the West along the C. P.R. and branch lines are now actively engaged in the harvesting of the crop, which is assuredly one which augurs well for the prosperity of the country. The latest bulletin report issued by the C.P.R yesterday shows that the cutting operations are general, while threshing has been commenced in a few sections. In a number of districts cutting is finished, and the threshing is in full swing. An encouraging feature of the report is the almost general statement that the weather during this week has been very favorable, which has greatly accelerated the efforts to get the crop cut.

GOIN' BAREFOOT.

It's more fun goin' barefoot than anything I know,
There ain't a single 'nother thing that helps yer techin's so.
Some days I stay in Muvver's room a gettin' in her way;
An', when I've bothered her so much she says, "Oh, run an' play!"
I say, "Kin I go barefoot?" En she says, "If y' choose"—
Now I always wanter holler when I'm pullin' off my shoes!
If y' often go round barefoot there's lots o' things to know—
Of how t' curl yer feet on stones so they won't hurt y' so—
An' when th' grass is stickley an' pricks y' at a touch,
Jes plunk yer feet down solid an' it don't hurt half so much,
I lose my hat an' every day. I wish I did my shoes—
Er else I wish I was so po r I hadn't none to lose!

Be Quick.

Not a minute should be lost after a child shows symptoms of cholera infantum. The first unusual looseness of the bowels should be sufficient warning. If immediate and proper treatment is given, serious consequences will be averted. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is the sole reliance of thousands of mothers and by its aid they have often saved their children's lives. Every household should have a bottle at hand. Get it to-day. It may save a life. For sale by all druggists.

Hays and the G. T. R.

When "Hays of Wabash" became general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway he found himself confronted with a difficult problem in the shape of younger sons, nephews, cousins, etc., of certain English stockholders, who held nice fat positions on the system. Mr. Hays began to weed them out. There was much perturbation and much curiosity. A good many people expected to see Hays himself weeded out before long. Nothing happened. A friend of Mr. Hays met him one night and began to talk about the matter.

"How do you like it, Hays?" he asked. "Do you fire them first and then investigate their family, or do you investigate first?"

Hays smiled. "Just fire," he said.

And perhaps that's the reason Grand Trunk is paying more dividends than ever in its history.

Many Helpless With Paralysis.

Who Could now be Well had They but Known of

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

We do not claim that every one who is paralyzed can be cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for many are beyond the reach of any medical treatment and must finish their days in helplessness and suffering.

It is rather to those who are only partially paralyzed and to those who are slowly but surely developing the symptoms which indicate the approach of such ailments that we would suggest the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great food cure for diseases of the nerves.

When you find yourself lying awake nights, suffer from indigestion and headache, feel drowsy after meals and losing energy, ambition and courage, it is time to pay attention to the nerves. You may find yourself irritable at times, worried over little things, unable to concentrate the mind, forgetful and absent-minded, disheartened and discouraged. Better give some attention to the nerves.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures and prevents paralysis and locomotor ataxia. It does not ease by inducing unconsciousness and unnatural sleep. It does not deaden the nerves as do opiates and narcotics. But, on the other hand, by assisting nature and supplying the elements from which are formed new blood and nerve force, effects thorough and lasting cure and is bound to benefit all who use it.

Seldom, if ever, has any medicine secured such hearty endorsement of physicians and people alike. The cures which it has brought about have often been most extraordinary, and anyone who regularly and persistently uses this great food cure is sure to find it of inestimable value as a nerve restorative and blood builder.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove that new, firm flesh and muscular tissue are being added to the body. 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the family receipt book author, are on every box. 1

ANIMAL FURNITURE.

Big Game Hunters Always Like to Have Evidences of Their Gun's Prowess About Them at Home.

Many houses have their walls adorned with the hunting trophies of their occupiers. But it is much more interesting, and very much more uncommon, to find these trophies made into articles of furniture and serving a double purpose of use and ornament.

The hunter who has been gored by a rhinoceros and carries the marks of his wounds about with him, must find a strange fascination in using the very horn with which his injuries were inflicted to hang his hat on. One of the best-known big-game hunters possesses a superb tiger, set up as a dumb-waiter. This same tiger once almost tore to pieces the man he now stiffly supplies with whiskies and soda.

His Majesty the King possesses a somewhat similar trophy in the shape of a ferocious looking bear, which he himself shot many years ago in Russia. It now stands in the smoking room at Buckingham Palace, gravely holding a tray in its front paws.

In the hall of Baroness Eckhardstein's beautiful mansion in Grosvenor square there is to be seen an even larger bear, one of the largest, in fact, that has ever been shot, that fills the useful office of light-holder. In its left paw is clasped an electric torch, which can be switched on from behind, when it floods the hall with a soft red light. This specimen was killed in Alaska.

New Idea in Seats.

Only one trophy exists which combines the offices of the last two, and, with jaws agape, brandishes an electric lamp in its right paw, while he stretches the other invitingly towards his master's guests, and offers them, upon a silver tray, a selection of choice cigars. This is the property of Mr. Ratcliffe Pope, and occupies a position of honor in his house at Fakenham.

Leaving the subject of bears, we find equally useful and interesting trophies made from other animals. Picture a baby-elephant squatting upon its haunches, with its trunk curled inwards to its chest, and with a comfortable seat placed between its front legs! This unusual piece of furniture was modelled, many years ago, by a well-known firm of naturalists in London from a young Ceylon elephant, and for some time occupied a prominent position in the hall of a large establishment, where it served as a hall porter's chair. It has recently, however, come under the hammer, and is to be seen in one of the country residences of Mr. Vanderbilt.

Probably the most original chair in the world is to be found in the residence of Mr. J. Gardiner Muir, the well-known hunter and traveler, at Market Harborough. It is made from a baby giraffe, which, with its mother, was shot near the Kidboko River, British East Africa. The seat of the chair is arranged between the fore-legs and the head looks down from on high with a glassy stare upon whoever happens to occupy this exceedingly unusual but very comfortable nook.

Artistic Conceptions.

Many trophies exist which have been made from the skins of various pot birds and monkeys. In the latter case, the most usual arrangement is for the monkey to hold in its hand a lamp or fruit dish. Birds are somewhat difficult specimens to mount attractively.

Her Majesty the Queen has a fruit and flower stand, the centre of which is a moveable screen, composed of a favorite parrot. This was in constant use at Sandringham while her Majesty was Princess of Wales, but has since been moved to Buckingham Palace.

Far and away the most artistic of such trophies, however, is a magnificent coal-black swan, which was set up a few years ago for a wealthy Australian. It rests upon a large mirror, so as to give the effect of floating upon water, and in its upturned beak holds a lamp of exquisite workmanship. It makes a unique and beautiful table-centre.

Another Whistler Story.

The Whistler story is a curiously characteristic thing that excites dissension and compels imitation (there are many of them about just now), much as his painting does. The best, I think, are the most perverse, like the famous Ronalke and Curtis affair. Here is one as characteristic, but not so well known. The American Commissioner of Fine Art at a Paris Exposition, wishing to be brisk and businesslike, wrote before he arrived at Paris to several artists, stating that he would be there on a certain day and at a certain hotel, and naming the hour at which he hoped each man would call on him. Whistler was one of the artists, and he was asked to call at 4.30 precisely. This is Whistler's answer: "Dear Sir,—I have received your letter announcing that you will be in Paris on the —th. I congratulate you. I have never been able, and never shall be able, to be anywhere at 4.30 precisely.' Yours most faithfully, J. McN. Whistler."—Manchester Guardian.

Strange Test of Innocence.

"A strange way of testing the innocence of an accused person is employed in India," said a traveler who lately returned from Madras. "They haul the man up and give him a mouthful of dry rice to chew. Dry rice takes a deal of chewing to get it masticated into a glutinous mass, like gum, and that is the condition that the accused is required to get it into within ten minutes. If you are calm and not afraid, you succeed, but if you are nervous and scared you fail. For it seems that fear has a strong effect upon the salivary glands. It prevents them from secreting saliva. The mouth of a badly-frightened person is always dry as a bone. It requires a tremendous flow of saliva to chew dry rice, and therefore the scared prisoner inevitably fails in this test."

WEAKNESS OF SCHOOLS.

Lack of Discipline Has Baleful Effects on Citizenship.

A boy of fifteen is detected in a first-rate burglary. At the same time we hear from the United States that a criminal boy of fourteen has escaped from arrest and is the terror of his district. We have frequent reports of juvenile crime, sometimes in the form of attempts to derail trains, while it is felt that the manner of boys generally leave much to be desired. Dime novels may be partly to blame. But the main cause is the want of discipline, and generally of the normal element in education. The State having taken over the duty of education from the family, the family naturally casts everything on the public school, and if it interferes at all, is apt to paralyze discipline rather than to support it. Teacherships are falling more and more into the hands of women, who cannot be expected to control boys beyond a certain age. Under elective Government, with manhood suffrage, voters must be taught enough to enable them to understand the issues on which they have to vote. This our public school does, or aims at doing. We must recognize the political necessity and take the evil with the good. But the deadness of family interest and the lack of discipline are drawbacks, the existence of which cannot be denied.—Goldwin Smith, in The Sun.

Salaries of British Colonial Governors.

The question of the proper salary for the Governor-General of Australia has, we fancy been settled by a speech from Lord Tennyson, who is now acting in that capacity. He has declared that £10,000 a year is ample to maintain the fitting dignity of the great post, though not, of course, sufficient to keep up a court of Oriental magnificence. The Australians, like the Canadians and the South Africans, wish the head of their world to be a great gentleman not intent on petty economies; but they have little reverence for a splendor which any millionaire can, if he pleases, outdo. In South Africa £10,000 a year is barely sufficient owing to the preposterous price of everything, but that will pass away. The only expense in the free colonies which should not be thrown on the Governors or Viceroys is the keeping up of their residence, which should be stately, and remain the property of the colonies.—London Spectator.

Their Favorite Quotations.

Some years ago the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Church issued a booklet of "Favorite Quotations of Citizens of St. Thomas." In the light of subsequent events two at least are of special interest. The favorite quotation of George Rowley, the self-confessed defaulting ex-manager of the Elgin Loan Co., was as follows: "We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts not breaths; in feelings, not figures on a dial. He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best."

The favorite quotations of A. E. Wallace, president and manager of the defunct Atlas Loan Company, were Macaulay's words: "Succeeding generations change the fashion of their morals with their hats and their coaches; take some other kind of wickedness under their patronage, and wonder at the depravity of their ancestors."—St Thomas Journal.

Causes of Forest Destruction.

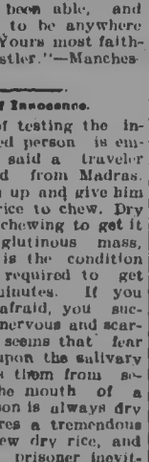
Cedar and pine trees are rapidly being consumed for the purpose of supplying trolley and telegraph poles, and at the present rate of consumption it will not be a great while before the visible supply will be exhausted. The foresters look to catalpa to fill the place of pine and cedar in this particular. The catalpa flourishes in a great many places in America, and has the advantage of growing very straight, and attains the needed size in from sixteen to eighteen years. The time required for cedar and pine is more than double this.

A statistician studying the question of the use of wood pulp in the manufacture of paper has lately estimated the amount of material used in the production of nine popular novels. Of these books 1,600,000 copies were sold. In the making of them 2,000,000 pounds of paper were employed, and as one spruce tree yields about 500 pounds of paper these nine novels are stated to have caused the destruction of 4,000 trees

THE FIRSTBORN.

Why is it that the firstborn child is so often the healthiest of a family of children? The reason seems to suggest itself. As child follows child the mother has less and less vitality; often not enough for herself and none, therefore, for her child.

Expectant mothers who use Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription find that it keeps them in vigorous health. They eat well, sleep well and are not nervous. When baby comes its advent is practically painless, and the mother is made happy by the birth of a healthy child. If you would be a healthy mother of healthy children use "Favorite Prescription."



"I will be very glad to say a few words for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. P. R. Douglas, of Mansonville, Brome Co., Quebec. "During the first four months, when I looked forward to becoming a mother, I suffered very much from nausea and vomiting, and I felt so terribly sick I could scarcely eat or drink anything. I hated all kinds of food. At this time I wrote to Dr. Pierce, and he told me to get his 'Favorite Prescription' and a bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I got a bottle of each, and when I had taken them a few days I felt much better, and when I had taken hardly three parts of each bottle I felt well and could eat as well as any one, and could do my work without any trouble (I could not do anything before). I feel very thankful to Dr. Pierce for his medicine, and I tell all who tell me they are sick to get these medicines, or write to Dr. Pierce."

Those who suffer from chronic diseases are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CURIOUS MARKS.

Speculation as to Strange Rock Formations at Leamy's Lake.

On the grounds of the International Cement Company, near Leamy's Lake, is to be seen something odd and inexplicable to the ordinary passer-by, but which a geologist could no doubt explain as a paragraph of our planet's earlier history, written in stone.

From Brewery creek the surface on the mainland side rises in an easy slope towards Wrightville and the old golf grounds. Near the creek the limestone crops out freely. A few feet higher up it disappears. Towards the centre of the grounds the soil is some six feet deep. The excavations now being made show that the bed of limestone runs a considerable distance, that it rises from the water level at the same gentle slope as the soil on top. But while the surface has apparently never been disturbed for centuries, as witness the even lay of the soil, the underlying rock is seamed and scored everywhere by the force of rushing water. The rock surface looks much as would the channels around the Chaudiere where the current is most furious; were it possible to drain off the water and see the rock bottom. Enormous "pot holes" are seen everywhere, the seams in the rock bed, everywhere parallel and running in a general northern direction, being in most places about a foot wide and the same depth. The stone being extremely hard, one would say from the depth of these seams that this spot had been for ages the bed of a furious torrent of great width, though to-day its bottom lies high above the water level, and from the depth of soil covering it it must have been in its present state a very long time.

Where did this immense body of water come from? What became of it? Some think that at some far-off time the Great Lakes found their outlet through the Ottawa, then much wider and deeper than now; perhaps stretching from the Chelsea hills to the Ottawa cliffs. As the lake waters gradually wore a passage through the gorge of Niagara the volume of water coming down the Ottawa may have gradually lessened.

Another theory is that, as the earth's surface is known to be continuously and regularly rising in one place and falling in another, like a giant breathing, this slow change of altitude may have affected the flow of the Ottawa, the surface of the entire valley slowly rising while the St. Lawrence region slowly subsided.

The Reason Why.

Heals the throat, cures the cough, makes breathing easy,—that's why Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is prescribed by physicians for bronchitis, acute or chronic. It is pleasant to take, agrees with the stomach, and is better than emulsions made from fish oils or other fats. 10a

Washing the Dishes.

Our Polly goes a-fishing, be the weather what it may,
Not less than twice and often thrice on every holiday;
She always starts right after meals, and, singing merrily,
She fishes and she fishes in her little soapy sea.

She'll catch the best pink china cups and play that they are trout,
And when she drops her line again she'll draw spoon minnows out;
The plates, of course, are flounders (so round and flat, you know);

And—"There she blows!"—the frying pan, how very like a whale!
There's nothing left; pour out the tea and put the fish away
All high and dry and waiting to be caught another day.

Pandora Range

SAVES FUEL AND HELPS TO PAY FOR ITSELF.

It is not the price you pay for a range which makes it cheap or expensive, but the fuel it consumes after you get it.

If you buy a range which costs $5 to $7 less than a "Pandora" and it burns a ton, or only half a ton of coal more in a year, what do your gain? Nothing, but you actually lose money, besides putting up with all the inconveniences, troubles and extra work which are a certainty with a poor range.

The "Pandora" is equipped with many fuel-saving features which are not found on any other range. Hot-air flues are constructed so that all the heat from the fire-box travels directly under every pot-hole and around the oven twice—every atom of heat is used, and only the smoke goes up the chimney.

New York, Sept. 3.—The market promises to open strong and higher in response to great activity and improvement in the London market, and we look for continuation of the upward movement. St. Paul with an extension of buying to other stocks. Sentiment has turned bullish on the steels, and there is bull point out on S. P. Shaw's speech last night will have a favourable influence and his suggestion to allow the banks to issue a volume of circulation notes equal to 50 per cent. of their bond circulation at a tax of six per cent. will be favourable. With crop uncertainty and stock exchange closed Saturday and Monday it will be well to take profits on any advance to-day and even take a little loss over the holiday. Early London markets higher. — Town Topics.

New York, Sept. 3.—We favour purchases of good railroad stocks on any depression this morning, but it will only be for a moderate turn and with a view of re-selling on any advance of a point or so, as that is about all improvement that can be expected under the prevailing conditions and dullness of speculation. As the stock exchange will be closed from Friday night until the following Tuesday morning there is little probability of very much change occurring in the meantime. Statement will be published as usual on Saturday. It will probably prove an unimportant factor as did last week as there is not likely to be very much change in the principal items. Liverpool, opening:—Wheat unchanged; corn quiet, unchanged.—M. & M.

By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

THE DISCOVERER OF CORDOVA MINES.

To Mr. H. T. Strickland Belongs, it is Said, the Credit of Their Discovery.

The attention of the Examiner has been called to an error in the article that recently appeared in its columns in reference to the Star of the East Gold Mine. The statement was made that Mr. E. J. Cowain, superintendent of the Star of the East mine, was the discover of the Cordova Mines. Mr. Cowain's statement to the writer that he was in Marmora when the discovery of the Cordova mines was made, was misunderstood, and he was incorrectly given credit for a discovery which, it is said, is properly to be attributed to Mr. H. T. Strickland, of Ashburnham. Mr. Cowain called at the Examiner office to-day to ask that the correction be made, as he has no desire to claim any credit for a discovery that does not belong to him, and, in common with the Examiner, he regrets that his statement in relation to the Cordova mine was misunderstood.

Matrimonial Mix-Up.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—Jane McConnell, 24, appeared in the Police Court yesterday on a bigamy charge. It is said she has been married three times in two years. Married in 1899, she deserted her first choice in October, 1901, but in the following month repented and married Wesley H. White, who is now complainant against her, because, as she says, he wants to marry another girl.

TURKISH BRUTALITY

London Daily Mail's Correspondent Gives Instances.

THREATENED WITH DEATH.

Villagers Who Had Surrendered on a Guarantee of Immunity Were Butchered While on Their Way Under Guard—Christians in Abject Fear at Florina—Even the Consuls Are Anxious.

London, Sept. 1.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in a despatch from Monastir, dated Aug. 31, tells of an ineffectual attempt he made to penetrate the Albanian cordon and reach Armenski.

He was threatened with death and compelled to return under a guard. He gives numerous instances of Turkish brutality and treachery. The villagers of Armenski were massacred before a single insurgent visited the place. The inhabitants of the village of Nevolkas, were butchered while on their way to Florina under guard, having surrendered on a guarantee of immunity.

At Florina, continues the correspondent, the Christians are in a state of abject fear, and are handicapped by a bigoted Greek metropolitan who orders them to stay in the village and not to flee, with the result that the savage soldiery murder them by scores. The European residents of Monastir, including the consuls, are in a state of great anxiety. Many, including the Italian consul, have recently been insulted by soldiers.

Operations commenced last Thursday on an organized scale against the insurgents, and bodies of troops are operating in all directions but no details have yet arrived.

Funds Through Fear.

Bucharest, Roumania, Sept. 4.—M. Svetkoff, the agent here of the Macedonian Committee, has been arrested for extorting by menaces of death subscriptions to the funds of the revolutionists. The police discovered receipts signed by Boris Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader, for sums aggregating $5,000.

Protect Troop Trains.

Sofia, Sept. 4.—The Sultan has ordered the Vali of Salonica to see that all the troop trains are preceded by pilot engines.

King Edward Interested.

Vienna, Sept. 4.—Although during his visit here King Edward has not sought a private conference with Premier Count-Goluchowski, it is believed that the Balkan troubles have been the subject of discussion between the King and the Austrian Emperor.

Sultan's Fair Words.

Constantinople, Sept. 4.—On the anniversary of his accession Tuesday, the Sultan received in audience at the palace the heads of the religious communities. His Majesty, contrary to precedent, spoke at some length, as follows: "All my desire is for the welfare of the population, without distinction of race or religion. As to the detestable and regrettable deeds to which the patriarch alluded, I am convinced that the movement does not proceed spontaneously from the population, but is instigated from abroad. I hope the measures taken will insure tranquility. I call God to witness the sincerity of my declaration, and that all my aspirations and work are for the welfare and prosperity of all my subjects."

CRITICISM OF GOLDWIN SMITH

Freeman's Journal Says He Is Entitled to the Respect of Irishmen—Phillips Thompson on Immigration.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 4.—Thursday's Freeman's Journal, referring to Dr. Goldwin Smith's article in The Monthly Review, says: "Goldwin Smith is entitled to the respect of Irishmen, owing to the attitude he took over the Boer war. There was no other man in the Empire of such standing who so strenuously opposed that war, or who so persistently pointed out its criminal character, and it is curious that he should express opinions antagonistic to home rule."

Phillips Thompson, Toronto, writing to The Chronicle, says that the present phenomenal activity in immigration is mainly prompted by the desire of Canadian capitalists to crush out trade unionism, regardless of the hardships and suffering that will be the certain results.

London Merchants are advocating the appointment of trade consuls in the colonies. The attention of representative colonies is being drawn to the subject.

Space has been secured for Canadian exhibits at the Fair to be held in the east end of Glasgow.

Lloyd's Times correspondent says that an inquiry has been ordered into the loss of the C. P. R. steamer Monterey, and that it is particularly desirable to ascertain how the vessel came to be so far out of her course.

Long Arm of the Law.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 4.—B. C. Miller, alias Alfred E. Lyford, was arrested here last night on a telegram from Rock Island, Ill., police, identifying him as ex-deputy county treasurer of Rock Island County, who absconded July 5, 1902, with $12,500 county funds. Lyford made a complete confession, and will waive extradition.

ALASKA COMMISSION

Arrangements Made for Dealing With Vexed Question.

A DANGER IN COMPROMISE.

Canada's Attitude of Watchfulness and Even Suspicion Justified—The Argument to Be Commenced by the British on Sept. 15 and Is Expected to Close About October 9—The Sittings.

London, Sept. 4.—The first sitting of the Alaskan Boundary Commission was held yesterday morning in the conference room of the Foreign Office. At a private conference prior to the formal session the Commissioners selected Reginald T. Tower, of the British diplomatic service, formerly attached to the legation at Washington, to be secretary of the commission. J. R. Carter, second secretary of the U. S. Embassy, and Joseph Pope, deputy secretary of State, Ottawa, were appointed assistant secretaries.

Lord Chief Justice Alverstone was chosen chairman, and it was announced that oral arguments would commence Sept. 15. Lord Alverstone expressed the hope that they would be finished by Oct. 9.

Canadian Counsel First.

The Canadian counsel, who were the first to arrive, were followed by John W. Foster, former Secretary of State, and his assistants, accompanied by Ambassador Choate. The Commissioners came in a few minutes later and immediately began a private conference, which resulted in the selection of the officers, and at which they exchanged credentials and took the oath required by the treaty.

A few minutes after 11 o'clock the Commissioners took their seats. Senator Turner, on the extreme right, then Professor Sir Louis Jette, Elihu Root, Lord Alverstone, Senator Lodge, A. B. Aylesworth, Mr. Foster and Hon. Clifford Sifton. The agents of the respective Governments sat at desks on the extreme right and left of the Commission, while counsel and the stenographers occupied desks facing the Commissioners.

The Commission decided to sit five days per week, commencing Sept 15, and excluding Saturdays, and granted permission to admit a limited representation of the press.

Arrangements of Argument.

It has been arranged that three of counsel for each Government shall present argument, the British opening and being followed alternately by Americans and British, the former securing the advantage of delivering the closing argument.

The senior counsel for Great Britain are: Sir Robert Finlay, K. C.; Sir Edward Carson, K. C.; Christopher Robinson, K.C.; junior counsel, F. C. Wade, K.C.; Lyman Duff, K. C.; A. Geoffrion, K.C., and Mr. Rowlatt, K.C. The British Attorney-General will open, the American counsel will follow, and then Mr. Christopher Robinson, K.C.

The Commission removed the injunction of secrecy on all documents hitherto exchanged, and the sitting was adjourned.

Danger in Compromise.

Referring to the conference The Globe says: "Compromise is the essence of diplomacy, but there is only a too common tendency to exercise it to the detriment of some third party and Canada is justified in adopting the attitude of watchfulness and even suspicion. Canada is prepared to accept any decision the evidence warrants, but the Canadian press warn us that an unfair triumph of the United States might prove a staggering blow to British connection. The existence of this sentiment, together with a feeling, not altogether justified, that the Mother Country was slow to act in the past, renders it important that the matter be settled once for all on the broad principles of law."

The Manchester Courier fears that opinions may be divided and, as no umpire was appointed, negotiations will have to be begun again.

DIVIDING MISER'S MONEY.

Eli Hyman's Wealth Goes to Two Relatives.

Order Will be Asked for to Wind up the Estate—Hyman was an Early Member of Holy Blossom Synagogue Congregation.

On Tuesday the real heirs of Eli Hyman, who died in the General Hospital, Toronto, apparently a miserable pauper, but really possessed of a fortune of $63,000, will probably be confirmed in their inheritance. The fight for the property has extended over many months, but considering Hyman's numerous changes of name during his business career, and his peculiar methods of life, the estate is said to have been wound up wonderfully cheaply and expeditiously.

The fact has been established that Mrs. Wertheimer of San Francisco is a daughter of the deceased, and she will receive two thirds of the estate. Mrs. Hyman, the Churchville widow, will receive one third. The minute book of the first Jewish congregation formed in Toronto, that of the Synagogue of the Holy Blossom, was discovered to contain valuable corroborative evidence concerning the existence and death of the first Mrs. Hyman, and who was known as her husband then called himself, under the name of Davis. In the records of the business meetings of the synagogue, dated 1870, it is shown that a member of the congregation was despatched to Markham to nurse Mrs. Davis, who was ill, and that later the woman died. Soon afterwards Davis under the name of Hyman, married another woman, who survived him. During the past ten years of his life Hyman lost $50,000 through shrinkage in the securities carried by him. The gradual decrease in his fortune, which was at one time considerably over $100,000, produced a change in the life of the old man, and, while close fisted before, he became so penurious as to deny himself the necessaries of life. The San Francisco woman, who claimed to be a widow of Hyman, has not produced any evidence of her alleged relationship with the man.

NOT A GOVERNMENT ROAD.

Mr. Borden has given notice of ten resolutions, which must be taken to embody his conception of a transcontinental scheme of transportation, in contrast with the scheme embodied in the agreement between the Government and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company. It is not necessary to draw out that contrast here in minute detail for the purpose of showing how much more statesmanlike the Government's undertaking is, and a few points will serve as a fair indication.

The most noticeable characteristic of the Opposition plan is the inclusion of a number of features that are nor peculiar to it, and that are acceptable to every member of Parliament on both sides. For example, one resolution asserts that the present Government railways should "continue to be owned and operated by the Government.' No one has, since the Liberals came into office, suggested any other method of dealing with them. Another asserts that the Government system of railways should be "developed and improved in the Province of Quebec.' This is exactly what the Laurier Government has been trying to accomplish and what Mr. Borden strove personally to prevent. When he asks to have the Government railway extended westward indefinitely from Montreal he recalls the fact that he strove a few years ago to prevent the Intercolonial from being brought westward as far as Montreal. When he asks to have Government railways "freed from party political control, influence, and interference," all will agree that this is a good thing and wonder why it took the Conservatives so long to find it out.

Mr. Borden pretends to be in favour of Government ownership of railways, but he has not taken advantage of this opportunity to affirm that as a principle of legislation. He had an ideal chance to formulate a scheme of Government ownership and control as an offset to the Government's very considerable extension of both, but he chose to present instead a heterogeneous mixture of sections, some owned and controlled by the Government, and others owned and controlled by corporations. His scheme is not more a Government road than Sir Wilfrid Laurier's is, and it lacks the unity of management under Parliamentary control, which is the most striking peculiarity of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

Mr. Borden, in his speech, dwelt much on the expediency, if not the necessity, of using railways for colonization purposes, and there he spoke as a statesman. In his resolutions he made only the barest reference to the opening up of "new territories," and his scheme contains no provisions for effecting or even facilitating this process. From Nepigon to Abittibi, within Northern Ontario, the Grand Trunk Pacific will pass through a region fit for settlement. Through the same distance Mr Borden would substitute the acquisition of the existing Canadian Pacific, along which there is very little land fit for settlement, and that little is now taken up. A somewhat similar remark applies to the Grand Trunk Pacific from Abittibi eastward through Quebec, for which Mr. Borden would substitute a Government-owned railway from Montreal to the Georgian Bay. Against such a project put forward as the alternative for a really great transcontinental colonization road, the people of Canada will revolt. The net effect of these Opposition resolutions will be to leave the Government majority unshaken in this parliament, and to add materially to its numerical strength in the next. — Globe.

"FOR THE GENERAL ADVANTAGE OF CANADA."

Hon. Wm. Paterson Shows That This is the Nature of the Granb Trunk Pacific Railway.

Opposition Inconsistencies Graphically Grouped.

The following are the concluding portions of the speech of Hon. Wm. Paterson, one of the concluding speeches in the G.T.P. Bill debate. It reveals some things of importance which will be seen on reading:—

Examining the Government's project (the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway) in greater detail, Mr. Paterson pointed out that it would benefit every part of Canada as a grand national transcontinental railway should. It meant enlarged markets and development to the Maritime Provinces. It meant the opening up of 800 miles of territory in our own Province, without the expense of a penny to the Provincial treasury. "What do we hear men say, and even men coming from the Province of Ontario?" asked Mr. Paterson, "No good territory up there; jack pine and hemlock, nothing; a sub-artic region, cold, muskegs," that is the description they give of the territory which, as I firmly believe, is a valuable heritage to this Proivnce and to this Dominion. Has it come to this, that we have to-day a party in this country that in the past have been known by the name of the Liberal-Conservative party, but must hereafter be known as the Little Canada party?' (Loud cheers.)

A voice—Muskeg party.

"We are asking for no expenditure of money, we are asking nothing from the treasury in taking possession of that land. It is ours, and we are carrying out this grand national idea; we are opening up and developing it, and we are giving the breadth and strength to this Dominion that it lacks at the present time. Let us have no more whimpering and whining. Let us believe in a greater Canada. That is what we believe in." (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

Mr. Paterson taunted the Opposition with not having embodied their plan in a resolution. When Mr. Borden would suggest a resolution, Mr. Barker would say: "Oh, no, you must not do that, for don't you remember I said it was impossible for one road to give running rights to another, and how in your scheme you propose to give running rights to four roads." And Hon. Mr. Haggart would say: "You may talk all you like, but you must not present a resolution, because I pronounced against Government ownership of railways altogether, and that is part of your scheme." Then Mr. Monk would say: "Oh, no, don't put it in a resolution. You must remember that I said that colonization roads were to run north and south, and here you are projecting one to run from Winnipeg to Moncton." Mr. Sproule would say: 'No, No, did not I tell the farmers that the scheme of the Government would mortgage their lands and put the shackles on their legs with its enormous expenditure, and here you are proposing to go into twice as great an expenditure. How could I bear to have the farmers look at the shackles and then turn their reproachful gaze on me? For heaven's sake, don't put it in a resolution." (Loud cheers.) All I can say, concluded Mr. Patterson, is that let the election come when it may, early or late — there is no use in boasting, and elections are proverbially uncertain — we on this side are not afraid of the result. I believe that it will find that the sense of the country is with us. Under what banner will hon. gentlemen opposite assemble in the contest that is coming? It will be under the banner inscribed "Little Canada," and they will declare to the people that Canada is only held together by a fringe overhanging Lake Superior, that this is the only place that you can build a road, that everything back of that is muskeg, jack pine, poplar and granite ridges. Are the young men of this country going to rally under a banner with that motto on it, or will they not want something to inspire them? Will they not rather rally with us beneath a banner of Greater Canada, boldly declaring that we believe in our country, which is second to none in the world, a country which we believe should have depth as well as width, and with a battle cry of "Onward, still Onward?" Do you think you can beat that party? Never! (Loud and prolonged cheering.)

The Fires of Eczema.

So keen is the suffering of many people who endure the stinging, itching sensation of Eczema that they speak of the skin as being on fire. By its soothing, healing, antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment positively cures Eczema, Salt Rheum, and every form of itching skin disease. It is of inestimable value in every home, and when once introduced becomes a household necessity. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard the world over, and has no worthy rival.

TEMAGAMI'S RESOURCES.

Mineral Wealth in the Forest—Mr. Latchfords' Return.

Hon F. R. Latchford, Minister of Public Works, has returned from a trip to the Temagami forest reserve, where he spent about a week. He reports that the work on the Temiscaming Railway in that vicinity is going ahead rapidly and satisfactorily Mr Latchford went over a great part of the line and along the right of way north of the northwest arm of Lake Temigami, which the railway crosses.

The country is found to contain promising indications of mineral wealth in addition to its forest resources Iron, copper, nickel and arsenic are the most prominent minerals as yet found, and much prospecting is going on, with a view to development work later.

A REDUCTION DUE.

Farmer's Sun's Plea for Reduced Passenger Rates.

The number of passengers carried by Canadian railways has increased from thirteen and a quarter millions in 1891 to twenty and a half millions in 1902.

The number of tons of freight carried has increased in the same time from twenty one and three-quarter millions to forty-two and a quarter millions.

The increase in revenue has kept pace with the expansion in business. The gross earnings of Canadian railways in 1891 were forty-eight million dollars. Last year the total was nearly eighty three and a half millions.

The net income was increased in the same time from thirteen to twenty six million dollars. The business of the roads has expanded much more rapidly than the mileage of the same has been extended. While the net income has doubled the mileage has increased from 14,000 to less than 19,000 miles. The fact can be expressed more clearly in another way. The earnings of the roads are $1,000 per mile greater to-day than eleven years ago.

The facts given present an unanswerable argument for reduced freight rates and for reduced passenger rates as well The time has arrived when in Old Canada, at least, a passenger rate of two cents per mile should be the rule and not the exception. It is absurd that the same passenger rates should be charged to-day as were charged fifty years ago, when traffic was nothing to what it is now, and when the cost of much of the material used in construction and maintenance was three, four and five times what it is to-day. — Farmer's Sun.

GREAT BRITAINS TRADE POLICY.

Remarks by "Bystander" in the Farmer's Sun.

It surely is surprising to hear it persistently said that free trade has been the ruin of England. Nothing can be more certain than that the wealth of England began to increase rapidly from the moment when free trade was embraced, and has continued with little interruption its rapid increase to the present time.

The abolition of the corn laws in 1846 and the repeal of the navigation laws in 1849 were followed by an extraordinary rise of commerce and industry. The exports doubled in five years; their total rose from fifty to a hundred millions sterling a year. Still greater was the increase of profits. In the ten years from 1842 to 1852 the taxable income of the country had increased only by six per cent, but in the eight years from 1853 to 1861, free trade having come fully into operation, the taxable income increased twenty per cent. This was cited by Mr. Gladstone as Chancellor of the Exchequer as a fact of the most striking kind, and mainly due to the wise legislation which had sought for every opportunity of abolishing restrictions on the application of capital, and the exercise of industry and skill. All this time the fiscal policy of the other nations was protectionist, as it is now.

Other nations, more especially the United States and Germany, have no doubt been gaining on England. This was inevitable. The pre-eminence in which England was left at the end of the war with Napoleon, when the manufactures and the shipping trade of all other nations had been ruined, she could not expect to maintain. The marvel is that she has held her own so well, especially against the United States. The two islands of Great Britain and Ireland are not one-half as large as Texas. England by herself is little larger than New York. The population of the United States exceeds that of the British Isles by thirty-five milions, and is constantly recruited by the most active and adventurous spirits of Europe. Nature has not aided Great Britain in the contest for many years past through the opening up of new resources, whereas the opening up of new resources in the United States has been immense. Yet England has kept fairly on a par with the United States and is now nearly on a par with them in the possession of wealth. The shipping trade, in which the Americans were once supreme, has been lost to the Americans and has passed in great measure into English hands.

SCARCITY OF TEACHERS.

Some Modifications Made in Departmental Regulations.

There is a scarcity of teachers in some parts of the province. The class room accommodation at the the Toronto Normal School is being considerably enlarged. Under the circumstances and in order to take advantage of this additional accommodation, the Educational Department will be prepared to admit to the Ottawa or London Normal Schools for the next session, a limited number of students, say 25, who have junior leaving standing, but who have not as yet taught one year as required by the regulations. Such students, if successful at the Normal School, will receive interim certificates, which will be made permanent upon satisfactory proof being furnished of one year's successful experience. Applications should be made without delay to the Deputy Minister of Education.

NEW RAILWAY FUND

To Be Created From the Sale of Dominion Lands.

SOME DETAILS OF NEW PLAN

Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Expenditures to Be Provided For in This Way —In the House of Commons—Mr. E. B. Osler's Statement — Unqualified Denial of Mr. Scott's Charge.

Toronto, Sept. 4.—Globe special.—Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Before the close of the present session legislation will be introduced whereby a fund will be created from the sale of Dominion lands for the purpose of satisfying all the obligations of the Government in connection with the Grand Trunk Pacific line. The intention is to permit settlers who take up homesteads to purchase an additional 160 acres adjoining their locations at $3 or $5 per acre, or whatever the price may be. The lands in the Northwest are rapidly rising in value, and the influx of settlers continues to increase. Before very long the fund will have reached a handsome figure. Thus, instead of the policy that prevailed under the old regime, of giving the lands to railway corporations without benefit to the country, the lands will hereafter be disposed of and the proceeds turned into the public treasury.

Mr. Osler's Statement.

The whole of the morning and the greater part of the afternoon's session of the House yesterday, was consumed in an animated and somewhat acrimonious debate, which arose upon a question of privilege raised by Mr. E. B. Osler. The member for West Toronto, took exception to statements made by Mr. Walter Scott, the representative from Western Assiniboia, who had on Monday evening made some caustic comments upon Mr. Osler's connection with the Qu'Appelle, Long Lake & Saskatchewan, and the Calgary & Edmonton Railway Companies. He asserted that the statement that he and his associates had a margin of some $15,000,000 upon the financial transactions in connection with these companies, was absolutely without foundation, and insisted that every pound raised by the sale of the bonds and the land grant went into the roads. Moreover, he took credit for himself and his firm for having made a most successful flotation of the companies. He had nothing to be ashamed of in regard to the affairs.

Mr. Scott, after a protracted debate, accepted Mr. Osler's denial, but pointed out that the obligations of the company were considerably in excess of the actual cost of constructing the roads, the excess being augmented by the land grants and cash subsidies given by the Government, until it reached the very large sum of $16,000,000. Somebody had derived benefit to that extent out of the construction of those railways, and therefore he insisted that his comparison of the results of railway legislation by the Conservative Government with the railway legislation submitted by the Liberal Government, and now under consideration, was justified. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, replying to a question by Mr. Monk, intimated that the Government knew its duty better than to abandon any part of the project for another transcontinental railway. When the House at last got down to a consideration of the Govarnment measure no progress was made, the members of the Opposition pursuing a course of obstruction which was apparent.

Remedial Bill Again.

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—In the Senate yesterday, Senator Bernier moved a lengthy motion on the Manitoba school question, asking for a return showing the agreement referred to by Premier Roblin of Manitoba, in his answer to Messrs Doegan and Russel, the Catholic deputation, recently, as having been come to by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Manitoba authorities; a copy of Sir Wilfrid's reply to the Catholic deputation and a statement of the action taken by the Minister of Justice. WHAT THOUSANDS SAY

The Great cry of Those who Have Been Relieved From the Miseries of Dyspepsia by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

That's what Miss Gusty V. Campbell, of Little Shippegan, Gloucester Co., N.B., says, and it's what thousands of others are saying every day. They can give you their reasons for saying it too. Miss Campbell gives hers as follows:

"I suffered from Dyspepsia for two months and was always getting worse till reading of cures by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets led me to try them. One box cured me completely and I can honestly recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all who are suffering from Dyspepsia."

It is cures like this that have made Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a household word throughout Canada. They promptly relieve the aches and pains of Dyspepsia; they drive away the despondency that is one of the worst features of this too common complaint. But they do more. They cure Dyspepsia once and for all. You can't find a Dyspeptic who has ever used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The Tate Optical Co's

We are doing one thing extremely well—making Good Glasses. In fact the best Glasses made in Canada today. Perhaps you may think this a strong statement, but it is written deliberately and meant to be convincing.

We examine your eyes carefully, and in our examining room we have all the latest instruments for that purpose. We are Eye Specialists, and our long years of experience make us experts. In the rear of the office is a work shop equipped with the most modern machinery for optical work—the only shop of the kind in Peterborough. Surface grinding of lenses is done on the premises. When you buy a pair of glasses from us we grind the lenses to suit the requirements of your eye. WE DO NOT pick them haphazard from a box of numbered lenses.

Our patients are in all parts of the Dominion. We will be pleased to answer mail orders. Particular care is given to the fit of frames and mounts.

One of our patients, Miss Beavis, writes: "Before coming to you for Glasses I had spent over $50.00 in my endeavour to get satisfactory Glasses, but, thanks to your skill as opticians, I am now enjoying perfect vision and comfort."

MARRIED IN MINNEAPOLIS.

Nuptials of Mr. R. F. McWilliams, Barrister, of Peterborough, and Miss Margaret M. Stovel, of Toronto.

The marriage of Miss Margaret May Stovel, daughter of the late Samuel Stovel, of Toronto, to Mr. Roland Fairbairn McWilliams, of Peterborough, was celebrated last night, in Minneapolis, Minn., at the residence of the bride's uncle, Mr. W. Callaway, general passenger agent of the Soo Railway. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Henry Holmes, pastor of the Lowry Hill Congregational church. The bride was gowned in an exquisite dress of white silk crepe de chine and Duchesse satin, with garniture of rare old Maltese lace, that had been worn by the bride's mother on her own wedding day. She wore a tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. As matron of honour, Mrs. William Rodger Callaway was gowned in an imported French lace robe and carried American Beauty roses. Mr. Callaway gave the bride away. The handsome Callaway residence at 2114 Fremont avenue south was beautifully decorated in Oriental fashion and filled with autumn flowers. The occasion also marked the 25th anniversary of the wedding of the bride's uncle and aunt, and a pretty feature of the reception was the singing by a quartette of the old songs of 25 years ago, and the playing of appropriate wedding music by a stringed orchestra. Among the out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Stovel of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Russel Stovel of Pittsburg, Pa., and Mr. Hidder Stovel of Montreal, Que. The bride and groom left at midnight for a trip to the Pacific Coast, and after November 1st will be at home in Peterborough. The bride is a native of Toronto and graduated with the highest honours from the University of Toronto. For the past four years she has been connected with the Detroit Journal, of Detroit, Mich., as an editorial writer, and editor of a paper for children, called the Junior Journal.

Y. M. C. A. ANNUAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

A Beautiful Booklet Tells of Work and Plans.

THE NEEDS OF YOUNG MEN.

Provision for Spiritual, Moral, Mental and Physical Culture—Syllabus of Work in all These Lines for Coming Winter.

Under the direction of Mr. Geo. H. Williamson, the energetic and zealous general secretary of the local Y.M.C.A., a very neat and comprehensive booklet has been issued, giving detailed information of the scope and work of the Association for the season.

As the fall and winter evenings are approaching every thoughtful young man in town, is asking himself how he can make the best use of them. The object of this booklet is to give an answer to questions that relate to the best interests of the entire man—social, mental, physical and spiritual. The splendid building and equipment of the Young Men's Christian Association provides for all of these, and its doors are open for every self-respecting young man. It offers the largest opportunity for a man to receive help and to give it. In its membership are men from every calling in life, as well as school boys with separate department.

THE SOCIAL SIDE

The Association strives to make the best provision for the social life of its members. Much of its success will depend upon the individual member—each should be a committee of one. The committee in charge of the social work have adopted plans that promise for a most enjoyable season. A re-arrangement of the rooms is being made to provide greater social space. A most attractive feature, so well conducted for a season, will occupy the room at the back of the parlour. Coffee and other refreshments will be served at cost. It will be open three nights a week.

THE STRANGERS' FELLOWSHIP CLUB.

More than a thousand young men have been welcomed to town by the Strangers' Fellowship Club. It aims to help new-comers in finding homelike surroundings. Visitors' tickets are given to all strangers for their first month in town. Strangers' teas the first Sunday evening of each month at five o'clock. Saturday nights will be special social nights. Many new features. Special receptions will be held from time to time. Opening reception the last week of September. Improved shuffle boards and other popular games, including chess and checkers, will be found in the game room. Clubs will be organized in the latter games.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

The splendid gymnasium record of the past six years, the men who have enjoyed its privileges, gives the best answer to the question of exercise, recreation and health. The good work in making strong men, through systematic and enjoyable exercise, will be continued under the supervision of the committee. There are few such gymnasiums in Canada and none better in accommodation and equipment of up-to-date apparatus. Mr. S. S. Aplin, of the Toronto Y.M.C.A. training school, succeeds Mr. Ayers as physical director and comes to the Association very highly recommended. A course of lectures will be given on first aid to the injured by a prominent physician. An examination will be held and certificates given.

EDUCATIONAL AID.

This is the one matter which concerns every man, or should. It has a special appeal to the one who has had to leave school too soon in life. The educational work of the association aims to help men, through the reading room, lectures, practical talks and evening classes in industrial and commercial subjects. The reading room is supplied not only with the news of the day, but the best magazines and technical papers of special interest to shop men. An effort will be made to organize one or more clubs for the study of special subjects. Among the younger men books and reading will be a feature. A series of practical talks on timely topics for young men will be given by prominent men. We do not attempt in our evening school to teach the student all about the subject in the time. It is impossible. We give him the help he most needs in starting. The men who teach are the best, and it is solely to help men. The courses are practical because arranged by men who know what is needed. A fee of $1 will be charged for each course. The classes are open to both limited and full members on payment of the class fee.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

A series of four high class entertainments will be given under the management of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Association. They have undertaken this task, depending on the co-operation of the members in subscribing for tickets for the course, and in getting others to do likewise. They are asking the young men to assume the responsibility of placing at least 200 one dollar tickets for the whole course. In view of the constant efforts of the ladies in furnishing the building, their request should be gladly complied with. Subscribe for the course now. The fact that some of the best and most varied talent in America has been secured, should make the series most successful. The following is a list of the attractions which will appear in Bradburn's opera house. The companies are touring Canada under Y.M.C.A. auspices. Whitney Bros., Quartette and Reader, Nov. 3; Boston Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, Jan. 12; Lovitt's Boston Stars, Jan 26; Melvin Robinson, Reader, April 5. Tickets for the course, $1.50 and $1.

RELIGION.

The work of the Association gives a complete answer to the young men, on the question of religion. The religious is the heart which sustains life in every other part. The aim has been the same for the fifty years of the Association's history. "It seeks to unite those young men who are Christ's disciples in an effort for the extension of His kingdom among young men.' Its plans seek the highest good for men, that they may bring others to the enjoyment of it. The meetings and classes promote growth and activity in Christian life and service. The successful series of big men's meetings last season has led to enlarged plans for this season. Strong speakers with a special message to men will be secured. Attractive musical features will be presented. Special meetings of workers will be held for prayer and conference on the work. The Peterborough Association members last spring subscribed $250.00 toward the support of Mr. Farquhar, Ontario's representative in India. This amount should be doubled at least, as every member should contribute. If all would assist it would assist it would mean much for the foreign work as well as for our own at home. A special committee has charge of this. The week of prayer for young men in all lands will be observed as usual the second week of November.

BIBLE STUDY.

These are days in which men need to study the Bible, to lay the foundation of the strongest kind of a life, and to meet the attacks of its critics and false teachers. Every man should know for himself, and can. The best Bible student is always ready to learn more. Classes have been arranged to meet the needs and tastes of different groups in the membership. There is a place for every member who chooses to join. The classes are also open to non-members. The men who lead the classes will do it in a way that men like. Christians and non-Christians, men with education and Bible knowledge, and those with little, the studies will interest all. The fifth annual Bible study rally will be held on Sunday, September 20th. A prominent Bible teacher will address the rally, as well as a parlour conference on Saturday evening, September 19th. The plan of systematic daily Bible reading with the use of a calendar with notes is for all, but of special service to those not in any classes.

THE INTERESTS OF THE BOYS.

This is a department of work that that has been the most fruitful in the past six years in the new building. The aim is to do the same things for boys as for men. The ground floor is the boys' present headquarters, with reading and game rooms and library. The best games and reading matter are placed here. The fee is $2.50 a year which includes everything. Any boy in town who is 12 years of age or over may become a member. School boys' hours in the building from 4.00 to 6.00 p.m., every day, and Saturday morning. Regular classes in the gymnasium, led by the physical director, Mr. S. S. Aplin, will be as follows: Tuesdays, 4.15 p.m., Saturdays, 9.15 a.m. Wednesdays, 4.15 p.m. Saturdays, 10.30 a.m. Use of baths on same days. Every boy will be given a physical examination. The officers will be glad to consult with parents at all times. Other features such as out-door runs, cross country tramps, etc., will be arranged. The boys' library contains over two hundred volumes and is growing. Special contributions of money or books for this will be gladly received. The seventh annual boys' camp will be held in July, 1904, and will be a hummer. The boys are asked to start now to think out the best plans for this annual outing, and plan now to go. Seven Bible study groups for boys will be conducted on Sunday mornings from 10.00 to 10.45, led by six senior members. Every boy in the membership should join one of them. The Boys' Gospel Meetings will continue on Fridays at 4.15. The Boys' Bible Study Rally will be held on Sunday, Sept. 13th.

MEMBERSHIP.

Who may join? You. Any self-respecting man, of whatever creed or nationality, church member or non church member. If it's a good thing you can't start too soon. Come up to-night and see for yourself. Tickets date for twelve months from time of joining. An application blank, to be secured at the office or from any member, must be filled up and handed in with the annual fees. Your ticket will entitle you to the usual privileges at once. No red tape, no delays.

Limited membership fees are $3.00, covering the use of the reading rooms, parlours, social privileges, baths and admission to the evening classes on payment of class fee. Full membership fees are $5.00, covering all the above, with gymnasium privileges, locker $1.00 extra. Intermediate fees are $2.50. For all under 18 who are employed during the day. Special gymnasium classes, evening school, and baths at stated hours. Boys' fees are $2.50. For all school boys 12 years of age and over. Gymnasium and baths at stated hours. Use of boys' rooms from 4 to 6 p.m. every week day.

Sustaining membership takes in all those who contribute $10.00 or over to the support of the Association, making it possible to offer to young men all the privileges for so nominal a fee. More sustaining members are needed. Those who wish to make so good an investment of money are asked to send their contributions to R. J. Kidd (of firm of R. Neill) treasurer of the Association.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Association secures homes for hundreds of men every year. Only homelike, respectable places are recommended. Prices in keeping with the accommodations. We do not guarantee to find young men positions or to personally recommend those for whom we wish to secure employment. We strive to bring the employer and employee together. A man's worth will be the point that will count. Almost every day some member leaves to go to another town or city. We give him a letter of introduction. His ticket is transferred without cost to any Association in the world. Members are expected to renew their tickets promptly when they fall due, if they wish to continue to enjoy the privileges. This should be a first duty. We depend to a large extent on our members to bring in new ones. Every man can bring in at least one during the year. Get after him now; he is waiting for you to ask him to join.

The work is managed by a board of directors, elected every year by the active members. These manage the Association with the assistance of the committees. The Ladies' Auxiliary, open to all ladies who are interested in work for young men, have a special pride in keeping the building furnished and in assisting in many other ways. They hold monthly meetings.

SOUTH AFRICA'S AUTOCRAT.

Lord Milner's Holiday Trip to Europe—His Position Does Not Bear Analytical Contemplation.

In a few weeks Lord Milner starts from Johannesburg on his holiday trip to Europe. The people do not know upon what date, and, strangely enough, the people do not seem to care.

Lord Milner's position is one which does not seem to bear analytical contemplation. It has become a habit almost of the loyalists of other days to shrink from any attempt at analysis of Lord Milner's policy. The men who a few years ago shouted themselves hoarse in their praises of the great Pro-Consul, the men whose support it was that strengthened the High Commissioner's hand in the troublous times when it needed support most—these men, representing the great political and financial forces of South Africa, show a natural hesitation in bringing forward either argument or influence against the retention of His Excellency any longer in the sphere in which he has worked so much good for the Empire.

A Keen Opportunist.

That Lord Milner has accomplished much; that he has shown himself in the best sense a keen opportunist; that he has displayed to a remarkable degree the power to assimilate immediately the conditions which to former Ministers were merely vague and shadowy, and to grasp at once popular feeling—particularly when that feeling was one of aggression toward an ancient enemy—there can be no question.

Now Lord Milner is regarded by a section of the Colonists—and a section largely composed of your Rule-Britannia-Uitlander-Colonists of pre-war days—in very much the same manner as Mr. Chamberlain is regarded by the ultra-Tory set at St. Stephen's. They were with him—up to a certain point. Up to that point their interests coincided. They had one cause and a common shibboleth—if anything they shouted loudest. But that point has been reached and passed. Lord Milner's gallant company of encouraging loyalists recovering from their delirium recognized—as they might have done before—that their officers, the men who had shouted loudest with them, who had led the cheering, and who had told them through recognized media what they thought and how, thinking as they did, they should act—these men were men of money.

So a large section repudiated their officers and stepped aside, confident that the Governor would follow suit. Lord Milner probably finds the same difficulty confronting him as his supporters of other days find. You cannot repudiate the capitalists of today who were the reformers of yesterday any more than you can brand as "autocratic" the qualities you were once pleased to applaud as "unswerving firmness." The malcontents note the change of condition and fail to appreciate the absence of change in men and qualities—and of their failure is born a grievance which promises to make Lord Milner a most unpopular Governor and incidentally a casus belli in the threatened revolt of the democracy against the power of the omnipotent capitalist.

The fact that a great man's previous good works must go for nothing; that the wearing labors which rescued South Africa for the Empire should be lost sight of in a bitter controversy which has its origin in the question of Asiatic immigration; that popularity gained by firmness in advocating "pro" should be extinguished by an equally firm advocacy of "con," all this is very pitiable—and very natural.

Public opinion is a "fickle beastie," and such is Lord Milner's position that I can see no way by which he can regain the confidence of erstwhile supporters without forfeiting the trust reposed in him by an influential minority—and unfortunately in the country it is the moneyed minority that counts. If in the years to come, when I am a dithering old man, I am asked by my great-grandchildren who was the most honorable public man I have ever met I shall, I am sure, answer without hesitation, "Lord Milner, some time High Commissioner of South Africa."

The Strong Man.

I do not think I have ever met a man whose absolute integrity, whose fine logical mind and noble principles have appealed to me as do Lord Milner's. He is a strong man rather than a safe man, for in his strength lies the weakness that renders him less safe than sure. He is an autocrat. His best lovers must allow that. He is amenable to argument, but not in essentials. He is an architect of Empire, who will, on advice, alter the front elevation of his edifice, but whom the very gods would not persuade to deviate from the ground plan he has decided upon. Personally a man of charming manners, suggesting the aristocratic public servant or the dilettante litterateur rather than the statesman, the High Commissioner, while accessible to anybody who has reasonable excuse for interviewing him, is at the same time unapproachable to those with whom his convictions clash.

And now he goes home on his holiday, and Johannesburg, unstirred but respectful, stands hat in hand watching with curious eyes the man they all but worshiped a few years ago.

Do they wish him to return?

I half think not.

There is no open rupture between the Governor and the people; crowds still cheer him in the street, for I think they love the man even as they are suspicious of the master. They do not want to fight him; they would rather fight another man carrying out his policy.

If he does not return Johannesburg will sigh regretfully but thankfully, as the man sighs who has sent his loved ones over sea before the first shot is fired. If he returns—but that, as somebody else would say, is another story.—Edgar Wallace in London Mail.

TAMING WYATT EARP

ONCE FAMOUS AS A GUN FIGHTER COWED AT DAWSON.

Little Cockney Mounted Policeman Puts Bad Man in His Place—Found More Than His Match in a Similar Canadian Red Coat—Swore to Do Great Things, But He Gave Up the Gun.

Since Wyatt Earp, once famous as a gun fighter in Arizona and California, went up into the Klondike very little has been heard of him by the outside world. The last exploit that brought him into prominence was his decision in the Sharkey-Fitzsimmons prize fight in San Francisco, when he gave the fight to Sharkey on an alleged foul. For some years before that he had been quite an orderly citizen for one of his reputation as a gun fighter.

From the stories that have drifted down from the Klondike in the last few weeks it appears that Earp has resumed a favorite trick of his, known in the west as shooting up the town. He was much addicted to it in the old lawless days of Arizona and California.

Earp was never a man who could easily be tamed, consequently a story told of his suppression a few weeks ago by a diminutive Cockney member of the Canada Mounted Police will be found interesting.

Tired of Civilization.

"Earp drifted into Dawson several months ago full of a determination to get action," said a man in Dawson to some of Earp's old western friends the other night. "Civilization, policemen and progress generally knocked out Earp's gun fighting game in the States some years ago, and he had been quite orderly and well behaved for some years.

"But when he got to Dawson he found a settlement like the places in which he had made his reputation as a bad man many years ago. He found men carrying guns around in their belts and getting drunk and shooting people who happened to displease them, and it gave him the fever to get back into the game in which he was an adept in the days gone by.

"So Earp discarded his store clothes, got himself a flannel shirt, a pair of leather trousers and a sombrero, stuck a gun in his belt, loaded up on bad whiskey and went around the saloons and faro banks ballyragging everybody who would stand for his game, and taking a few shots at some men who resented it. There were a number of bad men in Dawson who were sufficiently awed by Earp's reputation to stand for him, and for a week he had things pretty much his own way.

Mounted Police Figure.

"Well, the fact that Earp was hitting it up got to the ears of a little five-foot Cockney member of the Canadian Mounted Police, one of whose duties it was to see that Dawson behaved itself. Now, Earp didn't know much about the Canada Mounted Police and the manner of men who compose it.

"Therefore, when he was interrupted in the gentle amusement of cleaning out a faro bank in Dawson one night by this little chap coming up to him with a request that he give him his gun, he opened his mouth and his eyes very wide, swore a mighty round of oaths, and asked the little fellow in riding boots and cap if he wanted to visit hades at once or wait a few hours.

"Earp was somewhat surprised when the little fellow simply smiled politely and said:

"'You must give me the gun or bury it sir,' and extended his hand for the weapon.

"Earp swore some more, but not quite so eloquently, for all the time the little man was smiling calmly in his face. Finally, Earp, clean flustered by the situation pulled his gun from his belt and fired it three times into the ceiling, whereupon this little man, still smiling, said:

"'Now, you'll have to bury it or I'll have to take it from you, sir.'

"'Take my gun away from me!' roared Earp.

"'Exactly,' said the little man. 'Maybe you doubt I'll do it, sir?'

Earp Cowed.

"However, a crisis was averted by Earp's putting the gun back into his belt and starting to leave the place. Just as he got to the door the policeman walked over and tapped him on the shoulder.

"'I beg your pardon, sir,' he said, 'but if you come out with a gun in sight to-morrow I shall have to take it away from you.'

"Earp turned purple with rage, but he had no nerve left when he confronted that politely smiling face. He roared a few oaths back at the amused crowd in the gambling house, and then went to the Golden Lion saloon, where he took a few drinks and proceeded to tell what he would do the next day when the Cockney tried to take his gun.

"'Why, I'll blow him full of holes,' he said.

Hole in Empire.

"'Yes,' said the listener, 'but when you put a hole in him you put a hole in the British Empire, which it will fill with two men. If you kill them four will take their places. In the end, Earp, you will have the whole British army here if necessary just to put you out.

"The next day Earp, very sober and very thoughtful, appeared on the streets of Dawson in the store clothes he came to town with. Almost the first person he struck was the Cockney, who had evidently been waiting for him, prepared to take his gun away from him if he showed it. As soon as he saw Earp he stepped up very politely and said:

"'Thank you, sir,' and then turned on his heel.

"Earp hasn't been deuce high as a bad man in Dawson since that incident. Incidentally, I might say, if he had elected to mix it up with the Cockney he'd be sleeping under an epitaph to-night; for of all the real tough men I ever saw, either for or against law and order, those Canada Mounted Police are the limit."

TEND TO DIMINISH STORMS.

Electric Overhead Wires Dissipate Violence of Lightning.

It is agreeable to be able to dissipate the idea which persons unacquainted with the ways of thunderstorms and of earthly electrical systems have lately been entertaining—that the municipality of electrical wires is causing an increase in the number of storms says an English change. The tendency is just the other way.

According to the simple explanation which Dr. Sowerby Wallis, the rainfall expert of Camboden Square, gave the reason is this:—The disruptive explosion in a thunderstorm is an effort on the part of nature to adjust the distribution of electricity between earth and sky. But just as a lightning conductor provides an easy passage for the electricity from sky to earth, so every bare wire acts as a conductor and helps dissipate the aerial electricity which would otherwise cause thunder.

The influence of the wires in London Dr. Wallis said, is very perceptible, so that with the ever extending system of telegraphs, telephones, and other electric works thunderstorms should show a tendency to decrease.

But as to whether there are more or fewer storms than there were a few years ago Dr. Wallis pointed out that the question arises: What is a thunderstorm? Are one clap of thunder and one flash of lightning a storm? The meteorological method is to measure the rain, as heavy rain is a notable feature of thunderstorms.

"There occur in an irregular manner," said Dr. Wallis, "groups of years with frequent thunderstorms and groups with a marked absence of them. As far as I know, this cannot be ascribed to any specific cause. Storms are less frequent over towns than in the country, as the chimneys and steeples tend to prevent electrical explosions."

The Job He Preferred.

Just after the fall of Bloemfontein soldiers were called upon, owing to the scarcity of civilians, to work the railway. The weary men were lying in camp one night after a hard day's work, when a sergeant called out:

"Any of you men want to put your names down as railway porters, drivers, stokers, or for any other appointment in connection with the railway?"

The silence was broken only by snores. Then one Tommy slowly raised his head and drowsily muttered:

"Put me down as a sleeper!"

A Case of Eczema No Pen Describes.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Many of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment, are so much like miracles that people can scarcely believe them. When Baby Miller became a victim of Eczema her parents did everything that could be done to get her cured. Three doctors tried all the means in their power, but without success, and then all sorts of remedies were used, with the vain hope that something would bring relief from the disease that seemed to be burning up the living flesh.

It was not until Dr. Chase's Ointment was used that relief and cure came. This case is certified to by a prominent Sunday school superintendent of St. Catharines.

Mrs. Wm. Miller, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that ever came to my notice, and she suffered what no pen can ever describe. I had her treated by three different doctors, but all to no purpose whatever, and all sorts of balms, soaps and lotions were tried with no beneficial results.

"Finally I decided to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she began to improve immediately, and after regular treatment for a time the disease of so long standing completely disappeared. As that was four years ago, and not a symptom of the disease has ever shown itself since, the cure must certainly be a permanent one. At the time of this cure we were living in Cornwall, Ont., and the doctors there feared that if she was not cured of eczema she would go into a decline."

Mr. S. Richardson, jun., Superintendent of Christ Church Sunday school, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "I am acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, and believe that they would not make any statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

READ SECOND TIME.

Unexpected Progress in the House With G. T. P. Bill.

THE LOCATION OF THE LINE

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Hits One of the Tory Rumors—Mr. Maclean's Charges Against Senator Cox and The Globe—Flotation of the Bonds of the Railway Will Be by Public Tender.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Following the heavy work and little progress of the last few weeks in connection with the railway resolution the House made a decided advance yesterday morning by passing the resolution through committee and adopting the second reading of the Government bill without debate and going into committee thereon. This rapidity was unexpected, and it only leaves the committee stage and the third reading to dispose of the whole matter. Clause 2, which provides for the ratification of the agreement with the railway, was debated all day, much of the old ground being fought over again. Mr. Maclean insinuated that Senator Cox and the Globe, which he said the Senator controlled, had worked for the railway for years, and now the former would profit by it, and also have the flotation of the bonds. This was indignantly denied by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding, who said the bonds would be offered by tender to the public. For the balance of the day a somewhat wandering, though at times animated, discussion ensued. The House adjourned at 6 to give the members a chance to rest after the hard work of the preceding day.

Railway Bill Arrangements.

When the House resumed yesterday morning, jaded and tired after Tuesday night's sitting there was a gloomy feeling that, with the amendments which were expected on the railway and redistribution bills, the session might last at least two months more. This, however, was somewhat dissipated by the rapidity with which the railway question was advanced in the first minutes of the opening.

Mr. Monk, who was leading the Opposition, in the absence of Mr. Borden, proposed that the agreement which Sir Wilfrid Laurier's resolution proposed to ratify should be read over clause by clause. After considering this for a moment, while an exchange of views took place between the respective leaders on both sides, it was mutually agreed to pass the resolution through committee, report it to the House, and take the second reading of the Government bill regarding the construction of a national transcontinental railway. These three stages were accomplished in a couple of minutes, and the House went into committee, with Mr. Holmes in the chair, on the bill. This was done on the understanding that the fullest latitude would be allowed in the discussion. This leaves only the committee stage and the third reading of the bill to be passed.

The Bill in Committee.

In committee Mr. Monk asked for particulars of the location of the G. T.P., especially through the West. That was a matter which they were entitled to know. It had been rumored that the new line would run between the Canadian Northern and the Canadian Pacific.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier believed his hon. friend on reflection would be forced to admit that that information could not be given. The route had been settled on by Parliament as approximately as it was possible before the actual location was laid down on the ground. As to the rumor quoted by Mr. Monk, that the line would run between the C.N.R. and the C.P.R., Sir Wilfrid expressed surprise at the credulity of his hon. friends opposite respecting rumors. There was no more foundation for the one than for the other. There was no foundation for that rumor. It would be impossible to come to any conclusion until the surveys were made. The business of locating the line was the work of special engineers. A provision had been made in the charter that it should not be within 30 miles of any existing line.

In committee the debate became general and speeches were made by Messrs. McCreary, Northrup, Tarte, Hughes, Fitzpatrick, Maclean, Fielding, Charlton, Kemp, Wright, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

Asked For a Subsidy.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—A strong deputation waited upon the Government yesterday and asked Federal assistance for the James Bay Railway. The delegates were received by Hon. W. S. Fielding, Acting Minister of Railways and Canals, Sir William Mulock, Sir Richard Cartwright and Hon. James Sutherland. Sir William Mulock, in the course of his reply, said he was glad to hear the report of the commissioners sent to examine the country was a favorable one. He promised the representations of the delegates would receive "sympathetic consideration."

Usual Lot of Pioneers.

Watertown, N.Y., Sept. 3.—Daniel Minthorn, aged 90 years, a well-known inventor and geologist, died here yesterday. He was the first in this state to grind iron into paint, and also to grind talc. Although millions have been realized from his ideas, he died in poverty.

Died in Penitentiary.

The duel in the dark was a favorite with duelists. Two men were locked in a dark room and crawled stealthily from corner to corner, until some false step made one of them the target for bullet or blade.

Life is a duel in the dark with disease. One false step, one mistake, and the attack comes swift and sudden. The mistake which commonly opens the way for an attack by disease is neglect of the symptoms of stomach trouble. When eating is followed by undue fullness, belchings, sour or bitter risings, etc., disease is attacking the stomach.

The best way to frustrate such an attack is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and makes the body strong and healthy.

"I was suffering very much with my head and stomach," writes Mrs. W. C. Gill, of Weldon, Shelby Co., Ala., "head was so dizzy when I would raise up in bed would fall right back. Could eat but very little, in fact scarcely anything; there seemed to be a heavy weight in my stomach so I could not rest; I had to belch very often and would vomit up nearly everything I ate. I was in a bad condition. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and five of his 'Favorite Prescription' and am now well and hearty. I feel like a new woman and give Dr. Pierce's medicines credit for it all. I had taken medicine from physicians without any benefit as I could see."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CANADA'S CRACK SHOTS.

Wednesday an Ideal Day For Shooting—Four Possibles in the Borden Match—The Other Matches Shot Off.

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Yesterday morning was an ideal day for shooting, and the men took full advantage of the weather conditions when the Borden match was sailed, and they had to shoot without any aids to sight. The shooting was much in advance of last year, and four possibles were made, the men shooting off for the cup and medallion, and dividing the cash prizes. The winner turned up in Pte. Copping, 3rd V.R.C., who put on 25, against 24 by Pte. J. Goudie, the other the men having 23 to 22. The afternoon was taken up with the Ross match at 500 and 1,000 yards. The Barlow team prizes, $48, 3rd Vics, 195; $40, Governor-General's Foot Guards 187; $32, 58th Highlanders, 186; $24, 77th and 48th Highlanders, 175 each; tie to be shoot off by the highest scores. Pte. Milligan, 48th, and Piper Lush, 77th.

The Gillespie Challenge Cup match was won by the Queen's Own Rifles, with a score of 708. Lieut. R. A. Robertson of the 12th, secured the medal for the highest individual score in the competition, making 130 points.

Teams next in order were: 13th, 704; 77th, 689; 48th Highlanders (second team), 681; 43rd D.C.O.R. (first team), 680; 43rd (second team), 677.

The Kirkpatrick Challenge Cup presented for the teams of a bona-fide militia unit or rifle association making the highest aggregate in the Walker and Dominion matches, was won yesterday morning by the 12th Regiment, which secured 707 points. Next on the list were: Manitoba Rifle Association, 706; 43rd D.C.O.R. (first team), 704; British Columbia Rifle Association, 694; 48th Highlanders, 688.

In the judging distance competition, Lieut. T. F. Limitt and J. S. Stevenson, both of the 43rd D.C.O.R., tied for the first two places. The tie will be decided to-day.

A Gladstone Story.

Just now, when gossip about the repeal of the corn laws is current, space may perhaps be found for a characteristic story of Mr. Gladstone. Early in 1892, when Mr. Gladstone was absorbed in home rule and obsessed by the delusion that his policy was popular, he roundly declared that the Irish question was the most important controversy in which he had ever been engaged. A listener ventured mildly to suggest that perhaps the struggle for the repeal of the corn laws was almost as important as home rule, but Mr. Gladstone would have none of it. "I do not deny," he thundered, "that if the repeal of the corn laws had been defeated there would have been a revolution, but the Irish controversy is on a far higher plane." — Cor. Manchester (England) Guardian.

Christian Dewet Loses His Gun.

A private letter from South Africa says: Christian Dewet, the renowned guerilla leader, failed to renew his gun license, and was summoned to the South African Constabulary camp at Vredefort. He appeared, and on refusing to take out a new license his cowling-piece and gun were taken from him by Captain Dalgleish, the officer commanding the S. A. C., at Vredefort, the district in which Dewet resides.

SPECIAL TRAIN FOR INJURED MAN.

Brakeman William Ward Loses His Right Arm at Streetsville.

Toronto, Sept. 3.—William Ward, a brakeman on the C.P.R., had his arm run over at Streetsville yesterday. While riding on the bumpers in the yard he lost his grip of the ladder and fell beneath the wheels. He managed to throw his body out of harm's way, but his arm was caught just above the elbow.

A special train was made up and the injured man rushed to Toronto, where the ambulance took him to the Western Hospital. Dr. Dowie accompanied him until the city was reached, when Dr. Beattie, the railway's physician, took charge of him, performing the operation.

The Solar Plexus

Is the largest nerve centre in the sympathetic nervous system, is situated just back of the stomach, and supplies nervous energy, the vital force of the human body, to the stomach, heart, kidneys, liver, etc. By creating nerve force Dr. Chase's Nerve Food directly aids the solar plexus in supplying the power which runs the machinery of digestion and so cures nervous dyspepsia, headache, dizzy spells and bodily weakness.

NO YACHT RACE YET.

Dense Fog and Flat Calm Off Sandy Hook—To Try Again To-Day.

New York, Sept. 3.—The fourth attempt to sail what was expected to be the concluding race between the Reliance and Shamrock III. failed miserably yesterday. The yachts were not even sent across the line. Both were towed out to Sandy Hook lightship in a dense fog and flat calm, at 10.30, and then waited two hours in the hope of a wind to blow away the fog and give them speed enough to cover 30 miles within 5½ hours. The dwindling fleet was reduced to just 23 craft. At 12.30 the attempt was abandoned and announcement made that another would be made to-day.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

Fell 48 Feet.

Winnipeg, Sept. 3.—Stanley Best, a workman on the construction of the new British North American Bank building, sustained very serious injuries yesterday by falling from the second story of the rear wall into the cellar, a distance of about 48 feet. The unfortunate man landed face downward on the basement floor which was covered with broken brick and other rubbish, and a dent in the skull over the right eye marks the spot where the brunt of the fall was broke. The doctors have hope of his recovery.

Resume Cattle Shipments.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 3.—This morning the first live beef cargo to be shipped abroad from this port since the embargo placed upon the exportation of cattle by the Government on account of the cattle disease went into effect nine months ago, will be taken out by the steamer Kingstonian for Antwerp. This first shipment will consist of 400 head of cattle, of which 210 are from Canada and the remainder from the Western States.

LACROSSE.

The Athletics, of Peterborough are practising hard for their game in Stouffville on Monday. The boys in blue and white are hard workers and play the game as it should be played. It is the opinion of many Lindsayites that the Peterborough boys will land on top in the game on Labour Day.—Lindsay Post.

• • • •

To-night will be the last practice the Athletics will have before their game in Stouffville on Monday. They have been out every night this week and are in better shape than they were for any previous game. It is expected a large crowd of people will go from Peterborough with the boys as well as a large number of Torontonians.

• • • •

There will be a full practice of the Athletics to-night at 6 o'clock.

• • • •

The Judicial Committee of the C. L. A. will meet at the Palmer House Friday evening to decide the Southampton and Wellingtons of Owen Sound protest.

The Brantford Lacrosse Club has received an invitation from Nelson and Vancouver, asking for a series of games in each place about the last of September of the first of October. The western trip is still under consideration by the Brantford club but it is hardly likely that it will be taken.—Toronto Star.

RUGBY.

The O.R.F.U. Senior and Junior Junior Series fairly teem with entries.—Toronto Star.

It would be gratifying if Peterborough could also be listed. The matter of finance is after all not such a hard one to overcome. It has been overcome by local lacrosse, baseball and other clubs, which have not received the support that Rugby is sure to merit. They exist. Why cannot a football club do the same.

BASKET-BALL.

The Physical Committee of the Y. M.C.A., has decided on plans for a basket ball league, with some slight variations from previous years. Alterations will be made before the season opens, which will place the Peterborough boys on a footing with other Associations as far as equipment goes and it is expected that the boys will make their mark well this season. Better light, basket screens and lower baskets are going to be in their favour for good play. Players will be required to sign in organized teams, numbering six players. Entries to be made to physical director before Oct. 1st, 1903. Schedule games commence about Oct. 10th. Entry fee $1.50 senior teams; 75 cents intermediate teams. Medals or cups will be presented to the members of the championship team at the final game.

CANOEING.

The T. Y. Canoe Club will meet in the Y.M.C.A. parlours this evening. All members are requested to be in attendance as, owing to Sir Thomas Lipton's defeat, it is understood the club intends challenging for the American cup.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Now that the 4th of September is here, Mr. R. P. Watt, secretary of Eko Camp would like the members to get into training again, especially Jack Gemmell and Willis Garrow, as the Camp intend entering a team in the T. Y. Hockey League this year.

THE "BAND AND ADMIRER."

The Fifty-seventh Band takes the complaint of "Admirer," as set forth in a letter to the Examiner yesterday, and his demand that the band make up the nights they have missed, as a compliment—something in the nature of an encore. But 'Admirer's' praise is better than his book-keeping. "Admirer," and those who may have received a wrong impression from his letter, are informed that the band played in the park every night of the season but one and to use a Hibernicism, they played that night, too. That is to say, the band gave twelve night concerts, and attempted to give the thirteenth, but the lights failed after two or three selections, and the concert had to be postponed, to the disappointment of the large attendance present, in spite of the rainy night. If "Admirer" is bound to exact his "pound of flesh," he is informed that he has a chance yet. If he is the public spirited citizen, which the band from his letter takes him to be, he will buy a ticket for the Flower Show on Saturday night of next week, when the band will, as they have done for years past, furnish a programme of first class music, on the same terms as the park concerts, that is, without charge or fee.

COLDSTREAM'S AT INKERMAN.

A Glorious Tale of Splendid Bravery and Heroism.

The glories of English Army history are intimately bound up with the annals of its oldest regiment, the Coldstream Guards, whose splendid band is thrilling the hearts of the Canadian public. Of all the achievements of the Guards Inkerman is perhaps the most heroic. "The conduct of the Coldstream Guards at Inkerman," says the Times of Nov., 1854, "should immortalize their name. The battalion went into action with 17 officers and 400 men; of that number 8 officers were killed, 5 were wounded and upwards of 200 of the rank and file were killed and wounded." These few hundred Coldstreams held the redoubt all through that grey but glorious day against as many thousands of Russians. Thrice did the hordes of Russians, their natural courage inflamed by fanaticism and drink, rush up the hill, on the top of which, calm and determined, stood the small force of Her Majesty's Guards. Three times were the Russians driven back, only with strong reinforcements, to hurl themselves again upon the diminished band. The ground was slippery with a hideous crimson slime; men slipped, and recovering themselves, saw that it was on a dead comrade's body that their feet had found purchase. The Coldstreams' ammunition became exhausted, and in place of leaden bullets, the assailants were now met only by heavy stones. The struggle soon became hand to hand, the group of Coldstreams fought back to back with clubbed muskets, and succeeded in forcing back the foe sufficiently to form line. Then ensued a companion wonder to that charge of the Coldstreams at Fuentes D'Onoro. The surging crowd of Russians were seen to waver and give way, and cleaving through the mass came the remnant of the Coldstream band with bayonets at the charge, and having the men of men who have worsted death itself.

The Coldstream Band of a later day come now to delight our hearts with their music, which will arouse the memories of their brave deeds of yore. This celebrated band will be heard at the New Rink, Brock street, on September 23rd.

HANSARD STAFF QUIT WORK.

The Deadlock Broken at 11.30 Friday Night—The Grand Trunk Pacific Bill the Cause of the Trouble—Several Clauses Adopted and Others Held Over—Talking Against Time.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—At 11.30 last evening the deadlock which existed between the Government and the Opposition in reference to the G. T. R. was broken as the result of a conference between Sir. Wm. Mulock and Mr. Monk. A document was drawn up in duplicate, to which both gentlemen appended their signatures. By this arrangement broke the deadlock, and within five minutes clauses 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10 and 11 were passed. Clauses 7, 8 and 9, which give the G. T. Railway Company power, subject to the agreement with the Government, to hold securities of the G.T.P. Co., and providing for the construction of the eastern section from Moncton to Winnipeg by the Government through a commission, were held over. Clause 2, which was also held over, ratifies and confirms the agreement between the Government and the G.T.P. Ry. Co. The principle of the construction of the Winnipeg-Moncton section was conceded by the adoption of clauses 10 and 11, which provide for the appointment of the chief officers of the commission, and specify their duties.

Having passed these clauses, Sir William Mulock moved that the committee report progress, and the House adjourned at 11.30, after sitting continuously since 11 a.m. on Thursday morning.

The Government were quite willing Thursday, owing to the absence of the leader of the Opposition, to allow the Grand Trunk Pacific measure to stand over and take up other business, but the Opposition refused to accept those terms.

An All-Night Sitting.

The House had an all-night sitting of obstruction on the railway bill in committee, and the early daylight hours were enlivened by an extraordinary condition of affairs. The Hansard staff had ceased to report the proceedings of the committee at 3 o'clock, and after they had gone, unchallenged, the Opposition became so incensed that they conducted an indignation meeting for more than two hours, resulting in an appeal to the Speaker and a division. The division sustained the opinion of the majority of the committee by 52 to 30 that the proceedings of the committee need not be reported. By this time it was after 11 o'clock, the hour for the House to meet again, and the Hansard men resumed work. The events of the night were therefore of a most unusual and probably unprecedented character in their details. In 1885 in the debate on the franchise bill there were several all-night sittings, and again in 1896 on the remedial bill there was a continuous session for a week, or 144 hours. The Hansard men then were exhausted, and toward the end gave only a condensed report of the proceedings. Last night the Hansard men worked until about 3 o'clock, when they became so exhausted, after a very long and trying day yesterday, that they ceased working, and all went home except one or two. One of them was in the Chamber constantly, but took no notes, beyond the names of the various speakers.

The speeches of the Opposition members became of the type clearly intended to kill them.

BRITAIN'S ARGUMENT

Treaty Supports English View to Follow Shortest Route.

COAST AND OCEAN THE SAME

No Support For the American Contention That the Negotiations Between Russia and the United States For the Treaty Contemplated the Erection of a Barrier Between Russian and British Possessions.

New York, Sept. 5.—The Sun's London correspondent thus expresses the British argument in the Alaskan Boundary: The British argument makes a volume of 137 folio pages, which deal exhaustively with the seven questions under consideration. In reference to the question as to what channel is the Portland Canal, Great Britain contends that it is that which Vancouver named on entering the ocean between Tongas Island and Kannaghunt Island, and, leaving Sitka and Prince of Wales Islands to the south and east, it extends northerly eighty-two miles to its head. The contention of the United States that Observatory Inlet was meant is absolutely denied.

Great Britain contends on the other hand, that if there must be a departure from Capt. Vancouver's map then the line must run up Clarence Strait and Ernest Sound, or up Behm Canal on one or the other side of Devillagigedo Island.

The British contention on the third question is that the inlet must follow the shortest course and that the text of the treaty supports the English view. In reference to the parallel of 50 deg. 40 min. being the southern boundary Great Britain discards the letters of Nesselrode as being of no weight as against the terms of the treaty.

The Portland Channel.

The fourth contention is that the line from the head of Portland Channel to the fifty-sixth parallel of latitude should be the shortest possible to the point on that parallel which the tribunal decides is the starting point of the eastern boundary of the lisiere.

The principal efforts of the British argument are directed at the fifth question, to which some forty pages of the argument are devoted. Great Britain understands this question to mean that the tribunal is to decide whether it was an essential characteristic of the lisiere or strip that it should not be traversed by inlets, in other words whether the eastern boundary should necessarily run around the heads of all inlets, the definition of which is almost vital to the entire question.

The words "coast" and "ocean," Great Britain contends, refer to the same thing. The windings of coast are those of a coast which limits the ocean.

The "Tidal Water" Contention.

The American contention of "tidal water" is dismissed as out of the question. The Thames, at Richmond, is unquestionably under tidal influences. So is New Orleans, on the Mississippi. But, according to the British argument, one could not by any stretch of imagination call these two points parts of the ocean. It is pointed out that the provisions of Article VII. strongly support the contention that the Alaskan treaty contemplated the possibility that some part of the inlets might be British. It is asserted that there is no support for the American contention that the negotiations between Russia and the United States for the treaty contemplated the erection of a barrier between the British and Russian possessions thruout the whole lisiere.

The tribunal, it is argued, should draw a boundary line along coast the summits of the mountains parallel to the coast of the ocean. It is urged that when Russia proposed to discard references to the mountains and take a ten-league distance as a rule Great Britain refused to consent.

Wants Some Inlets.

Great Britain repudiates the argument of the United States that England is entitled to none of the inlets. She insists that she ought to obtain the heads of all important inlets.

In dealing with the sixth question Great Britain contends that the width of the lisiere should be measured from the line of the general trend of the coast of the ocean, strictly so-called, along a line perpendicular to such general trend, reproducing such widenings of the coast as fairly modify the general trend and are of such dimensions as admit of being reproduced by a line drawn ten marine lengues inland. As contemplated by the treaty, where inlets occur that form part of the territorial water of a power owning the shores on either side, the width of the lisiere should be ascertained from the course which a line giving effect to the general trend of the mainland coast would follow in crossing the inlet.

Reliance and Shamrock.

New York, Sept. 5.—The first steps toward putting the Reliance and Shamrock III. out of commission for the winter were taken yesterday, when the Reliance left Sandy Hook for her former anchorage, off the home of C. Oliver Iselin, at New Rochelle.

The Shamrock lay inside of Sandy Hook drying sails and preparing to be put in trim for her long tow back to the Clyde. The crews of both racers were wearied after the racing and were given little work to do yesterday.

Pleaded Guilty.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 5.—Charles Maltby of California street, Buffalo, was arrested by the Queen Victoria Park police yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock charged with unlawfully attempting improper conduct and carnally to know a child under 14 years of age. He pleaded guilty.

Young girls at this period of life, or their mothers, are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; all such letters are strictly confidential; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; and her advice is freely and cheerfully given.

School days are danger days for American girls.

Often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality. Sometimes it is never recovered.

Perhaps they are not over-careful about keeping their feet dry; through carelessness in this respect the monthly sickness is usually rendered very severe.

Then begin ailments which should be removed at once, or they will produce constant suffering. Headache, faintness, slight vertigo, pains in the back and loins, irregularity, loss of sleep and appetite, a tendency to avoid the society of others, are symptoms all indicating that woman's arch-enemy is at hand.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many a young girl over this critical period. With it they have gone through their trials with courage and safety. With its proper use the young girl is safe from the peculiar dangers of school years and prepared for hearty womanhood.

A Young Chicago Girl "Studied Too Hard."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more.—LILLIE E. SINCLAIR, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago Ill."

"Miss Pratt Unable to Attend School."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months.

"I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness."—MISS ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1903.

NOT FOR GRAIN ALONE.

Much of the argument for and against the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway scheme assumes that the main purpose in building it is to provide an outlet for the export of wheat. It is expected, of course, that the road will carry great quantities of grain at certain times in the year, but if there were nothing else for it to than that it would never be built at all. It is not merely misleading but mischievous to fix attention too exclusively on one function of the completed railway, especially when that is by no means its most important function.

The fact is that the Grand Trunk Pacific will be a road with an extremely varied and general traffic. It will be peculiarly a colonization railway, carrying into various localities the effects of intending settlers, keeping them supplied with the means of life while they are making a start, and carrying to market their produce after they have a surplus to dispose of. It will be also a great tourist railway, traversing new, vast, and picturesque regions which will attract hosts of visitors from all over the civilized world. It will be a transcontinental railway connecting with fleets of steamers on the Pacific and Atlantic Oceans, and thus forming an essential link in a new and important route round the world.

Besides the grain of the northwest it will have to carry the products of British Columbia, which is not expected to be peculiarly a wheat-growing district. It will traverse vast forests in Ontario and Quebec, and these will furnish it with traffic for many years to come, until there grows up in each Province a large farming population not depending at all on wheat-raising for a living. It will probably be found that in northern Ontario and Quebec, as well as in much of the northwest, cattle-raising is safer and more profitable than wheat-growing, and the export of cattle must be by rail, not by steamer. The new railway would be a great and profitable enterprise, if it never carried a bushel of wheat, as an all-rail route. Its chief justification in the eyes of its promoters is general traffic, not a special article of transportation, and to ignore this in the preliminary discussions tends to obscure altogether the real issue.—Globe.

THE G. T. P. RAILWAY AND ITS CRITICS.

The Wide Divergence of Opposition Views.

As showing how hopelessly at sea the Opposition are regarding a transcontinental railway, and how diametrically opposed to each other the leaders are, the Winnipeg Free Press analyses the views of Mr. Borden, and Mr. Haggart. The Free Press says:—

"Since Mr. Borden made his speech Hon. Mr. Haggart has not been heard from. Presumably he has taken to the tall timbers; for if ever the valuable conclusions of an expert were treated with contumely and scorn this was the fate of Mr. Haggart's profound deliverance at the hands of his leader. It was Mr. Haggart's ill luck to be obliged to fill the breach and address the House, while Mr. Borden was incubating his scheme; and, relying upon his widely heralded reputation as the railway expert of the Opposition he proceeded to lay down in the most emphatic language a number of propositions for the edification of the country and with the idea doubtless of giving a lead to his chief. Unfortunately for him Mr. Borden, when he came to speak, coolly ignored his contentions and proceeded to develop diametrically hostile propositions. It was really astonishing how Mr. Borden nailed, one after the other, all the assertions that Mr. Haggart had been most positive about.

"Of the building of the line from Quebec to Moncton Mr. Haggart said:—'A madder scheme never entered into the mind of man.'

"And further:

"'For a modern railway such as is talked of by the member for North Norfolk, not all the money and the credit that the Government possesses would construct it from Moncton to Levis by that route. What would be the use of a road nowadays with 75 feet gradients going up and five or six miles of similar gradients going down? Why you have only to mention it to show the absurdity of this scheme, and the improbability of such a road ever being constructed and used as a commercial highway.'

"This is reasonably emphatic language. Yet it is a portion of Mr. Borden's scheme to build this road, 'mad' and 'absurd' as it will be to do so.

"Further Mr. Haggart asked:—'Where is the necessity for having two lines of railway between Winnipeg and Edmonton?' and proceeded to answer the question himself. There was no reason whatever, he said. Yet Mr. Borden announced his willingness to give sufficient government assistance to induce the Grand Trunk to build this unnecessary line from Winnipeg to Edmonton.

"The building of the road from Winnipeg to Quebec struck Mr. Haggart as absurd. He said that the Opposition would be prepared to submit several alternative propositions but 'none of them involve the absurdity of the proposition of building a line from Winnipeg to Quebec and Quebec to Moncton.' But Mr. Borden proposes to build a railway from Quebec to Winnipeg.

"Hon. Mr. Haggart cordially approved Mr. Blair's opinion of the impracticability, absurdity and all-round foolishness of the Government's proposition to give other railways running powers over the Grand Trunk Pacific. Yet Mr. Borden's alternative scheme rests entirely upon the practicability of four corporations using a common roadbed for a distance of six hundred miles.

"After this public and whole-hearted repudiation by Mr. Borden of his views, Mr. Haggart should retire permanently from the position of railway expert for the Opposition. It is quite plain that Mr. Borden has lost confidence in this judgment; and proposes to be his own railway expert. The first fruits of this determination are to be seen in the remarkable scheme evolved from his teeming brain, which has been submitted by Mr. Borden to an amused country. A candid criticism of this monstrosity by Mr. Haggart would make entertaining reading."

TEMISKAMING GOING AHEAD.

Crown Lands Agent Gives a Rosy Account.

Mr John Armstrong, Crown Lands Agent at New Liskeard, visited the Commissioner of Crown Lands at the Parliament buildings yesterday. Mr. Armstrong has the same rosy tale to tell as of yore. The crops were good this year, though a trifle late. Work on the Temiskaming road is going along merrily and one of the grading parties can now be seen from New Liskeard. The dredging of the harbour at the river mouth has been a great advantage to the town, as steamers can now call at New Liskeard at any time during the open season on the lake. Formerly the falling of the water prevented the use of the harbour after the month of June. The steamer now makes the trip to the foot of the lake and up again once a day. There are several other vessels now upon the lake, including two steel vessels engaged in the lumbering trade. The prosperity of the Temiskaming settlers is reflected in the growth of the town, which had a population of 800 a year ago and now has about 1,500.

A GREAT FARMERS' PAPER.

The sixth annual autumn number of The Farming World, just received, is a most creditable production. It is handsomely illustrated, and contains upwards of a hundred pages. A special feature is an article on Agricultural College Work in Canada, in which is outlined a plan by which the College at Guelph may be used to serve the whole Dominion. "Ranching in the West" and "The Peace River Country" form the headings of two most interesting articles on Western Canada. The French Canadian Farmer and Fruit Culture in Nova Scotia are entertainingly dealt with in two well illustrated papers. The famous stock farms of England and Scotland are well pictured in two special articles, while Canada's Live Stock Industry receives attention in several more. The home features of this number are especially noteworthy, and cover many pages. The number throughout is a credit to the publishers, and should prove of exceptional interest to farmers. Any of our readers who wish it may see a copy at this office, or may secure one for themselves by writing to The Farming World, Toronto.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. J. C. Brown, Inspector Public Schools, paid an official visit to the school here on Thursday.

Mrs. F. Dobbin and her daughters, Misses Winnie, Huldah, and Dorothy Dobbin, were the guests of Mrs. Dr. Shaw on Friday afternoon.

At the grey dawn of Tuesday morning the citizens of this peaceful village were disturbed by a great commotion to the south of them, and in their uncertain senses, in partially awakening from sound slumber, mistook the rattling of small firearms for the advance guard of an invading army, and so all fell asleep again, and dreamed of brave deeds done by them. When fully awakening three hours later and realizing that it was only the first of September's annual duck hunt they were disgusted with things in general.

Ormond Weir and Allie Mather left on Monday for Norwood to attend the High School.

Mrs. K. Roache and niece, Miss McLaughlin, returned on Saturday from Cobourg after an extended visit.

Miss Irene Shaw and Master S. Mather have returned to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute to win fresh laurels. They were accompanied by Master Percy Skinner, another of the Keene public school graduates.

The community was shocked to learn of the sad death of Mrs. Jas. Stewart, (nee Maggie McNevan,) of Detroit, on Saturday last. It appears that an unfortunate mistake made by a drug clerk led to her death. She leaves a husband and two small children to mourn her loss.

Dr. W. McCauley, of the Toronto General Hospital, spent the first here.

Mr. T. Stockdale paid a short visit to our village last week on his way to assume his duties on the teaching staff of the Parry Sound High School.

Mr. J. F. Anderson, Norwood, spent Tuesday here.

Mrs. J. B. McWilliams, of Peterborough, was in the village last week the guest of Mrs. Dr. McWilliams.

SPRINGVILLE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Yule have returned after an extended tour through Western Ontario, together with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hewson, who have returned to Scotland. Mr. and Mrs. Yule will be at home on Wednesdays during the month of September.

We are pleased to report the recovery of Miss Annie Baptie from injuries received in a recent runaway accident. Miss Baptie's action on this occasion was especially praiseworthy, she considering not her own safety in her endeavours to shiled from harm the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, which she succeeded in doing, though she, herself, received a severe cut in the forehead. Dr. Montgomery attended her and found it necessary to put six stitches in the wound. Her escape from further injury is most fortunate.

Mr. William Lancaster, who is in the employ of Mr. Albert Reynolds, the thresher, had the misfortune to get his hand caught in the Cylinder while removing some peas. He escaped with a severe bruise. He also has a sore foot.

The public appreciate very highly the convenience of our flag station and are patronizing it quite liberally. There is scarcely a trip that the train does not stop at it. It is especially convenient now as the Toronto Exhibition is in full swing. A telephone service is also in view. Mr. Byers is now placing the poles and before long we will be favoured with this convenience.

Mrs. Mackenzie and daughters, of Galt, who have been visiting at Mr. A. Laing's, returned home on Friday morning.

Miss Etta Clark has gone to Greenwood, Ontario County, where she has been engaged to teach school.

Mr. A. Reynolds when crossing the culvert on 9th concession of Monaghan with his engine, had the misfortune to get into the creek. The culvert was unfit for heavy traffic. However, the united efforts of twenty men soon got the engine out. A new culvert is a necessity.

Dysentery causes the death of more people than small pox and yellow fever combined. In an army it is dreaded more than a battle. It requires prompt and effective treatment. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery in the United States with perfect success, and has cured the most malignant cases, both of children and adults, and under the most trying conditions. Every household should have a bottle at hand. Get it to-day. It may save a life. Sold by all druggists.

EVIDENCE THAT NONE CAN DOUBT.

That Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one Sure Cure for Rheumatism.

W. E. Ellis got so he Could not Walk Alone or Feed Himself—he Tells of His Cure.

Cedar Dale, Aug. 31. — (Special.) — Every day seems to furnish fresh proofs that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure and permanent cure for Rheumatism. This village furnishes evidence that no one can doubt in the person of W. E. Ellis. His story is best given in his own words.

"Two years ago," says Mr. Ellis, "I got Muscular Rheumatism. I tried all sorts of medicines, but none of them did me any good.

"At last my wife would send for a doctor. When he arrived, I said, 'Doctor, can you cure muscular rheumatism?' 'No,' said the doctor. 'Then I said,' you are of no use to me.'"

"I got so bad that I could not feed myself or walk alone. Then I was induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I took six boxes of them which drove all the rheumatism out of me and left me in good health again."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure Rheumatism by removing the cause — by putting the Kidneys in shape to take the uric acid out of the blood. They always cure Lumbago and Sciatica in the same way.

Fishermen in Fighting Mood.

COLD WATER UNWISE

Upon Real Proposals for Closer Colonial Connection.

SO DECLARES LORD AVEBURY

Freeman's Journal Comments on the Invasion of Canada by Morgan's Steel Trust—Canada and the America's Cup—Some Advice Offered Free to Our Amateur Sailors—Canadian Cables.

Canadian Associated Press Cables.

London, Sept. 4.—Lord Avebury, in The Nineteenth Century, concedes that it would be unwise and ungracious to throw cold water on any real proposal for closer connection with the colonies, but is somewhat alarmed at the prospect of bargaining with them. He says: "We may seem to favor one colony and one interest, and may find instead of closer union that we have aroused jealousy, suspicion and animosities."

Canada and America's Cup.

The Freeman's Journal, in commenting on the prospect of Canada challenging for the America's Cup, says: "Professional yachtsmen shrug their shoulders at the idea of the crew, as proposed, being composed of gentlemen yachtsmen. In order that amateur yachtsmen might work such a yacht as Shamrock III., it would require that they should sail a similar vessel for 18 months. Perhaps Canadian yachtsmen are prepared to hire one of the Shamrocks and go thru a tremendous discipline. If not, experts on this side prophesy that they will have the same fate as Lipton."

Morgan Steel Trust in Canada.

The same journal says that the announcement that the Morgan Steel Trust intends to begin operations in Canada on a large scale may well make manufacturers in Great Britain look to their trade with some concern, for in ingenuity the Americans can excel the world. That is one reason why the stores in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa are more largely stocked with American goods than with British.

The annual report of the Cattle Markets Committee of the City Corporation says trade from Canada is increasing very considerably. From 1893 to 1902 there were delivered at the market 229,043 beasts and 198,440 sheep from Canada.

The Colonial College at Hollesley Bay, Suffolk, is announced to be sold at auction. H. H. S. Croft writes to The Standard, appealing for funds to save the college, and hopes his appeal may be brought to the attention of Mr. Chamberlain.

The Proposed Corn Tax.

An article in The Fortnightly Review predicts that the tax on corn will not add to the price for more than a little while, because it will set the Canadian farmers breaking thousands of acres of prairie, so as to vastly increase the available supply of wheat.

Lloyd's Times' correspondent says that a survey of the interior of the steamer Manchester Trader, at Quebec, reveals extensive damage. The cost of repairs in Canadian ports is so high that the vessel may be temporarily repaired, and brought home to the British yard.

WHAT THOUSANDS SAY

The Great cry of Those who Have Been Relieved From the Miseries of Dyspepsia by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

That's what Miss Gusty V. Campbell, of Little Shippegan, Gloucester Co., N.B., says, and it's what thousands of others are saying every day. They can give you their reasons for saying it too. Miss Campbell gives hers as follows:

"I suffered from Dyspepsia for two months and was always getting worse till reading of cures by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets led me to try them. One box cured me completely and I can honestly recommend Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to all who are suffering from Dyspepsia."

It is cures like this that have made Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets a household word throughout Canada. They promptly relieve the aches and pains of Dyspepsia; they drive away the despondency that is one of the worst features of this too common complaint. But they do more. They cure Dyspepsia once and for all. You can't find a Dyspeptic who has ever used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Senator W. V. Sullivan.

"I desire to say that I have been taking Peruna for some time for catarrh and have found it an excellent medicine, giving me more relief than anything I have ever taken."—W. V. SULLIVAN.

Congressman Romulus Z. Linney.

From North Carolina, writes:

"My private secretary has been using Peruna for catarrh. He had as bad a case as I ever saw, and since he has taken one bottle he seems like a different man. I don't think any man who is under a nervous strain should be without it. I cannot express the good it has done him."

John B. Clark, Ex-Congressman,

Was ten years a member of Congress from Missouri and for six years Clerk of National House of Representatives, writes:

"I can recommend your Peruna as a good, substantial tonic and one of the best remedies for catarrhal troubles."

Ex-Congressman A. H. Goffroth,

Somerset, Pa., writes:

"I am assured and satisfied that Peruna is a great catarrh cure, and I feel that I can recommend it to those who suffer from that disorder."

Men of prominence all over the United States are commending Peruna. Over forty members of Congress have written their indorsement of it. Scores of other government officials speak in high praise of it. Thousands of people in the humbler walks of life rely upon it as a family medicine. Send for free book of testimonials.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Was Hovering Between Life and Death

A few days trial of Lactated Food will convince any intelligent mother that it is the right form of nourishment for her weak and puny baby. No other food can give such prompt and happy results at a time when the little one is hovering between life and death. A Montreal lady last August wrote as follows: — "My baby was so weak and sickly a few weeks ago that we despaired of her life. We tried nourishment of every kind, but could not get anything to remain on its stomach. We heard of Lactated Food, and commenced its use. There was an improvement the very first week, and to-day our baby is well and strong. Lactated Food saved her life." Sold at all Drug stores.

THE LOCAL BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Special Meeting Last Night in the Secretary's Office.

Two New Teachers Appointed—A Misspelt Word Caused an Application to be Rejected.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held in the secretary's office, George street, last night at 8 o'clock, at which there were present:—Mr. J. J. Hartley, Chairman, and Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, R. Fair, W. H. Hill, L. M. Hayes, V. Eastwood, W. Pringle, F. J. Jameson, Jas. Stevenson, J. J. McBain, and H. P. Kennedy.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication from Mr. A. W. MacPherson, tendering his resignation as teacher in the Collegiate Infrom town, were discussed.

Two applications for a position on the teaching staff of the Collegiate Institute, recently rendered vacant by Mr. M. A. Sorsoloil's departure from town, were received.

Mr. Fair moved that a Mr. B. E. Thackery be appointed. Before, however, Mr. Fair had got a seconder, Mr. Jameson moved an amendment, that Mr. R. Beattie, of Bridgetown, be appointed. Referring to Mr. Fair's motion, and in support of his own, Mr. Jameson stated that he did not think a man who could not spell "testimonials" correctly, should be appointed. Mr. Kennedy seconded the amendment.

Mr. Fessenden remarked that Mr. Beattie, whom he had personally met, was quite qualified for all that would be required of him.

Mr. Fair, thereupon withdrew his motion and the amendment, that Mr. Beattie should be appointed at a salary of $700 was carried.

Mr. Fessenden read an application from Mr. K. L. Moore for Mr. Sorsoleil's recent position. He remarked that, in his mind the applicant was fully qualified for Mr. MacPherson's position.

It was moved by Mr. McBain, and seconded by Mr. Ferguson, that Mr. Moore be appointed to replace Mr. MacPherson on October 1st, at a salary of $700.

THE WORK ON THE CEREAL CO'S DAM.

Visit is one of Surprise and Gratification—Will Soon be Completed.

A visit to the Cereal Company's new dam, is one of both surprise and gratification: surprise at the astonishingly quick way in which the building is being erected, and gratification at its undoubted strength and artistic lines. Its importance is well known, and justly so, and the concrete, of which material, it is constructed, is said to be the best that can be made. This statement seems to be correct, for apparently the whole work is as strong as Gibraltar itself.

A bird's-eye view of the work is very interesting. Everywhere there seemed to be derricks innumerable, while sawdust and broken stone indicate the energetic use of saw and chisel.

The sawdust pile on the east bank of the Otonabee river has been partially excavated to make room for the east abutment, the foundation of which has already been commenced. The power house is being completed at an astonishing rate, and the brickwork will shortly be completed. Five gigantic piers are stretched at intervals to about half way across the river, and two others are being erected. As yet, however, the superstructure has not been begun.

The energy displayed, and the quality of the work turned out, are indeed commendable, and it is felt the dam will be completed before the lapse of many weeks. During the day the noise of the hammer and chisel, and the clank of the steam derricks dim the sound of the rushing water, while the Latin tongue is no less deafening, for a large percentage of the workmen come from "sunny Italy."

This work, which is only one of the many instances of the Cereal Company's enterprise, is daily visited by numbers of people. It is one of the "sights," which is so willingly shown by the officials of the corporation to the numbers of visitors who come to see, not Peterborough as she is, but as she will be.

WEDDING BELLS.

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday at the Park street Baptist church when Miss Minnie May Redman was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Albert Boam, a prosperous young farmer of Kent County. The bride is very popular in church circles and among the young people, consequently a great crowd thronged the church to witness the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. A. H. Brace. As the wedding march was played by Miss Mary Booth the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her father, Mr. Richard Redman, wearing a dress of white organdy, trimmed with lace insertion and cream ribbon, and carrying a bouquet of white carnations. She looked charming as she walked to the altar. Mr. Rollie Doughty acted as groomsman and Miss Ethel Sherwood, as bridesmaid. She wore a dress of white muslin, trimmed with lace. Only the immediate friends sat down to the wedding feast spread at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Blatchford, of Owen Sound, being the only friends from a distance.

The presents were numerous and valuable. The bride's travelling suit was of iron grey cloth, with hat trimmed with blue and lillies of the valley. The happy couple left on the 5.10 C. P. R. train on their wedding trip, and will visit Toronto and London. They will reside in the Township of Zone, about three miles from Thamesville.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr E. A. Simpson, of Montreal, is visiting Miss Winnie Anderson, 213 London street.

Miss Emily Crawford, of Sarnia, Ont., who has been the guest of Miss Mabel Wareham, left yesterday for Napanee.

Mr. W. Shea, of Toronto, a practical boot and shoe salesman, has commenced an engagement with Gough Bros.

Miss Mabel Wareham leaves on Monday for Portland, Maine. She will be accompanied from Napinee by her friend, Miss Emily Crawford.

Announcements are out for the wedding of Miss Bertha M. Stewart, of Toronto, to Mr. S. Charles Parks, also of Toronto, but a former resident of Peterborough, which will take place on September 16th at the residence of the bride's mother, 18 Birch Avenue, North Toronto.

The many friends of Mr. John Babb were pleased to see him for the first time on the street since the accident by which he sustained a broken thigh bone. Mr. Babb has made a remarkably good recovery and, while he still has to use crutches, it will not be long, if amendment continues, before he will be able to dispense with their use.

LABOUR DAY IN PETERBOROUGH.

Programme for Morning, Afternoon and Evening.

THE ORDER OF PROCESSION.

The Parade, the Sports, the Band Concert—Universal Holiday—Opportunity for General Participation and Enjoyment.

The day after to-morrow is Labour day, and the day after to-morrow will be celebrated in Peterborough in a right royal manner as well it should. The various unions will, all over the Dominion, in some manner display their right for existence on Monday. No union man will work. The hammer, the chisel, the machine, all will be silent through the length and breadth of this land.

THE ORDER OF PROCESSION.

At a meeting on Wednesday night at which Mr. Frank J. Plant, representing the Labour Gazette, was present, and after showing the advantages to be gained by studying the reports on labour which are published each month in the Gazette, gave a short address on the necessity of the several local unions forming themselves into a Trades Council, quoting the words of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour, "That a local union which does not affiliate itself with the Trades Council is as bad as individual who does not join his respective union."

Mr. Plant, on behalf of the Council, drew the positions of the unions for the order of parade, which resulted as follows:—

1. Musicians' Union.
2. Metal Polishers', Buffers', Platers', Brass Moulders' and Brass Workers' Union.
3. Sheet Metal Workers' Union.
4. International Machinists' Association.
5. Iron Moulders' Union.
6. Custom Tailors' Union.
7. Cigarmakers' Union.
8. Carpenters' and Joiners' Union.
9. Federal Union.
10. Builders' Labourers' Union.
11. Leather Workers' Union.
12. Typographical Union.
13. Federation of Labour, Inside Workers'.
14. Bartenders' Union.
15. Bricklayers' Stone Masons' and Plasters' Union.
16. Pattern Makers' League.

The several unions will assemble at the Murray street grounds, from which place parade will start at 10 o'clock, headed by the 57th Regiment band over the following streets:—Murray to George, to London, to Water, to Charlotte, to Aylmer, to Hunter, to George, to Murray street grounds.

The union displaying the most representative float will receive $25.00 while the second best in point fo numbers will get $10.00.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

The Publication Committee have issued a very elaborate and typographically beautiful "official programme and souvenir" of Labour Day domonstration. It is a booklet of 12 pages not including covers. It contains a most liberal number of advertisements showing that our business men have a practical sympathy with the cause of labour, and give it the benefit of their patronage and at the same time a wide publicity for their amounts among a class whose patronage is a very important factor in commercial success. The booklet contains a selection of reading matter of interest to labour and besides embraces the following programme:—

In the afternoon the following programme will be run off in the Murray street grounds, commencing at 2 o'clock:—

The 57th Regimental Band will be in attendance and will enliven the sports with some popular selections.

2.—Run, hop, step and jump (open)

MR. J. W. KERR, OF COBOURG, DEAD.

Close of an Honourable Legal Career.

Crown Attorney of Northumberland and Durham Passes Away After a Short Illness.

Cobourg, Sept. 4.—The death took place here to-day of Mr. J.W. Kerr, who has been County Crown Attorney of the counties of Northumberland and Durham ever since 1877. Deceased had an attack of appendicitis about a month ago, and, after consultation, it was decided not to have an operation. He progressed favourably until Sunday last, when he suffered a relapse, but rallied again in a day, and seemed to be on the way to recovery until shortly before his death, when complications arose, which proved fatal.

The news of the death was received with deep regret throughout the town and district where he was so well known and so highly respected. He is survived by Mrs. Kerr, but there is no family. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

Deceased, who was a brother of Senator Kerr, of Cobourg, was born in Ameliasburg township Prince Edward county, 69 years ago. He was educated at a private school and at Victoria University, from which he graduated in 1856. For many years he was recognized as the leading counsel on the Midland circuit. When Judge Armour was appointed to the bench in 1877, deceased was apointed to the Crown Attorneyship rendered vacant by the appointment of Judge Armour. He married in 1870 Miss Fraser of Fredericksburg, county of Lennox, and in 1882 was made a K. C. by the Ontario Government. He was a relative of the late Hon. Chief Justice Wallbridge, of Manitoba, and has left many relatives who occupy prominent business or professional positions in the country. Mr. F. D. Kerr, barrister, of Peterborough, is a nephew of deceased, as are also Mr. W. F. Kerr, of Cobourg, who has been acting Crown Attorney since deceased was taken ill; John M. Kerr, Manager of Wyld & Darling's, and Chas. W. Kerr, barrister of Toronto.

Deceased always took keen interest in local, Provincial and Dominion affairs and was always a sound Liberal. He was a member of the Methodist church, and was deeply interested in its welfare.—Globe.

Good Prospects.

It is satisfactory to be able to chronicle the fact that the educational facilities afforded by the Peterborough Business College are being better appreciated every season. Principal Pringle states that the September term is opening with excellent prospects of seeing the largest attendance on record. When young men and young women are being influenced by the good practical work done at this Business College to take advantage of the benefits to be secured in fitting them for good positions in life, there is reason for congratulating the staff and management. A night school for young men who are at work during the day will be commenced on the 16th, inst., in connection with this College.

General Description of New Business Home Over Half an Acre of Floor Space Perfect Adaptation to Business Requirements.

Palatial, if palatial is taken to signify spaciousness and elaborate elegance of structure and appointments, is a fitting term to apply to the splendid new business home being prepared and now in the concluding stages of completion, for the great departmental store of Messrs. Richard Hall & Son. On the lofty red brick facade of the block of buildings, including 353 and 355, George street, extends the most elongated business sign in Peterborough, reading thus:—

353 RICHARD HALL AND SON 355

This great sign measuring nearly sixty feet in length, with heavy gilt letters about 15 inches in depth and in relief above the black ground about two inches, indicates that within is found the elegant home of the solid and long-established business it represents. The imposing monotony of the facade of the building is relieved by the front of the first story stretching from end to end, in a solid expanse of plate glass—in straight continuity—save for the broad recessed entrance which is flanked by the massive convexity on either side of curved plate. About a yard above the pavement extends, following the curves of the entrance, a heavy polished protecting railing of brass. The flooring of the recessed entrance way is of ornate tile mosaic, a middle panel containing the name of the firm.

THE FIRST FLOOR.

or chief sales room for the several departments accommodated there, is 58 x 90 feet in area—an apartment of noble expanse. The elegant embossed metallic ceiling, painted a dead white is supported by three ranks of ornate iron pillars, and in the middle of this floor is a massive pillar, giving accommodation for a fountain with marble and nickel silver fittings, intended to furnish filtered ice-cool drinking water. The walls of this floor are laid on with bisque ingrain paper, separated from the curved cornice of the metallic ceiling by an ombre frieze. The lighting of this fine space is splendidly provided for. In front there are 60 feet of plate glass and in the rear, and placed midway between floor and ceiling a range of longitudinal windows with transoms, set with muranese glass. The show window accommodation is particularly elaborate and effective. Extending the whole front and about six feet in depth, the display window space is floored with polished cherry and backed, as to its lower half, by a wainscot, also of polished cherry, relieved with bevelled British plate mirror panels, and extending upward midway to the ceiling. This line of wainscoting is surmounted by a beautiful screen of lead glazed art glass, through which filters a delicately subdued but abundant light from the front glass plates

THE SECOND FLOOR.

From this floor access is had to the second floor, by either a broad stairway with cherry balustrade or by an elevator, which extends from the basement to the third floor. The second floor is the same size as the first, and with the same general excellence of finish and appointment. This floor is devoted to the millinery department and ladies' ready-to-wear costumes and jackets. It is provided with the necessary counters, shelving, work rooms and fitting rooms. For the convenience of patrons an elegantly fitted lavatory and toilet room is provided. The day lighting of this floor, as is the lighting of all the floors, is splendid. It contains no fewer than 11 large windows, those in front of clear plate glass, those in the rear and rear third of the sides being set with muranese glass. In the middle of the rear wall of this floor is a door which opens upon a covered bridge spanning about eight feet of space, which separates the main building from an outbuilding, 25 x 60 feet, two stories in height. The upper story of this annex is to be used for a work room for the sewing of carpets, etc. The lower floor is used for temporary storing and crating of goods cases.

THE THIRD FLOOR.

This is of the same area as the other floors and has similar excellent and abundant lighting by window openings. It is devoted expressly to the dressmaking specialty of the establishment. On this floor the elevator door opens upon a spacious ladies' reception room, elegantly carpeted and furnished. From this open on one side, doors to the cutting room for the two head dressmakers and on the other, or street side, to a fitting and a dressing room, for ladies. This is a capital arrangement, which will be appreciated by ladies waiting to be served, and who will put themselves in the place of a husband accustomed to waiting for his wife to complete her toilet. A skilful dressmaker may fit a lady customer promptly; she retires to the dressing room to re-make her toilette, leaving the fitting room vacant for the "next," who has not to wait for her predecessor's leisurely adjustment of garments. The remainder of this floor is chiefly devoted to two large dressmaking work rooms both with abundant direct light from front and rear respectively. In connection with these rooms there is an arrangement, showing a creditable solicitude for the comfort of operatives. Instead of stoves, whose heat is summer is intolerable, electricity is used for heating pressing irons. This floor is also provided with lavatories and toilet rooms for the public and the employees.

THE BASEMENT.

In the basement, which is completely fitted up for its special uses, adjoining the elevator is the cloak room and toilet rooms for the male employees, a salesroom for heavy staples, blankets, cottons, etc., a stock room for certain classes of goods, and also a moth-proof room for storing goods liable to suffer from the ravages of moths. There is also an outside entrance to the basement for the admission of floor oilcloths and linoleums which also find space in the 5,000 odd square feet of area the basement contains. Here is also the furnace room and coal bunkers.

OTHER NOTEWORTHY FEATURES.

In addition to the main stairs, and elevator entrance and exits, all the floors have separate exits and entrances from the outside. The building includes a broad hall on the south with independent street entrance and stairs to the several floors, so that employees and the public can enter or leave the second and third floors without passing through the first floor salesroom.

The artificial lighting is by electricity, the necessary wiring and fixtures having been installed by the Peterborough Light and Power Company. The first floor is lighted by elegant 3-glower Nurse lamps and on the second floor by a liberal instalment of incandescent lights grouped in clusters of four under powerful reflectors. The third floor is also abundantly lighted with incandescent drop lights with mantles. Thus with abundant window lighting on every floor and ample artificial lighting this establishment will be splendidly light and airy on all its floors.

The artificial heating of the building is by steam. In the furnace room is placed a Bright Idea Furnace, which furnishes steam heat for 2,500 feet of radiating surface disposed on the various floors, and guaranteed to maintain in zero weather, a temperature of 80 degrees on the first floor, 72 degrees on the second, and 65 degrees on the third floor.

Exceptionally elaborate and efficient protection against fire is provided, consisting of a stand pipe system, connected with a two-inch main pipe having direct connection with the street main, and seven inch and a half openings each with 50 feet of hose, excepting that on the third floor, which has 150 feet of hose for use in case of a roof blaze. Thus, from a nozzle, on every floor, every inch of floor or wall space can, in case of necessity, be flooded with water. Such an elaborate and excellent system of fire extinction, or, rather, fire prevention, seems to be excellent insurance, and not only that, but a protection to the lives of employees in case of fire, who in addition to the protection involved in the fire quenching system, are further protected by the several means of exit previously mentioned.

This excellent system was suggested and installed by Mr. Robert Sturgeon, who had a large share in some of the most important work in the building. He installed the Fensom Elevator, also the Bright Idea Furnace and boiler, and did the accompanying steam fitting. Mr. Sturgeon also did the plumbing throughout the building, and to one who is not an expert, the laying out of the work as well as its execution seem to argue a knowledge of the principles of correct sanitary plumbing, as well as satisfactory executive skill on the part of Mr. Sturgeon.

What has been written will serve to indicate the general admirable features of the new business premises of Messrs. Hall & Son, but space will not admit of attention to details, which would show more fully the completness, elegance and adaptability of every part of the over half an acre of floor space which has been so admirably adapted to serve the purposes of the great business. Nothing but seeing will give an idea of the extent to which enterprise and thought have gone in the remodelling of these premises. No expense has been spared to contribute to the comfort of employees, the convenience of the public or facility of service. Next week the firm will begin to occupy their new premises, which event it is safe to predict, will mark the beginning of a new era of prosperity for a firm which has so long worthily enjoyed the favour of the purchasing public.

It is only fair, considering the excellence of the combined work put upon this building, to mention those who had a prominent share in it.

The general structural work was done by the Toronto Real Estate Investment Company, under the supervision of their town foreman, Mr. Alvah Wilson. The plastering was done by Mr. Wm. Henry; Mr. Ralph Carton had the contract for the painting and paper hanging. As mentioned Mr. Robert Sturgeon had charge of the installation of the heating, the fire extinguishing system, the elevator and the general plumbing. The contract for the electric lighting was performed by the Peterborough Light and Power Company under the direction of Mr Herbert Fife. The elegant sign adorning the front of the premises was supplied by the establishment of Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons.

CAVAN'S SWAMP TO BE DRAINED.

With Co-operation of Township and Ontario Government.

4,000 Acres to be Made Arable Land, and 14,000 Acres Benefitted.

A long contemplated enterprise which means much to both Cavan and Peterborough is now in train for successful completion. A few weeks ago Mr. A. W. Campbell, Assistant Commissioner of Public Works, and Good Roads Instructor, representing the Ontario Government, and Mr. J. E. Beloher, C.E., representing the Township of Cavan, made a thorough inspection of the great Cavan Swamp. The resulting report has been of such a character as to warrant the Government in making an appropriation of $3,000 and the Reeve of Cavan has been notified that at the next session of the Legislature an amount of that size would be placed in the estimates. It is calculated that the cost of the drainage works proposed will be $10,000, leaving with the $3,000 from the Government, the sum of $7,000 to be raised by the township, under the act governing such matters. As soon as the necessary formalities are completed, the contracts for the work will be entered into.

That the involved expenditure is justified is shown by the fact that the contemplated drainage work will reclaim 4,000 acres of land now useless, and make them cultivable, while an area of 14,000 acres will be benefitted. In addition to draining the swamp the work contemplates the construction of two roads, which will shorten the distance between a large section of Cavan and Peterborough. Taking the 4,000 acres to be reclaimed, one crop on this land of the value of $2.50 an acre will pay the entire cost of the drainage scheme, which will, in due course, become an accomplished fact. Both the Township and the Government deserve credit for the public spirited view of the conditions they have taken.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S MEDAL.

Capt. King of the 46th Won It With a Score of 101.

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—Yesterday was the big day at the D. R. A. for both shooting and social functions. In the shooting the attraction was the first stage of the Governor-General's match, which is the chief prize for which all the riflemen contend. The Governor-General's is a military match. The first series of the match, 200 and 500 yards, was begun under a cloudy sky, the air being still and rain threatening. A steady light prevailed.

Capt. A. C. King, of the 46th, won the Governor-General's medal with a score of 101.

Every household should have a bottle at hand. Get it to-day. It may save a life. For sale by all druggists.

Gored by a Bull.

The judging of the cattle and the judging of the cats attracted large crowds of those interested in the breeding and care of the animals.

William Robinson, an attendant working for William Stewart, of Rennie, Ont., was badly gored by a bull at fied time last night. Robinson was watering the bull, when he was suddenly sat upon by the huge animal and in a trice was landed in the next stall. Drs. Macpherson and Curry were soon on the spot and found Robinson suffering from a severe gash in his right thigh, which required eight stitches. Mr. Stewart said afterwards that the bull was usually quiet, but that Robinson was a stranger, and was not as careful as he might have been.

CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM.

Latest Word of Science on This Dangerous Malady.

The prevalence of rheumatism in some form or another, and the largely fatal character of its effects, have for a long time set physicians to pondering and investigating as to its cause. The cause ascertained, it would remain only to find the most effective means of removing it. The verdict of experience and study at the present day is that rheumatism, of whatever nature, is a blood disease, and the best authorities agree that it is caused by an excess of uric acid in the blood. The efforts of students of this affliction, therefore, became concentrated on the most effective means of cure. A remedy must combine the most effective specifics and it must be prepared with such care and skill as to leave no possible element of uncertainty. The result of such study and care is known as "Bu-Ju." This is a vegetable compound in the form of pills which act upon the kidneys in such a way as to stimulate weak organs and overcome clogged or sluggish conditions. The kidneys are the filters of the body. When they work imperfectly the poison they should excrete and expel from the system is returned to the blood. Then ensues blood-poisoning. When the kidneys are well the excess of uric acid and other poisons is expelled, the blood is purified, and rheumatism may be left to nature's recuperative action. Bu-Ju is put up in boxes of 50 pills, selling at 50 cents at all drug stores. The Cladin Chemical Co., Ltd., New York, N. Y., and Windsor, Ont., control the sale of this specific in the United States and Canada.

The case of William Couchman, Lord Ravenscourt's butler, who died recently, leaving a fortune of over £30,000, is by no means an exceptional one.

An old lady who died some time ago had been for many years housekeeper to a nobleman whose ancestral residence was rich in historical associations. As it was her privilege to pocket the fees paid by Americans and others for viewing the mansion, she speedily amassed a fortune of respectable proportions. When she died and her will was published it was found that she had left behind her a larger sum than her master, whose estate was heavily entailed.

Samuel Waugh, who died six weeks ago at the age of 91, after having been butler in the service of the Clay family for 65 years, left £2,128.

Most domestics who died in comfortable circumstances, however, make their money after leaving service. As a rule, they save the commissions which they get from tradesmen and the "tips" which a ridiculous custom brings them—a head servant in one west end establishment made £700 in "tips" last year—and then take an hotel or a boarding house.

There is a member of Parliament who was once a butler. Having saved some money, he borrowed more, and took an hotel at a rental of £1,200 a year. In 15 years, having made a large profit, he sold the establishment and retired — London Daily Mail.

Destructive Genius.

One day a bulky, tall, pale-faced gentleman with bushy, restless eyebrows, entered a London tavern. The waiter did not ask him for his order, but immediately brought him a plate of bread and cheese and a glass of ale. Having consumed his lunch, this guest sat upright in his chair for a while, leaning his hands on a heavy walking cane and staring blankly at the opposite wall, as if in a dream. Of a sudden he gave a start. He seized the empty glass and dashed it to the floor with all his might, smashing it to atoms. He then reflected for a moment, laid a coin on the table, got up and left the inn without a word to any one. After his departure another guest had the curiosity to ask the waiter whether the gentleman who had just gone out was wrong in his head. Quoth the waiter:

"Oh; no, sir, that's nothink unusual with 'im, sir. 'E's broke maybe a 'undred glasses since 'e's been a-comin' to this 'ouse. 'E don't seem to know it when 'e does it. 'E just gets a-thinkin', and seems to git hangry at somethink 'e's thinkin' about. It's Lord Macaulay, sir."

High Rents in London.

Some parts of London are the most highly rented places in the world, far exceeding the most expensive localities of Paris or New York. Cornhill is absolutely the dearest rented district in the world. One room near the Exchange was let a short time ago at £2,500 per annum. Six rooms on the first floor of a house at Throgmorton street were advertised recently to be let at a rent of £2,000 per annum. Bond street is the dearest neighborhood in London for a man to start business in. A small shop in Bond street will cost its tenant £1,000 per annum, and be it observed the word shop has strict limitations, and only includes the shop and basement, the rest of the house being let separately. The rents in the Strand have increased hugely during the last twenty-five years, and a lease of a shop renewed lately costs the tenant an increase of £200 per annum on his rent.

Prof. Wm. Brown's Death.

Australian papers received contain announcements of the death on May 12th last of Prof. Wm. Brown, at his residence in Ascalvale. On going to Australia in 1886, Prof. Brown was appointed to the chair of agriculture in the Dookie Agricultural College, and remained there until his appointment to the college at Longerenony. He was born on April 14th, 1833, at Turriff, Aberdeenshire, Scotland. He received a thorough scientific and practical education, particularly in relation to agriculture and forestry. For some years he was factor to Col. Farquharson, of Invercault, Braemar, but Canada presenting better prospects for his family of three sons and three daughters, he emigrated in 1871, and bought a farm near Orillia, and in addition to farming acted as Provincial Land Surveyor. He was appointed to the charge of the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Farm in 1875. Prof. Brown was author of various important publications in regard to live stock, and was a lecturer of repute. His brother is Government Conservator of Forests for South Australia.

TO THE POLE IN A BALLOON.

English Aeronaut May Follow Ill-Fated Major Andre's Example.

The principal rival of M. Santos-Dumont in flying any considerable distance or had escaped from the persistent ill-luck which attended his experiments, Mr. Spencer navigated his airship successfully right across London.

Mr. Spencer made his first balloon ascent with his father in 1872, when he was only eight years old. Since then he has navigated the upper air in all parts of the world, and has crossed the English Channel in a balloon four times.

Undaunted by the melancholy fate of Andre, Mr. Spencer seriously considers the possibility of reaching the North Pole by balloon. His idea is not the whole journey should be attempted by balloon, but that the latter should be attached to an expedition which would push on as fast toward the pole as possible, establish headquarters at the most northern point for the winter and then set off with the first wind blowing from the south in the following spring or summer.

Such a balloon, in Mr. Spencer's judgment, should be of sufficient size to carry the weight of a complete sledging expedition of two men, with the necessary sledges, ammunition, food and victuals.

With this load the balloon could set forth and the pole would be reached, according to Mr. Spencer, in about thirty-five hours. The aeronauts would then descend to the earth or ice and abandon their balloon, making the return journey on the sledges taken with them.

A long, narrow pincushion tied to the arm of the sewing machine is a very convenient article, and one that one would not be without after testing its merits.

A Case of Eczema No Pen Describes.

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Many of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment, are so much like miracles that people can scarcely believe them. When Baby Miller became a victim of Eczema her parents did everything that could be done to get her cured. Three doctors tried all the means in their power, but without success, and then all sorts of remedies were used, with the vain hope that something would bring relief from the disease that seemed to be burning up the living flesh.

It was not until Dr. Chase's Ointment was used that relief and cure came. This case is certified to by a prominent Sunday school superintendent of St. Catharines.

Mrs. Wm. Miller, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema, and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that ever came to my notice, and she suffered what no pen can ever describe. I had her treated by three different doctors, but all to no purpose whatever, and all sorts of balms, soaps and lotions were tried with no beneficial results.

"Finally I decided to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and to my surprise she began to improve immediately, and after regular treatment for a time the disease of so long standing completely disappeared. As that was four years ago, and not a symptom of the disease has ever shown itself since, the cure must certainly be a permanent one. At the time of this cure we were living in Cornwall, Ont., and the doctors there feared that if she was not cured of eczema she would go into a decline."

Mr. S. Richardson, jun., Superintendent of Christ Church Sunday school, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "I am acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Miller, and believe that they would not make any statement knowing it to be in any way misleading or untrue."

LORD STRATHCONA.

Lord Strathcona, who is again visiting Canada, ought to be able to make himself at home nearly anywhere in this country, for he has lived all over it, and has given it the best years of his life, say The Mail and Empire. Of a welcome, sincere if not demonstrative, he is always and everywhere assured. Lord Strathcona's title to the regard of the Canadian people grows with his advancing years. He has rendered great public services and is distinguished as a philanthropist. These claims to the esteem of his fellow-Canadians are of long standing, and may not have received the popular recognition they deserved. But they are thought of and appreciated now. To the venerable High Commissioner is yielded the affection due to a truly loyal patriarchal character. He is one of the Old Canadians. He typifies a past far enough away to have become glorified in the mind of the present generation by its events and the achievements of its great men. And as they were achievements in which bodily hardihood and personal prowess largely counted, they are specially admired to-day by all Canadians. Lord Strathcona belongs, so to speak, to our heroic age. Though a Scotchman born, he is a Canadian of the Canadians.

Life in Labrador.

"Most notable of the officers of the first rank who have conducted the fur trade in Labrador is Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the present governor of the company. Coming out at eighteen, Donald Alexander Smith, a well-educated Scotch lad, related to Peter and Cuthbert Grant, and the brothers John and Valen Stuart, prominent officers, whose deeds in the Northwest Company are still remembered, the future governor began his career. Young Smith on arriving at Montreal (1838) was despatched to Moose Factory, and for more than thirty years was in the service, in the region of Hudson's Bay and Labrador. Rising to the rank of chief trader after fourteen years of active service, he reached in ten years more the acme of desire of every aspirant in the company, the rank of chief factor. His years on the coast of Labrador, at Rigoletto and its subordinate stations, were most laborous. The writer has had the privilege from time to time of hearing his tales, of the long journey along the frozen coast, of camping on frozen islands, without shelter, of storm-stayed journeys rivaling the recitals of Ballantyne at Fort Chimo, of cold receptions by the Moravians, and of the doubtful hospitalities of both Indians and Eskimos. Every statement of Cartereal, Gilbert, or Cabot of the inhospitable shore is corroborated by this successful officer who has lived for thirty years since leaving Labrador to fill a high place in the affairs both of Canada and the Empire."

So writes Professor George Bryce in "The Remarkable History of the Hudson's Bay Company."

A Life of Adventure.

A biography of Lord Strathcona would be excellent reading for Canadian youths. In his old age he is thought of as an administrator, a financier, a philanthropist, a man of thought, in short, rather than a man of action. But he lived a most strenuous life, one of adventure and exposure to all kinds of danger and hardship. Only a man of great courage, endurance, and resourcefulness could have survived the conditions of existence in the continental wilderness over which he so many years wandered. If he chose, he could, as Professor Bryce hints, unfold a tale of hair-breadth escapes not less moving than those poured by Othello into the ear of Desdemona.

Riel's Second Rebellion.

When Rupert's Land was transferred by the Hudson's Bay Company to the Dominion of Canada, in 1869, Lord Strathcona's part in the political history of Canada began. The company gave up unwillingly the vast tract of 2,300,000 square miles, for which it received only £300,000. It did not use its influence with its late Metis subjects to reconcile them to the change of rulers. These under Riel broke out in rebellion. They took possession of Fort Garry, now Winnipeg. To tranquillize the situation the Dominion Government sent as special commissioner Donald A. Smith, now Lord Strathcona. He was eminently qualified by his knowledge of the West and of the half-breed character. He arrived on December, 27 1869. The disorder is described in his own language: "The state of matters at this time was truly humiliating. Upwards of fifty British subjects were held in close confinement as political prisoners; security for persons or property there was none. * * * * * * * * * The leaders of the French half-breeds had declared their purpose to use every effort for the purpose of annexing the territory to the United States."

His negotiations with Riel were carried on with caution. The rebel leader tried to intercept Mr. Smith's commision on the way from Pembina. The commissioner obtained consent to address the people. Upwards of a thousand assembled in the open air to hear him, the temperature being 20 degrees below zero. The result was the election of delegates to a convention, which, however, adopted a second bill of rights, formed a provisional government, but out of which peace ultimately came.

Services in this crisis were followed by work in Parliament and by labor in behalf of the transcontinental railway which has done so much for Canada. The efforts of Donald A. Smith were crowned by his elevation to the peerage, an honor well earned and worthily bestowed.

68,000 Specimens Added.

A magnificent collection of 68,000 specimens of insects, plants, reptiles, batrachians and shells has recently been added to the Ontario Government museum.

The Rule Suited Him.

The new boarder had been three weeks in the house. "It is usual," said the landlady, with great delicacy, "for my boarders to pay as they go."

"Oh, that's all right," he replied affably. "I'm not going for a long time."

The duel in the dark was a favorite with duelists. Two men were locked in a dark room and crawled stealthily from corner to corner, until some false step made one of them the target for bullet or blade.

Life is a duel in the dark with disease. One false step, one mistake, and the attack comes swift and sudden. The mistake which commonly opens the way for an attack by disease is neglect of the symptoms of stomach trouble. When eating is followed by undue fullness, belchings, sour or bitter risings, etc., disease is attacking the stomach.

The best way to frustrate such an attack is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and makes the body strong and healthy.

"I was suffering very much with my head and stomach," writes Mrs. W. C. Gill, of Weldon, Shelby Co., Ala., "head was so dizzy when I would raise up in bed would fall right back. Could eat but very little, in fact scarcely anything, there seemed to be a heavy weight in my stomach so I could not rest. I had to belch very often and would vomit up nearly everything I ate. I was in a bad condition. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and five of his Favorite Prescription and am now well and hearty. I feel like a new woman and give Dr. Pierce's medicines credit for it all. I had taken medicine from physicians without any benefit as I could see."

LIFE ON A FARM.

Particularly Trying to the Wives and Daughters.

A Place Where Woman's Work is Never Done—The Reason why Their are so Many Prematurely Aged and Worn out Women.

It has been very truly said that "woman's work is never done," and this is, perhaps, especially true when applied to the wives of Canadian farmers, who are kept busy with their manifold duties from daylight till dark, and who find, even under the most favourable circumstances, but little time for relaxation and social enjoyment. They are a class of women whose pluck and endurance everyone must admire, they are helpmates in the broadest sense of the word, and unfortunately too often pay the penalty either in a complete breakdown of health, or in prematurely aged appearance. A case in point is that of Mrs. J. Marais, the wife of a well known and well-to-do farmer, living near Riviere du Loup, Que. Mrs. Marais is the mother of a large family, and like her husband, was ambitious for their welfare. As a consequence she overtaxed her strength, and after the birth of her last child failed to regain her former health. Several months passed and still Mrs. Marais was confined to her bed. Her strength had completely passed away. She was troubled with headaches, was extremely nervous, subject to pains in the back, and unable to take food with relish. She was under the care of more than one doctor, but did not regain her strength, and her family and friends believed that there was but little hope for her recovery. Then a neighbour strongly advised her to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and she began doing so. Soon, under the use of the pills, she began to recover her strength, was able to be up and go about. Day by day further beneficial results followed the continued use of the pills until after the use of eight boxes Mrs. Marais was fully restored to her old-time health and vigor. She speaks of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in very warm terms, and loses no opportunity to praise them.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a boon to overworked, weary and despondent women everywhere. Every pill helps increase the flow of rich, red blood through the veins, stimulates the nerves, and in this way restores health, strength and vitality. Only the genuine pills can do this, however, and the purchaser should see that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around every box. If in doubt send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Comets and Women.

The analogy between comets and women once formed the subject of the following peroration from an evening contemporary: "Comets doubtless answer some wise and good purpose in the creation; so do women. Comets are incomprehensible, beautiful and eccentric; so are women. Comets shine with peculiar splendor, but at night are most brilliant; so are women. Comets are enveloped with a lucid nebula through which their forms are visible; so are those of women in their light and elegant attire. Comets confound the most learned when they attempt to ascertain their nature; so do women. Comets equally excite the admiration of the philosopher and of the clod of the valley; so do women. Comets and women are therefore closely analogous, but, the nature of each being inscrutable, all that remains for us to do is to view with admiration the one and to love the other to adoration."

Menelek and the Missionary.

A story is told of an attempt made by a Swedish missionary to obtain a foothold in Abyssinia. No sooner had he begun to preach than he was brought before King Menelek, who asked him why he had left his home in Scandinavia in order to come to Abyssinia. The missionary promptly replied that he had come to convert the Abyssinian Jews. "Are there no Jews in your country?" asked Menelek. The missionary admitted that there were a few. "And in all the countries that you have passed through did you find no Jews or heathens?" the king continued. "Jews and heathens," the missionary admitted, "are plentiful." "Then," said Menelek, "carry this man beyond the frontier and let him not return until he has converted all the Jews and heathen which lie between his country and mine."

An Arab Legend.

"There is none so poor but there is one poorer."

A poor Arab spent his last bara on a handful of dates and went up on a high cliff to eat them and die. As he threw the stones over a lean hand shot out below and caught them.

"Ho!" said he. "Why do you catch my date stones?"

"Because, O brother," answered a weak voice, "I have not eaten these three days, and Allah has sent these stones to save my life."

"Praise be to Allah," answered the first man, "for he has saved me also, for here is one poorer than I."

And both men went into the city.

Malleable Glass of the Egyptians.

Strabo and Josephus both affirm that the Egyptian glass workers were so well skilled in their art that they imitated the amethyst and other precious stones to perfection. Malleable glass was one of the secret arts of the ancients, the formula for making it being now reckoned as lost. Strabo mentions a cup of glass which could be hammered into any desired shape, the material of which it was composed being as ductile as lead.

Too Much Argument.

Dar's a good deal in argyment, but it can also be overdone. As long as Uncle Moses believed in sulphur and brimstone he let my cabbages strictly alone. When I had argyed him into believin' dat no sich place existed he cleaned out my truck patch in one night.

Irreverence is the brand of ignorance.

DRINK AND LUNACY.

Much of Latter Caused by Adulteration of the Former

In 1859 there was one insane person to every 536 sane individuals. The average has since risen until now one person in every 299 is mentally afflicted.

"What is the reason of this?" asked Professor H. W. White, in delivering his presidential address to the members of the Medico-Psychological Association, at London, England.

One cause was the fact that fewer eligible aliens settled in the country and intermarried with our people. There was therefore less infusion of fresh blood into the race than was formerly the case. The foreigners who did land on our shores tended to weaken the stock, for they were mostly town dwellers of poor physique, with constitutions undermined by disease.

The frequent marriages of neurotics with those inheriting the taint of insanity was another cause, and the increased tendency to marry late in life was anything but desirable. The abuse of alcohol was another great cause of lunacy. We were now a spirit drinking race, which we were not half a century back.

"There is no standard of purity for these spirits," said the speaker. "If the adulteration by noxious constituents be important factors in the causation of insanity, should not the Legislature enforce both the maturity and the purity of all alcoholic drinks?"

The survival of the weaklings who would formerly have died in infancy, the fact that we are rapidly becoming a nation of town dwellers, unnatural excitement, over-education, late hours, badly selected and badly cooked food, and overcrowding were all responsible causes for the terrible increase in the lunacy returns.

Cannon Lamp Posts.

The earlier lamp-posts in London, says The Magazine of Art, were evolved from the cannon discarded as obsolete or faulty after the Napoleonic wars. These actual service cannon were freely used at Woolwich and probably other garrison towns, as street corner-posts, the bore being plugged with oak to keep out the rain and refuse, the emerging end of the plug being shaped in hemispherical form to represent the issue of a cannon-ball. Later on these real cannon were superseded by imitation iron castings, the half cannon-ball and all. This cannon pattern for corner-posts found its way to London, where it may still be seen in many of our older streets and squares. From the unenlarged corner-post of the cannon pattern emerged the lamp-post of the period, which is familiar in London to this day.

Suffered Ten Years

"I suffered for ten years with bronchitis and was unable to work for months at a time, then I used Angier's Petroleum Emulsion and it made me feel like a new man."—Robert Weir, Toronto Canada. 12a

The Antiquity of the Ballet.

Strictly defined, the ballet is properly a theatrical exhibition of the art of dancing in its highest perfection, complying generally with the rules of the drama as to its composition and form. It was in existence in Italy as far back as A. D. 1500, the court of Turin in that day making especial use of it and the royal family and nobles taking part in it. The ballet was first introduced in France in the reign of Louis XIII., and both that monarch and Louis XIV. occasionally took part in its dances.

In its earliest presentation the ballet appeared dexterously in combination with the other theatrical acts and is said to have "completed the chaotic medley exhibited in these spectacles, which were at once mythological, allegorical, fantastic, warlike and pastoral." The reader will not be slow to observe that its development in the present day has not apparently lost sight of these conditions.

About the year 1700 women made their first appearance in the ballet, which up to that time had been performed exclusively by men, as was the case also with plays and operas, but no woman ballet dancer of any note appeared until 1790.

THE COLDSTREAM GUARDS.

Their Famous Band's Visit to Peterborough—The Finest in the Service.

The news flashed across the cables that His Majesty, King Edward VII. has graciously consented to leave of absence being granted to the Band of the Coldstream Guards to proceed to Canada for the purpose of playing at the Dominion Exhibition and in the other principal cities has arouses great enthusiasm throughout this loyal Dominion. It is the first time in history that an army regimental band has been permitted to visit Canada for the purpose of giving concerts. The Coldstream Guards is the oldest regiment in the British service and their band is now recognized not merely as the finest in the Guards regiments but also in the service. The band will be the complete regimental strength comprising 46 musicians and will be under the direction of their bandmaster J. Mackenzie Rogan. During their absence from London the duties of this band will be taken over by the other bands of the Household Brigade. On tour they will be assisted by a very talented lady vocalist.

Arrangements have been made for the Coldstream Guards to visit Peterborough and they will be heard on Wednesday, Sept. 23rd at the new rink, Brock street.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.

A NOVEL CRIME.

Is Singing and Praying a Transgression of the Criminal Code?

The four Salvation Army persons who were convicted of creating disorder in the streets of Galt by singing and praying were fined $1 and costs or 30 days in jail. They refuse to pay the fine and will not appeal against their conviction. Now we shall see if the Galt authorities have the moral or immoral courage of their conviction, and will send these four people to jail for "singing and praying".

CANADA IRON FOUNDRY WORKS.

The Strike at Toronto Junction Affects Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says that the strike of the iron moulders at Toronto Junction is now being felt here. The local moulders have been notified from Toronto that work is being done for the Canada Iron Foundry in several of the Montreal shops. A meeting was held to-night, when the matter was fully discussed. Evidence was submitted that a number of what were called strike patterns from Toronto Junction had been received at several of the foundries here, and that a little work had been done on them. It was decided to send for a representative of the union at Toronto to come to Montreal, so that the matter could be placed before him. An officer of the Montreal union explains the situation as follows:—"We cannot allow our men to work on goods for the Canada Iron Foundry Company while the moulders at Toronto Junction are on strike for better conditions. It would be absurd. The matter is most important to all our members. Should a strike be precipitated it would be difficult to estimate the loss to the business interests of the city, and for that reason we will do everything possible to avoid a conflict, but it must be at once understood that the iron and brass moulders in this city will not be allowed to perform work for the Canadian Iron Foundry Company as long as there is a strike on in that foundry. It is not a question of rates of wages or hours of labour with us, but a matter of principle." A strike is scarcely probable.

Having bought out the business and stock of the Singer Supply Co., most of which is now sold, I have had another lucky chance to pick up a large consignment of still better bargains. By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

LANSDOWNE MAY GO

Storm Aroused by the Report of the War Commission.

LONDON CHRONICLE'S BLAST

Considers Lord Lansdowne's Presence in the Foreign Office a National Danger, and Proposes Monster Petition to King Edward Asking for Foreign Secretary's Dismissal — Impeachment Is Not Practical.

London, Sept. 8.—(A. P. Despatch).—As an outcome of the disclosures made in the report of the South African War Commission, it is rumored in well-informed quarters here that the resignation of Lord Lansdowne, the former War Secretary and present Foreign Secretary, may be expected shortly.

It is added that he will be succeeded as Foreign Secretary by Mr. Brodrick, the present War Secretary, and that Mr. Wyndham, the Irish Secretary, will be head of the War Office. A meeting of the Cabinet will be held shortly for the purpose of discussing the fiscal question now before the country, but it is generally believed that the attitude of the people with respect to the findings of the War Commission, as shown by the proposal to send a monster petition to King Edward for Lord Lansdowne's dismissal, and by the publication of cartoons illustrating his incompetency, will be considered, and that something will be determined upon as necessary to stem the tide of indignation now flying against the ministry.

Impeachment Not Practicable.

The Daily Chronicle considers Lord Lansdowne's presence in the Foreign Office a national danger, but thinks impeachment is not practicable, as it is so long since a Minister has been impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors that to the man in the street the process savors of mediaevalism.

It is a long time since such language as The Chronicle uses has been heard with regard to a Minister of the Crown. "There is no excuse," it says, "for Lord Lansdowne's failure in duty. It was the result of indolence and the sacrifice of the nation's safety to his own personal convenience, and it has been avowed by the culprit with a cynical disregard for the feelings of those who have suffered so cruelly. The indictment against Lord Lansdowne is proved up to the hilt by his own evidence. He refuses to resign. The nation must extort his resignation under circumstances that will inflict upon him indelible disgrace."

Then The Chronicle urges a monster petition "reciting the heads of Lord Lansdowne's offences and praying the King to dismiss his unworthy Minister."

COREAN RAILWAYS.

Japan Seems to Have Been Able Diplomatically For Russia.

London, Sept. 8.—The Times' correspondent at Pekin telegraphs: "Though they may be officially contradicted, the following particulars of the Russo-Japanese negotiations are reported in too circumstantial and persistent a form to be disregarded. In a memorandum that the Japanese minister presented to Count Lamsdorffi the Russian Foreign Minister, provision was made for the mutual recognition of the respective railway rights of the two powers in Manchuria and Corea, each power to define its rights and have authority to guard its railways and send troops for the suppression of disturbances within its sphere. In this connection it should be noted that Japan has very extended proferential rights for railway construction in Corea."

Japan Buys an Island.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—The following despatch has been received here from Port Arthur: "The purchase by the Japanese of the small island of Sambak, near Mok-Do, which is strategically important, has caused a considerable sensation in Corea."

RAILWAY'S BIG REPORT.

C.P.R. Rolling Stock to Be Added to as Rapidly as Possible.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—The annual report of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was issued yesterday. The report says that of the proceeds of the sale of $19,500,000 ordinary shares, there had been expended to the end of the fiscal year $17,228,953, and there were orders outstanding for cars and locomotives, undelivered, amounting to $1,221,865. Since then additional orders have been placed to the amount of $1,351,000, and it is proposed to continue the policy of increasing the rolling stock equipment as rapidly as circumstances will permit, until the company is well ahead of its immediate requirements. When these contracts have been filled, the proceeds of the issue of common shares, as well as the amount of $3,000,000 appropriation from surplus earnings, will have been absorbed.

In order that the work of bringing the property to a high state of efficiency the shareholders will be asked to authorize the directors to expend $4,500,000 of capital for general purposes.

The land sales of the year amounted to 2,639,617 acres, the price being $9,695,673.

Detroit, Sept. 8.—Renie Bastien, a grocer of Walkerville, is now at St. Mary's Hospital, Detroit, in a very dangerous condition. Both of his legs have been cut off, and he may not live. He was run down by a street car.

CANADA'S LABOR DAY.

Sir William Mulock on Capital and Labor —Minister of Labor Says They Should Be Allies, Not Enemies.

Port Colborne, Sept. 8.—Labor Day was duly celebrated here yesterday, and fully 5,000 people assembled in the Lakeview Grove, where speeches, games and dancing formed part of the day's program. Brief speeches were made by the following gentlemen: Sir William Mulock, Postmaster-General and Minister of Labor; W. M. German, M.P.; J. L. Weller, Superintendent of Welland Canal J. F. Gross, M.P.P., and others.

Sir William Mulock's Speech.

Sir Wm. Mulock's speech was a plea that employer and employee unite for the best interests of Canada. In opening he returned thanks for the honor of being present, and after congratulating the union on its progress and general advancement, pointed out that the success of the cause of labor depended on its being guided by moderation and justice. He counselled the men to think well for themselves on all questions concerning their welfare.

It was a mistake to suppose that either capital or labor would thrive upon injury to the other. Instead of regarding each other as enemies they should consider themselves as allies. Loyal co-operation between the two was necessary to mutual success. He dwelt at length upon the injury that frequently followed from lockouts and strikes. Extreme steps ought to be avoided until peaceful methods had failed.

Sir William referred to the great future in store for Canada if her people, upon which he had no doubt, were true to their best interest. The development of Canada depended on the industrial classes, and their well doing was a subject of deep concern to all who wished well to the country.

Throughout his speech Sir William was frequently greeted with applause, and at the conclusion the meeting gave three cheers for the first Minister of Labor in Canada.

Mr. German in a brief speech congratulated Port Colborne on her success, and expressed his welfare in the interest of the people. Mr. Battle delivered an eloquent address on the subject of labor, and Mr. McMahon followed in a similar strain.

Celebrations Elsewhere.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—3,500 workingmen in line, with appropriate floats, marched through principal streets to the wharf, where ferries were taken to the Island. Here games and speeches by prominent labor men were the order of the day. A baby show proved to be a howling success, and no fewer than 258 babies were examined and passed upon by the committee of judges. Rain marred the later proceedings of the day.

London, Sept. 8.—Queen's Park was the scene of the Labor Day celebration after the procession though the principal streets. Sports and amusements were the order of the afternoon.

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—A large parade, through drenching rain, marked Labor Day in this city.

Brockville, Sept. 8.—Perfect weather and a shining sun were the pleasant natural features of Labor Day here. Local labor men were augmented by large excursions from many tributary points.

St Catharines, Sept. 8.—Rain spoiled Labor Day here, although 1,500 men marched, with six bands in line, to the lacrosse grounds, where a lengthy program of speeches and games was gone through under a steady rain. Mr. Lancaster, M. P., and Dr. Jessop, M.P.P., were among the speakers.

Syracuse, Sept. 8.—President Roosevelt reviewed the labor parade and the parade of the National Association of Letter Carriers here yesterday.

Trades Union Congress.

Leicester, Eng., Sept. 8.—The trades union congress opened its sessions here yesterday. There were 469 delegates (representing 250 trades and a million and a half men) present. America was represented.

Girl Broke Her Ankle.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—With a broken leg, Gladys Whitney was taken to Grace Hospital about 5.30 last night. Miss Whitney was boarding a car at the Exhibition grounds for home, when she missed her step and fell. Her left leg got caught in some way, breaking just above the ankle.

Wanted to See the Babies.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—David Cox, of London, Ont., fell from a tree at Centre Island yesterday afternoon, breaking his right arm. Cox, who is about 15 years of age, had climbed a tree to watch the proceedings at the Baby Show, when he lost his bulance and fell.

BIG CROP AFTER ALL.

Threshers Report 3,000 Bushels Put Through in One Day.

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—Reports coming in from the districts where threshing is general are to the effect that the work is being cleaned up rapidly. The straw is light and can be handled easily. The product of one hundred acres in some cases put through in a day.

A report comes from Emerson that one machine working in that locality threshed 2,800 bushels in a day, and a thresher in the Carman district reports 3,000 as a days' record for his machine.

The yield is heavier than estimated. A gentleman writing to a business friend in the city says that although the wheat crops in the Indian Head district in 1901-02 were considered "bumpers," the yield this season will be fully 10 per cent. heavier.

HONORED LABOR DAY

House of Commons Adjourned at 1 O'clock Monday.

CANADIAN ASSOCIATED PRESS

The News Service Bill Passed After Explanations of Its Scope by Hon. Mr. Fielding—Expected to Support Itself After Five Years—Mr. Preston's Butter Interview Published in Toronto.

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—There was a slim attendance at the House, and, in view of the desire of many members to participate in the Labor Day celebration, the Premier acquiesced in Mr. Monk's suggestion for an adjournment at 1 o'clock. A lengthy discussion took place on the subsidy to the Canadian cable news service, the bill being eventually passed. The only other bill taken up was a minor amendment to the Mounted Police act.

The Committee on Banking and Commerce reported the bill authorizing the Western Assurance Company to establish a transfer office in London, England.

Mr. Preston and Canadian Butter.

Mr. Henderson brought to the attention of the Minister of Agriculture an interview Mr. W. T. R. Preston, published in a Toronto paper, in which the gentleman was reported to have reflected upon the quality of Canadian butter exported to England. He suggested that the interview, if published in English papers, might materially injure the reputation of Canadian butter.

Mr. Bell of Pictou was informed that from July 1, 1902, to June 30, 1903, 230 tons of Canadian mail, consisting of 48¾ tons of letters and postcards and 190¼ tons of other matter were sent via New York.

Canadian Cable Service.

In committee on the bill "To assist in establishing and maintaining an independent and efficient service of telegraphic news from Great Britain, for publication in the Canadian press," Mr. Fielding said that in the past our cable service from London reached us through United States channels, and the Government had agreed to assist the newspapers in obtaining a purely Canadian service. It was proposed to form a company in which all the newspapers participating would be shareholders. These would include all the leading papers in the Dominion, the service being open to all alike, the Government would contribute $15,000 per year for the first three years, $10,000 for the fourth and $5,000 for the fifth year, the newspapers contributing dollar for dollar with the Government. By the fourth year the service was expected to be self-sustaining. It would be run by the newspapers and there would be no Government interference. Since the service had been started it had given satisfaction. Mr. Fielding added that the negotiations had been conducted principally by Mr. J. S. Brierly and Mr. J. E. Atkinson, who were selected by the journalists to represent them.

Col. Hughes' Lack of Confidence.

Col. Hughes said he understood from the Minister of Finance, who had mentioned the names of Messrs. Brierly and Atkinson, that these gentlemen, although in the association, did not control it; yet they were the gentlemen who are to use and control the money. If that were so, he thought it would be quite unsatisfactory. He further intimated that he had no confidence in these gentlemen.

Mr. Fielding replied that he had every reason to believe the arrangements were to the entire satisfaction of the Canadian press, which had to pay out more than a dollar for every dollar the Government paid, and they would consequently watch the expenditure very closely. Messrs. Atkinson and Brierly came to him in the first instance, and subsequently Mr. Atkinson had forwarded a communication to him, as Chairman of the committee appointed by the press, and he had acted with the full confidence of the Canadian press generally.

Capt. Hackett and Mr. Hughes of Prince Edward Island, drew attention to the high cable rates to the Island, and asked if nothing could be done to remedy it, but Mr. Fielding replied that that was a matter entirely apart. He also said the question of copyright would have to be decided by the association themselves, but if any injustice was liable to be done, the Government would step in and make regulations.

The bill was reported without amendment and given its third reading.

The Mounted Police Act was also passed.

Protest Against Adjournment.

Mr. McCreary and Mr. Oliver protested against the adjournment, when the session had already lasted so long. Mr. Oliver said that it had become a public scandal.

Mr. Monk contended that the labor interests should be observed to the extent of adjourning.

The House adjourned at 12.55 p. m.

TO KILL THE PRESIDENT.

German in Syracuse Locked Up to Save Roosevelt's Life.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The police charge John Miller, a German, who was arrested here yesterday afternoon at his home, with having threatened to shoot President Roosevelt during his stay in this city. He denies that he made any threats against the President's life and claims that the woman through whom the police learned of it is lying.

RUSH FOR ADMITTANCE.

120,000 People Make the Exhibition's Greatest Record of Attendance—Beats Li Hung Chang's Day.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—The Dominion Exhibition wrote a new record of attendance yesterday. The management thinks the figure will be close to 120,000. Because of the volume of business the auditors could not be definite last night. The welcome accorded Li Hung Chang brought out 110,000. This was the high water mark until yesterday, and it is the country's tribute to Labor Day. All the entrances were blocked for a time with a surging mass of people and it was once contemplated asking the street railway to stop their cars for a time. At one time there were 3,000 people around the ticket offices, and really good temper prevented serious disorders.

The directors entertained the visiting British Parliamentary party, and speeches were delivered by Lieut.-Gov. Clark, Lord Lyveden, Col. Sadler, Mr. Doughty, M.P. for Grimsby, Eng., Sir Horace Tozer, and Senator Belque, Montreal.

In the dairy building Prof. Mills of the Ontario Agricultural College, delivered an address on the work done by the experimental farm to a packed house.

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Miss Alice M. Smith, of So. Minneapolis, Minn., tells how woman's monthly suffering is permanently relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I have never before given my endorsement for any medicine, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has added so much to my life and happiness that I feel like making an exception in this case. For two years every month I would have two days of severe pain and could find no relief, but one day while visiting a friend I ran across Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,—she had used it with the best results and advised me to try it. I found that it worked wonders with me; I now experience no pain, and only had to use a few bottles to bring about this wonderful change."—Miss Alice M. "THE WEE McGREGOR" TAKS THE ROON TRIP.

He Steps out of J. J. Bells New Story to Make the Grand Tour.

Interesting Bit Sketch o't by a Toun Sang Callant.

(With apologies to J. J. Bell)

By "SCOTTIE."

"Ma," said Wee McGregor, after every one had got comfortably settled after tea—"Ma, can we no gang up tae Stony Lake."

"Dae ye hear whet McGregor says, John? He's wantin' up the Lakes."

John, thus addressed, laid his paper aside and stroked his beard in a truly Scotch fashion.

"Weel, lassie, its no for me tae say, but ma ain opeenion is that we shud a' tak a jaunt and gang whet they ca' the 'roon trip.'"

"Pa," McGregor chimed in, "what wey dae they ca' it the 'roon trip?'"

"Dod, McGregor, yer aye speerin', and truth tae tell, I dinna ken, but I've nae doot it's jist ain o' they fancy names they Canadians ges tae things."

On hearing this John's wife looked up annoyed. She had a strong objection to anyone saying anything against Canadians, as she would proudly claim that they were "weel connected" in Canada, her grandfather's second cousin having been born in Quebec.

By the way his wife took off her specs, John knew that he was in for it.

"John, hoo often hae I tell't ye no tae fill up McGreegor's hed we things against the Canadians? Ye ken weel they are jist braw, canny-gaun, daycent folks,"—after a pause — "jist like oorsels."

"A' richt, lassie, ye ken best, but whot dae think aboot the Lakes?"

"Jist as ye say, John."

By this Wee McGregor knew that everything was settled, and was already trying to stand on his head on the floor, much to the delight of his little sister, Jeannie, who sat in her bay's safety chair sucking the ivory handle of the soup ladle.

"McGregor," said his mother, "get up oot o' that; ye'll jist wear a hole in yer stockin."

"Oh, leave the puir laddie alane," said the sympathetic father, "besides he's got his auld breeks on."

The next day happened to be Civic Holiday, and the early worm, were he up early enough, would see a busy household at the McGregor's. The early worm—a Canadian one — would certainly gaze with astonishment at the unusual scene. "Who," it seemed to say, "are these two people up so early." Ah, worm, know ye not that these are the McGregors, man and wife, straight from auld Scot'a, bringing with them the scent of the heather, the taste of oat cakes and all that is nearest and dearest to Scotsman.

"And who," again quoth the worm, "is that little boy in petticoats?" Look once again, O worm, then diet diet for how can you look on such glory and live? Know ye not that that is "Wee McGregor," the character that made J J. Bell famous. Besides that's not a petticoat, it's a kilt!

"Ma," said Wee McGregor when the station was reached, "whet wey dae they ca' this the Grand Trunk System?

"Pa, I thocht it wes only elephants that had trunks."

John, thus addressed, could not refrain from smiling and was about to explain when the train came rushing in. Wee McGregor looked disappointed.

"Whet ails ye, McGregor," said his father.

Half sobbing McGregor replied: "It's jist like oor ain trains in Glasch, and I thocht the Grand Trunk was a shoogly neb thing like the elephants at the Zoo."

The train was boarded in safety and McGregor sat quietly looking out of the window. "Cigars, oranges, candies!"

McGregor was on his feet in a moment and his eyes sparkling with excitement, he bent eagerly forward to his father.

"Pa, dae the think that man will sell taiblet?"

"I dinna ken, ask him, McGregor."

McGregor turned round slowly and shyly asked the train hawker—

"Dae ye sell taiblet?"

"Eh?"

"Dae ye sell taiblet?"

The man looked puzzled for a moment and then passed on. Wee McGreegor could stand it no longer, and bursting into tears, he buried his face in his hands on his father's knee. The father himself looked sad, for he was thinking also—not of "taiblet" like the boy, but of the country where taiblet was made. One wonders who was the sadder. Who knows?

Stony Lake was reached in safety and, 'midst new surroundings McGregor's troubles of the train were soon forgotten. A pleasant day was spent rowing about the lake and many and varied were the questions put by Wee McGreegor, such as:—"Whit wey are there nae whales in Stony Lake?" "Whet wey's that boat ca'd the V.R.I.?" "Whet's that thing like a fire on the Sheriff's Island?" and so on.

The hour of departure came, but not before they had time to see a Stony Lake sunset. All day they had watched the sun ride high over the heavens, and now, away in the west it is seen like a ball of fire, seeming to rise and fall on the horizon, and casting around it on the sky and on the still waters, the many colored brilliant rays of its dying splendor.

* * * *

Even Wee McGreegor was awestruck—"Ma," said he, "This is as good as Scotland—nearly."

The father and mother looked at one another perhaps a little sadly.

"Aye, aye, McGreegor, yor richt—nearly."

Was Hovering Between Life and Death

A few days trial of Lactated Food will convince any intelligent mother that it is the right form of nourishment for her weak and puny baby. No other food can give such prompt and happy results at a time when the little one is hovering between life and death. A Montreal lady last August wrote as follows: — "My baby was so weak and sickly a few weeks ago that we despaired of her life. We tried nourishment of every kind, but could not get anything to remain on its stomach. We heard of Lactated Food, and commenced its use. There was an improvement the very first week, and to-day our baby is well and strong. Lactated Food saved her life." Sold at all Drug stores.

THE ILLUSTRATION POULTRY STATIONS.

Profitable and Highly Educative Department of Government's Missionary Work.

The criticism in the House of Commons on July 29th of the illustration poultry work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture was principally due to the fact that in government business the fiscal year (July 1st to June 30th) is used for the public accounts, instead of the calendar year (January 1st to December 31st). For that reason, necessary expenses occurred during the months of April, May and June in equipping an illustration breeding station with houses, incubators, brooders, eggs for hatching, etc., were shown in the report of the Auditor General before the house, while it was not possible to show in the same report the revenue derived from the sale of the chickens during the fall and winter, and which revenue will appear in the next year's report. This operated most unfairly against the Bowmanville, Ont., station which was established in the spring of 1902. The expenses of installing the station were $225.29 and the revenue shown in the report was only 66 cents. The revenue derived from the sale of the Bowmanville chickens after 1901-02 year closed ammounted to $326.84, so that this amount should be added to the 66 cents shown in the report. It is learned that of the $326.84, $105 .94 was paid to the station by the Wm. Davis Co., Toronto, Ont; $166.60 by Mr. Henry Gatehouse, Montreal, Que., and $27.25 by farmers in the vicinity of Bowmanville for pure bred cockerels and pullets for the improvement of their flocks of poultry.

STATIONS NOT RUN AT A LOSS.

The other illustration breeding stations were affected in the same way. The chickens at the Holmesville station were sold last year for $551.14. The chickens at the Bondville, Que., station realized $593.17. From the latter station two hundred and thirty-six pure bred barred Plymouth Rock chickens were shipped to the farmers of the Maritime Provinces and sold at fifty cents each. These pure bred cockerels and pullets proved very satisfactory, and requests have been received by the Department of Agriculture for more pure bred chickens this year. Aside altogether from the practical work that the illustration poultry stations are conducting and which is appreciated by the farmers of Canada, the revenue and expenditure account of the poultry division shows that the chickens reared at the stations pay a good profit above cost of feed and interest on the investment. The men in charge of the stations are farmers and are thus able to impart poultry knowledge most satisfactorily to other farmers of their locality. They address Farmers' Institute meetings and make exhibits at agricultural fairs. The financial and educational benefits to the farmers derived from the men in charge of these poultry stations is far in advance of the amount paid them in salary.

TRADE PROFITABLE AND INCREASING

Within the last few years the consumption of chickens has increased in Canada. The price realized for plump chickens has advanced. Both the increase in consumption and advance in price are due to the business of crate fattening chickens. The chickens that realize the highest market price to-day are chickens that are fatted and prepared for market in accordance with the directions issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Chickens from the Ontario and Quebec illustration stations were sold a few days ago to Mr. Henry Gatehouse for twelve cents per pound, live weight; and to the Canadian Produce Co., Toronto, Ont., for eleven cents per pound, live weight. These are profitable prices that can be obtained by any farmer shipping the same quality of chickens to Montreal or Toronto.

KILLING MARKET CHICKENS

The method of killing the chicken by dislocating its neck is different from the old-fashioned was of wringing or twisting the neck. When the chicken's neck is dislocated, and the head is pulled from the neck in the manner described in the bulletin, "Profitable Poultry Farming," the loose, unbroken skin of the neck forms a sack into which the blood of the chicken flows. The body of the chicken is as well drained of blood as if the head were cut off with an axe; the market appearance of the chicken is improved by killing by dislocation; the flesh of the chicken is more juicy and edible. On the contrary, when chickens are killed by twisting the neck, death results mainly from strangulation. The body of the chicken is not freed from blood on account of there being no space in the neck into which the blood can flow. The appearance of the flesh of the neck of the chicken that has been killed by twisting its neck is reddish and blood can be plainly noted in it. In several cities in Canada a law is in force prohibiting the sale of chickens that are killed by twisting the neck. Hence, the senselessness of the ridicule by certain members of the House in debate regarding the detailed directions in "Profitable Poultry Farming" for killing the chicken by dislocating its neck, and the absurdity of making the statement that dislocating the neck and wringing the neck are one and the same thing.

A BLOW FOR CARNEGIE.

Shipowner Tells of the Probable Effect of Friction Between U.S. and Canada re. Preferential Treatment.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 8.—A shipowner and merchant's letter to The Times says: "Carnegie knows that ports like New York draw shipments from longer distances to the detriment of small ports like Portland, but if ever friction should arise between Canada and the United States on account of its preference toward England, this would concentrate the whole trade of Canada through its own ports, which would not suit New York shipping people."

The Times, commenting on its correspondent's letter, re. child emigration to the colonies, says: "In thirty-four years 45,000 children have been sent to Canada."

Canadian Butter.

Anent D. Henderson, M. P. for Halton, denouncing as a libel on Canadian dairy products Mr. Preston's statement to the effect that Canadian butter sold in London was so inferior that he was obliged to purchase New Zealand butter for his own use, I have just had a conversation with the agricultural correspondent of The Times, who says: "Canada makes butter equal to Denmark's best, but does not send, like Denmark, its best butter to England."

The Financial News says: "However much Canada may profit from the stream of capital and experience from across the frontier, no one can say it needs American example as a stimulus to teach Canada what she is worth."

Predicts Free Trade Victory.

The Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Melbourne predicts a victory for free traders. He says "All political signs are against Chamberlain's preferential tariff scheme receiving any assistance from Australia."

Instructions have been promulgated to the army with the approval of the Secretary of War that extravagance amongst officers, individually and collectively, has been long forbidden by regulations. Commanding officers are instructed to see that the regulation is carried out, so that officers of moderate means may be able to live in the service.

Quite a number of towns in the vicinity of London have raised the price of the quarter loaf from five pence halfpenny to sixpence.

DEER! DEER!

Found out That the Trouser leg was Indigestible.

The Apsley correspondent of the Lakefield News writes to that paper as follows:

"While sitting in front of his house one night last week, Mr. John Harris was visited by a deer mother and fawn. They walked up to within a few steps of him and the calf attempted to chew his trouser leg. They went away finally without doing any damage to Harris and the respected the game law—seeing he didn't have a gun.

We devoutly hope there isn't a man in the northern woods mean enough to shoot a deer after it has shown the confidence these two harmless, innocent denizens of the forest did in Mr. Harris. Pothunting would be blooded sport beside such an outrage."

DANGER OF FAULTY ELECTRIC WIRING.

Some Rules Given by Insurance Inspector Wright.

Ottawa is having a good deal of controversy these days over insurance rates, and there has been considerable criticism of Mr. W. G. Wright, of Toronto, fire insurance inspector, who has himself been criticising the loose and dangerous style of wiring he asserts is too frequent in Ottawa. Mr. Wright seems able to suggest remedies as well as find faults. He gives a few rules as to electric wiring, as follows:—

1. $6,000,000 fire loss, 27 deaths, and 12 serious injuries reported in 1902 from defective electrical construction.
2. "In accordance with National Electrical Code" should be inserted in all contracts.
3. Employ competent men. Cheap work is dangerous to life and property.
4. Flexible cord and brass socket lamps in wet cellars and other wet places mean DEATH if handled. Rubber covered cables and keyless porcelain waterproof sockets should be used and safety handles provided.
5. Flexible cord must be kept off metal—nails, hooks, staples, etc. If it "must" be hung up use heavy cord, leather or wooden pegs to suspend it.
6. Lamps set fire to goods in contact with them. Beware of paper shades!
7. Trolley current is particularly dangerous. If using it send for our special instructions on Trolley Installation.
8. Flyings of cotton, etc., vapors of benzine, etc., are apt to be ignited. Avoid having key sockets, switches, fuses, or portable flexible cord near them.
9. A main double pole cut out and a "main double pole service switch" (knife preferred) at or near the point of entrance, in plain sight and "readily accessible" are essentials, and the latter should be turned off whenever light is not in use.
10. Wires and fixtures must be carefully insulated from actual contact with metallic ceilings.
11. All joints must be carefully soldered and taped.
12. Have your wiring inspected. Upon request we will inspect free of charge anywhere in Ontario.

GERRO'S BODY MANGLED.

G.T.R. Fireman Dies From Frightful Injuries in Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—A horrible accident occurred at the foot of Bathurst street on the G.T.R. tracks yesterday afternoon as a result of which William Gerro's mangled body lies at the Emergency Hospital. Gerro was a fireman in the employ of the Grand Trunk, and had left his engine and somehow walked in front of another engine. His right leg was taken off at the hip and right arm above the elbow, and his left foot was severed just above the ankle. He also received several ugly cuts about the head and in being crushed by the engine sustained severe internal injuries. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital, where he expired shortly after 6. He was conscious for a time while being conveyed to the hospital. He was about 30 years of age.

Through your Iron-ox Tablets I have received a great blessing. For years I was troubled with my stomach. I doctored with several good doctors and they told me I had dyspepsia, but I was sure it was not that which ailed me. At last I found out it was catarrh of the stomach, and they told me I could not be cured. It got so bad at last that my stomach had ulcers, and I suffered something awful. Being a commercial traveler I received a box of your Iron-ox Tablets free last winter. I took them right along and I noticed, when away from home and staying at hotels, eating different food, it did not hurt me as it always did before; so when that box was empty I bought two more and have since had two more, and I must say my stomach is fully restored to its old-time work. I never leave home without a box of Iron-ox Tablets with me, as I believe them to be the best thing for the stomach ever made. I have recommended them to a very great number of people. As I travel from one end of the country to the other I am well known. I am a member of the above firm and do the travelling for them, and everyone that knows how I suffered with my stomach knows the difference now. I would have written sooner, but waited to make sure it was lasting, and I feel sure it is. I must say it is the best remedy I have ever used, and I would not be without it. Hoping your Iron-ox may cure many as it has me, I am yours sincerely,

W. F. PAYNE.

PESTS MADE USEFUL.

Mice Earn Their Own Living and a Respectable Income.

Thrift is generally acknowledged to be one of the leading characteristics of the natives of Fifeshire, and it never was more forcibly exemplified than in the person of David Hatton, a native of Dunfermline, who actually proved that even mice, could be made not only to earn their own living, but also to yield a respectable income to their owners, says The Scotsman. About the year 1820 this gentleman actually erected a small mill at Dunfermline for the manufacture of thread—a mill worked entirely by mice. It was while visiting Perth prison in 1812 that Mr. Hatton first conceived this remarkable idea of utilizing mouse power. In an old pamphlet of the time, "The Curiosity Coffee Room," he gave an account of the way in which the idea dawned on him. "In the summer of the year 1812," he wrote, "I had occasion to be in Perth, and when inspecting the toys and trinkets that were manufactured by the French prisoners in the depot there my attention was involuntarily attracted by a little toy house with a wheel in the gable of it that was running rapidly round, impelled by the insignificant gravity of a common house mouse. For a shilling I purchased a house, mouse and wheel. Inclosing it in a handkerchief, on my journey homeward I was compelled to contemplate its favorite amusement. But how to apply half-ounce power, which is the weight of a mouse, to a useful purpose was the difficulty. At length the manufacturing of thread seemed the most practicable." Mr. Hatton had one mouse that ran the amazing distance of eighteen miles a day, but he proved that an ordinary mouse could run ten and one-half miles on an average. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal was sufficient for its support for thirty-five days, during which it ran 736 half miles. He had actually two mice constantly employed in the making of sewing thread for more than a year. The mouse threadmill was so constructed that the common house mouse was enabled to make atonement to society for past offences by twisting and reeling from 100 to 120 threads a day. Sundays not excepted. To perform this task the little pedestrian had to run ten and one-half miles and this journey it performed with ease every day. A halfpenny's worth of oatmeal served one of these threadmill culprits for the long period of five weeks. In that time it made 8,350 threads of twenty-five inches, and as a penny was paid to women for every hank made in the ordinary way, the mouse, at that rate, earned 9 pence every six weeks, just one farthing a day or 7 shillings and 6 pence a year. Taking 6 pence off for board and allowing 1 shilling for machinery, there was a clear yearly profit from each mouse of 6 shillings. Mr. Hatton firmly intended to apply for the loan of the old empty cathedral in Dunfermline, which would have held, he calculated, ten thousand mouse mills, sufficient room being left for keepers and some hundreds of spectators. Death, however, overtook the inventor before his marvellous project could be carried out.

Sketch of Sir George Bonham.

Sir George Bonham, British Minister at Belgrade, who has been temporarily withdrawn from the Servian Court to mark the British disapprobation of the assassination of King Alexander and his consort, was appointed Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary in the spring of 1900. Born in 1847, Sir George was educated at Eton and Oxford, where he graduated in law and history (honors) in 1868. He was nominated as an attache to St. Petersburg in the following year, and was transferred successively to Vienna, Rome, Lisbon, Madrid and Paris. In 1890 he became Charge d'Affaires at The Hague, and was promoted to be Secretary of Embassy at Madrid in 1893. He occupied a similar position at Rome from 1897 till his appointment to Belgrade. Sir George succeeded when only sixteen years of age to the baronetcy which had been conferred on his father for long and useful work in the public service, culminating in the Governorship of Hong Kong at a period when the relations between England and China were far from satisfactory. Sir George married a daughter of the Right Hon. Sir Andrew Buchanan, first Baronet. He owns a good deal of property round his seat at Knowle Park, near Guildford.

Mythical Canals of Mars.

At the last meeting of the Astronomical Society striking confirmation was obtained of the view that the "canals" in Mars are due for the most part to an optical delusion on the part of the observer. Astronomers are coming more and more to this view, its latest adherent being Professor Simon Newcomb. A drawing of the planet showing no canals was placed before classes of boys at Greenwich Hospital School, and they were required to make copies of it. Those placed nearest it drew no canals, but those further away delineated "canals" closely resembling those observed by Schiaparelli and others. It is probable that the eye becomes hypersensitive by long gazing at details which are imperfectly seen, being at the limit of visibility, and that the retinal blood vessels then convey impressions of "canals," to the vision-centre in the brain. The boys were quite unabashed, being unacquainted with any drawings of Mars. Probably Mars is not inhabited, and never will be, but it is very likely has been. It is now in the state which the earth will reach in three or four million years.

It is rumoured that Lord Lansdowne, former War Secretary, will resign.

One in Four Persons.

If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

Matthew Arnold's Test.

At Dean Stanley's Mr. McCarthy used to meet many famous men and women. In which connection he recalls how on one occasion the Dean, taking the hand of a new arrival, said: "Come here, Matt, and let me bring you face to face with the man who says you are only a miniature Goethe." The new arrival was Matthew Arnold, to whom Mr. McCarthy had applied this expression in his history. But it was somewhat embarrassing to have the fact recalled in this way. Matthew Arnold, however, happily relieved the situation by the observation: "If you could only convince me that I am a miniature Goethe, how proud you would make me!"—Westminster Gazette.

Six to One.

A well-known English surgeon was imparting some clinical instruction to half a dozen students who accompanied him in his rounds the other day. Pausing at the bedside of a doubtful case, he said: "Now, gentlemen, do you think this is or is not a case for operation?" One by one the students made their diagnosis and all of them answered in the negative. "Well, gentlemen, you are all wrong," said the wielder of the free and flashing scalpel, "and I shall operate to-morrow." "No, you won't," said the patient, as he rose in his bed; "six to one is a good majority; gimme my clothes."

JUDGE A. E. SUTHERLAND OF ROCHESTER, SHOT.

Accidental Discharge of a gun While Duck Shooting at Pigeon Lake Saturday.

His Honour Judge Arthur E. Sutherland, of Rochester, N. Y., is lying at the Nicholls Hospital suffering from wounds sustained through the accidental discharge of a gun. Notwithstanding the reticence of the hospital authorities and the attempt to withold from the public the facts of the case, it is learned that His Honour was out duck shooting at Pigeon Lake on Saturday evening about six o'clock, when the gun of one of his companions, distant only about twelve feet, accidentally discharged, the entire contents of the barrel entering Judge Sutherland's left forearm, about the hand and wrist. The wounded man was at once conveyed by special steamer to Chemong Park, where he was met and brought by carriage to Peterborough, arriving about noon Sunday. He is being attended by Dr. Hallilday, who removed all the grains of shot. Attending physicians do not think the accident will necessitate amputation of the arm. Mrs. (Judge) Sutherland arrived in town from Rochester yesterday and will remain here with her husband during his illness. Numerous telegrams have been received inquiring as to the condition of His Honour and it is reported that the invalid spent a very quiet night and is doing very well indeed. It will probably be three weeks before he will have recovered from his wound.

THE ATHLETICS WERE THE VICTORIOUS TEAM.

St. Kitts Met Their First Defeat in two Years at Athletics' Hands A Fighting Chance for Championship—Game was Fast and Clean.

The Young Athletics of St. Catharines, a lacrosse aggregation which until yesterday had won every game played since the team was organized, two years ago, went down to defeat in Stouffville at the hands of the winning Athletics of Peterborough, in a semi-final Junior C.L.A. game to the tune of 6—1, and the result places the locals in the possession of the undisputed championship of Eastern and Central Ontario, and no team deserves what honour may be attached to the position more richly than does that by which the honour has been won. They have attained the position which they now occupy by playing clean, scientific lacrosse, and Mr. Lennox, President of the C.L.A. but echoed the sentiments of all lovers of clean lacrosse, who have seen the Athletics play, when he stated to the Examiner yesterday that in his opinion the Peterborough aggregation was composed of a gentlemanly lot of players, and that the position to which they have attained was but the reward of merit.

The game yesterdny was witnessed by over 300 spectators, and the number would doubtless have been much larger, had it not been played on Labour Day, as many had left town to spend the day in Toronto and other places. But those who attended, certainly saw a game worth while, as good lacrosse was played by both teams, the disparity in the playing abilities of the two teams not being as great as the score would indicate.

The St. Catharines team won their right to play the Athletics by defeating the Elms of Toronto at Aurora, on Saturday by a score of 6—2, in a game which is described as having been hard and rough. The Elms had in their line-up men from Toronto, N. A. L. U., and other Senior teams. No doubt the effect of the Saturday game on the players influenced the result yesterday, but, it was a patent fact to all impartial witnesses, that even had the St. Kitts men been in the very best of condition, they would have stood but little show, against what is manifestly a vastly superior team.

The Athletics, unlike many sporting aggregations, which, after winning a few games come to have a very much inflated opinion of their abilities and cease practic, have been at work consistently ever since their last game played in Lindsay, and every night last week saw the full team on the practice grounds, the result of it being that every man was in good condition and able to play his position with credit to himself and the team. This consistency, characteristic of the Athletic players and their determination to avoid all abuse of themselves in every way, are perhaps, the most valuable assets possessed by the team, and in the practice of them they have set an example which many a team might, with considerable profit, imitate.

The game yesterday was not at any period exciting, because after the first few minutes' play, the result was never in doubt, and while towards the end of the game, the St. Kitts players put up a much better exhibition than at the beginning, their home utterly failed to penetrate the impregnable defence of the Athletics, and, on the rare occasions when they did come within shooting range of the net, their shots either went wide, or Clarke took good care of anything which looked like a score, and the one goal credited to them was practically a charity. For all that they have some very fine players, and after the home became warmed up in the second quarter they displayed some very pretty combination, but for the most part their passing was of the old order, very slow, and in painful contrast to that exhibited by the Peterborough boys.

Wood, in centre for St. Kitts, is a very active player, and played his position well. He is a good runner, and fairly accurate in giving passes, while in O'Gorham they have a find. He is altogether too fast for his company, and it frequently occurred that after he had made a spectacular run down the field, no one was in waiting to take his pass. The three Brat brothers are also good men. John, in goal distinguished himself by stopping a number of good shots from the sticks of the Peterborough players. Haines at inside home is a player who should develop into a valuable man. The fact is that the St. Kitts' home is a fairly fast aggregation, and against an ordinary defence should find little difficulty in scoring, but, against the defence played by the boys in blue yesterday, they were powerless. The game put up by St. Catharines was a good clean one, but one of their men being ruled off for rough play. Three of the Athletics were penalized for three minutes each, the offences being, however, but minor ones, and on the whole the game was a decidedly clean one, and the best of feeling prevailed between the two teams, the defeated team cheerfully acknowledging that they had met a superior organization, and one which deserved to win.

The Athletes have never been in better coditon to play a game than yesterday found them, the result of the practice in which they indulged; every man, from goal to inside home, played a magnificent game, and it would be impossible to particularize as the playing of each was highly commendable. Secretary Hall, of the C. L. A. was an interested spectator of the game, and to the Examiner he stated that he was much pleased with the work of the home on the Athletics team. He said they exhibited the nicest work he had ever seen on a junior team. They seemed to be able to work a combination play which was entirely too fast for the St. Catharines defence as they had to cope with a style of play which apparently was something new to them. Cavanagh at his old position at Inside Home, played a wonderful game, scoring 2 of the 6 goals, and making a number of sure shots on the net which Brat prevented from being recorded as scores. He was in perfect condition, and played his position in masterly style. In Glover he had an able partner, his passing being a feature of the game, while he assisted in almost every score made. Best, at 1st Home, played his usual brilliant game, which is saying all that need be said. He scored 2 goals and indulged in a number of his terrific drives, only to be robbed of a score by Brat in the St. Catharines net. O'Flynn played, if possible, even a better game than at Lindsay, eluding his check at will. He never failed to take a pass, and his throwing was accurate. Indeed this may be said of the entire Home, and was a feature much remarked upon by the many veteran lacrossists in Stouffville who witnessed the game. Wasson, who has figured in but one game this season prior to yesterday, proved of great value to the team. He plays a scientific game, and his work yesterday was the subject of some favourable comment. Pitted against Robertson in centre was Woods, easily the fastest man on the St. Catharines team, but "George" was always on the spot, and his steady, persistent work proved of incalculable benefit. He could always be depended upon when needed. The defence was greatly strengthened yesterday by the presence of Howell, who played a suberb game. Many times a dangerous situation was relieved by his timely intervention, particularly during the last half of the game, when the St. Catharines team got some nice combinations working. Mein and Dunsford, at 2nd and 3rd Defence, respectively, also must be given credit for some very effective work. They both gave ample evidence of their ability to play in fast company. Harry Morgan and Scott Ketchum were in their respective positions guarding the net, and well did they perform their duties. Clarke, in goal, looked after everything that came his way, and occasionaly as a little diversion would take a sprint up the field with the sphere.

THE GAME.

Referee, E. Pennock, of Stouffville.

Timekeepers, Geo. Kalls, of St. Catharines; W. Wilson, of Peterborough and R. C. Tefft, of Markham.

During the first quarter's play the Athletics had an easy time scoring and during this period succeeded in notching 4 goals, while St. Kitts failed to locate the nets once. The combination work of the Westerners was ragged, and play was confined almost entirely to their territory, seldom were they able to break away and bring the sphere into less dangerous ground. Immediately after the face-off St. Kitts goalkeeper's work started, his first stop being a hot one from Glover's stick, in 1-2 minute after play started. The first goal was scored in 2 1-2 minutes by Best, taking a pass from Cavanah This was followed by another in the same length of time, Wasson doing the trick. In 2 minutes Cavanah got his first one in the net, and there was then no question as to the result of the game. The St. Kitts team being entirely outclassed in every position on the field. The last score in the quarter was made by Cavanah in 6 1-2 minutes, and shortly after the Westerners made the only dangerous play of the quarter. O'Gorham and N. Brat made a good attempt at a running combination, but Ketchum was there waiting for them and the play was unavailing. The quarter ended, 4—0.

In the second quarter, and during the remainder of the game St. Kitts displayed much better form, but in spite of this the Athletics continued to increase their lead. One goal was scored in this quarter after 10 minutes play. Robertson scoring on a pass from Best who threw from behind the net. During this period Frank Brat was accidentally hurt and had to retire from the game until the last quarter, Wasson going off to even up.

The third quarter opened with a good exhibition of combination on the part of St. Kitts, in a vain attempt to score, and, failing this they threw the whole team except two men back on defence, and for the rest of the quarter a distinctively defence game was played by them, with the Athletics' home again and again making a rush on the nets. Best scored the last game for the Athletics after 15 minutes' play on a pass from Glover. The quarter ended with the score, Athletics, 6; St. Kitts, blank.

In the last quarter St. Kitts continued to do good work, and were rewarded after 19 minutes by a goal, scored by Barnett, with one minute left to play, and were thus saved a shut-out. The play during this period was very fast, and a much better exhibition of lacrosse was given. The result of the game, while it was a disappointment to the Western team, was acknowledged by them to be but what the superior work of the Athletics deserved.

Mr. Lennox, President, and Mr. W. H. Hall, Secretary of the C.L.A., both of whom witnessed the game, each gave the Examiner an interview and expressed themselves as being surprised and pleased at the showing made by the Athletics. They played the fastest game and deserved their win. They will probably be called upon to play one more semi-final game before going into the finals. Their opponents in the semi-final will in all probability be Durham, and should they succeed in defeating that team, the final game will doubtless be with Elora, which is looked upon as the fastest team in the West in Junior C.L.A. The first game will probably be played in Markham, while the final will take place in Toronto.

CAUGHT OFF THE STICKS.

About 100 supporters accompanied the team from Peterborough, and the blue and white ribbon was very much in evidence.

Mr. E. Pennock, of Stouffville, a member of the Port Hope team, referee the game, and gave perfect satisfaction. He kept the game going without any delays, and only 4 minutes over the actual playing time were required.

Mr. W. J. Green was one of the most interested spectadtors of the game. He is still as much a boy as any of them.

The Athletics had believed that should they win yesterday's game they would be placed in the finals, as they have already played 3 semi-final games.

Stouffville is the home of President Lennox, of the C. L. A., and has produced a number of fast lacrosse players in the past, although for two years no game has been played in the town.

Station Master Sandy, with his usual courtesy provided ample coach accommodation for the players and supporters.

T. A. S. EXCURSION.

The Biggest Outing of the Year to Jubilee Point.

"Success" floated from the mastheads of the fleet of boats and barges that conveyed the hundreds of T.A.S. excursionists to Jubilee Point on Labour Day, and the outing, both in the matter of attendance and genuine enjoyment was the most successful yet held by the Society. The day was an ideal one for an outing and the trip down the river was thoroughly enjoyed by all. On the different boats and barges first-class music was furnished for dancing and in the pavilion at Jubilee lovers of the "light fantastic" held high carnival. A pleasing feature of the excursion was the presence of about a dozen membrs of the T.A.S. band with their new leader, Mr. R. P. Broderick and really excellent music was furnished liberally during the day. The band came in for a shower of praise for the excellent work of their initial appearance.

During the afternoon an informal list of sports was run off for the benefit of the younger element and a scratch football match was a feature of the day

Rev. Dr. O'Brien, of course, was on board and did everything in his power to add to the pleasure of the excursionists. The return trip was a delightful one—the boats reaching the town wharf at an early hour.

The different committees who had the arrangements in hand are to be congratulated on the excellent results achieved.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING AND THE FRANCHISE

A Petition for To-night's Council Meeting.

The Subject put From a Popular Point of View Said to Have Been Signed by Over 300 Persons.

The following is a copy of the petition which, it is said, will be presented to the council to-night, and which, it is reported, has been signed by between three and four hundred persons.

To His Worship, the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:—

We, the undersigned ratepayers of the Town of Peterborough, desire to enter our protest against the passing of a certain by-law granting the exclusive franchise and right to the use of the streets of the Town of Peterborough for the term of thirty years to the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., for the following reasons:

1. That it is well understood that the representatives of the Street Railway Company are to receive the contract for lighting the streets of the town on their own terms and without competition and thereby receive as a bonus from the town at least $20,000 during the next ten years for undertaking to operate only five miles of the street railway.

2. The agreement on the part of the town to bear all the expense of removing the snow off the streets upon which the railway is operated during the next five years, is altogether out of proportion to the advantages received by the ratepayers, as it is carefully estimated that this will incur an annual expenditure on the part of the town of about $3,000, or in five years, $15,000. In addition to this the town has to pay 75 per cent of the expense of removing the snow during the next succeeding five years, and in addition to that the town has to be at the expense of paying 50 per cent. of the cost of removing the snow during the next succeeding twenty years. All of which will cost the town for removing snow during the next thirty years between $75,000 and $90,000.

3. The clause granting exemption from taxation for thirty years upon all the real and personal property, together with its income, is, to say the least, improvident, inasmuch as such exemption really means a bonus to the railway company of $2,000 per year during the next ten years, and if the town grows, as we all expect, the bonus by way of exemption for the remaining twenty years will be very probably nearer $4,000 per year, or for the whole period a total bonus of $100,000.

4. It is a great injustice to the working men, mechanics and ratepayers who own their property, that their taxes should be increased in order to pay thousands of dollars per year to a wealthy corporation for the luxury of having a defunct street railway resurrected.

5. That in any event a clause should be inserted in the agreement the same as there is in the street railway franchise of the City of Toronto, requiring the company to pay a percentage of its profits to the town.

6. That the company should now define the streets on which it proposes to operate the railway, and should not be given, as it has been done, a free hand to run freight cars over every street in town except Crescent street.

7. The town should reserve the right to grant to any electric railway the right to enter the town and make connections with any steam railway, factory or warehouse. As the agreement now stands the present company are given the exclusive right and the town is tied hand and foot against being allowed to take advantage of the great possibility of having electric railways from other towns and villages enter Peterborough.

For these reasons we respectfully demand that the by-laws affecting the street railway and street lighting be submitted to a vote of the ratepayers.

LABOUR DAY IN PETERBOROUGH.

An All-round Successful Celebration Held Yesterday.

RESULT OF UNITED EFFORT.

A Splendid Procession and Parade—A Fine Afternoon of Sports and Enjoyment—An Excellent Evening Concert —Labour on its Good Behaviour.

Yesterday was Labour's holiday in every part of the Dominion. Peterborough was favoured with splendid weather, though other parts of the country—Winnipeg, Stratford and Brantford were handicapped with heavy rain. Here there was a general holiday and a general suspension of business, the wheels of industry were idle, the fires banked, and all the working world and his family in their holiday attire were abroad to take their share in labour's holiday. While the organized bodies of labour very creditably did their duty, it is a pleasure to remark upon the generally excellent department that the general body of holiday observers maintained. In contrast to many public holidays, there was no, or almost no, visible evidences of excessive drinking and at ten o'clock at night the town was as quiet and peaceable as on an ordinary Sunday evening. It is very creditable to our labouring classes as a whole that they showed a restraint and steadiness of conduct on Labour Day, which might well be copied on other occasions by the representatives of other interests.

At ten o'clock or a little later the band of the 57th formed in front of the band hall and marched up George street to the grounds making the mellow September air resonant with melody. This was a signal for a general determination of the street throngs to the point of rendezvous.

At Murray street there was a scene of mild bustle. The flag-decked floats of the moundors and the cottage of the carpenters divided the attention of the onlookers, and on the T.A.S. athletic grounds efforts were made to get the procession into shape and motion. At length order was evolved from chaos, and the procession was formed. The official programme stated that the parade was to be led by the Musician's Union, and this was carried out in a much modified way. The Musicians Union was represented by the 57th Band, and this was split into two sections to serve for two sections of the procession.

At length everything was ready, the band struck up and the processionists struck out on their march to the merry music of the band and the cheers of the thousands who thronged the streets. The procession went in the following order:—

Section 1, 57th Regiment Band.
Sheet Metal Workers' Union, 40 strong.
International Machinists' Association, 40 strong.
Iron Mounders' Union, No. 191, 65 strong.
Iron Moulders' Working Foundry Float.
Custom Tailors' Union, 7 strong.
Second Section 57th Regiment Band.
Carpenters' Cottage Float.
Carpenters' sash, door, and blind float.
Carpenters' and Joiners' Union, 672, 35 strong.
Federal Union, 6 or 7 strong.
Barbers' Union, 7 strong.
Builders' Labourers' Union, 13 strong.
Leather Workers' Union, 20 strong.

The route of the procession, which was led by Mr. Alex. Dugan, mounted, President of the Labour Council, and chairman of the Demonstration Committee, was from Murray street to George street, on George to London, on London to Water, down Water to Charlotte, over Charlotte to Aylmer, up Aylmer to Hunter, on Hunter to George and to Murray street, the place of departure.

It may be said that the parade and the exhibition of floats was disappointingly small, but this much can be said, that any deficiency in quantity was very amply made up in quality, and what was in evidence was first-class of its kind and it was a first-class kind.

Taking the turn-out in order, some of the parades and floats will bear more particular mention, but at the same time it must be remarked that it is unfortunate that some of the Unions failed to take advantage of the occasion, for from their strength they would have been able to make a fine showing, and with more co-operation—more of a spirit of union—the labour element in Peterborough would have presented a stronger front, but not a more creditable one in the matter of character.

Of the sixteen unions booked to take a stand in the parade, eight were missing, if we count the musicians union. This was not represented except by the Fifty Seventh Band, which is always making a good showing. The Sheet Metal Workers' Union made a fair turn out, but with no special attempt at display, except by the Marshall, Mr. T. E. Sollit, who sported a baton of Rice Lake hickory. But the iron moulders turned out in great force and made a splendid display. They were in a very striking and appropriate uniform of dark trousers and black shirt and each carried a rammer, ornamented with knots of red, white and blue ribbon. The men bore themselves proudly and were much admired in their march, especially on their return march to their hall, when with crossed rammers, and headed by the band, they marched down George street with Fred Andrews armed with a baton making a splendid display of fancy baton play. The Iron Moulders' parade was led by Mr. J. E. Riffer, mounted upon a snow white Arabian charger, and public opinion will agree with the judges that for parade they well deserved the prize that was awarded them.

The Carpenters' Union turned out in a very creditable manner, though their number was not large, about 35, they made a fine appearance in their working garb—without coats and each wearing a new carpenter's apron.

Another body that deserves special mention and special praise was the Builders' Labourers' Union representation. Though the number was not large, the parade was very neat and striking. Each man was clad in the white moleskin overalls (new) characteristic of the craft, and the men bore themselves in a very dignified and creditable manner. So fine was their display that one of the judges says it was a pity that a prize was not available for them. The names of the men on parade were: Wm. Wood, Wm. Curtis, Geo. Carr, Geo. Powell, John Elliot, M. Lavery, J. Free, W. Singleton, W. Maxwell, Robert Graham, Charles Brewer, Peter Denault, D. Levasseur, Jos. Morrency, J. McMartin and S. Brooks who brought up the rear of the parade with a bugle. This was the only section of the parade that could boast of its own band, and though it was Brooks' band, it was hardly Brooks' Marine Band, which was at one time so prominent.

THE FLOATS.

There were only three floats in the procession, but they were A1 in their character.

The Carpenters' Union had two floats, one representing the Carpenters' special branch of work and the other the Joiners'. The carpenters' float was in the form of a bona-fide house on wheels, shingled and with chimney built, ready for the finishing touches, and as the house moved along the street Messrs. Napolean Trombley and C. Fitzgerald were seen working away merrily fitting the window sash. This float was driven by George Courtney. The other float represented the joiners work, and W. J. Johnson, G. W. Kane and Geo. Tremaine were busy as nailers putting together sash, door and blinds. It was remarked that this looked something like a strike or lock-out. Out of 45 carpenters only 5 were at work and the rest were walking the streets.

The float of the Iron Moulders was very elaborate. On a large platform wagon with a frame work gaily decked with flags and drawn by four flag-decked horses driven by I. DeRoocher and W. O'Donnel, was a foundry in miniature, cupola, floor flasks and sand complete. This establishment was manned by Messrs. Geo. N. Graham, Jack Londerville, Rollie Stockdale, and J. E. Johnston, and they were working hard at giving a display of both bench and floor work, and the samples of their handiwork in the form of a medal of the Union were distributed, but as could be told, among the crowd along the route.

The return of the procession to the T. A. S. athletic grounds thus ended the work of the morning, all except that of the judges, Mr. V. Eastwood, Lt.-Col. J. W. Miller, who had the task of awarding the prizes for the best parade and the most representative floats. The first prize of $25 was awarded to the Carpenters' Union, No. 672; the second prize of $15 went to Iron Mounders' Union No. 191, and this Union also captured the $10 prize for the best parade in the procession. The judges seem to have meted out Radamanthine justice, for they awarded the two competing Unions each $25.

The commercial element was represented by a very creditable turn out, made by Messrs. J. C. Turnbull & Co. A beautiful representation of a cottage was crowded with finely arranged samples of house furnishing goods, carpets, oil cloths etc., etc. The float was drawn by a four-in-hand driven by Ernie Lawrence, an expert jehu from R. Gibb's livery establishment.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

Those who went to the Murray street grounds in the afternoon had the opportunity to put in a delightful time watching the sports and the baseball match between the Excelsiors and the Lindsay Clippers.

The running and jumping were keenly contested and were sources of great excitement and interest. The following is a list of the prize winners:—

100 yards dash.—1, Belland; 2, Jackson; 3, Gauthier. Time, 11 seconds. Prize values, $5.00, $2.00, $1.00.

Hop, step and jump.—1, Jackson, 39 ft. 3 in.; 2, McNicholl, 36 ft. 6 in.; 3, McGill, 36 ft. 3in. Prize values, $4.00, $1.50, $1.00.

Married men's race.—1, T. Cronin; 2, E. Hickey; 3, W. Thornbeck. Prize values, $2.25, $1.50, $1.00.

Boys' boot race.—1, F. Halpany; 2, A. Huttman; 3, C. Conroy. Prize values, $2.00, $1.00, $1.00.

(Running long jump.—1, W. E. Jackson, 16 ft. 9 in.; 2, J. Carrol, 16 ft. 3 in.

Old men's race (over 40). — 1, Thornbeck; 2, Cronin; 3, Chapman. Prize values, $5.00, $4.00, $2.00.

Sack race.—1, Jackson; 2, Carroll. Prize values, $4.00, $2.00.

Boys' race (under 15).—1, Doherty; 2, Hayes; 3, Loomis. Prize values, $2.00, $1.50, $1.00.

Committee men's race.—1, Lundy; 2, Dugan; 3, Dusty. Prize values, $4.00, $2.50, $2.00.

Mr. Dusty acted as starter while Mr. Lundy stood at the finishing tape.

The boys' boot race was very interesting to watch. The boots were piled in a heap at one end of the course, and the boys, barefooted, had to run, get on their boots and then run back to the starting point. As the course was not long, some two dozen boys reached their boots at one and the same moment, the natural result being a "mush" of arms, hands, legs, feet, heads, clothing and everything else pertaining to "the boy". Free fights were free as were the far from complimentary names which one used to another who was puting on his boots.

The band was in attendance and gave an excellent programme.

THE BASEBALL MATCH.

The Excelsiors put it over the Lindsay team in the best game of the season on the Murray street grounds, yesterday—4—1, and the 2,000 spectators certainly saw giltedge ball. The Lindsay team had Taylor of Toronto, pitching for them and he had the locals guessing pretty well all the way, as they only scored in two innings. He had good control and lots of speed, and fanned six of the home team; Cinnamon gave him good support behind the bat and the whole Lindsay team put up a fine game in the field. Flaherty, the star pitcher of this district, was at his best and was a perfect puzzle to the Lindsay batters. He had speed to burn and could give a man three wide ones and then make him fan. Eleven of the Lindsayites made all kinds of holes in the atmosphere trying to connect with his curves, and he gave but one base on balls. Belleghem played the best game of his career behind the bat and his throwing to bases was fine. The whole team played with lots of snap and fielded splendidly. The errors were not costly, except a hard liner get-

FRIDAY NIGHT'S STORM.

Barns Were Burned and Streets Made White With Hail.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Thunderstorms were prevalent over Ontario and Quebec yesterday. In Toronto there was thunder and lightning, but no rain. Thursday night Manitoba and the Northwest Territories were visited by a slight frost. The frost was not sufficiently severe to cause any damage, however.

Oxford Mills—Geo. A. Pettapiece's barns, with entire season's crops of grain and hay, were struck by lightning and burned.

Newtonville—Heavy wind and hail did a lot of damage to fruit, apples and other fruit being blown down in large quantities.

Brougham—Joseph Pilkey's barns, with the crops of 100 acres and implements, were struck by lightning and burned to the ground, Winchester — Rodman Annable's horse was killed by lightning. Hail broke many windows including those of the Methodist church.

Hamilton—Street Railway Co.'s tracks on Guise street were washed away. The streets were white with hail. Neighboring fruit belts, however, escaped.

SUFFERED HALF A LIFE TIME.

One More Splendid Cure Credited to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Doctors Said Nicholas Ecker had Gravel or Bright's Disease, or Something Else—Dodd's Kidney Pills Gave Him the Vigor of Early Manhood

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 7—Special.—Nicholas Ecker, the well-known farmer, living near St. John's P.O., on the dividing line of Pelham and Thorold Townships, who has been restored to health after twenty-nine years suffering from Kidney Disease has given a statement for publication. It reads:—

"I had been a sufferer from Kidney Complaint for twenty-nine years. I had the most distressing Backache, Irritation of the Spine, and Headaches, coupled at times with an excruciating circular pain about the lower part of the body. What I suffered no pen can describe. Insomnia too added its terrors and I was literally reduced in flesh.

"Three different doctors attended me. One said I had Gravel, another called it Bright's Disease, while the third said I was in a dangerous condition. None of them gave me any permanent help and my friends thought I could not live much longer.

"At this stage I gave up other treatment and started using Dodd's Kidney Pills. After taking two boxes I found they were helping me and I continued till I had taken sixteen boxes when I was again enjoying the splendid vigour of earlier manhood."

Death Rather Than Capture.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 5.—An unknown negro was caught yesterday in the act of assaulting Mrs. Margaret Gerhan, a white woman. He fled, and when he realized that escape was impossible drowned himself in the Kansas River.

When you do not relish your food and feel dull and stupid after eating, all you need is a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will make you feel like a new man and give you an appetite like a bear. For sale by all druggists.

Two-year-old Child Drowned.

Kingston, Sept. 5.—Yesterday afternoon the two-year-old child of Abraham Storms, caretaker, "Alvington," was drowned in a tub of water. The mother was outside, hanging out clothes, and when she returned she found the child dead in the tub. She had left it on the floor.

Fell Into Threshing Machine.

Winnipeg, Sept. 5.—Wylie Verge fell into a rapidly revolving self-feeding threshing machine cylinder at a farm near Fannystelle and died from his injuries. The remains will be sent to his old home in New Germany, N.S., for interment. He was 22 years of age.

News too Good to Keep.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are usually so well pleased with the benefits derived that they tell the good news to their neighbours. There is no medicine which so promptly awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels as Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and for this reason they are unapproached as a family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

Ambiguous.

The following call for professional services was sent to a local doctor recently: "Dear Doctor,—My wife's mother is at death's door: please come at once and see if you can pull her through!"—Melbourne Weekly Times.

IN A LAND OF PLENTY

NATURE'S ROYAL SITE FOR AMBITIOUS CITY OF HAMILTON.

The Birmingham of Canada at Work and at Play—Its Industrial Development Bears Abundant Fruit, While the Language of Sobriety and Truth Describes It as the Cornucopia of Canada.

Nature planned a royal site for the city of Hamilton, towards which so many eyes recently turned during the holding of its highly successful summer carnival. There sits the thriving municipality on the shores of Burlington Bay. In the background tower the heights, commanding a view of the garden of Canada. To the front is the spacious land-locked bay, the head of navigation on Lake Ontario. This city, known to fame as the Birmingham of Canada, then gathered its children under its wing from far and near. It entertained a great concourse of visitors. It did so, moreover, in a way that reflects infinite credit on its natural adaptability to summer sports, and upon the loyalty and public spirit of its citizens.

In a Land of Plenty.

Two features are specially characteristic of the City of Hamilton. It is the centre of a district such as a Biblical writer would describe as flowing with milk and honey. To speak of Hamilton is to recall scenes of plenty. The farm produce that seeks a market there is famous for its abundance and quality. The fruit farms that surround the city are overburdened with their luscious crops. If Hamilton were described as the cornucopia of Canada it would be no more than the language of sobriety and truth.

While the cultivation of the land in the vicinity is carried to this high point of excellence, and the city is a great market for all things harvested by the tiller of the soil, the most striking feature of Hamilton is its industrial development. Manufacturing takes root there, flourishes, and bears abundant fruits. Hamilton is a great industrial centre. Its factories are kept up-to-date and energetically operated. Their products compete successfully in many markets at home and abroad. Thus, with its ingathering of the harvets, and its output of the factories, Hamilton contributes its share, and a large one it is, to the nation's prosperity and the nation's wealth. On this strong and enduring foundation is built the city which in sportive mood recently entertained its guests as few cities are able to do.

Hamilton's First Visitors.

If one would trace this stream of city life back to its sources he would pass through many interesting phases of its history and recall many stirring scenes. As a city Hamilton is now fifty-six years of age, which is no slight achievement in this land of newness. But long before the possibility of a metropolitan career dawned upon Hamilton the site was given an historic interest. Here it was that the intrepid La Salle, the explorer of the Mississippi, stood 234 years ago. La Salle and the small band of Frenchmen, who set out from Montreal in July, 1669, when Charles II. was still enjoying his riotous reign, were the first white men to set foot on the spot where Hamilton now stands. There is a tradition that La Salle landed near the site now occupied by the Grand Trunk station, and that his camp, at first located near by, was shortly afterwards moved across the bay to Oaklands. Of this, however, there are no records, so that the tradition remains only a tradition. La Salle must have been satisfied with the result of his venture, for he returned forthwith to the East. For a century thereafter no white man saw Burlington Bay, or set foot on its shores.

Robert Land, First Settler.

Among the U. E. Loyalists who found conditions no longer tolerable when the thirteen colonies revolted was Robert Land, a farmer, living in the Delaware Valley. The story of his flight after his home and, as he supposed, his family had been destroyed is full of romance. How he tramped his weary way to British soil and sought to forget his sorrows and wrongs by carving out a home for himself in the dense forest has been many times told. And how his wife and sons, who had escaped, followed him, and were reunited with him, has also been narrated with all the details that are necessary to give life and color to the picture. It is a pleasing story, and so we can afford to believe it all. The site of the old Land homestead, at the corner of Leeming and Barton streets, is still well known. The family were the pioneers of the city and of Wentworth County. It is not surprising that they considered their home an earthly paradise, and that soon after they had become comfortably settled many others were attracted to the charming neighborhood.

Years of Development.

Of the gradual growth of the settlement, and the gathering of the nucleus of the future city much might be written. The trend of trade was in that direction. For a long time navigation ended at Burlington Beach, and thence freight was hauled by wagon routes to the interior. Then came the Burlington Canal, which was opened in 1832 and carried navigation forward to the present site of the city. At this time Hamilton was without a rival. Immigration flowed in its direction. By the construction of the Desjardins Canal, Dundas was established, and enjoyed a promising shipping business, which was subsequently diverted from it by the Western Railway. When the site of Hamilton was surveyed in 1791 there were some thirty-one families, including the first settler. Nearly half a century later, 1846, the city was incorporated with a population of less than seven thousand.

How it has grown and developed since then is within the recollection of many now living. The conditions that gave the city its first impetus have been modified by the change in the methods of transportation. But the great fertility of the district, the numerous manufacturing enterprises, electrical power and radial railways have amply ensured the prosperity of Hamilton. It is now a very beautiful, as well as a busy city, lacking in none of the improvements that make city life attractive, and enjoying the confidence of all who are in any way interested in its future.

AN UNKNOWN LAND.

Knowledge of Labrador's Interior May Solve Problems.

While the explorers are trying to reach the poles and to search into the far corners of the earth, there remains a wilderness practically untouched near home, in the heart of Labrador. This country lies along the George River— an unmapped stream rising near the sources of the Hamilton River, and flowing north into Angora Bay. Only one white man, John McLean, of the Hudson's Bay Company, has ever been there. He ascended the George about 60 years ago. He said the ascent of the Gorge River was the hardest task of his life, and describes the Indians as living in absolutely primitive conditions. Among other things they kill their old people. McLean tried to establish posts, but those were abandoned.

Since McLean's journey many people have tried to reach this untouched country, but none have succeeded. This is the only country where the Indian can be seen untouched by civilization. This whole region is practically unmapped as yet. A knowledge of the geological conditions in interior Labrador will be likely to help greatly in the solution of many problems. There are animals, it is said, of this wild land, too, unknown anywhere else in the globe. For all these reasons Leonidas Hubbard jr.'s, expedition this summer, under the auspices of Outing, will be watched with great interest. Mr. Hubbard left Regolette, on the Hamilton Inlet, early in July. He took a Cree Indian from Rupert's House and one white companion, believing that a small party can live off the country better than a large one, and, foreseeing a more harmonious enduring of the privations and dangers of the journey. It is perhaps one of the most sensible and practically important expeditions in some years.

Immense Canadian Coal Area.

"The people of Canada have no conception of the value of the property the Dominion Coal Company have out there," said Dr. Bruce Riordan of Toronto, who has just returned from a trip to Sydney, Cape Breton. "The area of coal land extends for a distance of forty-five miles from Sydney to Louisburg. Five collieries are now working, raising 11,000 tons of coal a day. The general sales agent, Mr. Dick, told me they could easily sell four times the quantity of coal they are now raising. They cannot keep up with their orders. The coal area owned by the company is so extensive that other shafts and collieries can be put in to meet any future demand. The amount of coal is conceded by experts to be so enormous that in 100 years, even if the output is ten times what it is now, the supply will not be exhausted. Excellent, up-to-date machinery is in use, and the way they handle the product is perfect, while their shipping facilities are most modern."

Dr. Riordan said that the miners are principally Nova Scotians, born in the country. There is no foreign element there. Dr. Kendall, who represents Sydney in the Dominion Parliament, told him that many of the miners have savings bank accounts from $2,000 to $5,000 each. Many of the miners make $160 a month. The two Sydneys, as they are called in Cape Breton, show every evidence of prosperity.

The Sydney people say they can assemble the products which go to make steel and iron cheaper than any other place in the world.

THE TONGUE.

"The beneless tongue, so small and weak,
Can crush and kill," declared the Greek.

"The tongue destroys a greater horde,"
The Turk asserts, "than does the sword."

The Persian proverb wisely saith,
"A lengthy tongue, an early death."

Or sometimes takes this form instead:
"Don't let your tongue cut off your head."

"The tongue can speak a word whose speed,"
Says the Chinese, "outstrips the steed."

While Arab sage doth impart:
"The tongue's great storehouse is the heart."

From Hebrew with the maxim sprung:
"Though feet should slip, ne'er let the tongue."

The sacred writer crowns the whole:
"Who keeps his tongue doth keep his soul."

—Rev. Philip Burrows Strong.

Why an Indian Paints His Face.

Every paint mark on an Indian's face is a sign with a definite meaning, which other Indians may read. When an Indian puts on his full war paint, he decks himself not only with the honors and distinctions won by his own bravery, but also with the special honors of his family or tribe. He may possess one mark of distinction only, or many; in fact, he may be so well off in that respect that, like some English noblemen, he is able to don a new distinction for every occasion. Sometimes he will wear all his honors at one time. Then he is a sight worth traveling far to see.

Among the Indian tribes is one designated by the symbol of the dog-fish, painted in red on the face. The various parts of the fish are scattered about on the surface of the face: the long snout is painted on the forehead, the gills are represented by two curved lines below the eyes, while the tail is shown as cut in two, and hanging from either nostril. When only one or two parts are painted on a man's face, it is an indication of inferiority; when the whole animal appears, even though in many oddly assorted parts, the signs indicate a high rank.

Very peculiar are some of the honorable symbols painted on the Indians' faces. There are fish, flesh, and fowl of all kinds—dog, salmon, devil-fish, starfish, wood-peckers, eagles, ravens, wolves, bears, sea-lions, and sea monsters, mosquitoes, frogs, mountain goats, and all manner of foot, claw or beak marks—each with a special meaning of its own in the heraldry of the woods and plains; however little they signify to the white man's eyes.

Nursed the Sick, Ruined Her Health.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. John Myles, sr., of South Woodslee, Essex Co, Ont., is well known throughout the surrounding country because of her work among the sick and suffering, and it was on account of overexertion in this regard that her health broke down and she lay weak and helpless, a victim of nervous prostration. Doctors could not help her and she resolved to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a result she has been thoroughly restored and by recommending this treatment to others has been the means of bringing back health and happiness to many a weakened and discouraged sufferer from diseases of the nerves.

Mrs. Myles writes:—"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was nervous prostration. My stomach was very weak and I could not sleep at all, for any length of time. Nervous chills and trembling would come over me and at times I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker all the time. There were also pains on top of my head which caused me much suffering and anxiety.

"After using half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I began to gain in weight and feel stronger. Since then I have been gradually restored to health and in looking back can say that the improvement has been something wonderful. I used in all forty boxes of this preparation and feel it a duty as well as a privilege to recommend it to all who are suffering from nervous disorders. Several persons to whom I have described my case have used it and been cured and I am sure that I owe my present good health, if not life itself, to Dr Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 4.

THE CULTIVATED MAN.

Are Canadians the "Most Common-Schooled and Least Cultivated" People in the World?—What Is Culture?

James Russell Lowell once described his fellow-countrymen as the "most common-schooled and least cultivated" people in the world. His implication that the work of the common schools does not all make for "culture," in the proper sense of that term, is just as true to-day as it was when it was uttered, and is just as true of Canadians as it is of Americans, says the Toronto Globe. Another distinguished American, President Eliot of Harvard University, has undertaken in a recently published paper not merely to give by implication a conception of "culture" but to show the changes through which the general idea of it has passed since the beginning of the nineteenth century.

These may be thus described categorically: The moral sense of the world makes character a more important element than it used to be in the ideal of a cultivated man; the linguistic and literary element in cultivation abides but has become vastly broader than formerly, so that now selection among its various fields is forced upon every educated youth; in consequence of the rapid increase in the store of rationalized and systematized discoveries and experiences culture no longer implies even a little knowledge of everything, and it must be content with a general knowledge of some things and "a real mastery of some small portion of the human store"; and, as there has taken place a large expansion of the fields in which the cultivated imagination may be exercised, the training of the imagination must extend "beyond literature and the fine arts of history, philosophy, science, government, and sociology." Dr. Eliot meant to include also under the last head "the whole field of physical and biological research," which he had mentioned previously in the same connection.

It is not necessary here to raise the question whether he has given us an exhaustive or even the most useful description of the changes which have undoubtedly taken place in educational ideals within the past hundred years. It is, at all events, suggestive and may become helpful to those educationists who take the trouble to think out for themselves what is involved in it. We prefer to bring into comparison with it the remarks on one phase of the same subject made by another apostle of culture, the present Prime Minister of Great Britain. Addressing the recent meeting of representatives of the colonial universities in London, Mr. Balfour, dealing with secondary education, confessed his dissatisfaction with "the old classical ideal," but admitted that he was "still less satisfied with any substitutes" for it he had seen proposed. He did not believe classical education could be successfully defended solely on the ground that the classical languages contained masterpieces of human imagination which had never been surpassed, though that was a true statement; but neither did he think "science alone a good medium for conveying education to classes of boys who do not care a farthing about the world they live in so far as it is not concerned with the cricket or the football ground."

The educational moral to be drawn from these and other high thoughts on the relation of education as a means to culture as an end seems to be that the subject matter of class instruction is of less importance than the manner and the spirit in which the work is done; that while method is all important the field of work to which it is applied is comparitively unimportant; that culture has no necessary connection with any particular area explored by the workers, but is inseparably connected with the way in which the work is done; that culture does not depend on how much the cultivated man knows, but does depend absolutely on the manner in which what knowledge he has was acquired; that mental culture is a condition of intellect and that this condition is to be reached only by making it the result of the practice of research by its possessor.

Every system will be a success, irrespective of its course of study, that puts a premium on investigation, and every system will be per contra a failure that puts a premium on memorization. It will not remedy the present educational distress to dethrone Latin and set up science in its stead unless proper methods of teaching science are adopted, and it is just as easy to secure good teaching of Latin as it is to secure good teaching of science. Until we have the ability to see, the frankness to admit, and the courage to face this culture problem as it should be faced we will go on turning out well trained students as tested by written examinations, only to wonder why we are still the most "common-schooled and least cultivated people in the world."

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

When a woman is nervous her imagination gives fantastic and threatening shapes to the most familiar objects. By day she starts in fear at every sudden or unfamiliar sound. By night the furniture of her room takes on affrighting forms of ghost or goblin. You can't reason with the nerves. Neither logic nor love can quiet them. They must be nourished and then the outcry of the nerves will cease as naturally as a hungry child ceases to cry when fed.

For nervous women there is no better tonic and nervine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the diseases which produce nervousness in women, irregularity, debilitating drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite, and induces refreshing sleep.

"When I began taking your medicine I was not able to stand on my feet ten minutes at a time," writes Mrs. Hattie Borradaile, of 113 Spring Street, Nashville, Tenn. "Had falling of uterus, and kidney and liver disease, and was so weak and nervous I could not keep still. Would take nervous spells and almost die at times. I had several different doctors attending, but they could not do me any good. The last one I had said I would never get up again. Told him that I was taking your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and he said, 'Might just as well take that much water each day.' But I thought I would give the medicine a fair trial. Before I had finished the first two bottles I was able to get outside the house and walk around the yard. I kept on taking the medicines and they cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

LIGNITE IN THE NORTH.

Outcrops Found on the Sowerka River by Mr. T. M. Bell.

A letter has been received by Mr. Thos. W. Gibson, Director of the Bureau of Mines, dated at Moose Factory, 7th July, from Mr. J. M. Bell, who is in charge of the expedition sent into northern Ontario in May last in search of workable beds of lignite. Mr. Bell writes: "The work done on the Soweska was most encouraging. By means of the numerous test pits along the bank, the lignite was found to out-crop as a seam 2 feet 6 inches to 5 feet thick, continuously, for over one-quarter of a mile, on both sides of the stream (100 feet wide). By means of drill-holes, etc., the basin was found to have at least the same width, and the coal had not died out at the limiting points, but, instead, retained a fair width, so that the coal bed is probably many times greater than this trial area of one-quarter mile square. This bed is at the lowest appearance of coal on the Soweska, and there are other points at which lignite appears, but at none of these is the quality as good as at the lowest. These beds all occur within a distance of four miles. Besides the Soweska, the beds on the Wabiskagami were examined, but, although many of them are of considerable thickness, none are very pure, and they are not of equal importance with the Soweska, which, I think, is really an important and valuable prospect. On the Wabiskagami we found a thick bed of very fine light-grade clay, at least equal, if not superior, to that which Mr. Borron mentions on the Missanabie.

"On our way here I stopped for a while and made careful examination of the gypsum beds of the Moose. The gypsum occurs much more extensively than I had previously realized, and is certainly of great value. Careful measurement showed that the beds extend along the north side for two and three-quarter miles, and on the opposite side for two miles and a half, besides which there is a bed half a mile long on the southeast side at three miles below the extremity of the other bed on the same side. The beds are in places at least 16 feet thick, and a careful study of the topography away from the streams shows that they extend back long distances on either side. Of course this gypsum is not of equal importance with the lignite, but is of future value."

The lignite found by Mr. Bell's party is of a fair quality, but, like all lignite, is of little value outside of the district where it is found, unless manufactured into bricquettes. This is a feasible plan, however, and the discovery is considered to be one of much importance.

Translations from the Birds.

As we listen to the song of the birds in the springtime we very often find ourselves trying to translate their notes into corresponding words and phrases in our own familiar Anglo-Saxon. Perhaps in most cases our imagination leads us to fancy certain resemblances to English words, but, at all events, bird-lovers have always found it difficult to agree in their interpretation of the various songs. In some few cases, however, translations have been so apt that they have at once obtained a general acceptance and have become almost inseparably associated with the name of the bird. Who that thinks of the ovenbird, for example, does not at the same time call to mind the vigorous crescendo, "Teacher, Teacher, Teacher, Teacher," which so aptly describes his song? The song sparrow will repeat for a whole summer morning long his solo and single article of faith, "Pres, pres, preby-tee-rian, ian." As you sit, on an early June morning, under an elm close to the nest of the wood thrush you feel that his message is meant for you and you only. "Dear me!" he says. "Really! Ha, ha, you're a tease! Dear me!" In the meanwhile the little "preacher," the red-eyed vireo, is earnestly exhorting from a tall tree near by, "You see it! You know it! Do you hear it? Do you believe it?" To Thoreau planting corn, the brown thrasher from the tree-top near by, cried "Drop it, drop it! Cover it up, cover it up! Pull it up, pull it up, pull it up!" Translations of a similar nature might be multiplied; but, after all, the comment must be the same in the end—that, however apt the interpretation, it must, in the majority of cases, fail to convey an adequate idea of the quality and character of the bird's song.—Orlando J. Stevenson, St. Thomas, Canada, in Literary World.

Only One Wellington.

That was a graceful compliment which was paid to the Duke of Wellington by Queen Victoria. Not every one recalls the fact that a certain style of high boots, not commonly worn nowadays, bore the name of Wellington.

When the Duke was Prime Minister, he once visited Windsor Castle to consult with the Queen on an important state matter. The day was damp, following a heavy rain, and as the Duke left the castle Her Majesty remarked, "I hope Your Grace is well shod?"

"Oh," said the Duke, "I have on a pair of Wellingtons, and am proof against dampness."

The Queen retorted, "Your Grace must be mistaken. There could not be a pair of Wellingtons."

May Be Archbishop.

The Rev. Francis Aidan Gasquet, whose name stands first of the terna of names forwards to Rome by the Westminster Chapter, is likely to be selected by the Roman authorities as the new Archbishop of Westminster, says The London Star. Dr. Gasquet is an Englishman and the Abbot of the English Benedictines at Downside, near Bath. He is probably the most scholarly of English Catholic divines. He has written on "Henry VIII. and the English Monastries," and on many other historical subjects.

Analysis of Canned Meats.

The analysts of the Marine Department have just completed an analysis of 99 samples of canned meats. Of this number one meat in two samples was quite spoiled, in three others it was slightly spoiled, and the remaining 94 were in good condition. One of the slightly-spoiled samples contained boric acid With this exception all samples containing preservatives were found to be in good condition. The only preservative discovered was boric acid, which was found in 21 samples, representing the products of W. Clark & Company, Montreal; Canadian Packing Co., London; Laing Packing Company, Montreal, and Beardsley & Sons, New York. In no case did the quantity of boric acid found exceed the limit fixed by the British Parliamentary commission, viz., .05 per cent., and in most cases it fell markedly below that amount.

ting through Wareham and allowing Taylor to score.

Lindsay went to bat first and were out in order. Sheridan led off with a single for the Excelsiors and scored on Graham's drive for two bags. Taylor had two strikes on Bellegham and Graham made for third, Cinnamon threw wide to third and Chris scored. Bellegham fanned; Miller made a hit and was caught trying to steal second; Simpson hit to first and was out.

In Lindsay's second Workman and Menzies fanned, and Perrin got a base on balls, he attempted to steal second and Bellegham made a fine throw to second, catching him with lots of time to spare.

Peterborough went out in order in their second. Wareham fanned; Pilling hit one to third and was caught at first; Flaherty rolled one to the pitcher and was thrown out at first.

Lindsay scored their only run in their third, Brooks and Stalker put dents in the air with their bats; Taylor made a single and McGill hit a hot liner through Wareham scoring Taylor. Cinnamon went out at first. There was no more scoring until the seventh, when Miller got a base on balls; Simpson followed with a single. Miller led too far off second and was tagged. Wareham handed out a nice double, scoring Simpson, and Pilling smashed a three-bagger into left, scoring Wareham. Pilling was left on third, as Flaherty flew out to Workman, and Whitcroft went out, pitcher to first. Ed. Pilling was hit on the shoulder in the fifth and was forced to retire, Whitcroft taking his place. Lindsay went out in 1, 2, 3 order in the 8th and 9th. Taylor hit a grounder to Graham and was thrown out at first. McGill hit a high one to Sheridan, and Cinnamon fanned. In the ninth Miller struck out, Workman followed suite, Menzies went out via Graham to Pilling and the Excelsiors had won 4—1. THE EVENING'S PROGRAMME.

In the evening the 57th Regimental Band gave a concert in the new rink, at which a large number of persons were present, although the rink was far from being filled up.

A pleasing feature of the programme were the vocal solos by Mr. Jas. Dawson and Mr. Jos. Halpany. Miss Dorris accompanied Mr. Dawson, while Mrs. Halpany played for her husband.

The concert was a decided "hit," and Mr. Dawson and Mr. Halpany were both encored.

It was remarked that even the softest tones of the vocalists were heard distinctly in all parts of the building.

The commitee of management, as supplied the Examiner, whose exertions contributed to the smooth-running and general success of yesterday's programme, was as follows:—Messrs. W. J. Lundy, C. Murty, H. Robertson, G. Record and W. Dusty.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after sprnining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT.

RUGBY.

The following letter from Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell evidences an interest in sport of a very commendable character, and it is to be hoped tha his generous effort will be taken advantage of:—

Toronto, Sept. 4, '03.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner,

Manager Peterborough Football Club, Peterborough, Ont.

My dear Kenner,—After a telephone discussion with you to-day from Toronto, regarding the question as to whether our Peterborough Football Club shall be enabled to enter the contest in the field this year, and understanding that it is about to be abandoned for the want of financial support of the citizens of Peterborough,—a community, too, which has acquired so much wealth in recent years, and which has the reputation of having good sportsmen,—I have upon your appeal decided to make the following offer:—

I will subscribe twenty-five dollars to the expenses of the Peterborough Football Club for the purpose of assisting them to enter the competition for the Dominion Senior Football Championship, on condition hat five other Peterborough gentlemen will also subscribe a like amount. With these subscriptions no doubt the onergetic and enthusiastic young sportsmen of Peterborough will cause the balance of the necessary funds to be forthcoming.

Let it not be said of our Peterborough,—which has the last three years acquired not only a Dominion, but Continental reputation, as an enterprising and successful industrial centre that it has not public spirit enough to back up its boys who have the last four years not only won in a clean sportsmanlike way the Provincial Intermediate Football Championship thrice, but also the Dominion Intermediatte Football Championship twice, as well as the Provincial Intermediatte Hockey Championship once.

Let us now give the boys a chance to bring further lustre and renown to Peterborough by winning the Dominion Senior Football Championship.

Yours fraternally,
J. ALEX. CULVERWELL.

BASEBALL.

The team representing the Midland League Champions of 1900 put it over the Excelsiors in an eleven inning game Saturday afternoon that was a hummer. Earls pitched for the old team, and he had all kinds of curves, and held the Excelsiors down to four hits. He was very tricky and had great control with men on bases. McCorry pitched six innings and had good speed. Flaherty pitched the remaining five and put them over fast. The old team batted well and won out in the 11th on single by Renton and double by Layborn with an infield out, netted two runs and the game, as the Excelsiors got one run only in their eleventh. The game was fast and a good crowd stayed to the finish. Mr. Kenner umpired to the satisfaction of all.

THE WALL STREET MARKET.

New York, Sept. 8, 9.45 a. m.

The stock exchange will resume business to-day with favorable conditions. Nothing of a discouraging character has transpired since adjournment Friday. The crops reports continue good and thus far there has been an absence of any frost in the corn belt. The dominant influence in the price movement this week will be the Government report on grain which will appear on Thursday afternoon and present indications point to a favourable showing. We look for a quiet but firm market to-day with a renewal of bull campaign against the shorts again.—Town Topics.

Grain.—Liverpool opening, wheat dull, unchanged; corn 1-2 d higher. London, wheat 1-8 lower; corn 1-4 higher.

Weather map—General rains in Manitoba, South Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska; local rains in Kansas. Higher temperatures prevailing in the southwest. Some warmer west.

New York—Officials of the Southern Pacific deny that the stockholdors of the company are shortly to receive dividends on their holdings. They will have to wait another year at least.

Atchison is worth 80 and with the maturing of corn crop it will sell near par. Pennsylvania is a good investment stock. Erie and O. W. and R. G. should be taken. Shorts in Tractions seem confident of lower prices.—M. & M.

The communication further stated that the Otonabee Power Company was prepared to put in the most modern lamps for street lighting purposes that were on the market. It added that they believed that the town was taking steps to accept a tender for lighting purposes that would be $1,800 in excess of their own offer. It stated in conclusion that should the Council accept their tender in preference to the one reported under consideration, the town in 10 years would save from $18,000 to $25,000. — Received.

From W. and J. Croft, real estate owners, objecting to the bylaw ordering the construction of a granolythic sidewalk on the west side of Reid street from King street to Sherbrooke street on the grounds that the bylaw had been drafted without their knowledge or consent, and that over half of the persons owning the effected land had not signed the petition.—Received.

They offer to begin with 20 skilled workmen, and to treble that number inside of two years, and do not ask any bonus.—Manufacturers' Committee.

From J. Milne, stating that he wished to connect his house on the south side of Sherbrooke street with a sewer adding that the sewer did not extend far enough to come in front of his lot. From Mrs. M. Cox and others asking for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on the west side of Downey street, between Brock and Hunter streets.—Board of Works.

From W. J. Green, enclosing a statement of part postage paid out by him during his term as Tax Collector. The bill was $25.00. He further wished to report that this year the first installment totalled nearly $66,000.00.—Finance Committee.

From Mr. Jobe, asking permission a copy of the resolution passed by the local Board of Health, recommending the construction of a sewer from the Cereal Co's mills, and from Sheridan street to Dixon street, and recommending the council to have a sewer on Quaker street extended to the river below the bridge, to provide an outlet, and to have the other streets mentioned to connect with it.—Received.

From Maria Benton, stating that she had paid $30.00 for pedlar license, and asking for the refund of $20.00 as had been done in previous years.—Court of Revision

DEPUTATIONS.

Mr. Soucie, speaking on behalf of some citizens interested in the Don Spence Memorial Ambulance, addressed the council in reference to the fact that no place has been provided for the housing of this ambulance, and asked the council to consider the question and provide some means for its care. It was finally decided to refer the matter to the Property Committee, to act in conjunction with the special citizens committee.

The next order of business taken up was that in which considerable interest has been taken, and one in which every citizen has a personal concern. It was the matter of the Street Railway Franchise, and the Mayor asked if anyone wished to be heard in reference to this matter, as to whether their property was to be injuriously affected.

Ald. Best asked the council the question why the citizens of the town had not been informed as to the details of the proposed agreement on order of the council. He referred to the fact that the two evening papers had voluntarily published a synopsis of the agreement, but that this had been the only means by which the citizens had been informed on the matter.

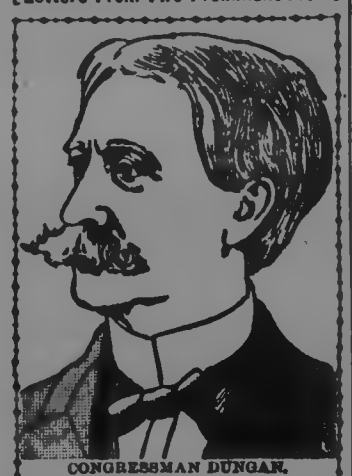
HALF OUR ILLS ARE CATARRH.

[Letters From Two Prominent Men.]



CONGRESSMAN DUNGAN.

Congressman Irvine Dungan of Jackson, O., elected to the Fifty-second Congress as a Democrat, in a recent letter from Washington, D. C., says:

"I desire to join with my many friends in recommending your invaluable remedy, Peruna, to anyone in need of an invigorating tonic, and whose system is run down by catarrhal troubles. Peruna is a permanent and effective cure for catarrh and I would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to try this remarkable remedy."—Irvine Dungan.

Everybody is subject to catarrh. Peruna cures catarrh, acute or chronic, wherever located.

Hon. Thomas Gahan of Chicago, member of the National Committee of the Democratic party, writes as follows:

"I was afflicted with catarrh for fourteen years and though I tried many remedies and applied to several doctors I was not able to find a cure. I took Peruna for twenty-two weeks and am now entirely cured."—Thomas Gahan.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be glad to give you his valuable advice free.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

HALL'S GLEN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Miss E. Murdiff and Mr. G. Galvin, of Lakefield, spent Sunday with friends here.

Miss E. Hunter is spending her summer vacation among her many friends in this neighbourhood, and aparently, is having a pleasant and enjoyable time.

A number of the young people of this village spent Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. Allen Payne, where they had a pleasant and jolly time.

On Thursday evening last the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Little was the scene of considerable excitement, as a number of young people were invited in to assist in the preserving of apples for the season when fruit is scarce. This is the first general apple-paring bee this fall.

Mrs. A. Darling, who has been ill for some time past, will soon be able, it is expected, to resume her usual domestic duties. We are pleased to learn of her speedy recovery and will be glad to have her pleasant associations once more.

The St. George church anniversary which was held on the 26th inst., was a grand success. Crowds of people thronged from near and far, and heartily participated with great satisfaction in the sumptuous spread which had been carefully prepared by the ladies of the congregation for the occasion. A programme, consisting of addresses, vocal and instrumental music, etc., was rendered at the close of the tea, and was enjoyed by all. The proceeds, amounting to $151 50, exceeded that of last year.

The windstorm which prevailed in this vicinity last Saturday played havoc with Mr. A. Darling's flagstaff which had withstood the wind and weather in former years, but to its owner's regret it now lies prostrated, incurring no little destruction as it fell, and sweeping everything that chanced to be in its way, inflicting considerable damage to his premises.

The ice cream social held under the auspices of Zion Good Templars on Friday evening, August 21st, proved very successful. A programme which occupied the fore part of the evening, was listened to with interest, the management of which being placed in the hands of Rev. H. McQuade, of Warsaw. The autograph quilt which had been completed a short time before was put up for auction sale. Mr. D. Madill, having recently received his commission or license as auctioneer, performed the duties with alacrity, and to the satisfaction of all. As there were several rivals for the quilt, Mr. Allan Payne by dint of Persevering, finally claimed it at $7.50 and was greatly pleased with his valuable purchase. Ice cream was then served to all, Mr. Mitchell of Warsaw, kindly assisting in the distribution of the same.

Mr. J. Moore, of Lundy's Lane, had a marvellous escape from serious injury on Wednesday evening last. While driving through the suburbs of Hall's Glen, in some way both reins suddenly came undone from the bridle when the frightened steed made its swift escape home with its driver riding behind it but helpless to offer any resistance as it passed several vehicles on the way with such precision known only to a skillful driver. Fortunately he landed safe and sound, having survived the rough and unpleasant trip with fortitude, and, after minute examination, pronounced everything correct and in fair condition

THE DIRECTORS MEET.

The Standing Committees Presented Their Reports.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. was held on Thursday evening, Sept. 3rd. with the president, Wm. Madill in the chair.

Mr. Aplin, the new physical director, was introduced and made a most favourable impression. He was assured by the president of the most active co-operation of the members of the association.

The different standing committees which have met during the past few weeks in order to plan work for the coming season, presented most excellent reports, promising a work of greater magnitude and anticipating greater results than ever before.

The physical committee recommended the thorough renovation of the baths, new lights for the gymnasium and a basket ball screen.

The social committee's report advocated the use of the present public reading room as a social room, combining the two reading rooms in one, and making these privileges exclusive to members.

These, with the report of the boys-committee, were adopted.

The statement of the present financial position of the work showed that it was necessary to secure $800 in subscriptions of $2,200, required by the budget for the year up to the first of of October.

There are many who have not yet been waited upon for their annual contributions and it is very earnestly desired that the friends of the work would co-operate with the board in having the financial year close as soon as possible, as the work has been hampered for the last two years because of the delay in overtaking the liabilities of the year.

The finance committee will start immediately to get the necessary amount.

In order to enable the secretary to attend to the outside work it was decided to try and secure an assistant at once for the fall and winter months, and the executive were authorized to secure a man.

The directors are much pleased with the state of the work and with the prospects for the future. They feel confident of the best assistance of the citizens in providing for the amount of the running expenses that is annually asked for from them to meet the needs of the work.

Those who wish to send in their contributions can do so to the association office, or the treasurer, R. J. Kidd, (care of R. Neill), or the president.

BLAIRTON.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dodge rejoice in the new arrival of a young daughter.

Mr. F. C. Rylatt, of Rochester, is visiting his uncle, Mr. Wm. Rylatt, of Victoria.

Mrs. George Anderson, of Haveleck, died very suddenly after a few hours' sickness on the 28th.

On our lake shore the other day we came suddenly upon a strange boat; in it was a strange man, and we, arriving so very unexpectedly, were very strange to him, so much so, that in the twinkle of an eye he snatched his boat off a few yards into the water, but not until, however, until our eyes had strangely lit upon strange material in his boat, with which to take fish. We know the make-up of the material, and, as there is neither mining nor quarrying going on around the lake, we claim jurisdiction for our own construction of its intended use.

Miss Aunger and Miss Kyle were the invited guests to spend an evening with the Misses Russel, who are about to make a lengthy visit to St. Catharines with Miss Dunlapp, who is now here from that city.

THREE NEGLECTED CHILDREN.

There are at the present time three little brothers in the county jail at Cornwall, aged eight, ten and twelve, whose story is a rather pitiable one. Brought up in the densest ignorance and subjected to a good deal of cursing and abuse, they started out to seek a new home for themselves. After wandering about for some days they got into an old building, which they either accidentally or mischievously set on fire. They were arrested and brought to the jail, but were so ragged and dirty they could not be admitted there until they were washed and some clothing provided. Talking to the officials, they said they were willing to go anywhere but home, and they gave substantial reasons why they should not be sent back. Although about three weeks in the jail now, no relative has been to see them or take any interest in their case. They were brought before Judge Lyttle, who sentenced them to the Industrial School, and they will be taken to Toronto by the Sheriff, where the county will be required to pay $6 per week for their maintenance. Some of the philanthropic workers of the district laid the matter before Mr. Kelso, and it is likely that a Children's Aid Society will be organized for Cornwall and the county. Such children would then be cared for in a children's home and placed in foster homes.

WARNING TO POWERS

Turkish Troops to Follow Insurgents Even into Bulgaria.

THE SITUATION AT MONASTIR

Details Show the Most Revolting Cruelty and Brutality of the Turks to Bulgarian Refugees—Have Already Killed 30,000 Bulgarians, 30,000 Are Starving and 150,000 More Are in Hiding.

London, Sept. 9.—A despatch to a news agency from Constantinople says the Turkish Government is preparing a circular to the powers, calling attention to the attitude of Bulgaria, and declaring it is the intention of the Turkish Government to order the pursuit of armed Bulgarian bands in Macedonia, and even into Bulgarian territory.

30,000 KILLED, 30,000 STARING.

Sofia, Sept. 9.—Private letters received here from European residents at Monastir, give details of the situation in that vilayet. Destitute Bulgarian refugees are arriving daily at Monastir, relating Turkish cruelty. Sixty families recently arrived there from Smilevo, which was totally destroyed. The refugees saw a husband and wife sitting in the ruins of their home, when a Turkish soldier slashed off the man's head and threw it in the woman's lap. The soldiers found a servant girl and several children hiding in a ditch. They outraged the girl and slaughtered all the children. Numerous Bulgarian prisoners have been brought to Monastir. They were mostly unarmed peasants who had not been connected with the insurrection. Twenty Bulgarians, who had been exiled, were marched off in heavy chains.

The Macedonian interior organ estimated that 150,000 women, children and old men are hiding in the mountains and forests of Macedonia. The Turks are burning the forests in the districts of Leren and Kossar and killing fugitives who attempt to escape to the plains. The Vlach village of Gopesh, three hours distant from Monastir, has been burned by the Turks, who are reported to have thrown several of the inhabitants into the fire. The Bashi Bazouks have destroyed the village of Stilevo, near Malkernovo.

Thirteen thousand Turkish soldiers are assembled on the frontier at Palanka, Kratavo and Gotschani, and are plundering the surrounding villages. The population has not complained, fearing that it may be murdered. In the district of Debritsik, Vilayet of Monastir, the soldiers are reported to be naked and hungry and to be robbing all around.

The general staff of the insurgents has issued a circular ordering the bands not to molest the peaceful Turkish and Albanian villages. The order concludes: "There will always be plenty of time to take such measures."

Famine prevails in the district of Krushevo, and the population is going into the adjacent districts.

The revolutionary headquarters estimate that 30,000 Bulgarian men women and children have been killed, while at least the same number of refugees are slowly perishing of hunger. In official circles these figures are regarded as an underestimate and officials incline to the belief that the number of massacred persons exceeds 50,000.

From Government circles here the situation is viewed with increasing alarm. It is reliably reported that the Turkish forces in Macedonia number 300,000. It is considered impossible that such a force has been assembled merely to crush the rebellion.

A Fight Reported.

Salonica, Sept. 9.—Twelve battalions of Turkish troops are reported to have surrounded a large revolutionary band near Ostrovo, 80 miles from Monastir. Fighting is proceeding. The revolutionaries have taken up a position near Lake Anitovo, in the Vilayet of Constantinople. Turkish troops are now said to be attacking them.

Fatal Crated Clash.

Washington, Sept. 9.—The Navy Department has received the following cablegram from Rear-Admiral Cotton, dated Beirut, Sept. 7: "Violence and bloodshed between Mohammedans and native Christians occurred at Beirut, Sunday. Six Greek Christians, two Mohammedans and one Turkish soldier were killed; three Greek Christians, three Mohammedans and three Turkish soldiers were wounded seriously. Other murders are reported."

A Yankee Killed.

Berlin, Sept. 9.—A despatch to The Lokal Anzeiger from Constantinople says thirty Christians, among them being several Europeans, were killed during the rioting at Beirut. Later in the day the Foreign Office received a despatch from Constantinople announcing that ten persons were killed during the disorders at about the time the United States warships arrived here, but, the Foreign Office finds no connection between the two events. Among the killed was an American, whether he was a native of the United States or naturalized citizen of that country does not appear.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Explains Direct Service Terms.

THE SALARIES OF JUDGES.

Some Strong Opinions Expressed Against Any Increase—Pleas For the County Court Judges — Lead and Iron Bounties Adopted—Penny Bank Bill—Redistribution Bill to Be Taken Up To-Day.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The House settled down to business with such good will yesterday that sufficient progress was made to justify the Premier in moving the adjournment at 9.50 p.m.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave an explanation of the terms upon which it is proposed to grant a subsidy for a direct steamship service to France, and expressed a hope that although previous attempts in this direction have been failures, success would attend the present effort.

The bills providing for the payment of bounties on lead extracted from Canadian ores, and extending the bounties on steel and iron to steel rods and structural iron, which are designed to stimulate those industries, were passed through the final stages.

The Government resolution increasing the salaries of Judges of the Northwest and providing for the salaries of the new Exchequer Court of Ontario were also concurred in. Several other Government measures have been considered, and progress made with them as far as possible, and the way has been cleared for the redistribution bill, which will be next taken up.

Just before adjournment Mr. Monk inquired whether the Government intended proceeding with the measure day after day. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the Government hoped it would get through in one day, and the members on the Government side enjoyed a laugh at Mr. Monk's expense.

Salaries of Judges.

In committee on the resolution to make the salary of the Chief Justice of the Northwest Territories $5,000 and of the puisne Judges $4,000 Mr. Fitzpatrick said the legal business of the Territories had increased to such an extent in the last few years that the Government would ask authority for the present to appoint one additional Judge. The resolution was carried.

The House next considered in committee the resolution fixing the salaries of the Judges in the Ontario High Court, under the reorganization provided for at the last session of the Legislature.

Mr. Richard Blain assured the House that lawyers who earn $1,000 a year in Canada are few and far between. They cannot and do not earn that amount, he declared. He was opposed to any increase.

Mr. E. F. Clarke entered a plea on behalf of the Junior County Court judges of the County of York.

Mr. Leighton McCarthy believed that the judges are under paid.

"I'm a layman, but it's the layman who has to pay the taxes," was Mr. Jabel Robinson's preliminary protest against the clamor for increased salaries. He said lawyers were falling over each other to secure judgeships and salaries would not have to be increased to keep the judiciary well supplied.

Mr. Uriah Wilson spoke in a similar strain. He pointed out that judicial positions would not go to leaders of the bar, even if salaries were increased. Everyone knew that the men who had the political influence would secure the judgeships. Mr. Wilson thought there were too many judges in Canada.

Mr. Broder regarded it as amusing to hear such pleas as that put forward by Mr. McCarthy. "Why, as to the relative responsibility of judges and railway commissioners," said he, "you might take all the judges in the country and not get a good railway commissioner among them. Take the very best of them, and it takes twelve common men, at $2 per day, to see that they do justice. Is salary the only thing about the position? Is there no fine sense of honor to render it desirable? Let them live within a reasonable income and teach the people true economy."

Mr. Porter pointed out that while the Superior Court judges' work had been decreased, the work of the county court judges had been greatly increased. He said a county judge could not live under $2,200 a year. Therefore, with a salary of $2,400 he had nothing left wherewith to provide for his family in the future.

Dr. Sproule did not object so much to the salaries, but to the fact that the judges got their incomes from different sources instead of from one source. Salaries might well be increased, but they should be paid from one source and thus render them independent.

Mr. Logan suggested a committee or commission, to consider an increase in judges' salaries. He asked if it was proposed this session to provide for the case of a judge disabled for some time.

The Minister of Justice would not announce a final decision on the matter until he had further discussed the matter with the leader of the Opposition.

The resolution was then passed and the bill founded upon it introduced, read a first and a second time and reported for committee.

Penny Bank Bill.

The Minister of Finance had a change made in the penny bank bill, whereby the guarantee of $1,000 being a personal obligation in regard to a charitable undertaking, should not follow the estate of a director after his death, but that upon the death of a director a new person shall be elected to the board to keep up the guarantee to $10,000. The bill was amended in this and other unimportant particulars and passed.

The bill authorizing the iron and steel bounties was also passed. The Finance Minister explained that the bounties to be paid on iron rods would be about $150,000 a year.

Canada to France.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in introducing the resolution to provide for a subsidy of $133,333.33 per year for ten years for a direct steamship line between Canada and France, said he would not lay the contract which had been entered into before the House until the next sitting. The contract was for a service beginning with twelve trips in summer and six in winter. The contractors were Colombier Bros., of Bordeaux.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the Government could not afford to be too particular as they had not received many offers to establish this service. In fact only two offers had been received since 1896, one from the Clergue Company, and the present one from the Colombiers. The present contract was with Mr. Colombier and not with Mr. Carbonneau, whom the Government did not know officially. The Colombiers were to form a company, but before they were allowed to transfer the contract the Government would have to give assent, and would only do so after amply assured of the new company's ability to carry out the undertaking. The ships would be of about 4,000 tons burden, specially built for the service, and with ample accommodation for passengers and freight, including cold storage equipment.

Further consideration of the bill was deferred until the contract was brought down.

The House went into committee on the bill respecting penitentiaries. Good progress was made.

Mr. Fitzpatrick announced that Warden Duchesneau of St. Vincent De Paul Penitentiary is retiring.

At 10 o'clock the committee rose and reported progress. Several clauses of the bill stand for consideration. Sir Wilfrid Laurier then moved the adjournment of the House.

CHINA AND RUSSIA.

Pekin Hears of Secret Convention Having Been Completed.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 9.—A special received in Tokio from Pekin on Aug. 22 says the much mooted secret convention between China and Russia has been completed, but this is not officially confirmed.

The Pekin correspondent of The Jiji says concerning the opening of Manchuria that the United States Minister, Mr. Conger, has made a strong argument, to which Prince Ching has replied in a note. The Prince's message says that if China assents to the opening it will be a pretext to continue the occupation of Manchuria after Oct. 10, the date stipulated in the treaty for the final evacuation. The correspondent adds that the Japanese Minister also has received a similar answer from Prince Ching.

Telegrams from Corea say Cho Sakio, Secretary of the Forestry Department, sent a note to the Japanese Minister, Mr. Havaisha, announcing that the Russo-Corean agreement for lease of land in Yongampho to the timber company has been cancelled as the result of fresh negotiations with Baron Munsberg, the representative of the company.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

Speeches were made by Lord Strathcona, Admiral Douglas, Admiral Rivet, Baron Delisle and others and the cordial relations between England and France debated upon.

Shot by a Burglar.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—At Stoney Creek Monday night, Alex. McIntyre, farmer, was shot in the arm by a masked burglar. He was alone in the house of his brother, John, when the burglar tried to force a window. The intruder shot three times at Mr. McIntyre, but only one of the bullets hit him.

Another Record Broken.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Sept. 9.—In point of a single month's traffic through the American and Canadian ship canals at this point, August proved another record breaker, the commerce amounting to the enormous freight tonnage of 8,403,808 net tons.

COLONIAL LOYALTY.

Gets a Couple of Rude Jars From Men of Britain.

AFRAID OF ARGENTINA MEAT

President of Trades Union Congress, in His Annual Address, Says He Cannot Find Much Love on the Part of Canada For Great Britain and Says Our Best Interests Are With U.S.

Canadian Associated Press Cable.

London, Sept. 9.—The correspondent of The Daily Mail in New Zealand says: "The report of the Commerce Department presented to Parliament, strongly urged that the rapid progress in the Argentine meat trade compels New Zealand carefully to review every department of trade. If the colony is to hold its own in the English market, during the month an extended distribution of meat daily, of produce and of wool to the United Kingdom should immediately be organized. The report, addressing the Government, says it must open every available market in the kingdom and arrange for shipments direct to all large ports."

Speaking at the Trades Union Congress at Leicester, Delegate Hornidge delivering his presidential address and referring to the fiscal policy, said: "If the people of the United Kingdom have to be taxed heavier than they are at the present time, for our offspring, Canada and Australia, we require to know more of what we are likely to get in return." He could not find any great love shown on the part of Canadians for the Mother Country. Certainly the Canadian's best interests lie in closer connection with their next-door neighbors, and that is generally being grasped by Canadians themselves.

A Covent Garden apple importer says: "Fruit of all kinds is dear. Colonial fruit held in cold storage here is only in a very small quantity and owners are waiting for a rise in prices. One million eight hundred and thirty thousand two hundred and ten hundred-weight of apples were imported in 1901, of which Canada sent 474,712 cwts."

Owing to the bad state of the Lancashire cotton trade, a number of operatives are emigrating to Canada. Numbers sailed yesterday, also a number of Durham miners going to British Columbia.

Truth, speaking on the fiscal policy, says: "Assuming that the loyalty of the colonies can be bought, the day would come when we would withdraw the bribe. We have abolished rotten boroughs at home only to substitute rotton colonies over the sea, and, having thoroughly corrupted them sooner or later, we should find this too costly and refuse to continue to buy their loyalty."

Harry Biggar, a colonial graduate, writing to The Times from Paris, re University of Oxford and colonial graduates says: "In view of the facilities for graduate study offered elsewhere, some effort should be made to improve the condition of affairs in England if colonial graduates are to be attracted." Mr. Biggar says: "The United States not only attracts, but also retains, some of the best Canadian youths. It seems pretty well agreed that the Rhodes scholars will be graduates. The experiment of sending colonial schoolboys to English universities has nearly always proved a failure. As Professor Watson pointed out at the conference, they come back to the colonies more English than Englishmen."

The special correspondent of The Morning Post says that the Mormons in the Northwest Territories, Canada, are governed from Utah, and still send tithes of their possessions there.

To the Public.

The Wednesday evening meeting of the Provincial Health Officers will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall. The papers read will be popular and not technical, and specially for the public who are cordially invited.

A Successful Rehearsal.

The last rehearsal of the Festival Chorus held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, was a great success, and Mr. Wodell is highly pleased with the work of his chorus. The Omemee Auxiliary Chorus was present, 40 strong, and added to the success of the rehearsal. The final practice will be held to-night in the rink, when only members will be admitted. Last night a number of visitors listened to the singing and were delighted with what they heard.

A Record Catch.

The largest maskinonge caught in northern waters this year was reported to the Examiner this morning. It weighed 25 lbs. 8 oz., and measured 4 ft. 2 in. in length with 20 inches girth. Mrs. Alf. Thomas, of New Jersey, daughter of Mr. John McClellan, of town, was the lucky performer of this piscatorial feat, and naturally feels elated over her success. The head is being mounted by Mr. Elcome, and Mrs. Thomas will take it back with her as a souvenir of her fishing expedition.

MICHAEL SWEENEY INJURED TO-DAY.

While at work in the Cereal Co's Mills about 9.30 o'clock this morning, Michael Sweeney, who boards at 101 Simcoe street, was injured through, it is believed, being caught by the driving shaft of one of the machines. It is learned that Mr. Sweeney was throwing the belt off the pulley when, in some manner it caught his clothing and dragged him up, until at length the force of gravity, made him fall, resulting in his receiving a bad scalp wound besides other bruises about the body.

The injured man was at once taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in the ambulance, where he is receiving medical care. It is believed that his injuries are not of a very serious nature.

HEALTH OFFICERS' ANNUAL MEETING

Now Being Held in the Council Chamber.

PUBLIC HEALTH SAFEGUARDS

Addresses by Local Medical Men—Prof. Connell, of Kingston, Gave Excellent Address on Typhoid—Dr. Oldwright Speaks on Vaccination.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario opened in the Council Chamber here this morning, with the following attendance: Mr. Thomas Macfarlane, President, Ottawa; Dr. Bryce, Secretary; Dr. Lane, Mallorytown; Dr. McNulty, town; Dr. Oldwright, Toronto; Dr. Bingham, Peterborough; Dr. Klotz, Ottawa; Dr. Hodgetts, Toronto; Mr. Bowlby, chairman, Brantford Board of Health; Mr. Skinner, chairman Board of Health, London; Alderman Taylor, London; Mr. Carruthers, London; Mr. McBride, London; Dr. Boucher, member of the Provincial Board of Health; Dr. McGrath, Dr. Ayms, Dr. Shaw, Keene; Dr. Greer, Dr. Caldwell, and several citizens.

After opening prayers by Rev. Dr. Torrance, Dr. McNulty, in the absence of Mr. R. Neill, Chairman of the local Board of Health, welcomed the visitors, and said it was a great pleasure to extend a cordial welcome to the physicians assembled. He was sure that the visit would be productive of much good. The work they were doing in tracing the causation of disease, was of the foremost interest to the public, and the success which had attended the efforts of the body represented there to-day as well as in other countries was very encouraging. The popular interest in the subject would be stimulated and he had no doubt that the present session would be one of especial interest and profit. For this reason he would most cordially welcome the visiting physicians on his own behalf and on the behalf of the profession in Peterborough.

Dr. Bryce, secretary, read the minutes of the last annual meeting held at Berlin last year. The minutes were, on motion adopted.

In the absence of Prof. W. T. Connell, M.D., Kingston, Dr. Bryce read his paper on a "Water-borne Epidemic of Typhoid Fever." This was followed by the reading by Dr. McNulty of his excellent paper on "The Aetiology and Suppression of Typhoid Epidemics."

A discussion followed.

In answer to a question as to how far typhoid bacilli would maintain infection virulence down a stream, Dr. McNulty said that the opinion was held by good authorities that typhoid bacilli would not reproduce themselves outside the human body. According to a case quoted in Paris, France, bacilli had been found active in the Seine at a distance of 52 miles. Dr. Oldwright, Toronto, pointed out the possibility of air-borne bacilli. In the case of an out-break in a Toronto house, he found that a break in a line of weeping tile was the only cause to which he could trace the result. Through this opening foul air from the sewer found its way through the tile, which in the dry season was free of water. He advocated a pipe from the house faucet to flow into the weeping tile to seal it. An instance in Lambton County showed that where infection was doubtless due to air-borne dust from a place where excreta had been deposited Dr. Oldwright believed that typhoid bacilli could be reproduced in water laden with organic matter, but that they rapidly died in pure water. A case in Toronto at Knox College when infection was doubtless due to drinking water from a tank where it had been pumped at the time of the breaking of the intake in the bay, while persons in another part of the cloledge using water pumped after the break was repaired were not affected. In England it was shown that little change occurred in a distance of eleven miles.

Dr. Bryce complimented the readers of the papers on the clean and scientific manner in which the subject had been treated. He said that spread of typhoid depended upon local conditions, and locally in Ontario we were more concerned in water-borne bacilli. Under no circumstances did an epidemic of typhoid occur except through water directly or milk, indirectly. Researches of twenty years by Provincial Board of Health, showed epidemic causing germs were always water borne. He instanced the case of Kingston mentioned in the paper and in Sarnia showed that once the water supply polution was done away with, the causes ceased. As to the distance the bacillius would travel depended upon conditions. Sunlight was fatal to bacilli to a depth of about five feet from the surface. In slow and deep flowing streams vitality could be maintained a long distance.

The Chairman mentioned that in Hull the water for an artesian well, 500 feet deep on analysis showed the presence of ammonia in injurious proportions. He felt as a layman that attention should be given to the proper disposal of solid discreta which should, to the least possible extent be allowed to enter water courses or sewers.

Then followed Dr. Oldwright's paper on "Vaccination in Relation to the Public Health" and adjournment.

The trip will be made on the North Star, leaving here at 9 o'clock.

RUGBY THIS FALL IN PETERBOROUGH.

A Team to Enter the Senior Series of the O. R. F. U.

A Meeting Held in the Y. M. C. A Rooms Last Night The Club's Regular Annual Meeting.

At a meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms last evening to discuss the prospects of Rugby in Peterborough this fall there were present,—Messrs. H. R. H. Kenner, E. S. Clarry, A. W. Macpherson, G. Macdonald, A. Gillespie C. Graham, W. O'Brien, A. Noble, K. Simpson, B. Cameron, R. Craig and W. Crowley.

It was moved by Mr. Kenner and seconded by Mr. Clarry, that Capt. Macpherson take the chair.

Mr. Macpherson explained that the meeting had been called to discuss the rugby situation and whether it be advisable to enter a team in the senior series of the O.R.F.U. This latter, he said could not be done without an energetic management and abundant finances.

A communication from Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell to Mr. H. R. H. Kenner was read, the main point being,—"I will subscribe twenty-five dollars to the expenses of the Peterborough Football Club for the purpose of assisting them to enter the competition for the Dominion Senior Football Championship, on condition that five other Peterborough gentlemen also subscribe a like amount. With these subscriptions no doubt the energetic and enthusiastic sportsmen of Peterborough will cause the balance of the necessary funds to be forth coming."

Mr. Kenner stated that he, like Mr. Culverwell, would donate $25 to the team's expenses, if Mr. Macpherson and Mr. Hal. Burnham agreed to play this year, upon whom, he said, depended the success of the team. Mr. Kenner remarked that should the two gentlemn above mentioned play, he did not doubt but that Peterborough could win the Senior Championship.

Mr. Clarry remarked that with the promised financial help it was quite feasable to run a senior team, and made a motion to that effect, which was seconded by Mr. Crowley. The regular annual meeting of the Rugby Club will be held on Monday evening next, at 8.30 o'clock, in the Oriental Hotel, when the entry will formally be made.

The matter of a formation of a city league, composed of three or four clubs was discussed. However, nothing definite was done in the matter.

MR. HUGH ROBERTSON'S ROUSING FAREWELL.

Presented With a Handsome Ring Last Night.

A Happy Gathering in Oriental Hotel Secretary of Demonstration Committee Honoured.

A pleasant little affair took place in the Oriental hotel last night when a few members of the Trades and Labour Council of Peterborough joined together to say good-bye to Mr. Hugh Robertson who leaves to-day for Seneca Falls. Mr. Robertson who was secretary of the Labour Day demonstration committee, was presented with a handsome ring and the following address, which was read by Mr. Chas. P. Murty:

To Bro. Hugh Robertson,—

Dear Sir, Understanding that you are about to sever your connections with not only the citizens of the town, but also with the executive of the Trades and Labour Council, at a special meeting of the latter it was resolved that we present you with this ring as a token of remembrance. It is our sincere hope that when you see the ring at future times it will bring back pleasant memories of the delightful hours we have spent together. Your associations with us have always been of the pleasantest nature and we all greatly regret your departure, which however, we one and all hope will be for your own ultimate success.

(Signed) CHAS. P. MURTY,
Acting Secretary

In presenting the ring to Mr. Robertson, Mr. A. T. Dugan, the President of the Trades and Labour Council, remarked that he was very sorry to have to make the presentation, as Mr. Robertson had always been an energetic worker in the cause of unionism, and it was through his efforts that the demonstration had been such a complete success. He hoped that Mr. Robertson would take up arms for unionism in his next home and assured him that should he ever come back to Peterborough he would be received with open arms on the part of the Trades and Labour Council.

Mr. Robertson, on rising to reply, stated that the presentation was a great surprise to him and he did not know how to express himself in words to thank those present for the honour they had bestowed upon him. He remarked that he had done all in his power for unionism and intended to continue doing so while he lived. He concluded by again stating that he was too surprised to express himself sufficiently in words, but he sincerely thanked those present for their kindness.

Mr. G. Sloan said he could not let the occasion pass by without expressing his high estimation of Mr. Robertson. He, like President Dugan, stated that he hoped Bro. Robertson would be affiliated with the Trades and Labour Council in his next place.

Mr. Chas. P. Murty spoke in the same strain, adding that he was assured the success of the celebration of Labour Day in Peterborough was due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Robertson.

Mr. Thos. Kelly, of Toronto the Provincial Inspector of Factories and Shops, who was present, stated that he greatly regretted not having met Mr. Robertson before, but, as a member of the Trades and Labour organization wished him success in his next town. He said that it was very apparent that Mr. Robertson's work had been appreciated and added that any man who worked in the cause of unionism should be honoured.

Mr. Robertson again thanked those present for their appreciation of what he considered only doing his duty.

The meeting dispersed with the drinking of Mr. Robertson's future health and success.

Now pictorial signs as flashy as the artist can produce is the best ways and means. The great show man said don't try to please your next door neighbor. He remarks, "I have often heard it said, 'Mr Smith has a sign and it is like so and so; I think I will have one the same.' Now that is the greatest mistake a business man ever made. Be original always.'" Get Fred Cook to paint your signs to suit your business, as he is original with his way of advertising. A TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA.

Mr. Charles Tucker Spends a Year in the Southern Half of the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Charles Tucker, of town, has returned after a year's absence on the other side of the equator—in South America. He has been visiting the lower continent in the interests of the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company. The principle countries he visited were Brazil, the Argentine Republic and Chili. Brazil is a somewhat mountainous country, supposed to contain rich mineral deposits, but these are dormant, from lack of development enterprise. The capital of the country, Rio Janiero, has one of the finest harbours in the world, that of Sydney, New South Wales, being its chief competitor in this line. Coffee growing is one of the chief industries of Brazil, and Mr. Tucker says that carloads of coffee being moved is as common in Brazil as carloads of grain in Peterborough. The capitol of Brazil is beautifully situated, surrounded with mountains, where a great many people reside, escially in thhe yellow fever season, to escape this deadly disease. Mr. Tucker lived their a time at an altitude of 1,200 feet.

Buenos Ayres, the capital of the Argentine Republic, is a beautiful city of nearly a million inhabitants, abounding with beautiful parks and drives, which are daily thronged with the carriages of the wealthier classes. The northern part of the Republic is devoted to ranching, the shipment of cattle and dressed meats to Europe being one of the chief industries. In the south, grain growing is largely followed.

From this country Mr. Tucker's itenerary took him across the Andes, the pass at one time reaching an attitude of 12,000 feet. In many places the narrow, rocky pass runs on a ledge over high precipices, and a fall would mean certain death. But the mules, on which the passage is made, are sure footed, and accidents rarely occur. But on the return journey, Mr. Tucker wore his hair erect for some time. There had been a snow storm, which had obscured the rocky trail over the precipice, the situation was full of danger and Mr. Tucker was full of gratitude, when he reached a safe level.

The people of these countries are of spanish stock, and are not noted for their enterprise in business. They do not seem to be very far advanced in education. In Chili there is a pretty fair sprinkling of English engaged in ranching, and they are very hospitable to the English-speaking visitor, who is always a welcome guest. The Spanish people are affable and polite and in Chili their women are noted, many of them, more for their beauty than for the rigid strictness of their ideas of morals. The leading cities of Chili are Valparaiso, on the seaboard, and the commercial capital, and Santiago, the political capital, an inland city. The climate is generally delightful.

Mr. Tucker had a very successful tour from a business point of view, and full of interest otherwise, a country where the north star is seen in the south, but the climate is somewhat trying to a Canadian.

OBITUARY.

Death of Ann Thompson, Widow of the Late Wm. Emmerson.

After an illness of about seven weeks duration, Mrs AnnEmmerson, widow of the late William Emmerson, died yesterday, at the age of 73 years.

About seven weeks ago Mrs. Emmerson sustained some injuries in a fall, and from the effects of it she has never recovered. The deceased lady, whose maiden name was Thompson, was born in Ireland and came to Canada 54 years ago with her parents. She was married in 1851 to the late William Emmerson, who has now been dead 19 years. Ever since her arrival to Canada she has lived in Peterborough County, moving to the town about 33 years ago. Four sons survive her, viz: Dr. Emmerson, of Claude, Ont., James T., of Port Arthur, and John and Thomas, of town. The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 from her late residence, 28 Division street, to Little Lake Cemetery. Mrs. Emmerson during her long residence in town has made a great many friends, who now learn with deep regret of her death.

THE MUSICAL FESTIVAL.

Undoubtedly the greatest musical attraction the town has ever been favoured with is that of the Musical Festival being held in the new skating rink on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. There is great interest being taken in it by the singers of the town and the chorus of 150 voices who have been training under Mr. Wodell for the past six weeks have been doing very excellent work.

The array of especially fine artists alone is greater than any Peterborough audience has ever been favoured with at one concert and the festival is on that account worthy of a large attendance.

Mr. J. D. A. Tripp, of Toronto, whom all pianists in town know as one of the best performers on this continent, writes Mr. Wodell to-day —"I am quite looking forward to my appearance at your festival on the 11th and hope to be in good form." Mrs. Cutler, of Boston, Festival Soprano, who is a very beautiful woman, has been chief soloist for Boston, New York, Brooklyn, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., and Chicago Oratorio Societies. She sings at both concerts here. Mrs. Cutler has a magnificent voice, is a strikingly handsome woman and her gowns are beautiful models of the dressmakers' art.

Mr. J. M. Sherlock, of Toronto, who is well known and liked in twon, will sing at both concerts, and Miss Violet V. Smith will also appear twice. Mr. John Atkinson, basso of Detroit, made a big sensation recently by his magnificent singing in Elijah. He sings at both concerts here.

There is a great demand for subscribers' best seats and as good a one for the fifty cent reserved seats. Those who have not already marked their seats for the Creation and the Rose Maiden should do so at once, for the plan is filling up very rapidly. The plan is at the Peterborough Music Co's store.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S SCHEME

War Between Turkey and Bulgaria Is Regarded as Inevitable Before the End of This Month—Turks Burn More Villages—Brutal and Treacherous Methods Employed by Soldiers of Europe's Sick Man.

London, Sept. 8.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—A meeting of the Cabinet has been definitely fixed for the 14th, and it is believed that Macedonian affairs will occupy the attention of the Ministers more than fiscal matters. I am told on excellent authority that when Mr. Chamberlain's scheme is definitely before the country it will be found to be much milder and more tentative in character than is generally supposed. Mr. Chamberlain's idea is a gradual development of the scheme, subject, of course, to what support it obtains during the Parliamentary recess.

War Appears to Be Inevitable.

Constantinople, Sept. 8.—War between Turkey and Bulgaria is now regarded here as inevitable. It is believed the outbreak will occur before the end of September, when reinforcements will have been concentrated in Macedonia. It is not thought that there will be any formal declaration of war, but that some frontier incident will precipitate hostilities. The Bulgarians and Macedonians in Constantinople are in terror of massacre.

Turks Burn Villages.

Sofia, Sept. 8.—The revolutionary headquarters received information yesterday that the Turkish have burned nearly all the villages in the district of Kastoria, near the Greek frontier. The villages in that district were the largest in Macedonia, each having from 1,000 to 3,000 inhabitants. It is added that three hundred women and children fugitives from Zagonitchani went to the Turkish commander of the district to seek assistance and protection from the Bashi-Bazouks. The Commander promised them protection, but when the fugitives left the Bashi-Bazouks pursued, outraged and killed many of the women and children.

SUFFERED HALF A LIFE TIME.

One More Splendid Cure Credited to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Doctors Said Nicholas Ecker had Gravel or Bright's Disease, or Something Else—Dodd's Kidney Pills Gave Him the Vigor of Early Manhood

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 7—Special.—Nicholas Ecker, the well-known farmer, living near St. John's P.O., on the dividing line of Pelham and Thorold Townships, who has been restored to health after twenty-nine years suffering from Kidney Disease has given a statement for publication. It reads:—

"I had been a sufferer from Kidney Complaint for twenty-nine years. I had the most distressing Backache, Irritation of the Spine, and Headaches, coupled at times with an excruciating circular pain about the lower part of the body. What I suffered no pen can describe. Insomnia too added its terrors and I was fgreatly reduced in flesh.

"Three different doctors attended me. One said I had Gravel, another called it Bright's Disease, while the third said I was in a dangerous condition. None of them gave me any permanent help and my friends thought I could not live much longer.

"At this stage I gave up other treatment and started using Dodd's Kidney Pills. After taking two boxes I found they were helping me and I continued till I had taken sixteen boxes when I was again enjoying the splendid vigour of earlier manhood."

Canned Salmon Will Be a Luxury.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 8.—The Pacific coast pack of salmon this year is one million cases smaller than last year, and two million cases short of the output of 1901. A big shortage in Columbia River salmon, an almost total failure of sockeyes in Puget Sound, and in British Columbia as well as a deficit of 500,000 cases in Alaskan salmon, are responsible for the small size of the pack.

Wrestler Fatally Injured.

Hamilton, Sept. 8.—Osborne Taylor, a well-known athlete, was probably fatally injured last night in a friendly wrestling bout. His whole body, from the shoulders down, is paralyzed. The injured man was practising with Harry Mays. Mays got a dangerous hold on him, and it was while trying to spin out that Taylor was injured.

Crank With a Gun.

Melbourne, Sept. 8.—A constable on duty at the Government House has arrested an armed lunatic, who said he wished to interview Lord Tennyson, the Governor-General. The constable closed in on the intruder and deprived him of a loaded revolver.

News too Good to Keep.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are usually so well pleased with the benefits derived that they tell the good news to their neighbours. There is no medicine which so promptly awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and for this reason they are unapproached as a family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

Nursed the Sick, Ruined Her Health.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. John Myles, sr., of South Woodslee, Essex Co., Ont., is well known throughout the surrounding country because of her work among the sick and suffering, and it was on account of overexertion in this regard that her health broke down and she lay weak and helpless, a victim of nervous prostration. Doctors could not help her and she resolved to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a result she has been thoroughly restored and by recommending this treatment to others has been the means of bringing back health and happiness to many a weakened and discouraged sufferer from diseases of the nerves.

Mrs. Myles writes:—"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was nervous prostration. My stomach was very weak and I could not sleep at all for any length of time. Nervous chills and trembling would come over me and at times I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker all the time. There were also pains on top of my head which caused me much suffering and anxiety.

"After using half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I began to gain in weight and feel stronger. Since then I have been gradually restored to health and in looking back can say that the improvement has been something wonderful. I used in all forty boxes of this preparation and feel it a duty as well as a privilege to recommend it to all who are suffering from nervous disorders. Several persons to whom I have described my case have used it and been cured and I am sure that I owe my present good health, if not life itself, to Dr Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 4.

He that loves a rosy cheek,
Or a coral lip admires,
Or from starlight eyes doth seek

Hearts with equal love combined,

Ontario Christian Endeavorers.

The 1903 Convention of the Ontario Christian Endeavor Union will assemble in Stratford, the Classic city, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1. The convention of 1900 was held in Guelph and not since that time has the convention been held in Western Ontario and a great deal of interest is centered with this meeting Father Endeavorer Clark, the man that Canada gave to Christian Endeavor, is expected to be present, as is also the new general secretary, Von Ogden Vogt, and these men coming as they do direct from the firing line and with new enthusiasm gained at the great Denver International, the convention promises to be very inspiring and helpful to all who may attend. Reduced rates have been secured on the convention plan and tickets will be good to go on Sept. 25th and return Oct. 5th, and if 300 or more attend (which is more than likely) the rates will be single fare for the round trip from all Ontario points to Stratford.

Blood Disorders

are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

WORK OF THE WOMEN

STRANGE PATHS THEY CHOOSE IN EFFORT TO GET SUBSISTENCE.

Try to Prove Themselves as Much Man's Equal in Laborious as Well as Mental Work—London County Council's Futile Effort to Interest Parliament—Some Truthful Figures Concerning Prominent Workers.

These are unhappy times for the women's rights movement in London. Although a committee has recommended the London County Council to petition Parliament to take steps for enabling women to sit on County Councils, and although the Council will probably adopt the recommendation, it is very unlikely that Parliament will take any notice of the appeal.

If it depended on the County Council, the battle of the women would be won. Every Council since the body came into existence has petitioned Parliament in the interest of women members, and Parliament has steadfastly ignored the appeal.

It will, indeed, be in the memory of all Londoners that three ladies—two elected by the ratepayers and one selected as an alderman by the Council—did actually serve on the first L. C. C., until the judges determined that they had no right to be there.

For the last five years women have lost, and lost heavily, in their cause. Not long ago they could serve as guardians, as members of the School Board, as parish and district councillors, and as members of the London vestries.

There are no London vestries now, and women cannot sit on the borough Councils which have superseded them.

Woman's Choice.

The work of the School Board is to be transferred to the County Council, and on that body women cannot sit. And only a little while ago Mr. Long hinted that the administration of the Poor Law will also be transferred to the municipal authorities, from which women are barred.

It is pointed out, as if women ought to be elated thereby, that the Education Act makes it compulsory that each scheme shall provide for the inclusion of women as well as men among the members of the education committee.

In conjunction with these circumstances it is interesting to notice the incursion of women into occupations usually connected with men, as revealed by a new blue book dealing with the census of 1901.

There are female cellarmen, female boatmen, female watchmen, and female warehousemen, not to mention female pointsmen and female railway porters, female bell-hangers, blacksmiths, boilermakers, bricklayers, masons, miners, carpenters, paperhangers, whitewashers, gasfitters, dock laborers, saddlers, sawyers, shepherds, tailors, tanners, and undertakers.

Truthful Figures.

The returns show that in England and Wales, females find employment as follows: 6 architects, 2 accountants, 86 auctioneers, 19,223 bookbinders, 39 bailiffs, 46,769 bakers, 362 bargemen, 27,707 barmen, 6 bayonetmakers, 1,042 bedsteadmakers, 2 bell-hangers, 56 bill discounters, 316 blacksmiths, 420 boatmen, 4 boilermakers, 43,775 bootmakers, 4,298 brass-workers, 3,071 brickmakers, 4 bricklayers, 177 builders, 3,850 butchers, 757 cabinetmakers, 660 carmen, 56 carpenters, 132 coachmakers, 1,316 cellarmen, 1,911 chainmakers, 3,105 chemists, 54 chimney-sweepers, 72,046 clerks, 1,746 clockmakers, 30 coopers, 6 copper miners, 5,743 curriers, 2,527 cutters, 2,929 cycle-makers, 186 decorators, 1 dock laborer, 212 doctors, 140 dentists, 608 fish curers, 166 fishermen, 4,325 French polishers, 7 gasfitters, 305 general laborers, 806 glue makers, 5,170 goldsmiths, 188 gunsmiths, 5,140 gardeners, 1,745 hairdressers, 4 hurdlemakers, 399 ironfounders, 15 lead miners, 11 limeburners, 42 masons, 4,991 messengers, 211 metal machinists, 8 millwrights, 2,604 nailmakers, 1,702 packing-case makers, 99 paperhangers, 9,698 printers, 115 plumbers, 3 plasterers, 745 porters (railway), 3,289 ropemakers, 1 road laborer, 4,730 saddlers, 155 sawmakers, 10 sawyers, 12 shepherds, 3 slaters, 3 slaughterers, 222 stovemakers, 117,640 tailors, 71 tanners, 279 undertakers, 3 veterinary surgeons, 1,101 warehousemen, 79 wheelwrights, 1 woodman, 8 zinc workers.

It will thus be seen that, while recent legislation has tended to deprive women of rights in the capacity of a public representative, her sphere of employment has increased to a remarkable extent.

From Cadet to Admiral.

Particulars have recently been published throwing light upon the service careers of certain youths who entered the "Britannia" in the same term many years ago. Thirty-five of them joined, and of these six reached flag rank, and are now admirals. The proportion of one in five may be regarded as very high, and it would be intersting to have a comparison with the entries and promotion results in other years at intervals. These particular cadets might have done still better, if four of them had not died, and one been murdered, before donning the second stripe. Six of them left the service also in these junior stages and one was discharged, so that only twenty-three entered the running as lieutenants, and of these more than one in four reached flag rank.—Liverpool Post.

Why William Didn't Have One.

The Boss—Isn't it about time you thought about a new overcoat, William? You seem to have had that one for years and years? William (sadly reminiscent)—Yes, sir—I recollect I bought it on the occasion of my last rise of salary, sir.—Sydney Town and Country Journal.

Northwest Colleges.

Edmonton's Methodist College is assured. It is to bear the historic and honored name of McDougall, and Professor Riddell, of Winnipeg, has been chosen for Principal. The college seems destined to be denominational. Its promoters are anxious to have a residence one of the features. The Western Canada College, at Calgary, has made a fair start, but the Presbyterians who launched the scheme have abandoned the modified form of denominationalism which was at first proposed for it. The Presbyterian Church, none the less, is distinctly friendly to the project.

The Scotch Sabbath.

A Canadian university man was touring Scotland last summer. One Sunday morning he put his little hammer in his pocket (for he is an amateur geologist), and, strolling out upon the hills, he began to chip off such specimens of rock as interested him. A native happened along as the man was thus engaged.

The native looked on with a frown for a moment. Then he said: "Sir, do ye ken yer breakin' more than stones there?"

"Breakin' the Sabbath, eh?" said the young Canadian with a laugh, and, to appease the Scot, he put away the hammer and walked onward a little way with him.

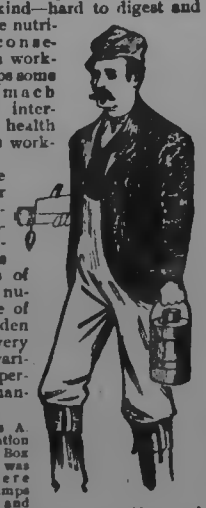
A turn of the road revealed the ruins of a castle. "What castle is that?" said the stranger. The Scot frowned. "It's noo' the day," he said, severely, "to be speirin' sic things."

Facts About London.

In London a child is born every three minutes and a death is registered every five minutes. Daily a million persons travel on the underground railways, 7,000 hansoms, 14,000 cabs and 7,000 tram cars. Four thousand postmen deliver 10,000,000 letters weekly, walking a distance equal to twice the circumference of the globe. Sixty thousand letters are written a day, consuming thirty gallons of ink. Ten thousand miles of overhead telegraph wires almost shut out the smoky canopy, which spreads above the same London streets, and the number of telegraph messages received in London last year was over 6,000,000. Ninety million gallons of water are consumed daily.

The Dinner Pail

Of the American working man is generally well filled. In some cases it is too well filled. It contains too many kinds of food, and very often the food is of the wrong kind—hard to digest and containing little nutrition. As a consequence many a working man develops some form of stomach trouble which interferes with his health and reduces his working capacity.



Where there is indigestion or any other indication of disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition, the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will almost invariably produce a perfect and permanent cure.

Mr. Thomas A. Swarts, of Sub Station C, Columbus, O., Box 103, writes: "I was taken with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. At last I had all the complaints at once, the more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so this I had given up to die thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take my advice and take Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles in about six weeks, I was weighed, and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds. I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BRIDES IN OLD QUEBEC.

How the Hotel Clerk Could Spot Them Every Time.

"Do tell us how you can spot them so quickly," said one of the girls who had been standing near the hotel clerk who was relating some of his experiences, taking it all in; "then I shall know what to do and how to conceal my identity as a bride when I come to Quebec sometime—perhaps," she laughed.

"Well, there are ways and ways of telling," said the clerk confidingly. "Some brides always wear new shoes even with their last season's traveling suit; then others have a whole new outfit from top to toe; of course if they have their gloves off, we can tell by a new and shining wedding ring.

"There was a bride here last week," he grinned, "who thought she was going to fool every one; she wore old clothes and carried a battered old traveling bag. Her shoes showed signs of wear, and even her wedding ring was old—probably her mother's. She didn't call her husband 'dearest,' nor give him any languishing looks; she even went off and left him to smoke alone, while she sat on the other side of the room and read a book. She knew how many lumps of sugar he took in his coffee and didn't blush when the English waiter called her 'Miss,' and if the thing hadn't happened nobody would have known but what she had been married five years.

"But after she'd been here two or three days, she came up to the desk one evening and asked if a parcel had not come for her from the furrier's. Said she'd been expecting one since the day before, and they said down there that it had been sent, but it hadn't been sent up to her room, and she thought I must have overlooked it.

"What was the name?' I said, as I went to look over the heap of boxes waiting to be delivered. Mrs. C. C. W—,' she said. I looked them all over. 'None here, ma'am,' I said. 'There's only one from the furrier's you mention, and that's for Miss Hayward.' 'Oh,' she said, 'That's mine!' 'Why, how's that?' I began, when she turned red as a beet and said, 'I—I forgot and gave them the wrong name; you see, I have only been married since Thursday,' and she snatched the box from me and fairly ran to the elevator, not even waiting for me to ring for a boy to take it up for her.

"Now, wasn't that a nice give-away?" he grinned, delightedly. He went on to give other whys and wherefores, but they shall not be given here for the best of reasons, namely the initiated already know how to tell a bride, and the uninitiated ought to learn by experience, and not from a newspaper.

Sales to noon, 110,000.

Messrs. McMillan & Maguire have received the following:

New York, Sept. 9th, 1903.

The limited business of to-day is not indicative of any important recessions and there is no need to sell stocks after a recession of 1-2 to 2 points, as a rally will come. A reaction in Atchison below 65 is in order and I would not buy above that price. I regard stocks a sale on all rallies.

Be careful about selling short except with a close stop order. The market should be a purchase for a turn late to-morrow afternoon or Thursday morning. Railway stocks will not recede more than 1 to 11-2 p.c. below to-day's closing prices and will be followed by a moderate rally Thursday and Friday.—Joseph.

SEPTEMBER WEDDING.

Miss Letitia Eastland Becomes Wife of Mr. D. L. Sarginson.

The residence of Mr R. Eastland, 231 Stewart street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding yesterday afternoon when his daughter Letitia Jane was married to Mr. D. Laidlaw Sarginson, of town. The wedding ceremony which was performed by Rev. W. L. Armitage, Rector of All Saint's Church was witnessed by the immediate friends of the bride and groom only. Proceeding the ceremony Mr. Geo. Schneider played very effectively the wedding march.

The bride was very tastily attired in a travelling suit of navy blue, with white silk waist. After the wedding the usual dainty dejeuner was served after which the happy couple left on the 5.10 C.P.R. express for a visit to western cities, and upon their return will reside at 223 Perry street. The bride who is very popular, was the recepient of a large number of very handsome presents. The young couple start out in their married life with the best wishes of their numerous friends.

STREET RAILWAY TO BE DISCUSSED.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. Rush moved the first reading of a bylaw to provide for the borrowing of $7,000 on the shortage on Waterworks debentures, which after having received its several readings was passed.

Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of a bylaw authorizing the execution of an agreement between the Council and the Peterborough Radial Railway, and moved that the second reading of the bylaw be taken up at a special meeting of the Council to be called by the Mayor on Monday night. Ald. Morrison said that he felt sure that if citizens had an opportunity of looking into the matter as it really stood and of having it thoroughly explained, the opposition existing now would be largely withdrawn. Ald. Morrison's motion was carried.

Ald. Best moved, and Ald. Morrison seconded, that in the interval, the full details of the by-law be published in the press of the town, or by means of poster, at the option of the mover and seconder of the motion. This motion carried.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw authorizing the construction of a granolythic sidewalk on the west side of Downey street from Brock to Hunter streets, by James Rogue, but further readings had to be postponed as the necessary three-fourths of the Council was not present.

Mr. Pousette and Mr. Garvin were present representing the Sugar Company in reference to the proposed crossing on Landsdown street on the siding being put in by the G.T.R., and asked that the Council pass the bylaw authorizing the construction of the siding. Ald. Best advised the Council to give the Sugar Company the authority asked for, and thought that the Company should not be handicaped in its operations. Ald. Morrison in speaking on the question said that he fully concurred in the remarks of Ald. Best, who referred to the fact that at the C.P.R. crossing very frequently the street was blocked for periods of time, sometimes 30 minutes at a time. The Mayor stated that he would write the C.P.R. asking them to remedy the complaint. In reference to the proposed bylaw, Ald. Shortly moved its first reading, which after having been given the necessary number of readings was passed.

The Mayor asked the Council to consider the action taken by the two hospitals to, after the 1st of November, refuse to accept patients suffering from contagious diseases, and asked the Council to take some means of providing proper accommodation for those suffering from contagious diseases. The Mayor also referred to two handsome pictures of the Governor-General and Lady Minto, which had been presented to the Council by their Excellencies, and stated that he had already acknowledged their receipt.

The Council then adjourned.

ECHOES FROM THE CHURCHES

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

A pleasing feature of the evening service in the George street church on day was a solo rendered by Mr. F. W. Wodell, who is conducting the Festival here. His selection was Dudley Buck's "My Redeemer and My Lord," and no such rendition of that beautiful solo has ever been heard in the church before. Mr. Wodell's interpretation was faultless and proclaimed him a highly accomplished singer.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

On Sunday morning at St. John's John's Church at the offertory, Mr. F. W Wodell, conductor of the Musical Festival on Thursday and Friday nights, sang in a most satisfactory and musicianly manner the sacred selection, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," the composition of Mr. Charles Harriss, Ottawa. The singing of the selection was greatly enjoyed. It was a happy blending of devotional spirit and expression and artistic finish.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

On Sunday next Rev. W. B. Heeney will preach in the morning and give a special address to men at 4.15 in the church. A large attendance of men is expected.

The Harvest Festival service will be held on Friday, the 18th of September, when the Rev. Chas. J. James, M. A., Rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, is expected as the special preacher.

Having bought out the business and stock of the Singer Supply Co., on the understanding that they were leaving for North Bay, I have had another lucky chance to pick up a large consignment of still better bargains. By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

EXCELLENT PAPERS READ.

Dr. McNulty Speaks of the Aetiology and Suppression of Typhoid Epidemics—Interesting Discussions on Other Subjects.

In the necessarily brief report of yesterday's proceedings at the annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario, more particular reference was promised. The paper of Prof. W. T. Connell, of Kingston, on a water-borne epidemic of Typhoid fever, related the details of an epidemic of Typhoid which visited the Limestone City last February, and the origin of the outbreak was traced to a break in the intake pipe of the City Water Works, the epidemic ceasing upon the repair of the pipe. It was noted that the pollution of the city water was coincident with a certain direction of the wind, which brought the sewage-laden water from the suburbs in contact with the break in the intake pipe. The paper further incidentally insisted upon the necessity of both chemical and bacterialogical examination of suspected water.

The next paper read was that of Dr. McNulty, Chairman of the local Reception Committee, which was as follows:—

Opinion with regard to the etiology of typhoid fever, its mode of dissemination, and the methods adopted for its prevention, which a few years ago seemed to be established on a firm and fixed basis is again in a state of flux. This is not due so much to the fact that views previously accepted have been found to be incorrect, but further they have been shown to be incomplete. The discovery by Eberth of a special pathogenic bacillus, constantly associated with typhoid fever, instead of setting at rest the question of the germ origin of the disease, so stimulated bedside and bacteriological investigation, that we are now confronted with a whole series of problems, for which neither clinical medicine nor laboratory experiments have as yet found solutions. Although the bacillus typhosus has been the subject of more research and literature than almost any other pathogenic microbe the bacteriologist still encounters great difficulties in framing a definition of its true characters. Much still remains to be learned regarding its life history both within and without the human body. The doctrine that there are several strains of the typhoid bacillus, all pathogenic, all presenting more or less completely the well known phases of typhoid fever, but yet not wholly identical, and in particular, not the one capable of producing complete immunity against infection by the other, finds favour in some quarters. For some three or four years it has been evident to the bacteriological clinician, that more than one bacillus can cause the symptom-complex, known as typhoid fever; the discovery of the phenomenon of agglutination and its subsequent application to clinical diagnosis has been of help in this recognition.

Symptoms not always Identical.

From the very first it was remarked that some cases diagnosed as typhoid did not give the serum reaction. This absence of reaction may be taken as due to an infection with an organism other than Eberth's bacillus. This view in turn leads to the belief that there is a whole series of infections with bacilli of the enteritidis or colon groups, clinically resembling typhoid, without being that disease. These cases have in fact been recognized bacteriologically, the absence of the serum reaction being the chief determining point; as a rule they are of a mild nature, with a short course and invariably recover. The diagnosis of these typhoid cases, as they have been called, has more than an academic interest; it would be a very notable advance in practical medicine to be able to pick out from among the cases now called typhoid, and therefore subjected to the rigid treatment and discipline of true typhoid, a set of cases not attended by intestinal lesions and only rarely fatal. Both our prognosis and treatment would then be essentially modified, and we would be in a position to add materially to the comfort, mental and physical, of both relative and patient. There are of course mild cases of fever, often classed as febricula, which are really slight attacks of true typhoid; no doubt these cases serve to distribute the contagion; in fact severe epidemics have followed mild ambulatory cases of this kind.

Rigid Sanitary Precautions.

My plea is that these mild cases of true typhoid can be readily diagnosed by bacteriological methods from the typhoid-coloid cases, and thereby indications given for the rigid sanitary precautions that should attend every enteric case. This accuracy in diagnosis is devoutly to be wished for, and the methods adapted to this end, it is to be hoped, will soon be in universal use.

To trace the origin of any single case of typhoid is notoriously a different matter, and yet this first, sporadic case may be the cause, either directly or indirectly, of a subsequent severe epidemic. Professor Koch, who recently delivered an address on the means of suppressing typhoid, laid particular stress upon the necessity of an early diagnosis in these first cases. He holds that the bacillus typhosus is an obligatory parasite for man, and that is extra-corporeal existence is very short, and that when an epidemic arises, the latter cases derive their infection from the earlier ones, and not from the primary forces. In regard to the mode of dissemination of enteric fever it is universally recognized that water is the medium by which it is commonly spread. Formerly, in all cases, we looked to the water supply and drainage as practically the sole sources of contagion, and whilst still, in probably the majority of the cases, the fault lies in this direction, nevertheless, recent investigation and research has brought to light many other sources of almost equal significance. Probably all of us have been convinced in our own minds as to the certainty of the origin of typhoid from contaminated water, and yet what a very difficult bacteriological problem it is to isolate the Eberth bacillus from such a water.

The Maidstone Epidemic.

This fact could not be better illustrated that in the well known Maidstone epidemic, the greatest which has occurred in England in recent years. This outbreak commenced in September, 1897, and gave rise to over 1,800 cases and some 130 deaths, in a population of 34,000. The Maidstone water supply is derived from three independent springs, one of which became polluted with human excrement, and in the area of the town supplied by this one spring a vast majority of the cases occurred, and yet, although the bacillus of enteric fever was undoubtedly in the water, and although bacteriologists of repute were engaged in the search, not one of the efforts made to find it proved successful. The question arises should this fact be taken as a reflection on the adequacy of our present bacteriological methods, or is it that the period of vitality of the organism in water is very limited, or as Widal suggests, is it that it still exists, but it is impossible to isolate it from the numerous other germs with which it is struggling for existence, or still, again is it that this micro-organism, in its new infectious environment, existing saprophytically, differs morphologically and biologically from the bacillus typhosus in the human organism and so escapes recognition. Whatever explanation may be given to solve this problem, the fact still remains, that cultures of a contagion-bearing stream, made when the mischief has already been done, rarely yield the typhoid organism, and when they do, the reason probably is, that fresh infective material is still finding its way into the stream.

Dangers of Spring Water.

A not unusual source of typhoid has been given some prominence recently by Professor Guertner, who has published a valuable contribution on the dangers of spring water as a source of infection. Streams and rivers run above ground and so we can see whether or not they are contaminated, but with springs all but the point of exit is removed from view, and we have no opportunity of discovering whether they are subject to any contamination along their course. If at any point polluting material is introduced it is not easily eliminated, because spring water in its rapid course along wide and narrow channels, cannot purify itself like ground water by a process of gradual filtration through the fine pores of a suitable soil. A sample of water recently taken from a spring in this town and sent for examination revealed the presence of countless numbers of streptococcus and coloid bacilli. There are many possible ways in which the infective material may be introduced. The heavy manuring of fields overlying a spring from which drinking water is obtained appears to have been the cause of several outbreaks; heavy rains having washed down the infective material through the highly permeable upper stratum. Certain soil, and especially those of a chalky nature, are too porous to act as filters and readily allow the free passage of contaminated matter. Proper Sewerage System Necessary.

Again, a sewage-polluted stream separated by a safe distance, so far as the eye can see, from a spring used for drinking purposes, may travel for part of its course under ground and then come into dangerous proximity to the latter; or again river water of recognized impurity may find its way through fissures in the river bed, and make its appearance some distance away in the form of a spring which is thought to be of quite independent origin and regarded as safe. Experience has proved that these possibilities are to be regarded as real dangerous and that actual outbreaks of typhoid have been due to these sources of contamination. It would be, of course, unwise to condemn spring water absolutely, but the exigencies of each particular place under discussion should be well considered and surety of its purity ascertained instead of being taken as granted.

Infection from the urine in convalescence from typhoid fever is another very important source of danger. Dr. Clifford Albutt calls attention in a recent monograph to several epidemics arising from this cause; in one instance he traced an infection of certain wells to the urine of a convalescent trooper from South Africa. These wells as subsequent investigation showed had supplied to the inmates of a particular house water contaminated with sewage, but with no apparent ill consequences until the trooper came thither. On the 17th day after his arrival at the house twelve persons were down with the fever; at this time examination of the trooper's urine revealed the presence of the bacillus typhosus. Several instances of this kind have been reported. We know that in the stools the bacilli do not survive long into convalescence, even if until convalescence, but in the urine they may be excreted in millions for a period long enough to poison a whole country. In fact it has been computed that one case out of every four has typhoid bacilluria and in one definite instance the micro-organisms are said to have existed in the urine for a period of five years. What a fruitful source this is for infection and how incumbent it is upon all practitioners and medical officers of health especially to see that disinfection of the urine is carried out systematically in every case. In urotrapine we have a ready means to accomplish this end and before the patient is allowed to again mingle with the community, certainty should be ascertained as to the urine's sterility.

Dangers of infection amongst Armies

The study of infection amongst armies in the field is a matter of great interest to all civilian sanitarians, as the conditions of a military, as compared with civil life, present special advantages for tracing out the source and path of invasion of enteric fever. Recent experience along this line in South Africa has called attention specifically to the part which soil flies and fabrics, which have become fouled by infectious material, may play as a

Much still remains to be learned regarding its life history both within and without the human body. The doctrine that there are several strains of the typhoid bacillus, all pathogenic, all presenting more or less completely the well known phases of typhoid fever, but yet not wholly identical, and in particular, not the one capable of producing complete immunity against infection by the other, finds favour in some quarters. For some three or four years it has been evident to the bacteriological clinician, that more than one bacillus can cause the symptom-complex, known as typhoid fever; the discovery of the phenomenon of agglutination and its subsequent application to clinical diagnosis has been of help in this recognition.

Symptoms not always Identical.

From the very first it was remarked that some cases diagnosed as typhoid did not give the serum reaction. This absence of reaction may be taken as due to an infection with an organism other than Eberth's bacillus. This view in turn leads to the belief that there is a whole series of infections with bacilli of the enteritidis or colon groups, clinically resembling typhoid, without being that disease. These cases have in fact been recognized bacteriologically, the absence of the serum reaction being the chief determining point; as a rule they are of a mild nature, with a short course and invariably recover. The diagnosis of these typhoid cases, as they have been called, has more than an academic interest; it would be a very notable advance in practical medicine to be able to pick out from among the cases now called typhoid, and therefore subjected to the rigid treatment and discipline of true typhoid, a set of cases not attended by intestinal lesions and only rarely fatal. Both our prognosis and treatment would then be essentially modified, and we would be in a position to add materially to the comfort, mental and physical, of both relative and patient. There are of course mild cases of fever, often classed as febricula, which are really slight attacks of true typhoid; no doubt these cases serve to distribute the contagion; in fact severe epidemics have followed mild ambulatory cases of this kind.

Right Sanitary Precautions.

My plea is that these mild cases of true typhoid can be readily diagnosed by bacteriological methods from the typhoid-coloid cases, and thereby indications given for the rigid sanitary precautions that should attend every enteric case. This accuracy in diagnosis is devoutly to be wished for, and the methods adapted to this end, it is to be hoped, will soon be in universal use.

To trace the origin of any single case of typhoid is notoriously a different matter, and yet this first, sporadic case may be the cause, either directly or indirectly, of a subsequent severe epidemic. Professor Koch, who recently delivered an address on the means of suppressing typhoid, laid particular stress upon the necessity of an early diagnosis in these first cases. He holds that the bacillus typhosus is an obligatory parasite for man, and that is extra-corporeal existence is very short, and that when an epidemic arises, the latter cases derive their infection from the earlier ones, and not from the primary forces. In regard to the mode of dissemination of enteric fever it is universally recognized that water is the medium by which it is commonly spread. Formerly, in all cases, we looked to the water supply and drainage as practically the sole sources of contagion, and whilst still, in probably the majority of the cases, the fault lies in this direction, nevertheless, recent investigation and research has brought to light many other sources of almost equal significance. Probably all of us have been convinced in our own minds as to the certainty of the origin of typhoid from contaminated water, and yet what a very difficult bacteriological problem it is to isolate the Eberth bacillus from such a water.

The Maidstone Epidemic.

This fact could not be better illustrated that in the well known Maidstone epidemic, the greatest which has occurred in England in recent years. This outbreak commenced in September, 1897, and gave rise to over 1,800 cases and some 136 deaths, in a population of 34,000. The Maidstone water supply is derived from three independent springs, one of which became polluted with human excrement, and in the area of the town supplied by this one spring a vast majority of the cases occurred, and yet, although the bacillus of enteric fever was undoubtedly in the water, and although bacteriologists of repute were engaged in the search, not one of the efforts made to find it proved successful. The question arises should this fact be taken as a reflection on the adequacy of our present bacteriological methods, or is it that the period of vitality of the organism in water is very limited, or as Widal suggests, is it that it still exists, but it is impossible to isolate it from the numerous other germs with which it is struggling for existence, or still, again is it that this micro-organism, in its new infectious environment, existing saprophytically, differs morphologically and biologically from the bacillus typhosus in the human organism and so escapes recognition. Whatever explanation may be given to solve this problem, the fact still remains, that cultures of a contagion-bearing stream, made when the mischief has already been done, rarely yield the typhoid organism, and when they do, the reason probably is, that fresh infective material is still finding its way into the stream.

Dangers of Spring Water.

A not unusual source of typhoid has been given some prominence recently by Professor Guertner, who has published a valuable contribution on the dangers of spring water as a source of infection. Streams and rivers run above ground and so we can see whether or not they are contaminated, but with springs all but the point of exit is removed from view, and we have no opportunity of discovering whether they are subject to any contamination along their course. If at any point polluting material is introduced it is not easily eliminated, because spring water in its rapid course along wide and narrow channels, cannot purify itself like ground water by a process of gradual filtration through the fine pores of a suitable soil. A sample of water recently taken from a spring in this town and sent for examination revealed the presence of countless numbers of streptococcus and colonoid bacilli. There are many possible ways in which the infective material may be introduced. The heavy manuring of fields overlying a spring from which drinking water is obtained appears to have been the cause of several outbreaks; heavy rains having washed down the infective material through the highly permeable upper stratum. Certain soil, and especially those of a chalky nature, are too porous to act as filters and readily allow the free passage of contaminated matter.

Proper Sewerage System Necessary.

Again, a sewage-polluted stream separated by a safe distance, so far as the eye can see, from a spring used for drinking purposes, may travel for part of its course under ground and then come into dangerous proximity to the latter; or again river water of recognized impurity may find its way through fissures in the river bed, and make its appearance some distance away in the form of a spring which is thought to be of quite independent origin and regarded as safe. Experience has proved that these possibilities are to be regarded as real dangerous and that actual outbreaks of typhoid have been due to these sources of contamination. It would be, of course, unwise to condemn spring water absolutely, but the exigencies of each particular place under discussion should be well considered and surety of its purity ascertained instead of being taken as granted.

Infection from the urine in convalescence from typhoid fever is another very important source of danger. Dr. Clifford Albutt calls attention in a recent monograph to several epidemics arising from this cause; in one instance he traced an infection of certain wells to the urine of a convalescent trooper from South Africa. These wells as subsequent investigation showed had supplied to the inmates of a particular house water contaminated with sewage, but with no apparent ill consequences until the trooper came thither. On the 17th day after his arrival at the house twelve persons were down with the fever; at this time examination of the trooper's urine revealed the presence of the bacillus typhosus. Several instances of this kind have been reported. We know that in the stools the bacilli do not survive long into convalescence, even if until convalescence, but in the urine they may be excreted in millions for a period long enough to poison a whole country. In fact it has been computed that one case out of every four has typhoid baciluria and in one definite instance the micro-organisms are said to have existed in the urine for a period of five years. What a fruitful source this is for infection and how incumbent it is upon all practitioners and medical officers of health especially to see that disinfection of the urine is carried out systematically in every case. In urotrapine we have a ready means to accomplish this end and before the patient is allowed to again mingle with the community, certainty should be ascertained as to the urine's sterility.

Dangers of Infection amongst Armies

The study of infection amongst armies in the field is a matter of great interest to all civilian sanitarians, as the conditions of a military, as compared with civil life, present special advantages for tracing out the source and path of invasion of enteric fever. Recent experience along this line in South Africa has called attention specifically to the part which soil flies and fabrics, which have become fouled by infectious material, may play as a

Miss Agnes Miller, of Chicago, speaks to young women about dangers of the Menstrual Period —how they can avoid pain, suffering and remove the cause.

"I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds and feet wetting.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine which helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment and was cured a month later. I am like another person since I am in perfect health."—Miss AGNES MILLER, 35 Potomac Ave., Chicago, Ill.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY

Held in St. Andrews Church Yesterday.

Those Present -The Business Transacted and Reports Received.

At Peterbrough and within the St. Andrews's Church there, the 8th September, at 9.30 o'clock, the which time and place the Presbytery of Peterborough met and was duly constituted by Mr. McIntosh Moderator pro tem.

There were present, Dr. Torrance, Messrs. Bennett, Thompson, Lord, Johnston, (Wm.), McIntosh, Campbell, Yule, McDonald, Macfarland, McLennon, Ministers and Messrs. Harrison, Russell, Fowler, Elders. Commissions were received on behalf of Messrs. Isaac Lormer, Centreville; John Wetherson, Warkworth; Duncan Fife, Hastings; and David Jamison, Bethany; as representatives of their several Kirk Sessions and their names were added to the roll of Presbytery.

The minutes of the former quarterly meeting, being in printed form and in the hands of members, were held as read and were retained. The minutes of the pro re nata meeting held in Peterborough on the 6th August were read and sustained.

A docket was read to which it was agreed to adhere as the order of business.

On motion of Mr. Bennett it was agreed after notice for re-consideration that the resolution of the meeting of 1st October, 1902, requiring the printing of the minutes of interior meetings be repealed on the ground of unnecessary expense.

Mr. Harrison presented the motion of which he had given previous notice for the abolishing of a Presbytery fund for the payment of travelling expenses of delegates to the General Assembly, including the delegates who had gone to Vancouver in June last. After some discussion on the subject it was agreed to defer final action until next quarterly meeting.

A call from Baltimore and Coldsprings was reported by Mr. Lord. The call was in favour of Rev. R. I. McDonald, a minister without charge. Inasmuch as Mr Lord had already received notice from Mr. McDonald that he would decline the call it was agreed to stay further proceedings in the matter, and authorize Mr. Lord to moderate in another call so soon as the people shall be prepared for the step. It was further agreed to express sympathy with the congregation in their disappointment.

Reports were at this stage called for from delegates who had visited the Augmented congregations.

Mr. Yule reported regarding a visit made to the Janetville, Ballyduff and Pontypool congregations. The report was received and adopted and authority given to make application for the same amount as last year from the augmentation fund.

On the strength of a letter received from the pastor, Dr. Torrance reported regarding congregational matters in the Wursaw field. The report was received as an interim report. A full report will be called for at a special meeting to be held in the near future.

There was no report from Havelock Mr. McLennon was appointed to visit this field in room of Mr. Thompson, who cannot conveniently do so, and to report at the special meeting

Reports were received also from delegates who had visited the Mission fields, viz:—

Harvey field by Mr. Campbell Report received

Cardiff field by Mr. Johnston, of Millbrook. Mr. Camp reported as to a visit made to Cordova.

These various reports were received and ordered to be referred to the Home Mission Committee for consideration.

There were no reports as yet from the Chandos and Burleigh fields, nor for the Oak Hill field.

Mr. Porter was reappointed to visit the former field and Mr. Yule in room of Mr. McIntosh, to visit the latter and to report at the special meeting to be held for the consideration of Augmentation Matters.

The next meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in the Mill Street Church, Port Hope, on the 3rd Tuesday of December, at 2 o'clock.

On motion of Dr. Torrance it was agreed to invite the office bearers of the Mill Street congregation to meet with the Presbytery for Conference on all matters affecting the interests of the congregation.

Mr. T. F. Clarke, the Treasurer, reported with regard to the state of Presbytery fund. The report was received and great satisfaction expressed with it.

An interim report from the Home Mission Committee was read by the Moderator in the absence of Mr. Potter. A full report will be given when the other stations not yet visited shall have been heard from. The Clerk was instructed to call a special meeting at the time of the expected induction in Omemee, for the further consideration of Augmentation and Home Mission matters, and also of a claim against the Presbyteria by a probationer of the Church, who alleged that he had suffered loss through failure to provide opportunity for him to preach in the vacancies of the Presbytery for all the Sabbaths for which he had been appointed by the Assembly's Committee of distrisution.

The Presbytery adjourned to meet in Port Hope, Mill Street Church, on the 3rd Tuesday of December at 2 o'clock, and the meeting was closed with the benediction.

WM. BENNETT,
Presbytery Clerk.

Was Hovering Between Life and Death

A few days trial of Lactated Food will convince any intelligent mother that it is the right form of nourishment for her weak and puny baby. No other food can give such prompt and happy results at a time when the little one is hovering between life and death. A Montreal lady last August wrote as follows: — "My baby was so weak and sickly a few weeks ago that we despaired of her life. We tried nourishment of every kind, but could not get anything to remain on its stomach. We heard of Lactated Food, and commenced its use. There was an improvement the very first week, and to-day our baby is well and strong. Lactated Food saved her life." Sold at all Drug stores.

The prize list of the ninth annual Fall Show of the Harvey Agricultural Society is now ready for distribution, and a perusal of its contents is sufficient to convince one that the Fair to be held at Lakehurst on October 1st, and 2nd, will be a success. Mr. J. W. Irwin, the energetic secretary-treasurer, with Messrs. John Smith and W. T. Elliott, president and vice-president, respectively, are working for the success of the Fair, and no doubt their labours will be abundantly successful. In all departments liberal prizes are being offered, and in the live stock section, particularly, some very attractive features will be introduced, the result of the progressive policy adopted by the management. The business men of Peterborough have shown a desire to support this Exhibition by offering liberal prizes, and it is hoped that a large number of entries will be made in all the different classes.

S. R. ARMSTRONG.
Town Clerk.

THIS INDENTURE made in duplicate the day of 1903.

BETWEEN
THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF PETERBOROUGH, hereinafter called the "Corporation," of the first part and

WHEREAS the said company has been duly incorporated for the construction and operation of an electric railway in the Town of Peterborough and in the Townships of North Monaghan, Smith, and Douro, and in the Villages of Ashburnham and Lakefield and to connect the Villages of Lakefield, Young's Point and Chemong Lake, respectively, with the Town of Peterborough.

AND WHEREAS the said Company has applied to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough to grant the Company a franchise over the streets of the said Town which the Corporation has agreed to do upon and subject to the conditions herein set forth.

1. The Company shall build and put in operation for passenger, express and freight business at least five miles of electric railway in continuous or connected series of lines at least five miles of electric railway in continuous or connected series of lines in the Town of Peterborough and in the Township of North Monaghan by re-opening the line formerly used by the Peterborough and Ashburnham Street Railway Company and by extending the present line to the River Otonabee provided the consent of the Township of North Monaghan can be obtained to such extension in North Monaghan and by constructing a new line from the corner of Park and Charlotte Streets along Park street north to McDonnell street, and from the corner of Park and McDonnell streets to Jackson park.

2. The lines of the railway described in the first paragraph hereof shall be built, equipped and operated not later than the 1st day of July, 1904.

3. The Corporation doth hereby upon and subject to the terms, provisoes and conditions herein reserved and contained and subject to the provisions of the Act incorporating the Company grant to the Company the exclusive franchise and right to use the streets of the Town of Peterborough (except Crescent street on which no railway shall be placed) for the purpose of a street railway for carrying passengers, freight, express and baggage including the right to place the necessary poles, wires, ties, rails, turnouts and other appliances thereon for the purpose aforesaid and the necessary stringers for strengthening bridges and culverts.

4. The franchise or right to use the streets of the Town of Peterborough as aforesaid shall be held and enjoyed by the Company for the period of thirty years from the first day of July, 1904, subject to the faithful performance by the Company of this agreement on their part and may (after notice in writing has been given by the Corporation to the Company notifying it of the default and such default has not been remedied within three months after the service of such notice) be declared forfeited by a resolution of the Council of the said Town on default by the Company of any part thereof or on failure on their part to complete, equip and operate the lines mentioned in the first paragraph hereof or to operate the same and all other lines of railway built by the said Town as herein specified and shall also be subject to the provisoes for the determination of the same contained in paragraphs 5, 25 and 35 hereof.

5. That in case the Company shall on request of the Council to be made after the first day of July, 1910, neglect after notice in writing being served upon the Company or an officer thereof in accordance with a resolution of the Council requiring the construction of a railway on additional streets in the Town of Peterborough to build and have in operation such railway within nine months after giving of such notice the franchise of such street's shall revert to the Corporation and the Corporation shall in that case have the right to grant a franchise of such last streets to any other company or person and any other Company or person shall have the right to cross the tracks of the Company with its line or lines of railway without payment of any sum for the privilege of so crossing except an equitable share of the cost of making the crossings and maintaining the same. Provided that if a sewer be constructed on such street or streets within ten years after the construction of the railway the Corporation will at its own cost move and replace the ties.

6 That the propelling power of the lines of railway shall be electricity or such other improved power as the Company shall at some future time with the consent of the Corporation adopt and put into operation and that in case electric power is used the electrical pressure between any trolley wire and the rails or between any two trolley wires shall not be greater than 600 volts.

7. Provided, however, that whenever there shall occur a fall of snow which shall materially obstruct and prevent the running of the cars the Company may use sleighs to be drawn by horses or motors upon the Company's lines in the Town of Peterborough until the cars can be used on the track, but the tracks shall be freed from snow and ice at the expense of the company so soon as practicable so that the cars may be used continuously and no salt shall be used by the Company on its tracks within the said Town

8 Provided further, that in case of temporary failure of the usual propelling power without fault or neglect on the part of the Company the Company may use horses or motors to draw busses or to draw the cars upon that part of the Company's lines in the Town of Peterbrough during a reasonable time required to repair such usual propelling power.

9 That all the works of the railway shall be executed and maintained in a substantial, efficient and modern manner and with all the ordinary safeguards necessary for the protection of persons and property from injury and damage in the application and use of the power and in the operation of the railway that all wires used as electrical conductors carrying over 600 volts except bond and trolley wires are unless otherwise authorized by the Corporation to have a suitable insulating covering, that the rails shall be bonded and the bonds maintained in an efficient and modern and connected with the power generator or generators with a proper and efficient system of return wires so as to prevent the straying of electricity and where the tracks of the Company cross any railway tracks a heavy copper cable shall be used to carry the return current under the tracks of the intersecting railway and that a voltage survey is to be made by the Company under the direction of and when required by the Corporation Engineer to determine the electrical condition of the underground ... cable sheathing and other structures ... 10. That the track or tracks shall be of the standard guage of four feet eight and a half inches and the "T" rails or such other suitable rail shall be used on the streets in the said Town and that the rails to be used shall be of the weight of at least fifty-six pounds to the yard. In case the tracks of the Company cross any bridges or culverts the Company at its own expense is to place all girders and works necessary for strengthening the same so as to safely carry the cars over such bridges or culverts.

11. That the Company shall lay the rails flush with the streets and bridges so as to cause the least possible impediment to the ordinary traffic of the streets, that the same shall be laid in accordance with the existing level or grade of the street or a grade to be fixed by the Town Engineer at the time of laying the same or as near thereto as is compatible with a proper execution of the work and in that case the Corporation shall at any time after the year one thousand nine hundred and ten require it, the Company at its own expense shall lower or raise and relay its tracks so as to conform to the grade of such streets or parts of streets as altered or affected on either side of the tracks by the cutting or filling of the streets.

12. That the track or tracks shall be originally placed on such part of the street as shall be directed by the Town Engineer. That the poles of the Peterborough Light and Power Company shall be used if possible and that additional poles required shall be placed close to the sidewalks. That where wooden poles shall be used the same shall be uniform and shall be dressed and painted in a becoming manner if the Town Engineer shall so require.

13. That the Company shall so construct and maintain the railway that the same will not interfere with the town's sewers, water pipes, water tables and drainage, and that the Company shall in good and substantial manner pave and re-pave and maintain in repair with the same material as the Corporation uses outside the rail the roadbed within the rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks, and keep that part of the bridges and culverts between their outside rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks, and keep that part of the bridges and culverts between their outside rails planked or paved with the same material and in as good condition as the Corporation uses and and maintains the rest of such bridged and culverts, and that in case the roadbed outside the rails is disturbed by the Company when preparing its tracks then the company shall promptly replace the same in as good condition as before being disturbed free of cost to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough.

14. That subject to the terms and conditions of paragraphs 5 and 11 hereof in case of laying down sewers, water pipes, connections, services and conduits for wires and other purposes or the grading, repairing or paving of the streets or rebuilding or repairing bridges and culverts by the Corporation if it shall in the opinion of the Council be necessary or convenient to remove the rails the same shall upon the request of the Council be removed by the Company and be relaid at the expense of the Company, but such requisition of the Council shall be made so as to cause as little as possible loss, injury or inconvenience to the Company having regard to the work to be done by the Corporation.

15. That the trolley wires shall be suspended at least 16 feet from the ground.

16 That none of the poles or wires shall be erected or strung so as to injuriously interfere with the poles or other apparatus connected with the public street lighting, police patrol or fire alarm systems of the Town of Peterborough, or telephone lines, and that no shade tree is to be injuriously trimmed or have its roots disturbed, except, with the consent of the Corporation engineer.

17. That in case of fire in buildings adjacent to any streets on which the railway runs it shall be lawful for the Corporation or its servants upon the order of the mayor, or of the chief, or other officer at the time in command of the Fire Brigade to cut the Company's wires without the Corporation or its servants being responsible for any damages or costs on account thereof.

18. That the Company shall construct and keep in repair all street crossings for foot passengers between its rails of a similar character to those adopted by the Town Council, the Corporation providing the material for the same at the edge of the track.

19 That during the operation of laying and relaying the ties and rails a free passage for vehicles over the streets shall be kept open and immediately after the laying and relaying the ties and rails the materials removed shall be replaced in as good and substantial manner as before removal and the surface of the street made flush with the rails and all surplus material removed by the Company and deposited where directed by the Town Engineer or street inspector or other officer having charge of such streets

20 That the Corporation shall not be liable to the Company for any damage the Company may sustain or incur from the breakage of any sewer or water pipe or for any damage or delay that may be caused by the construction of bridges, culverts, sewers, laying of water pipes, services, connections, conduits or repairing the same or from any delay or damage caused by freshets or fires.

21. That it shall and may be lawful for the Corporation to lay down or permit to be laid down in the streets water pipes, services, conduits for wires, connections, gas pipes and sewers and to alter and repair or permit to be altered and repaired the same respectively, and also subject to section 11 hereof to grade, alter, improve and repair the streets whenever public convenience may so require and to rebuild and repair bridges and culverts without cost or claim for damages to or against the Town for interruption or interference with the traffic of the Company or its railway.

22. That no turnout or siding shall be made or placed on that part of George street between Murray and Charlotte streets and no turnout or siding shall exceed 250 feet in length without the consent of the Council

23 That no part of the railway shall be open to the public without the sanction of the council to be given on certificate of the Town Engineer or other town inspector that the railway is in good condition and constructed as herein provided.

24 That whenever it shall be necessary to remove any snow or ice from the track of the railway, the same shall not be left in heaps but spread evenly over the street as shall be directed by the officer of the Corporation for the time being charged with the supervision of the streets and the Corporation shall when the said officer deems necessary remove the snow lying between the outer rails of the roadbed and the kerb on all streets in the said Town upon which the cars of the Company are operated, to such depths and when and in the manner directed by the said officer, the expenses of such removal to be borne by the Corporation and the Company as follows—[illegible] granted to be borne by the Corporation; during the next five years of said term one-quarter of the expense to be borne by the Company and three-quarters by the Corporation and during the remainder of such term the said expense is to be borne equally by the Company and the Corporation and the said Company is to pay to the Corporation its share of such expense on or before the first day of May after said work is done in each year.

25. That if the Company shall fail to construct, complete and operate before the first day of July, 1904, the portion of the railway required to be constructed and operated as herein provided for by that date the Municipal Council may by resolution declare such failure shall work a complete and absolute forfeiture of any privilege or franchise on or over the streets granted by the Town to the Company and upon the passage of such resolution the privilege and franchise hereby granted shall be forfeited provided that the Company shall not be held responsible for delays beyond the said date caused by strikes, injunctions, inability to cross steam railways or any other cause beyond the control of the Company, nor shall any forfeiture be declared on account thereof.

26. That in case the Company shall refuse or on reasonable notice neglect to do and perform any matter or thing required to be done by the Company as herein provided the same matter or thing may be done by the Town and the cost thereof recovered from the Company.

27. That the Company shall and will at all times indemnify and save harmless the Corporation from and against all loss, cost, charges, expenses, suits, actions, claims and demands whatever arising or occupying by reason of the construction, maintaining, repairing or operating of the said railway or in anything connected with or relating thereto or resulting from or arising out of the same or the failure or neglect of the Company to do or perform anything which the Company is by agreement or by law required to do or perform, including the maintenance of that portion of the streets and bridges to be maintained by the Company and the removal of snow as provided herein.

28. That the Company shall operate and run its cars on its lines in the Town of Peterborough from the Hour of 6.00 a. m. until the hour of 11.00 p. m. of each day except Sunday. That in operating the railway the cars shall stop at the further crossing of intersecting streets and the body of the car shall not stop on or over a crossing or on any intersecting streets and cars shall not be left on any street at any time unless waiting for passengers.

29. That the Company shall not without the consent of the Council run freight cars on any street, except Bethune street between the hours of six o'clock a.m. and ten o'clock p.m. and shall not run freight cars on any street in the Town of Peterborough at such time or in such way as to cause serious inconveniences to the public using the streets, having regard to the time and occasions and the number of people or vehicles using such street, but the Company shall not place any tracks on Bethune street without the consent of the Municipal Council but may use subject to the consent of the Company owning them, any of the tracks at present thereon.

30. That the fares to be charged by the Company over any line operated or controlled by the Company within the limits of the Town of Peterborough or the extension in the Township of North Monaghan herein provided for shall be as follows:—

43. That whereas it is provided by section 13 hereof that the Company shall in a good and substantial manner pave and repave and maintain in repair with the same material as the Corporation uses outside the rail the roadbed between the rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks. The meeting to be held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours to-night for the formation of a City League promises to be an interesting one, and the indications are that an enthusiastic meeting will be held. Two representatives from each team desiring to enter the league are invited and it is hoped that a sufficient number will signify a desire to enter to make the series interesting. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

Just at this period when an appeal is being made to citizens to support the placing in the field of a senior team in the O.R.F.U., the example set by a little town in Southern Alberta might, with considerable point be cited. The town referred to is Lethbridge, a village comparitively speaking, of 2,500 inhabitants. A junior lacrosse team wanted to make a trip to Fernie, B.C., to play a game with that town, the return fare to which was $7.50. A subscription of $90.00 was quickly raised and the team made the trip. Nothing is ever lost by business and professional men supporting athletic organizations. The moral of this story may be recognized by all.

HOCKEY.

"Dave" Belland may be seen on the forward line of the local hockey team this season. He will remain in town, having accepted a position with the Canadian General Electric Company. During last season he played with the Ofescents of Quebec City, and also with the Senior Quebec team.

TURF.

The Toronto World contains a very creditable half-tone cut of Mr. Geo. Curtis' mare, Minnie Keswick, the horse which won two firsts and a second at the Exhibition track. Minnie Keswick made a good showing at the meet held here last month.

BASEBALL.

The Excelsiors will meet the Chicago Stars Ladies' team on Tuesday afternoon, and a hot game is sure to result. The ladies' team is not the Brooklyn or Boston Ladies' team, but the one that has been playing such great ball through the Eastern States all summer. On Sunday last they beat the Mascottes in Montreal and have won over three-fourths of their games this year. The management of the Excelsiors had a great deal of trouble trying to get the Stars here so the fans would have a chance to see them play.

HON. A. G. BLAIR TO OPEN EXHIBITION.

Is the Announcement Made by Fair Directors.

Arrangements Completed for Peterborough's Greatest Fair—Coldstream Guards Band Best Ever Heard in Canada.

The Directors of the Peterborough Industrial Fair, after considerable correspondence have secured the Hon. A. G. Blair, ex-Minister of Railways and Canals in the Dominion Cabinet, to open the Exhibition this year, and are being congratulated on all sides on the enterprise displayed in securing the most talked of man in public life at the present time to set in motion the great Industrial Fair of the Midland Counties.

A meeting of the Directors was held last night, at which the President presided, and the following gentlemen were present,—Messrs. E. M. Elliott, vice-president, and Robert Fair, Geo. Fitzgerald, H. P. Kennedy and Robt. Munro, Directors. Final arrangements were completed for the Exhibition, and the local officers, such as gate-keepers, ticket sellers, grounds superintendent, etc., were appointed. From all outside points glowing accounts are being received of the interest being taken in the Fair by exhibitors and unless all signs fail the Fair this year will far surpass that of any previous year in its history. Workmen are now at work putting the grounds and buildings in readiness for the Exhibition to be held the week after next. As an additional attraction the visit of the Coldstream Guards' Band is the best that could possibly have been secured and Peterborough people owe a debt of gratitude to the management for at a great expense securing them to visit the town. The press of Toronto is most enthusiastic in its praise of the musical talent displayed by the band on its appearance there. Speaking of the overture to "William Tell" by Rossini, the Toronto World says: "The opportunities of hearing the overture to 'William Tell' by Rossini have been manifold. The Pittsburg Orchestra, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, Banda Rossa, Creatore, Sousa and all the bands of note which have visited Toronto, usually place this overture as the first number on the programme; but well as it has been rendered before, it never was given a rendition equal to that of the Coldstream Guards' Band in Massey Hall yesterday afternoon. The mysterious opening of the piece, descriptive of the mountain solitudes at sunrise, was a revelation. In the bird-like passages of the flute, winding around the theme on the reeds, the band showed its full power. The distant thunder crashes rolled, while the pitter-patter of the rain was distinctly heard. The clarionets play as one instrument, the bassoons likewise, and the brass section is wonderfully mellow. Even in the forte passages there was not that harshness so common to brass instruments, and the musicians were so arranged as to blend all parts of the orchestration. There was not that thinness so common in other bands. When the brass section is prominent the rest of the orchestra does not cease playing, and when the oboe gives out that little pastorale such as the mountaineers play when calling their herds together, there is a softness around it which does not give it that prominence usually given to it, and yet it was never played in Toronto so distinctly and sweetly."

All who have heard the Coldstream Guards' Band are free to acknowledge that it is by far the best that has ever been heard in Canada, and that is saying something remarkable. The securing of this band to visit Peterborough is but one of the evidences of progressiveness displayed by the Industrial Fair management.

Reserve your seats now for "Creation." Mrs. Cutler, Boston, soprano, to-night.

An Explanation.

In reference to a communication presented at the Council meeting on Tuesday night from W. and J. Croft, in which a protest is made against the construction of a granolythic sidewalk on the ground that the petition asking for it had not been signed by a sufficient number of property owners effected. Mr. P. Alexander asks the Examiner to state that more than half of the property owners affixed their names to the petition, in fact the wish is almost unanimous among those living in the vicinity to have the walk built.

In former years the public has not patronized the Horticultural Society's show as it deserved. There is no doubt but that the town people as a body have a decided taste for flowers, is everywhere evident in the manner in which private grounds are kept up, and the Society by keeping the parks in good order are striving to cultivate this taste.

This year the show will be held in the Drill Hall on Friday and Saturday next. The Band will be in attendance and will give one of its characteristic concerts at which there will be plenty of room for those present to promenade. Member's tickets admit members and families, while the general admission charge is 15 cents or 2 for 25 cents.

CONFERENCE OF HEALTH PROMOTERS

source of contagion. The possibility of these sources of infection is necessarily closely associated with the study of the viability of the bacillus typhosus in or on their media in hosts and how far the micro-organism is affected by dessication and other special circumstance of environment. With regard to these aspects of the etiology of typhoid fever very careful and extensive observations have been recently made and the following definite conclusions reached:—

Some Conclusions

1. That the enteric bacillus can exist saprophytically in ordinary and sewage polluted soil for as high as seventy-four days

2. That the presence or absence of organic nutritive material in the soil appears to be a largely negligible factor.

3 That the dominant factor affecting existence is an excess or great deficiency of moisture in the soil.

4. That from fine sand allowed to become dry, the entire bacillus can be recovered in the twenty-fifth day after inoculation.

5. That from a piece of blue serge, inoculation with an emulsion of the enteric bacillus and then allowed to become quite dry, the micro-organism is recoverable up to the seventy-eighth day.

6. That ordinary house flies can convey enteric infective matter from specific excretion or other polluted material to objects on which they may walk, rest or feed.

Bearing upon Practical Sanitation.

These facts have an important bearing upon practical sanitation. If the bacillus typhosus is able to assume a vegetative or saprophytic existence for considerable periods outside the body, we are, therefore, compelled to face the position that outbreaks of enteric fever are not exclusively water borne and that infective material carried by wind and flies may play an important part in the development of the disease. This view has met with strenuous opposition from men of eminent standing, but both practical and recent laboratory experience is so strong in its favour that the idea of air borne typhoid is now beyond serious dispute. To give one practical instance the following chain of events might be quoted:— "A surgical officer attached to one of the civil hospitals in South Africa a man of high training and considerable professional standing, determined that whatever happened to him, he at any rate would not contract typhoid from drinking unboiled water. He accordingly had boiled every drop of water he drank or took into his mouth, including that he used for washing his teeth. But again and again dust from the track of the army was blown in quantity into the mouth and nose, and, whether or not on that account, he developed typhoid fever." This is a small piece of positive evidence but sufficient to show the possibilities of air borne infection. It is worthy of remark that at the present time it is held that tubercle bacilli from powdered sputum are carried by the air, and in this way act as the main source of infection in pulmonary tuberculosis. I believe there is no direct evidence that the typhoid bacillus ever enters via the respiratory passages, but infected dust might contaminate the saliva and by this means reach the intestinal canal.

Insects as an Infecting Agency.

As regards the agency of flies in disseminating typhoid it has been demonstrated in laboratory experiments that after they have walked over substances containing typhoid bacilli and then allowed to walk over sugar plates, colonies of typhoid bacilli developed along their track. The commission which enquired into the origin and spread of the enteric epidemic in the United States camps in the Spanish-American war found that they were due in some cases to water, but chiefly to pollution of the camps to direct and indirect infection in the tents, and to pests of flies; through their agencies the disease continued to spread when once established. In one instance in this war, of two regiments camped on the same ground, having the same water, milk and food supply, one regiment alone contracted fever badly and it alone had neglected to use fly-proof cases for its provisions and at a certain stage of the same war when quicklime was placed in the lavatories as an antiseptic, the food substances in the neighboring kitchens became quite white from flies settling on them. Apart from soil influences and transport by flies a further important point in typhoid to the possible direct dissemination of enteric infection is the ability of the organism to survive dessication on fabrics.

Army Blankets Infected.

The now historical army blanket epidemic of recent occurrence in England gives special prominence to this mode of infection. These blankets were issued in the hospitals in South Africa, became infected with the bacillus typhosus, and by some oversight escaped disinfection and were returned to England. There they fell into the possession of second-hand dealers and were widely distributed for sale throughout the country. Several epidemics followed in their wake and upon bacteriological investigation Professor Klein found each blanket examined swarming with typhoid bacilli. This fact suggests some special points bearing upon the possibility of specific fecal infection in connection with those occupying common rooms, such as school boys, inmates of hospitals, poor houses, asylums, etc. In these communities a considerable number of persons occupy one room which is not only used for sleeping but for the brushing and dusting of clothes, but often also for the partaking of meals. The danger from such conditions is obvious, and points to the necessity of thorough disinfection of all clothes previously worn by an infected patient, the avoidance of overcrowding and of personal cleanliness on the part of the individual.

Difficulties of Suppression.

The suppression of any given epidemic of typhoid fever is fraught with obvious difficulties. The doctrine of cleanliness, pure water and good sanitation which are now so well understood by all, are sometimes difficult to put into practice when dealing with country districts; no effort should be spared, however, to safeguard all possible paths of infection. Careful supervision by a sanitary medical officer is absolutely necessary. Means should be provided to separate suspected cases; provision should be made for a sufficient supply of pure water and for prevention of pollution of the soil. Disinfection of the clothing should be rigorously enforced; excreta sterilized and disposed of in a manner making its conversion into infected dust impossible and in fact every known defensive means brought actively into play. I wish here, however, to call attention more particularly but very briefly to the means of suppression as advocated by Professor Koch. He deals with the infection in an offensive manner and bases his method on the general theory that it is more important to attack the primary source of the infection by an obligatory human parasite than the intermediate ones. His plan is to to attack the cause of the disease at headquarters which is neither in water nor infected soil, but in the human subject. He advocates that one primary object should be to disinfect the excreta of every person whose stools are proven bacteriologically to contain typhoid bacilli. Once this object is attained we render it impossible for the specific germs to find their way into intermediate channels of infection. Any typhoid bacilli which may have previously found access to water or soil cannot propagate indefinitely but must within a relatively short time die. An early diagnosis is the most essential feature of this plan. The unsuspected and ambulatory cases, as many authorities on hygiene have pointed out, do the most harm.

Promptitude Necessary.

We must, therefore, not lose valuable time in waiting until the clinical symptoms become definite or the Widal's reaction gives a positive result, because it is precisely in these preliminary stages and in the latest forms of the disease that the danger is greatest, the necessity of disinfection being overlooked, and the infection spread in consequence. Prof. Koch's method for securing prompt diagnosis follows the plan elaborated by Drigalshio and Coarlile, the essential of which is that instead of using the ordinary culture medium which delays the growth of the typhoid organism until after the colonies of the bacillus form communities which it is most important to separate, have attained a vigourous growth, these bacteriologists have devised a culture medium which accelerates the growth of typhoid colonies, so that within twenty-four hours an absolutely reliable diagnosis may be given. The practical value of this method of rapid diagnosis is that it enables a decision to be made, whilst the clinical symptoms are still obscure as to whether sanitary precautions and disinfection of the excreta ought to be carried out. To pass from theoretical to practical considerations the utility of bacteriological diagnosis is excellently illustrated by the suppression of a troublesome epidemic near Berlin last year. A laboratory was equipped, the cases recognized early, isolation and vigorous disinfection followed, and within a comparatively short time, the disease was entirely exterminated. Whether these preventative measures are capable of application on a large scale is as yet an unsettled question.

An Ideal not Likely to Be Easily Reached.

There are obvious difficulties in the way and the stamping out of typhoid over a large area of country is an ideal which is not likely to be achieved for many years to come. We must be content to commence reforms on a small scale and carry them prudently forwards. Work of this kind needs special facilities and knowledge of the finer details of bacteriological research. The attainment of this end must be a very gradual process. Its value, however as an acquisition to our sanitary methods has been practically demonstrated and it now remains for us to apply the details in those more serious epidemics that seem to menace the public health. If this at present cannot be done we may at least be reminded that whilst we can never afford to neglect intermediate channels of infection, in our efforts to exclude them, we must not rest content until, tracing them back step by step, we arrive at the primary source from which the contamination arose.

In the succeeding discussion Mr. Bowlby, K.C., Brantford, asked what distance in water from the source bacilli would retain a virulent life. Dr. McNulty said in reply, that the opinion was held that typhoid bacilli would not reproduce themselves outside the animal body. The length the bacilli would be active was considerable. In Paris, France, this distance had been found as great as 50 miles.

The chairman insisted upon the importance of prevention and invited discussion.

Dr. Oldwright said as to air-borne infection there was little doubt. In his own practice he quoted the occurrence of typhoid in the family of a citizen of Toronto. There was no epidemic of typhoid and the plumbing of the residence was all right, but there was a weeping drain in the residence which was suspected and on examination disclosed a strong insertion of air current from the sewer to the drain, showing that the bacilli of disease were carried by this air current from the drain to the inhabitants of the house. The remedy suggested was the carrying of a pipe from the faucet of the water tap to the weeping drain to keep it supplied with water. He quoted an instance of the carrying of typhoid germs in the dust of soil in Lambton County, upon which the excreta of typhoid patients had been thrown, showing that the bacillus was also dust-borne. Regarding the reproduction of the typhoid bacillus he believed the typhoid bacillus would grow in water rich with organic matter and rapidly die out in pure water. Instances were quoted to show this. In Toronto at Knox College after the first batch of cases of typhoid fever had been cured, another outbreak occurred amongst students who had drunk water from tanks which had been filled after the well known break in the intake pipe in Toronto Bay had been repaired. The theory was that the germs had multiplied in the tank. As to the life of bacilli in running water experiments in London had shown that there was little change in the course of 11 miles.

Dr. Bryce very warmly complimented the readers of the papers, Dr. Law and Dr. McNulty, on the scientific manner in which their subjects had been treated. The spread of typhoid depended upon local conditions and we were more concerned in germs of water-borne typhoid than any other. Under few circumstances, if any, did an epidemic of typhoid occur in this Province except through water directly or milk indirectly, though no doubt infection could be carried by other means. The experience of the Provincial Board of Health for twenty years proved that typhoid epidemics were water-borne which showed that if we could keep our water supply free from pollution we could eliminate typhoid. The cases of Sarnia and Kingston showed that conditions favouring pollution of the water supply by sewage or excreta was a cause of typhoid and other epidemics. Speaking of the distance bacilli would travel in a condition of active virulence, Dr. Bryce said that depended on the condition of the streams at different times. Germs were destroyed by sunlight to a depth of four or five feet under water. Muddy water and sluggish water would carry germs a long way.

The Chairman mentioned a case in Hull where water from an artesian well five hundred feet deep was found impregnated with free ammonia to a dangerous degree. As a layman, he was of opinion that, wherever possible we should endeavour to prevent excreta in a semi-solid form from entering a sewage system.

THE DOMINION FAIR.

Stockbreeders and Fruit Men Have Their Innings—An Address by Hon. John Dryden—Attendance Tuesday 67,000.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The official estimate for yesterday is placed at 50,000, with an attendance on Tuesday of 67,000. Wednesday was technically designated Live Stock Men's Day.

The Directors' Luncheon.

Stock Breeders' and Fruit Growers' Day was the occasion of a large gathering of the yeomen of the province. At the directors' luncheon, addresses were given by Hon. E. J. Davis, Hon. George E. Foster, Hon. James Young, Prof. Mills, of the O. A. C., and Walter Glynn, of London, Eng.

The Good Roads Men.

The Western Good Roads Association concluded yesterday afternoon, and decided to hold their next annual meeting in Toronto in March, at a date to be fixed by the executive. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, gave an address on the good roads movement.

The following officers were elected: President, James Graham, Lindsay, (re-elected); secretary, Col. Farewell, Whitby, (re-elected), committee on legislation, R. R. Brett, Essex; E. Kenrick, Ancaster; Norval Hagar, Warden of Welland; D. J. N. Wood, Kirkfield, Victoria County; D. J. Evans, Islington, York County; Peter Christie, Manchester, Ontario County; Dan Quinlan, Barrie, Simcoe County; S. R. Wallace, Burgersville, Oxford County; Rothwell Watt, Wiarton, Bruce County; Luther F. W. Furneer, Fullerton, Perth County; John A. Macdonald, Branchton, Wellington County; Executive Committee, The president, the secretary, A. W. Campbell, and P. G. Van-Black.

The Dairy Competitions.

The dairy interests continued to play a marked part at the Dominion's big fair yesterday. The address of Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, was received with applause by a very large crowd of farmers and their families. The big demonstration room of the dairy building was packed to hear "What the Ontario Department of Agriculture has done and is doing for dairying." Mr. Dryden handled his theme in a practical way that elicited the closest attention from those present. Then the non-professional class began the competitive work of making butter. Last year the non-professional class made a higher average than the professionals, and they hope to keep up the percentage.

ONE OF THE PROOFS

"I claim Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have been instrumental in taking me from the brink of the grave and restoring me to comparative good health."

That is the statement of Jackson Johnson, of Norham, Ont. It is one of the proofs that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia in its worst stage. Your indigestion may not be as bad as that. It may be only starting. But if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure the worst stages of this insidious disease, will it not cure yours? and is it not better to cure it now than to wait till it grows worse, as it surely will? Listen to the rest of Mr. Johnson's experience:—"My case was one of Chronic Dyspepsia. I had been doctoring for it for nearly twenty years. About two years ago I was taken with Diarrhoea which became chronic and continued for about nine months, despite all I could do for it. I continued to grow weaker, and was at last confined to my bed for a time. I was at length persuaded to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. From the first they relieved me and I continued to use them, till now I am in a position to heartily recommend them to all suffers from Dyspepsia."

Land Bill Hailed as Victory.

Dublin, Sept. 10.—The National Directory of the United Irish League held a meeting at Dublin yesterday, under the presidency of William Redmond, M.P. A resolution was adopted welcoming the Irish land bill as the most substantial victory gained by the Irish people for centuries, and ascribing this result to the loyalty of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Wyndham, the high public spirit of the Liberal party and the good-will of the landlords. Other resolutions urged the tenants to negotiate the purchase of their holdings in a spirit of friendliness.

Drowned in Muskoka.

Bala, Sept. 10.—Norman W. Brown was drowned of Reef Island, Lake Joseph, on Monday, Sept. 7. The deceased was 19 years of age and was employed by Canon Bland, of Hamilton. He came from Listowel on Monday. He was chopping and piling wood for the steam yacht, and failed to appear when the whistle blew as usual. Search was made and his body discovered in the water the next day. No one knows the cause of the accident.

News too Good to Keep.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are usually so well pleased with the benefits derived that they tell the good news to their neighbours. There is no medicine which so promptly awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and for this reason they are unequalled as a family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

OBSTRUCT THE BILL

Opposition Talk at Length on Fairest Redistribution Bill.

BILL READ A SECOND TIME.

Was Then Taken Up in Committee of the Whole House—Mr. Monk's Speech—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply — House Treated to Ludicrous Sight—Mr. Haggart Denounces Bill With Tears in His Eye.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The Opposition are threatening to obstruct the passage of the redistribution bill, which is the fairest measure of its kind ever presented to a Canadian Parliament. They talked at length on it yesterday, and several of them promised further speeches in greater detail when the bill reaches Committee of the Whole. The bill is an honest readjustment of the constituencies on the principle of county boundaries, for which the Liberals have always contended. Yet it is denounced by men like Mr. Haggart, who helped to perpetrate and maintain the iniquitous gerrymander, by means of which constituencies were carved up in the most ruthless manner, regardless of any principle save that of party advantage. Mr. Haggart almost wept this afternoon as he pictured the alleged disadvantages that would result from the contemplated readjustment, and called upon the Government to act in accordance with the dictates of justice and fair play. This, coming from one who, as already stated, has been identified with some atrocious examples of gerrymandering, was a ludicrous spectacle.

Mr. Monk's Speech.

Mr. Monk (Jacques Cartier) reviewed at length proceedings before special committee, which had the question of redistribution under consideration. He said that while the House had laid down the principle of adhering to county boundary limits, it did not go far enough, and other general rules should have been adopted. In the west there was no county boundaries. In regard to the redistribution of Quebec he made no objections, but in respect to Ontario there ought to have been more extensive guidance from the House than a mere adherence to county boundary lines. Some rules should have been adopted for distribution within the county when it required more than one member. In this regard he complained of the division of the County of Waterloo into North and South Waterloo, and presented the House with a map of the divisions. He was not satisfied with the division of Middlesex. He said that the work of the committee was a gerrymander.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he had followed the previous speaker sentence by sentence, in the hope that he would reach some conclusion, but he had spoken an hour and a half without stating what he wanted or whether he objected to going into committee.

Mr. Monk—I object until my right hon. friend will lay down the proper rules to guide us.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that Mr. Monk had not yet said whether they should go into committee or not. They had before them a bill which had been a few months ago referred to the special committee by the unanimous consent of the House. The committee did its work, and he did not understand what were the objections of hon. gentlemen opposite. Dr. Sproule had moved the reference to the Supreme Court, to determine the number of members Ontario should have, but there was no necessity for that, and after the amendment had been voted down, the second reading had been carried unanimously. Some objection had been made by the leader of the Opposition to the number of members on the committee, but it was ultimately agreed to unanimously. No one expected that any committee or any number of members would be unanimous as to the division of 214 different electoral districts. Yet the committee was unanimous, so far as New Brunswick, Quebec and the Northwest Territories were concerned, unanimous so far as seventeen of the eighteen constituencies of Nova Scotia were concerned, and likewise respecting 39 of the Ontario constituencies out of 86. There were differences of opinion on 47 of the Ontario constituencies, and in many of these the differences were very minute indeed. His hon. friend had referred to Waterloo. He was not prepared to state, without further information, whether the division which had been adopted by the committee was fair or unfair. That was the object of the House going into Committee of the Whole. His hon. friend had invited discussion of the subject. The only way to do it was to go into the committee and take up one after another the propositions made in the committee. It seemed to him the only thing to do was to affirm the motion before the House, then they would consider the objections of his hon. friend (Applause.)

The House went into the bill at 8 o'clock.

Several Clauses Passed.

Clause 1, fixing the number of members of the various Provinces having been carried, clause 2, affirming the schedule, was, at Mr. Monk's suggestion, allowed to stand, as one or two members still wanted to speak on it. The third, fourth and fifth clauses of a more formal character, were passed in a moment, leaving clause two and the schedule of 22 pages to be discussed in detail.

The House adjourned at 11.15 p.m.

STILL TALKING WAR.

Ottoman Subjects May Sweep Sultan Into War With Bulgaria.

London, Sept. 10.—The official and press reports from the near east yesterday emphasize the seriousness of the situation there and confirm the belief of the authorities here that owing to the general irritation throughout European and Asiatic Turkey toward the Christians, as a result of the Macedonian revolt, the Sultan may be swept by the uncontrollable sentiments of his Ottoman subjects into a war with Bulgaria, in spite of the unwillingness of the Porte to precipitate such a conflict.

The St. James Gazette yesterday afternoon says that an arrangement has been arrived at between Great Britain and Austria, which will come in operation under certain eventualities.

Famous Rebel Killed.

Salonica, European Turkey, Sept. 10.—The famous revolutionary leader, Captain Sojan, was killed in the fight at Lake Anitovio, in vilayet of Constantinople. Three other Bulgarians were killed and many were wounded.

Warships Asked For.

Sofia, Sept. 10.—The Dnevnik says the Consuls at Salonica have requested their Ambassadors to send warships to that port, as they are in fear of dynamite outrages. The towns of Prilep and Monastir are surrounded by troops, and no one is allowed to enter or leave them.

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.

Thirty Persons Killed.

Paris, Sept. 9.—A despatch to The Temps from Constantinople, giving additional details of the outbreak at Beirut, says that when the soldiers and police sought to stop the encounter between the Mussulmans and Christians, which occurred near the Orthodox Church, the fighting became general and resulted in 30 persons being killed or wounded. The trouble.

Crushed to Death.

Belleville, Sept. 10.—A terrible and fatal accident happened to Byron Cromberry, of Trenton, Tuesday afternoon. The unfortunate man was riding in a wagon, when he accidentally fell off. The wheels passed over his chest, crushing his life out. He lived but a short time. A widow and a large family survive.

A Very Grave Charge.

Hamilton, Sept. 10.—Allen Lamont, agent of The Hamilton Saturday Journal, an advertising sheet that is thrown in people's doors, was arrested yesterday on the charge of indecent assault. Maggie Pickering, an 11-year-old, complains. He is 45 years of age and unmarried.

Boy Burned to Death.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—Fred Hastie, the little 4-year-old son of Archie Hastie, of 65 Conway street, Point St. Charles, was burned to death yesterday.

Nursed the Sick, Ruined Her Health.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. John Myles, sr., of South Woodslee, Essex Co., Ont., is well known throughout the surrounding country because of her work among the sick and suffering, and it was on account of overexertion in this regard that her health broke down and she lay weak and helpless, a victim of nervous prostration. Doctors could not help her and she resolved to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As a result she has been thoroughly restored and by recommending this treatment to others has been the means of bringing back health and happiness to many a weakened and discouraged sufferer from diseases of the nerves.

Mrs Myles writes:—"When I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was confined to my bed with what the doctors said was nervous prostration. My stomach was very weak and I could not sleep at all for any length of time. Nervous chills and trembling would come over me and at times I seemed to be getting weaker and weaker all the time. There were also pains on top of my head which caused me much suffering and anxiety.

"After using half a dozen boxes of Dr Chase's Nerve Food I began to gain in weight and feel stronger. Since then I have been gradually restored to health and in looking back can say that the improvement has been something wonderful. I used in all forty boxes of this preparation and feel it a duty as well as a privilege to recommend it to all who are suffering from nervous disorders. Several persons to whom I have described my case have used it and been cured and I am sure that I owe my present good health, if not life itself, to Dr Chase's Nerve Food."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 4

TRIUMPHANT LABOR.

Australian House Makes Conciliation Bill Apply to Railway Servants.

Melbourne, Sept. 10.—The Government was defeated yesterday in the Commonwealth House of Representatives by the passage of a labor amendment making the conciliation bill apply to railway servants. The Ministers are considering their position. There was a very serious railroad strike in Victoria in May which resulted in the surrender of the strikers after the passage of a Government bill providing for severe coercive measures.

The Governor of Victoria, Sir George Clark, at the opening of the State Parliament yesterday said that the deficit of £5,000,000 had been converted into a substantial surplus, and added that the good rainfall justified hopes of a bountiful harvest.

The Governor's announcement of forthcoming legislation included measures providing for more effectual control of the railroads, the establishment of a court of industrial appeal to review the scale of wages upon the application of either side in a labor dispute, comprehensive irrigation works in the arid portions of Victoria, and a measure for the compulsory purchase of land suitable for subdivision into farming homesteads. By the land purchase bill the Government hopes to check the undue concentration of the population in cities, to give youths openings and to check the tendency of people to seek their fortunes elsewhere.

DEATH OF WRESTLER TAYLOR.

Harry Mays Will Now Face a Charge of Manslaughter.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—Yesterday at noon a warrant was sworn out, charging Harry Mays with aggravated assault. Mays is the wrestler who injured Osborne Taylor in what is said to have been a friendly bout Monday night. When he heard that the police wanted him, he walked into headquarters and gave himself up. He is a young fellow about 25 years of age. If Taylor dies during the night the prisoner will have to face a charge of manslaughter. Those who saw the mishap declare that there was no ill-feeling, and that it was a pure accident. The police claim they have information to the effect that Mays had said that if he ever got the nigger on the mat he would never go on one again, but Mays' friends indignantly deny this. Mays is a tool maker and has been employed by the Westinghouse Air Brake Company. The authorities are determined to sift the matter to the bottom. At a late hour last night Taylor was on the operating table at the City Hospital, but the doctors could do nothing for him, and he died at a late hour. He was a market gardener about 32 years of age and unmarried.

LABOR DAY, 93,000.

Attendance Rose to Nearly 50,000 on Farmers' Day at Dominion Fair.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—The management of the Dominion Exposition have handed out the figures for Labor Day. The attendance was 93,000. Yesterday, Farmers' Day, the attendance rose to nearly 50,000. The centre of interest was the dairy building, and the live stock exhibits. The dairy competitive classes for the families of farmers began yesterday and attracted chief attention among the farmers. The hall where the demonstrating was done was crowded all day with an eager throng. Misses Mabel and Maud Parkinson, the twin daughters of William Parkinson of Jarvis, Ont., and M. Stonehouse of Port Perry composed the first class section three of the competitive class.

The two concerts of the Coldstream Guards attracted a vast crowd. Immense enthusiasm was manifested over the appearance of the band, and the numbers were applauded.

The Good Roads Men.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—The first annual convention of the West Ontario Good Roads' Association brought out less than a dozen members. The members gathered at the administration building at 10 o'clock. The Program Committee brought down their report at nearly 5 o'clock when the members were able to secure the hall for the afternoon meeting. Discussion was had on the question of how the Counties of Simcoe and Wentworth propose to take advantage of the Government grant under Improvement of the Highway Act. Messrs. J. D. Reid, E. Kenrick, Daniel Quinlan gave some expert information concerning these counties The subject was not disposed of because of the wide scope the discussion assumed. The balance of the program will be concluded to-day.

Temperance Legislation League.

Toronto, Sept. 9.—The second annual convention of the Temperance League was held here yesterday, with the president, Rev. J. E. Starr, in the chair. The attendance was not large. The following officers were elected: President, Rev. Dr. McKay, Woodstock; vice-president, F. W. Daly, London; secretary, Robert Ray; treasurer, Miss Wiggins. These officers with the following, will constitute the Executive Committee for the ensuing year: W. G. Ellis, Rev. Dr. Eby, Mrs. McKee, Rev. C. S. Scott, Rev. W. W. Kettlewell, Rev. J. A. Macdonald (Dufferin), Mrs. Thornley and F. Barker of Guelph.

Pole Fell on Him.

Aylmer, Sept. 9.—Clare McGrath, a lad about 14 years old, met with a terrible accident yesterday afternoon at the Fair grounds. He was climbing a pole to cut the rope to let the balloon ascend when the pole suddenly gave way and fell on him, almost killing him instantly. He is still alive, but small hope is held out for his recovery.

STORAGE RATES RAISED.

Grain Dealers in West Up in Arms Against Railways.

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—At a meeting of the Grain Exchange Council yesterday morning a notice was received from the railway companies that the rates of storage on grain in the terminal elevators at the lake front would be increased and would be as follows:

Elevating, including 30 days' insurance against loss by fire, per bushel, 3-8c.

Storage for each succeeding 30 days and insurance against loss by fire, per bushel, ⅛c., no charge for cleaning and blowing.

These rates are considered exorbitant by the grain dealers and a meeting will be held to-day to discuss the matter.

MEALS ON TIME.

If a dinner, which should be cooked with a light fire, is fixed for the hour of twelve, you can use a light fire and absolutely depend upon the "Pandora" to cook it by twelve—no need to waste fuel in keeping up an unnecessarily strong fire, "just to make sure." And the same accuracy can be depended upon if a strong fire is necessary.

The hot-air flues force all the heat around the oven twice and directly under every pot hole, which means that every atom of heat is used, and only smoke goes up the chimney; also facilitates the work of cooking.

"Pandora" Range is entirely new, and is equipped with every latest feature for cooking in a hurry, saving fuel, and lessening kitchen troubles generally.

their authority must govern. In order to do this the authorities must have the public support. The people must be educated to this. We can then get Legislation and the laws enacted can be carried out. The Executive members must act with tact—must adapt their methods to conditions and get the confidence of the general public, though at times necessarily antagonizing individuals. He defined the duty in regard to vaccination, and said that if the head of a family showed bad views regarding vaccination, prompt action should be taken. It was the duty of the State to protect children and lunatics, and in these cases the authority of the State overrides the rights of the individual. He went on to justify his position by quoting statistics to show that in the Lambeth district of London, out of 2,198 persons subjected to infection, only 17 took smallpox and of these thirteen were not vaccinated; but of 2,000 who had been vaccinated and revaccinated not one took smallpox. Elaborate statistics were quoted to show that vaccination exercised no adverse influence upon infant mortality or any adverse influence upon concurrent infantile diseases. In his own experience in early days when vaccination was from arm to arm he never saw but one case that turned out badly. It was insisted that lymph must be good. Here the duty of the State came in in providing lymph of the proper quality. Sir Oliver Mowat had said that when the people had been educated as to the importance of vaccination then the State could insist upon it. In answer to the question as to who should vaccinate, Dr. Oldwright asked—"Why should not the State offer free vaccination as well as free school books and education?" A majority of the physicians were anxious to be relieved from vaccination except in individual cases.

DR. SHAW'S PAPER.

Dr. J. M. Shaw, Medical Health Officer, Otonabee, of Keene, read the following brief, but interesting paper on "County Medical Health Officers." It was as follows:—

I will only touch on a few of what I consider the chief reasons for a change as soon as possible from the municipal medical health officer to a county medical health officer. Having been for years a medical health officer of a township it is no wonder that I have very strong views on this important matter. I will now touch on a few reasons why I have arrived at this conclusion, viz: A doctor in active practice is often urged by his patients to say nothing about a case of infectious or contagious disease, so that they will not be quarantined; or again they may by some very thoughtless act endanger the public health and if compelled to make things right may get very angry and go elsewhere for their pills. Once more in case of a severe epidemic it is almost impossible for a doctor to neglect his practice and give the necessary time to stamping out the disease, to say nothing of the great danger while being rushed with work of not taking proper time to disinfect clothing and thus run a risk of spreading in place of checking the outbreak; besides it cuts off a lot of practice as some people are very much afraid of these diseases classed as contagious and consequently they go to another doctor who is not attending one of these cases. I have no doubt you all have seen this time and again. This condition would not be so apt to occur where a doctor could devote all his time to this very important work, and consequently he would then be able to conduct a bacteriological laboratory (a doctor in active practice is not able to devote the time required in making these examinations) where a lot of time could be saved in doubtful cases by having an examination made at once and thus avoid the necessary delay of sending to Toronto. The Toronto office could still be used in case of a dispute of any kind.

This of course implies that a county medical health officer should be able to make these examinations to the satisfaction of the Provincial Board of Health and no county council should be allowed to appoint a doctor to this office unless he had a certificate from this board. Some will say that this is going too far. I think not. While the county council should make the appointment and perhaps arrange the remuneration a county medical health officer should not be dependent on the whim of some newly-elected member of this important body, without being able to appeal to the Provincial Board of Health. The duties should be as extensive as now left to a medical health officer of a municipality with perhaps more power to act independently of a board of health either for provincial or county as could be arranged as a minor point.

He should be required to visit every school section, inspect the sanitary condition of the school and outbuildings and see that the regulations of the school act are carried out. I have, as no doubt others can also say the same, seen some very filthy places in and around schools. He would also be required to look after the proper vaccination of all children attending these schools as well as look after the proper quarantine of suspected cases.

This last would require the proper tents or an isolation hospital which could be under the superintendance of office. A county medical health officer would as a neutral result become a specialist in the diagnosis and treatment of these diseases and not being in active practice medical men would not hesitate to call him in to decide in doubtful cases and often save a lot of talk and hard feelings, especially when an ugly neighbour circulates a report to hurt the feelings of one he dislikes. He might be allowed to make charge for consultations, examinations or any expert evidence required outside of the county.

I now come to the most important point in the opinion of members of a county council, viz. the salary of a county medical health officer. Municipalities as a rule look after the cents, as, if they did not, they would be left at home, consequently the question of salary needs some discussion as to the amount to be paid and also something for expenses. A liberal allowance for the actual expenses of this office would be better than a stated salary and no expenses, as then the medical health officer would not have any excuse for neglecting his work. He ought to have a number of sanitary inspectors under his control and in reach by telephone at short notice. These men, or at least most of them need only be paid for work done, but some ought to be on regular salary. I have put a large amount of work on a county medical health officer but I think that all I have stated as duties of this office could be attended to by any man who wanted to earn his salary.

As Kingsley says: "I am not aware that payment, or even favours, however gracious, binds any man's soul and conscience in questions of highest morality and highest public importance."

His paper provoked a lively discussion. Dr. Hall, of Chatham favoured a system of County Medical Health Officers. First, the work would be better done and employment could be given to young men, specially educated, who should know bacteriology and be able to make tests which a busy doctor has no time to make. An example was quoted of an instance in which neglect or ignorance of necessary precautions resulted in an epidemic of smallpox of five hundred cases. With such an officer prompt examination could be made and precautions taken promptly for proper isolation and treatment. The chairman feared that a County Labratory for tests would be rather expensive for a county, but better adapted for larger districts.

Dr. Hodgetts quite agreed with Dr. Shaw. If the Health Act was to be carried out you must have the township system suspended. He found by his travels that the duties of local Health Officers conflicted with private practice.

The change in sentiment indicated that a change in the system would soon come. The cost of a labratory need not be excessive.

Dr. Klotz spoke of a labratory in connection with the Ottawa Isolation Hospital which did not cost more than $500, and the cost of maintenance was not over $25 per year.

Dr. Lane felt that County Councils should not appoint County Medical Officers, for local political influence might prevent good selection.

Dr. Oldwright felt that County Medical Health Officers were a step in an advanced development. A bill was at present under consideration to establish a course of public and practical Health work in connection with the University and to issue deplomas to qualified students.

Dr. Bryce pointed out that a practising physician could not in justice to himself and his patients perform all the duties of a Medical Health Officer, besides he imperilled his friendly relations with his brother practitioners. In the bill already drafted provision was made for specially qualified nurses for the office who should be permanent, and only removable for the gravest reasons, and provision would be made covering the case of town separated from counties. The minimum salary proposed was $1,500 with $300 for expenses.

Dr. Shaw thought 30,000 or 40,000 too many for one officer to look after. As to the relations of towns separated from counties, each might have an officer, and one could be assistant to the other. Dr. Shaw congratulated Dr. Bryce upon the draft of his bill coming so close to his (Dr. Shaw's) idea.

Dr. Bingham did not read a paper upon the defence of vaccination as a preventative of smallpox, but he made a few pungent remarks on the subject. He pointed out that it was sufficient argument in favour of vaccination to state that since vaccination had been introduced the mortality from the disease had decreased 70 per cent. With that evidence of the history of 100 years, it was strange that vaccination should be opposed, but the masses moved slowly. A few years ago a mile post was unearthed in the middle of New York City, which read, "five miles to New York." The city had spread over it, but the mile post, like the opponents of vaccination, had stood still. Smallpox appeared in America 15 years after its discovery by Columbus. It was not known to the ancient Greeks and Romans, and was introduced in Europe in the time of Mahomet, having been probably brought from the coast, when in China, India and Egypt it had been prevalent from time to time. The speaker jocularly treated the experience of Job with the devil who it was suggested might have been a sort of physician, who as a punishment paid his fees regularly to the Medical Council. Job had a bad case of confluent smallpox. Reference was made to a paragraph written by Macaulay, the historian, showing how vaccination had as a historical fact reduced the mortality of smallpox.

Discussion was in order, but as Mr. Bowlby remarked, all were of one mind as to vaccination and there was nothing to discuss.

DR. LAW'S PAPER.

Dr. Bryce, in the absence of Dr. Law, Medical Health Officer, Ottawa, read the latter's interesting paper on "Hospital Influences on the Spread of Diseases." It pointed out that the necessity of isolation hospitals for infectious diseases was almost instinctive in man, and this had culminated in the recent enactment of the Ontario Board of Health rendering isolation hospitals for scarlet fever and diphtheria compulsory upon municipalities. The experience of Ottawa was given. Three years before the opening of the Ottawa isolation hospital there was a large prevalence of scarlet fever, 209 cases in 1900, in 1901, 391 cases and in 1902, 689 cases. When the hospital was opened in January, 1903, there were 31 houses quarantined with 359 cases, and 48 cases in the two old hospitals, making a total of 7,107 cases. Now with only eight months of the hospital in operation, there are only 14 cases in Ottawa. Prompt removal of the patient and disinfection of premises will prevent the spread of the disease. To prevent contagion in the hospital children should be isolated in hospital for admission. As to diphtheria that disease being more easily contro lable Dr. Law thought the requirement of sending all diphtheria cases to a hospital without distinction is unjustifiably harsh. In the case of smallpox the importance of an isolation hospital was insisted upon. In conclusion Dr. Law stated that a well conducted isolation hospital was a most potent influence in limiting the spread of infectious diseases. When the regulations of the Board bore full fruit the monthly bulletins would show a smaller record of these diseases and their dreadful toll on child life.

The Chairman named Dr. Shaw, Mr. Bowlby, Dr. Hutchinson and Dr. Hall as a Committee to draft a resolution regarding County Medical Health Officers.

P. T. Barnum.

Mr. Barnum, the great circus king, said: The only way for any business man to get along is to advertise his business. He doesn't recommend copying: No 1. He says paint your name and business in the most prominent place and do not stop at that, but paint it as many times as you can find conspicuous places. Now pictorial signs as flashy as the artist can produce is the best ways and means. The great show man said don't try to please your next door neighbor. He remarks, "I have often heard it said, 'Mr Smith has a sign and it is like so and so; I think I will have one the same.' Now that is the greatest mistake a business man ever made. Be original always!" Get Fred Cook to paint your signs to suit your business, as he is original with his way of advertising. He doesn't copy nor does he intend to, and that is why Cook does the sign trade of the town. He is always ready to submit a design and always guarantees not to disappoint you. Just ring up 'phone 119 and order your exhibition signs.

Having bought out the business and stock of the Singer Supply Co., on the understanding that they were leaving for North Bay, I have had another lucky chance to pick up a large consignment of still better bargains. By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY'S SHOW.

This Year Eclipses all Previous Ones.

The Horticultural Society's show which opened this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Drill Hall was well attended but larger crowds are expected this evening and to-morrow afternoon and evening. This year the number of entries is larger than on previous years and the Directors expect the show to bent all previous records in point of success. The exhibits of flowers are truly lovely and reflect great credit on the exhibitors. To-morrow evening the 57th Regimental Band will be in attendance and a promenadec concert will be held. This show comes but once a year and is certainly well worth a visit.

A MYSTERY AT SANDY BEACH.

Indications of Extinct Human Race at Pigeon Lake.

Although perhaps known to some it is not generally known that Sandy Beach, Pigeon Lake, the site of the last camp of St. John's choir, is important historically; nevertheless this is a fact. A large pit containing the skeletons of men of huge stature is there to be found, disclosing the fact that the grounds were once used as the place of some race—what race the oldest Indian who has been interviewed on the subject, is unable to reveal. A large serpentine mound is nearby and it is not known what the function of this was but it seems probable that it was used for worship. A huge oak tree that must be over a hundred years old stands impressive guard over the gruesome pit in which the skeletons are buried, growing out of the centre of the pit and thus giving an indisputable proof of its antiquity. A mystery enshrouds all and it is with a feeling of respect akin to awe that one investigates the strange place.

MAHOMET REDIVIVUS

Sheikh of Medina Says Prophet Has Risen from His Tomb.

"ALLAH, SAVE THE PEOPLE"

Bulgarian Government May Be Forced to Declare in Favor of the Macedonian Christians by the Temper of the People—Governor of Beirut Must Get Out — Fears For His People.

London, Sept. 11.—The temper of the Bulgarian people and Government according to telegrams from Sofia is rising to danger point. All indications tend to show that, however loyally the Government desires to observe a neutral attitude it will be forced before long by pressure by the people into a formal declaration of sympathy with the Macedonian Christians.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Sofia, points out that Bulgaria does not possess sufficient troops to properly cordon the frontier. She has only posts of five men each at points three miles distant from each other, and as the Turkish frontier guards always retire when they see Bulgarians crossing, the latter have an easy task. The correspondent thinks that this points to the conclusion that the Ottoman Government desires to keep the insurrection alive as a pretext for the annihilation of the Christians.

A curious story appears in The Vienna Neue Freie Presse that the Sheikh of Medina is spreading the report that the prophet Mahomet rose from his tomb and exclaimed in solemn tones: "Allah, save the people," whereupon the six guardians of the tomb expired from terror. The legend has excited Constantinople, and is regarded as an intrigue to compel the Ottoman Government to undertake an anti-Christian campaign.

The Constantinople correspondent of The Standard has reason to believe that Germany is encouraging Turkey to a rigorous suppression of the insurrection without regard to European remonstrances.

Governor Must Get Out.

Washington, Sept. 11.—Minister Leishman cabled the State Department from Constantinople that the French Ambassador has demanded the removal of the Governor of Bierut and that other foreign representatives probably will do the same. Mr. Leishman is vigorously urging the Sublime Porte to replace the Governor by someone more capable of preserving order and of giving more efficient protection to American citizens and interests. In this course he has the approval of the State Department.

Fears For His People.

Constantinople, Sept. 11.—United States Minister Leishman has presented a demand to the Turkish Government for the dismissal of Roshid Pasha, Vali of Beirut, on the ground that so long as he is retained in office the lives and property of Americans in Beirut are insecure. The Porte has not replied to the demand, nor has there been any development in connection with other American claims.

The school was founded in 1843, and is sixty years old this year. Last night a conversazione was held and was attended by hundreds.

Writ Against Secretary and Wife.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—The trustees of Emerald Court, C.O.F., have issued a writ against M. H. O'Connor, the defaulting financial secretary, and his wife, M. A. O'Connor, to recover $2,300 moneys received in trust and converted to his own use, and to set aside a deed dated July 18, for east half of lot 20, east side of Cambridge street. The plaintiffs also ask for an injunction to restrain Mrs. O'Connor from conveying the property to any one. No word has been obtained as to O'Connor's whereabouts.

Another Request for Removal of Cattle Embargo To Be Made.

QUESTION TO BE A TEST ONE

Married at Pretoria—Sir Percy Girouard Wedded to Miss Solomon—The Morning Post's Comment Upon the Association of the Farmers' Association Against Any Tariff Increase—Girl Emigrants.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 11.—At a conference of representatives of agricultural and commercial interests held in Glasgow to endeavor to obtain an interview with Lord Onslow and Hon. Joseph Chamberlain during their visit to Scotland in October, the chairman explained that the object of the meeting was the removal of restrictions in the importation of Canadian cattle.

The chairman believed they were more strongly convinced than before of the righteousness of their cause.

Representative Henderson considered that the conference had a complete answer and could place before Lord Onslow the resolution and speeches of the Montreal Congress.

Representative Lyon said that Lord Onslow being a new Minister, it was important that the matter should be put fairly and squarely before him.

Sir David Richmond stated that a letter received last June from Lord Onslow stated that there was no prospect of any change in the law, so he thought they were losing time in appealing to Lord Onslow.

Several representatives disagreed with Sir David Richmond. All thought Lord Onslow should be interviewed. Henry Allan of the Allan Line agreed with Sir David Richmond, and said Mr. Chamberlain's policy was one of the restrictions of trade, rather than of free trade.

Finally the conference decided that the question of the removal of the restrictions on Canadian cattle should be made a test question in the next Parliamentary elections.

Object to Being Sacrificed.

Reuter's Agency informs the readers of London newspapers that well-informed Canadian source says that Canadians knew Britain, actuated by the best of intentions, has more than once sacrificed Canadian interests. They will be irritated beyond measure if a similar policy is followed in the Alaskan case and serious alienation from the country may result.

At a meeting in Toxteth Park Gardens of Liverpool, regarding the emigration of children to Canada, several members deprecated the practice of sending healthy youths away and leaving weaklings at home. Some members thought that emigrating was desirable when it removed pauper children from unsatisfactory surroundings. It was decided to send two children to Canada.

What Canada May Do.

"Canadian" contributes an article to The Daily Express, and, in concluding, says: "With all due respect to the Motherland, it is felt that as a nation Canada may some day be hurt by indifference to reach out as self-reliant youths for the inspiring bitter-sweets of independence."

The Church of England Waifs and Strays Society is prepared to receive application for emigration to Canada of girls between the ages of 12 and 14. Those accepted must spend eighteen months in the society's home at Peckham, in order that it may judge if the girl is fit for Canadian life.

The Morning Post, commenting on the Farmers' Association in Canada being opposed to a further increase in the tariff of the Dominion, says: "They constitute but one section of the community, yet their protest may serve to explain the difficulty statesmen of the Dominion would encounter should they endeavor to give a further preference to Britain, for at once they would be face to face with the problem of raising a revenue."

Sir Percy Girouard Married.

Sir Percy Girouard was married Wednesday at Pretoria to the daughter of Sir Richard Solomon, Attorney-General of Cape Colony.

Big Blaze at Hanlan's

Toronto, Sept. 11.—Fire visited Hanlan's Point last night and this morning a ring of smouldering debris marks the spot where previously stood the grand stand and bleachers of the athletic field and the barroom. The fire, viewed from along the wharves, presented a great spectacle. Thousands also watched it from the Exhibition grounds. Manager Solman of the Toronto Ferry Company estimates the loss at from $15,000 to $20,000.

GRAND ARMY AT THE FAIR.

Americans' Day at the Dominion Exhibition—Address by Mr. James in the Dairy Building.

Toronto, Sept. 11.—There were 87,000 people on the grounds yesterday. The dairy building was the scene of a large gathering to hear Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, talk of modern dairying. He remarked especially upon the fact that the people who visit the dairy building like to see things being done. They would rather observe the methods of manufacture as taught by the improved system than be given a view of the finished product. To-day the free-for-all class will be the attraction at the dairy building. At noon the prizes for the past four days will be announced.

The Grand Army of the Republic Veterans had a pavilion near the lake shore, and held a reception in the afternoon. Many old comrades dropped in.

The Directors' Luncheon.

Mr. E. A. Gunsaulus, the United States consul, was the guest of honor at the directors' luncheon. There were several good speeches touching on Anglo-American amity. Speeches were delivered by Mr. Gunsaulus, Senator Watson, Mr. Robert Munro, Montreal, Dr. Rutherford, ex-M.P., Mr. Andrew Clement, of Glasgow, Scotland, and Sir Mackenzie Bowell received a flattering reception.

Another Children's Day.

Owing to the fact that Monday, Aug. 31, the date orginally set for Children's Day, was wet, and that consequently but half the performance was given in front of the grand stand, the executive yesterday decided that to-morrow (Saturday) should again be school children's day. Boys and girls under 15 will only be charged 5c. for the grounds and 5c. at each performance in front of the grand stand.

AT 40 MILES AN HOUR.

No. 5 From Orillia to Midland, Ran Into Open Switch.

Barrie, Sept. 11.—A bad wreck, fortunately unattended by loss of life, occurred near Waubaushene. The evening passenger train, No. 5, from Orillia to Midland, ran into an open switch when traveling about forty miles an hour. The engine and all the train, except one coach, left the rails and were overturned in the ditch. The engineer and fireman were buried beneath the engine tender and baggage car, but miraculously escaped unhurt. The place in which they were found was so small that it hardly seemed possible for two men to remain uncrushed therein. There were over forty passengers on the train, none of whom suffered any injury.

St. Thomas, Sept. 11.—The passengers on No. 14 Michigan Central express had a miraculous escape at Ridgetown yesterday morning about 2 o'clock. Seven of the eight cars left the rails while the train was going at a good rate of speed, and, strange to say, not a passenger or employe was injured. How the accident happened is a mystery. A broken truck is a very likely theory. The track is not badly damaged, but the cars were broken up to some extent. The engine kept the rails, as well as the last coach.

MAPS ARE UNSUITABLE.

War Expert Says Parts of Canada Are Geographically Unknown.

London, Sept. 11.—Lieutenant-General Sir. W. G. Nicholson has informed the War Commission that there are many parts of the Empire of which there are no suitable maps. He says the less populous districts of Canada and the whole of South Africa north of Cape Colony are, in a strictly geographical sense, unknown to this day. What detailed maps exist have been prepared from sketches made by travelers and explorers.

FOOLS TO PAY FOR FALSE TALES.

Immigrants Who Do Not Get Facts Have Selves to Blame.

London, Sept. 11.—The Globe says: "Emigrants who are tempted to Canada by bogus proffers emanating from various so-called societies, like other people when they are taken in, have looked around for the nearest person to abuse, which has generally been the Canadian Government. If emigrants are such fools as to pay for false information when they can get the best for nothing, the fault ought not to lie at the door of the Canadian Government. The Canadian Emigration Department is, on the whole, admirably organized."

The Pilot says: "The emigrant to Northwestern Canada is compelled to face difficult and tedious tasks which demand all his energy and patience. His reward, however, is prosperity and independence."

Cotton trade union leaders have been interviewed regarding emigration operations for Canada. Two stated that they knew of none going; another said that emigration of single individuals is going on constantly to the United States, but not to Canada; a fourth stated that he had received application for operatives some time ago from Canada, but the wages were not high enough to induce Lancashire people to go. If Canada wants Lancashire labor it will have to pay more than has yet been offered.

Distress at St. Pierre, Miquelon.

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 11.—The extreme financial depression is causing great anxiety in St. Pierre, Miquelon. Owing to the failure of the French codfishery on the Grand Banks, twenty-three firms are reported to be on the verge of collapse. The French Government may be asked to provide sustenance for a considerable part of the population during the winter.

Furious Gale Over Britain.

London, Sept. 11.—A terrific gale has sprung up all over the United Kingdom. Within ten hours the barometer fell one inch, the winds blew seventy miles an hour, and rain fell in torrents. Communication with America was interrupted. Enormous damage has been done to property. Heavy floods are reported from Wales, and snow is falling in Scotland.

Bud Kitchen Arrested.

Windsor, Sept. 11.—Bud Kitchen, of Chatham, was arrested by Sergt. Nash and Jackson as he alighted from a Grand Trunk train in Windsor yesterday. He is wanted in Chatham on the charge of securing $300 worth of goods under false pretences. He owned a livery stable.

Canada Wants a Cable.

London, Sept. 11.—The London correspondent of The Yorkshire Post says: "The attempt to organize a new direct cable service between England and Canada is being strongly supported by the latter."

London, Sept. 11.—Sir Gilbert Parker will be one of the lecturers on "Education and Empire" at the commercial education session of the London Chamber of Commerce, commencing in October.

THE RAVAGES OF TERRIBLE CANADA.

She is Handling Uncle Sam's Export Grain.

Railways Implored to Lower Their Grain Rates and Save Traffic of United States Ports.

(Special Despatch to the Globe.)

Montreal, Sept. 9.—It would seem that some of the American Atlantic seaports especially Philadelphia, are becoming more than ever alarmed at the diversion of the grain shipments to the Canadian lake and canal route for export. The following circular, issued to shippers at Philadelphia, has reached this city:—

"Rate from Chicago f.o.b north Atlantic ports seven cents per bushel.

"Rate from Chicago to f.o.b. ocean steamer Montreal four cents per bushel.

"Difference in favour of shipments through Canadian ports three cents per bushel.

"Here is a fine exhibit. The grain which was formerly handled by the North Atlantic ports and shipped through Duluth, Chicago and various lake ports is now being taken out of the United States by Canadian roads, shipped through Canada and put on ocean steamers at Montreal at three cents per bushel less than it can be done through New York or Philadelphia. Grain exporters and parties engaged in this business are very glad to handle it at one-quarter cent per bushel margin. So far as the export grain business is concerned, the North Atlantic ports of the United States might as well be wiped off the map. The ocean freight from Montreal to the United Kingdom and continental ports is practically the same as it is from New York or Philadelphia. Thus it will be seen that the grain shipped from Montreal can be laid down in Europe at three cents per bushel less than it can when shipped through United States Ports.

"The remedy lies with the railway companies. The present basis of five cents per bushel on grain at and east of Buffalo is prohibitive and farcial. But a few years ago railways were glad to handle this business at two and one half cents a bushel, and when they got three cents they thought they were making big money. The all-rail rate on grain for export from the Mississippi River to the seaboard is sixteen cents per hundred. It is but a little while since an export rate of ten cents and twelve cents was in operation, and the Atlantic seaboard had a fighting chance for business west of the Mississippi.

"How long is this state of affairs to continue? The merchants doing business from the North Atlantic ports have worked for a number of years to build up the commerce of their respective ports and to sustain the ocean steamship lines, which are now running at considerable loss. Quite a number of steamers have been taken off, and unless something is speedily done to compete with those Montreal shipments there will be but few steamers running from the north Atlantic ports of the United States. Some of the lines will have to go out of business entirely."

The number of sea-going vessels arriving at Montreal up to September 1st was 511 vessels having a tonnage of 1,196,219 tons, as compared with 486 vessels with 962,217 tonnage last year. The number of inland vessels arriving during the same period was 6,560, with a tonnage of 1,144,730 tons.

The revenues of the port show a corresponding increase. Receipts to September 1st were $175,473 as compared with $149,021 last year, making an increase for 1903 of $26,457.

CORDOVA CHURCH NEWS.

A Pleasant and Auspicious Incident.

During the absence of Rev. and Mrs. F. H. Howard on a two-week holiday to Boston the loyal and liberal Methodists of Cordova Mission prepared for them a pleasant surprise.

It had been necessary after the formation of this new mission at the last annual Conference to furnish throughout a parsonage for the minister.

This a chosen committee from the people did thoroughly, beginning at the kitchen and not stopping until the parlour was beautifully furnished with selected pieces of quartered oak. However, there had not been a house warming and so on the evening of Friday, Aug. 7th, a surprise party of seventy-five or eighty from the Cordova and Union appointments arrived at the parsonage laden with baskets and a carpet for the parlour also an address and a present of money for a study chair for the pastor.

An address signed by Mesdames Caverly, Henry and Mumby, on behalf of the congregation was read expressing their appreciation of his work among them.

A carpet for the parlour and a present of $6 for a study chair for the pastor accompanied the address.

Then a most enjoyable evening was spent, everyone seeming disposed to have a good time and to contribute to the pleasure of everyone else.

Before the party broke up the ladies formed a Ladies' Aid, electing Mrs Caverly president, Mrs. M. Scott, vice-president, and Mrs. W. W. Walt, secretary-treasurer.

They have $10 to start on and with the energy they always display are sure to accomplish much for the cause.

This is but another token of the unity and harmony that pervades the Methodist work here.

THEIR EXCELLENCIES LORD AND LADY MINTO.

Handsome Engraving in the Council Chamber.

The Mayor and Council have received two very handsome engravings of their Excellencies Lord and Lady Minto, who it will be remembered, received a great ovation when at Peterborough some few months ago. These beautiful photographs have been framed by Mr. G. E. Whiten, Peterborough's great photo artist, and are now hung in the Council Chamber.

The pictures are very life-like ones and look very well in their gilt frames.

THE COLDSTREAM GUARDS

History of England's Oldest Regiment, Whose Band is Presently in the Dominion of Canada.

The leave granted by His Majesty King Edward VII. to the Coldstream Guards' Band to visit Canada brings to mind the splendid history of the regiment and its many achievements in the honor roll of Britain's battles.

It is the eldest regiment in the English Army. The present principal officers are: Colonel-in-Chief, The King; Colonel General Sir F. C. A. Stephenson, officer in command, Colonel A. E. Codrington, Lieut.-Colonels Hon. Henniker Major, C.B., H. C. Surtees, D.S.O., G. Pleydell-Bouverie.

Regiment Formed in 1650.

The regiment was formed in 1650, under General George Monck, by drafts from the Cromwellian regiments of Sir Arthur Hasilrigg and Colonel George Fenwick. As Monck's regiment it fought at Dunbar, at the sieges of Stirling and Dundee. When returning from Scotland on the march to the south Monck's regiment received the name which it now bears from the Town of Coldstream. "This town," says the chronicler of the day, "hath given a title to a small company of men, whom God made the instrument of great things by the no dishonorable title of Coldstreamers." This name, given in 1660, has not been changed up to the present day, although at the beginning of last century the regiment was sometimes called 2nd Foot Guards. This appellation never received official sanction and soon dropped into disuse. At the Restoration the regiment was mustered into the King's service, its Colonel, George Monck, becoming Duke of Albemarle.

Earlier Battles at Sea.

Its earliest battles under the royal colors were fought at sea, portions of the regiment being present at the sea battles of Harwich, Dunkirk and the North Foreland in 1665 and 1666. On land it fought at Bridgemoor against the Duke of Monmouth, at the siege of Namur, at the battles of Malplaquet and Fontenoy. At the latter siege the first battalion lost heavily, both in officers and men. In Egypt and in the Peninsula the Coldstreamers took part in all the principal battles. At Waterloo the second battalion was present and occupied Hougemont. The Duke of Wellington's despatch referring to the defence of that farm states: "I occupied Hougemont with a detachment of Major-General Byng's Brigade of Guards. I am happy to say that it was maintained throughout with the utmost gallantry by these brave troops."

In the Crimea's Forefront.

Later on in the Crimea the first battalion upheld the traditions of the regiment. "The conduct of the Coldstream Guards at Inkerman," says The Times of November, 1854, "should immortalize their name. The battalion went into action with 17 officers and 400 men, of that number eight officers were killed, five wounded, and upwards of 200 rank and file were killed and wounded." A memorial to those who fell at Inkerman may be seen on the south side of the main entrance of St. Paul's Cathedral—a testimony to one of the hardest battles of modern times. Not only at Inkerman but during the whole of the Crimea the regiment suffered from battle and disease, the loss amounting to some 700 officers and men, out of a total of little over 2,000 who took part in the campaign.

First In, Last to Leave.

A battalion was in active service in 1885 at Suakin, and small detachments took part in the Ashanti Expedition of 1895. During the recent South African War the regiment was in long and continuous service, being amongst the first on the field, and the last to leave. At the battle of Modder River it was the Coldstreams who were ordered to cross the river first, and the spectacle of the Guardsmen swimming and fording the stream under very heavy fire in full view of both sides was an inspiring sight.

Tribute From the New York Sun.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, who recently completed his eightieth year, is undoubtedly entitled to rank among the foremost intellects of his time. As a master of English literary style there are few writers of his generation who can be called his peers.

For more than fifty years Mr. Goldwin Smith has been engaged in the exercise of the highest and most broadly trained intellectual abilities. A "Double First" at Oxford, he has demonstrated throughout his subsequent life his inherent right to that primacy, by continuous contributions to the literature of his period most deserving of scholarly consideration and most illuminated with philosophical enlightenment. He was the companion, the adviser, the co-adjutor of the men who were most powerful in shaping history and directing English thought during the period in the nineteenth century when England rose to its highest intellectual elevation.

His eightieth birthday comes to Mr Goldwin Smith in a home far away from the theatre in which his abilities were displayed so impressively during more than a generation of his life after leaving Oxford, but it finds him still assiduous in the studies, and clear and philosophical in the interpretation of history, past and current, by which his enduring fame in England and on the Continent was won in his earlier years. He is a resident of Toronto, and is the man of letters of whom the Canada of to-day has most reason to be proud.—New York Sun.

A LACK OF HARMONY

Characterizes Opposition in Discussing Redistribution Bill.

MR. MONK AS A PROPHET.

Boundaries of 135 Out of 214 Ridings Have Been Approved by the House—Trouble With the Auditor-General—Members of the Commons Cannot Get Their Indemnity—Mr. Fielding's Statement.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—The House made a very large hole in the task of disposing of the Redistribution Bill yesterday, and before adjournment Mr. Monk prophesied that the railway bill would be again under consideration next week. This means that, although most of the contentious clauses of the schedule remain to be considered, the Opposition do not expect any protracted debate. The discussion revealed a remarkable lack of harmony among the Opposition, and during the evening Sir Wilfrid Laurier implored them, for the sake of Parliamentary Government, to respect the agreements reached by the leaders of both parties in the special committee. The situation, roughly speaking, now is that the boundaries of 135 ridings out of the 214 have been approved. These include 33 in Ontario, 58 in Quebec, 18 (complete) in Nova Scotia, 10 (complete) in the Northwest Territories, 7 (complete) in British Columbia, 4 in Manitoba, 4 (complete) in Prince Edward Island, and one (complete) in the Yukon. Those standing over are divided as follows: Ontario 53, New Brunswick 13, Manitoba 6, Quebec 7; total, 79.

Alleged Fraud.

When the House resumed yesterday morning, a number of interesting preliminary matters engaged attention.

Sir Frederick Borden, replying to Capt. Hackett, said the Government had received a complaint from certain electors of Prince County, P.E.I., alleging that John M. Desroches, of Little Tignish, had committed fraud in connection with the distribution of fishing bounty checks for 1902. A searching inquiry was promised.

Hon. James Sutherland informed Mr. Carscallen that it was intended to proceed with the Canadian mint as soon as the estimates were passed.

Replying to Mr. Monk, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that in view of the development of the country in all directions, it was more than probable there would be some railway subsidies presented, but as there was plenty of other business yet to be done they would be brought down in good time.

Trouble With Auditor-General.

Mr. Samuel Barker stated that some members of the House had applied in the usual way for their sessional indemnity, and had been informed that, owing to some difficulty between the Finance Department and the Auditor-General, no checks could be issued.

Hon. Mr. Fielding replied that there was no reason in the world why there should be any difficulty, but the difficulty existed all the same. The Treasury Board, in the exercise of what they believed to be their proper functions, had made some recommendations regarding the management of the public accounts, having special relation to a former difficulty. The Auditor-General had taken exception to them. The Department of Justice had advised that the regulations were entirely proper and within the statute. It might be necessary to have legislation, but at present he was unable to say more.

"Do you propose to let the present state of affairs remain?" asked Mr. Clancy.

"It may be possible to adjust the difficulty, but if it cannot be done some legislation will be necessary to uphold the proper authority," Mr. Fielding replied.

Mr. Earle read a letter from Victoria, B.C., stating that it was the intention of the British authorities to reduce the strength of their squadron at Esquimalt. He asked if the matter had been brought to the attention of the Government.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier—I do not believe it has been brought to the attention of the Government. I have not heard of it.

Redistribution Bill.

The House again went into committee on the Redistribution Bill, taking up the schedule.

Before the House adjourned Mr. Monk asked what business would be taken up after the Redistribution Bill was disposed of. He wanted the railway subsidy resolutions to be brought down before the House returned to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Bill. Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that he could not say definitely when the railway subsidies would be announced, but the Government intended to submit them to the House at a very early date.

THE MAIL'S ATTACK

London Paper Publishes More Complaints from Emigrants.

ANTI-EMIGRATION CAMPAIGN

What Dublin Society Is Doing to Prevent People Coming to Canada—Canadian Emigration Office Issues a Warning Against So-Called Emigration Agencies, and Denies Responsibility For Them.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 10.—At the meeting of the British Association at Southport, Sir Norman Lockyer in his presidential address urged the essential need of more and better-equipped universities, and a national council of scientific men to guide the Government in an organization for national education. The sum of £24,000,000 was mentioned as the sum required to establish and equip universities.

Dried Apples From Canada.

Mr. Griffith, secretary to Lord Strathcona, writes to The Times informing the cider manufacturers of this country of the abundant crop of apples in Canada, and suggesting that they import the fruit, as do the French, in a dried state.

A letter to The Times suggests that the poor law authorities of this country should be in communication with the Canadian Government and establish their own homes in Canada, to which children might be sent.

Aids Mischievious Work.

Under the heading immigration scandals The Daily Mail publishes the Canadian Government's warning to intending immigrants. The Mail says: "The immigration scandal took a regrettable and at the same time very strange turn yesterday. The time-worn policy has been adopted of declining to assume responsibility, thus aiding the mischievious work af those agencies." The Mail also publishes extracts from an emigrant's letter complaining of the treatment he received from agents. R. Pease writes: "I have no hesitation in confirming the statement that many emigrants from England were stranded at Brandon." Pease talked with some of them at the time.

Hurt British Patentees.

The Evans Jarason Company, writing to The Times on Australian and Canadian patent legislation, and drawing attention to the Canadian patent law as amended by the act of August, 1903, re the patentee having within two years to carry on in Canada the construction and manufacture of his invention, says: "The provisions are so widely different from the provisions in the Mother Country that they are likely to very seriously affect the position of the British patentees."

The Emigration Question.

The anti-Emigration Society, of Dublin, issuing an analysis of the Board of Trade returns for August, says: "It is unsatisfactory to find that Irish Emigration to Canada for eight months of the present year has been twice as great as for the whole of last year."

The society directs the attention of emigrants to the renewed warning re emigration to Canada, issued on the 10th of August by the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council, which was endorsed by the Trades Councils of Toronto, Kingston, London, Hamilton, Calgary and Vancouver.

The society quotes this Winnipeg warning and advises British emigrants not to trust the source of information which is apt to be biased, and the Canadian Government agents not likely to give information which would be likely to deter anyone going out.

The Yorkshire Herald warns intending emigrants to Canada against pinning their faith to the representations made by agencies which are neither responsible nor remarkable for rectitude. The Herald advises emigrants to treat with Government emigration officials.

The Canadian Emigration Office, through to-day's press, is issuing a warning to intending emigrants against so-called emigration and employment agencies. The warning includes a denial of any responsibility whatsoever on the part of the Canadian office for the propaganda of such agencies. A Canadian banker's letter is also appearing, offering assistance to intending emigrants and regarding industrial investment along the lines of the Ontario Labor report.

The London correspondent of The Yorkshire Post says the conscience of the Emigration Department of the Canadian Government has been quickened by the recent exposures of the practices of numerous emigration agencies. Any exaggerated statements which Canadian agents may indulge in are innocent enough in comparison with the guile of irresponsible agencies.

The Liverpool Mercury hopes that the decision of the London Poor Law Guardians in favor of encouraging the emigration of suitable children, will induce the guardians all over the country to devote serious attention to this method of giving their young charges a good start in life. Investigations made in Canada, which receives the great majority of poor children sent out by philanthropic societies, show that under the careful regulations which govern this youthful emigration most excellent results have been attained. The utmost care is exercised in selecting homes for the new-comers, who are under the supervision of inspectors of the Canadian Government.

The Yorkshire Post says the system of sending destitute children to Canada, where homes are found for them under the superintendence of the Canadian Government, has worked excellently well and is an entirely satisfactory emigration scheme.

The Fires of Eczema.

So keen is the suffering of many people who endure the stinging, itching sensation of Eczema that they speak of the skin as being on fire. By its soothing, healing, antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment possesses of inestimable value in every home, and when once introduced becomes a household necessity. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard the world over, and has no worthy rival.

8. Provided further, that in case of temporary failure of the usual propelling power without fault or neglect on the part of the Company the Company may use horses or motors to draw busses or to draw the cars upon that part of the Company's lines in the Town of Peterborough during a reasonable time required to repair such usual propelling power.

9 That all the works of the railway shall be executed and maintained in a substantial, efficient and modern manner and with all the ordinary safeguards necessary for the protection of persons and property from injury and damage in the application and use of the power and in the operation of the railway that all wires used as electrical conductors carrying over 600 volts except bond and trolley wires are unless otherwise authorized by the Corporation to have a suitable insulating covering, that the rails shall be bonded and the bonds maintained in an efficient and modern and connected with the power generator or generators with a proper and efficient system of return wires so as to prevent the straying of electricity and where the tracks of the Company cross any railway tracks a heavy copper cable shall be used to carry the return current under the tracks of the intersecting railway and that a voltage survey is to b made by the Company under the direc on of and when required by the Corporation Engineer to determine the electrical condition of the underground pipes, cable sheathing and other structures in regard to the condition of the Company's return current, and in case the said survey shows or it is shown by examination that conditions dangerous to the life of such pipes, cable sheathing or other structures exist then the Company is to correct such conditions within a reasonable time by changing or adding to the system of return wires or by other efficient means and that the carriages used on the road shall be of modern design and finish as regards appearance, comfort and safety and shall be provided with modern fenders on the advancing ends which shall be maintained in good condition, and shall be lighted at night by electricity and properly heated in cold weather under a penalty of $10 00 per day for each car not so heated which penalty may be recovered as liquidated damages by the Corporation from the Company.

10. That the track or tracks shall be of the standard guage of four feet eight and a half inches and the "T" rails or such other suitable rail shall be used on the streets in the said Town and that the rails to be used shall be of the weight of at least fifty-six pounds to the yard. In case the tracks of the Company cross any bridges or culverts the Company at its own expense is to place all girders and works necessary for strengthening the same so as to safely carry the cars over such bridges or culverts.

11. That the Company shall lay the rails flush with the streets and bridges so as to cause the least possible impediment to the ordinary traffic of the streets, that the same shall be laid in accordance with the existing level or grade of the street or a grade to be fixed by the Town Engineer at the time of laying the same or as near thereto as is compatible with a proper execution of the work and in that case the Corporation shall at any time after the year one thousand nine hundred and ten require it, the Company at its own expense shall lower or raise and relay its tracks so as to conform to the grade of such streets or parts of streets as altered or affected on either side of the tracks by the cutting or filling of the streets.

12. That the track or tracks shall be originally placed on such part of the street as shall be directed by the Town Engineer. That the poles of the Peterborough Light and Power Company shall be used if possible and that additional poles required shall be placed close to the sidewalks. That where wooden poles shall be used the same shall be uniform and shall be dressed and painted in a becoming manner if the Town Engineer shall so require.

13. That the Company shall so construct and maintain the railway that the same will not interfere with the town's sewers, water pipes, water tables and drainage, and that the Company shall in good and substantial manner pave and re-pave and maintain in repair with the same material as the Corporation uses outside the rail the roadbed within the rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks, and keep that part of the bridges and culverts between their outside rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks, and keep that part of the bridges and culverts between their outside rails planked or paved with the same material and in as good condition as the Corporation uses and and maintains the rest of such bridged and culverts, and that in case the roadbed outside the rails is disturbed by the Company when preparing its tracks then the company shall promptly replace the same in as good condition as before being disturbed free of cost to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough.

14. That subject to the terms and conditions of paragraphs 5 and 11 hereof in case of laying down sewers, water pipes, connections, services and conduits for wires and other purposes or the grading, repairing or paving for the streets or rebuilding or repairing bridges and culverts by the Corporation if it shall in the opinion of the Council be necessary or convenient to remove the rails the same shall upon the request of the Council be removed by the Company and be relaid at the expense of the Company, but such requisition of the Council shall be made so as to cause as little as possible loss, injury or inconvenience to the Company having regard to the work to be done by the Corporation.

15. That the trolley wires shall be suspended at least 16 feet from the ground.

16. That none of the poles or wires shall be erected or strung so as to injuriously interfere with the poles or other apparatus connected with the public street lighting, police patrol or fire alarm systems of the Town of Peterborough, or telephone lines, and that no shade tree is to be injuriously trimmed or have its roots disturbed, except with the consent of the Corporation engineer.

17. That in case of fire in buildings adjacent to any streets on which the railway runs it shall be lawful for the Corporation or its servants upon the order of the mayor, or of the chief, or other officer at the time in command of the Fire Brigade to cut the Company's wires without the Corporation or its servants being responsible for any damages or costs on account thereof.

18. That the Company shall construct and keep in repair all street crossings for foot passengers between its rails of a similar character to those adopted by the Town Council, the Corporation providing the material for the same at the edge of the track.

19. That during the operation of laying and relaying the ties and rails a free passage for vehicles over the streets shall be kept open and immediately after the laying and relaying the ties and rails the materials removed shall be replaced in as good and substantial manner as before removal and the surface of the street made flush with the rails and all surplus material removed by the Company and deposited where directed by the Town Engineer or street inspector or other officer having charge of such streets.

20. That the Corporation shall not be liable to the Company for any damage the Company may sustain or incur from the breakage of any sewer or water pipe or for any damage or delay that may be caused by the construction of bridges, culverts, sewers, laying of water pipes, services, connections, conduits or repairing the same or from any delay or damage caused by freshets or fires.

21. That it shall and may be lawful for the Corporation to lay down or permit to be laid down in the streets water pipes, services, conduits for wires, connections, gas pipes and sewers and to alter and repair or permit to be altered and repaired the same respectively, and also subject to section 11 hereof to grade, alter, improve and repair the streets whenever public convenience may so require and to rebuild and repair bridges and culverts without cost or claim for damages to or against the Town for interruption or interference with the traffic of the Company or its railway.

22. That no turnout or siding shall be made or placed on that part of George street between Murray and Charlotte streets and no turnout or siding shall exceed 250 feet in length without the consent of the Council.

23. That no part of the railway shall be open to the public without the sanction of the council to be given on certificate of the Town Engineer or other town inspector that the railway is in good condition and constructed as herein provided.

24. That whenever it shall be necessary to remove any snow or ice from the track of the railway, the same shall not be left in heaps but spread evenly over the street as shall be directed by the officer of the Corporation for the time being charged with the supervision of the streets and the Corporation shall when the said officer deems necessary remove the snow lying between the outer rails of the roadbed and the kerb on all streets in the said Town upon which the cars of the Company are operated, to such depths and when and in the manner directed by the said officer, the expenses of such removal to be borne by the Corporation and the Company, as follows:—During the first five years of the term of the franchise hereby granted to be borne by the Corporation; during the next five years of said term one-quarter of the expense to be borne by the Company and three-quarters by the Corporation and during the remainder of such term the said expense is to be borne equally by the Company and the Corporation and the said Company is to pay to the Corporation its share of such expense on or before the first day of May after said work is done in each year.

25 That if the Company shall fail to construct, complete and operate before the first day of July, 1904, the portion of the railway required to be constructed and operated as herein provided for by that date the Municipal Council may by resolution declare such failure shall work a complete and absolute forfeiture of any privilege or franchise on or over the streets granted by the Town to the Company and upon the passage of such resolution the privilege and franchise hereby granted shall be forfeited provided that the Company shall not be held responsible for delays beyond the said date caused by strikes, injunctions, inability to cross steam railways or any other cause beyond the control of the Company, nor shall any forfeiture be declared on account thereof.

26. That in case the Company shall refuse or on reasonable notice neglect to do and perform any matter or thing required to be done by the Company as herein provided the same matter or thing may be done by the Town and the cost thereof recovered from the Company.

27 That the Company shall and will at all times indemnify and save harmless the Corporation from and against all loss, cost, charges, expenses, suits, actions, claims and demands whatever arising or occupying by reason of the construction, maintaining, repairing or operating of the said railway or in anything connected with or relating thereto or resulting from or arising out of the same or the failure or neglect of the Company to do or perform anything which the Company is by agreement or by law required to do or perform, including the maintenance of that portion of the streets and bridges to be maintained by the Company and the removal of snow as provided herein.

28. That the Company shall operate and run its cars on its lines in the Town of Peterborough from the Hour of 6.00 a. m. until the hour of 11.00 p. m. of each day except Sunday. Provided that when the population of the Corporation reaches 30,000 and thereafter the cars shall commence to run at 5.30 a.m. and run until 12 midnight and at such intervals as the Corporation Engineer, with the approval of the Municipal Corporation may from time to time determine, but the Company shall not be compelled to give more than a ten minute service. That in operating the railway the cars shall stop at the further crossing of intersecting streets and the body of the car shall not stop on or over a crossing or on any intersecting streets and cars shall not be left on any street at any time unless waiting for passengers.

29. That the Company shall not without the consent of the Council run freight cars on any street, except Bethune street between the hours of six o'clock a.m. and ten o'clock p.m. and shall not run freight cars on any street in the Town of Peterborough at such time or in such way as to cause serious inconveniences to the public using the streets, having regard to the time and occasions and the number of people or vehicles using such street, but the Company shall not place any tracks on Bethune street without the consent of the Municipal Council but may use subject to the consent of the Company owning them, any of the tracks at present thereon.

30. That the fares to be charged by the Company over any line operated or controlled by the Company within the limits of the Town of Peterborough or the extension in the Township of North Monaghan herein provided for shall be as follows:—

31. That the Company shall not run freight cars unprovided with fender, gong and headlight in the Town of Peterborough at a greater rate of speed than eight miles per hour and that efficient warning devices to be placed on the advancing end of the car are to be used in case freight cars unprovided with fender, gong and headlight are pushed along ahead of the car or electric locomotive furnishing the motive power, and that freight cars shall not be run in any case at a greater rate of speed than 12 miles an hour within the said Town.

36. That it is understood that clause 35 of this contract shall not justify any cessation in the operation of the railway except for cause beyond the control of the Company, such as strikes, accident, to the rolling stock, equipment, motive power or roadbed of the Company.

43. That whereas it is provided by section 13 hereof that the Company shall in a good and substantial manner pave and repave and maintain in repair with the same material as the Corporation uses outside the rail the roadbed between the rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks. It is nevertheless understood and agreed by and between the parties hereto that during the last five years of the term of this franchise the Company shall not be compelled to change the character of the pavement between the rails or devil strips but shall only be compelled to renew and keep in repair the same description of pavement as exists at the expiration of twenty-five years of the term of the said franchise.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the Corporation and the Company have caused their respective Corporate Seals to be hereunto affixed as testified by the hands of their respective proper officers in that behalf.

O.R.F.U. EXECUTIVE MEETING

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the O.R.F.U. was held at the Rossin House, Toronto, last night, with Pres. W. N. Ferguson in the chair. The other members present were: F. H. Thompson, Argonauts; S. S. DuMoulin, Hamilton Tigers; E. S. Clarry, Peterborough, H. Hayes, West-End Pleasure Club, Hamilton; A. J. Abernathy, Kingston Limestones; W. Caldecott, Torontos, of Toronto, and Secretary Frank D. Woodworth.

The first question taken up was the reinstatements of "Chaucer" Elliott and "Pat" Murphy by the C. A. A. U., these players having been professionalized by the O. R. F. U. and reinstated by the C.A.A.U without notice to the O.R.F.U. and the latter organization not being members of the C.A.A.U. It was decided that the O.R.F.U. should not join the C.A.A.U. It was also decided that the O.R.F.U. do not recognize the reinstatements made by the C.A.A.U., and that applications for reinstatement of players expelled by the O.R.F.U. must be made to the O.R.F.U. and not to the C. A. A. U. This means that "Chaucer" Elliott and "Pat" Murphy must make application to the O.R.F.U. before they can play in the Ontario union.

It was unanimously agreed that each senior club should deposit a marked check of $50 with the secretary of the union on or before October 1, as a guarantee that it would finish the season.

The application of the Peterborough club for admission to the senior series was accepted.

The eight senior clubs were then divided into two districts as follows:

Eastern—Ottawa Rough Riders, Limestones of Kingston and Peterborough.

Western—Hamilton Tigers, London, Torontos and West-end Pleasure Club of Hamilton, Argonauts.

The following schedules were then drawn up, the Eastern Section opening on October 3, and the Western section on Sept. 26:

Eastern Section.

October 3.—Limestones at Ottawa. Peterborough a bye.

Oct. 10.—Ottawa at Peterborough. Limestones a bye.

Oct. 15.—Peterborough at Limestones. Ottawa a bye.

Oct. 24.—Limestones at Peterborough. Ottawa a bye.

Oct. 31.—Ottawa at Limestones. Peterborough a bye.

Nov. 7. — Peterborough at Ottawa. Limestones a bye.

Western Section

Sept. 26.—London at Toronto, Hamilton Tigers v. West-end Pleasure Club. Argonauts a bye.

Oct. 3.—Toronto at West-end Pleasure club. Hamilton Tigers at Argonauts. London a bye.

Oct. 10.—London at Hamilton Tigers, Argonauts at Toronto. West-end Pleasure Club a bye.

Oct 15.—Hamilton Tigers v. West-end Pleasure Club, Argonauts at London. Torontos a bye.

Nov. 7.—Hamilton Tigers at London, Argonauts at West-end Pleasure Club. Torontos a bye.

Nov. 21.—Torontos at London. West-end Pleasure Club at Argonauts. Hamilton Tigers a bye.

At a meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms last night to discuss the advisability of forming a City Rugby League there were present Messrs. A. W. McPherson and H. R. H. Kenner; E. Pool and R. Craig, representing All Saints; A. Mulhern and H. Sawyers, representing the Brittanias; W. G. Perks and R. Cameron representing the Rough Riders and W. Crowley, the T. A. S.

Mr. Macpherson took the chair and Mr. R. Cameron was asked to act as secretary for the occasion.

Mr. MacPherson remarked that in his mind it would be a good plan to elect officers to-night and leave it with the executive to call a meeting later to arrange fees, age limit and other necessary details.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Mr. H. R. H. Kenner,
President—Mr. D. Walker,
Vice-pres.—Mr. W. Crowley,
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. W. G. Perks.

Executive Committee—Messrs. G. A. Morrow, Hollingshead, R. F. McWilliams and one representative from each club in the league.

The executive will meet on Wednesday evening next at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. parlours.

The above clearly points to the fact that a strong city league can be formed. It is probable that the games will be played on Saturday afternoons

THE NEW RULES

Those who are familiar with the rules of the old game will find no difficulty in understanding and playing the snap back. The terms used and the manner of scoring remain the same. The changes are in the number of players, the manner of putting the ball in play and a few minor points that materially result from the decreased number of players. As perhaps all are aware, the scrimmage has been dropped, leaving seven forwards. The defence, as before, consists of the quarter back, three halves and one full back. At the beginning of each half and after a touch has been secured, the ball is started as in the old game. The teams line up; the team kicking off places the ball in the centre; the opponents stand back ten yards until the ball is kicked. Here there are a number of points to be carefully noted and practised. 1st—The ball must be kicked at least five yeard, not in any direction, as before, but five yards into the opponents' territory. 2nd—The side in possession of the ball must have six men on the line. That is within one yard of a line drawn through the ball across the field. 3rd—These six men are not allowed to move until the ball is kicked or snapped back. Two infringments of this rule gives the opposing side a scrimmage. As possession of the ball means so much in this game it would be well for teams to pactice kicking off, so as to retain possession of the ball. After the ball has been put in motion the play is the same as in the old game until the ball is dead. Then instead of scrimmaging the centre man on side having possession snaps the ball back to the quarter, who in turn passes it to the half back for a run. The quarter himself is not allowed to run farther than the line unless he has received the ball from some other player than the snapper back. The ball is snapped by one continuous motion and the opposing side may charge just as soon as the ball moves, but they must remain on one side and make no advance until the ball has moved.

A MAGNIFICENT MUSICAL TRIUMPH.

Was That at New Rink Last Evening.

THE "CREATION" ORATORIO.

Most Successful Musical Event in Towns History—Splendid Achievement of Local Musicians—Soloists Appreciated

The opening note of the Peterborough Musical Festival last night in the new rink, was quite up to concert pitch—both a social and musical success as pleasing to the public as it must have been to the hard-working organizer, and those who did such good work.

The production of the Creation of Haydn, is a formidable enough an undertaking with access to large choral material and orchestral accessories, and the success which Mr. Wodell achieved with the material at his command, is a tribute to his ability both as a trainer and conductor, and to the fidelity with which his chorus responded to his leading.

Last night the new rink was filled with an audience which would have packed any other auditorium in town, and it was not disappointed; the oratorio went with a fine musicianly swing. It is not necessary to enter very largely into details for the work done was generally good. The chorus was very evenly balanced, all the sections being quite competent for the respective parts they had to sustain. Their attack was good and their crescendi and shading very smooth and effective. For a comparatively small chorus the volume of sound was very satisfactory. Perhaps the best work of the chorus was done in "Awake the Harp," and "The Heavens are Telling," in the latter some particularly smooth and effective work being done, of which the incidental trio sung by Mrs. Cutler and Messrs. Sherlock and Atkinson, is worthy of special mention. In "The Lord is Great" both trio and chorus did splendid work, the trio melting beautifully into the chorus, whose attack just tempo an even crescendo were worthy of much praise. In "Achieved in the Glorious Work" first chorus, the work of the chorus was hardly up to the standard, it had set earlier in the evening, but it redeemed itself in the grand concluding chorus. On the whole the chorus was very satisfactory; acquitted itself in a manner most creditable to the singers and their conductor who has done good work with good natural material, work that argues musical enthusiasm the key to succesful achievements, on the part of both leader and led. It may be less gallant than just to call attention to the good character of the male section.

The solo artists were quite worthy of the places assigned them in the production of the oratorio. Mrs. Cutler the soprano, to a charming presence and manner and brilliant costume adds brilliant quality of voice and culture. Her voice, and it may be remarked those of the other soloists, is hardly up to the robust quality the exacting role of an oratorio soloist demands, but it is pure, sweet, of good carrying power and a good method brings the best out of it. She appeared to good advantage in the aria "With Verdure Clad." Her cadenzas were very smooth and even and the glide from register to register pleasantly—if a Hibernicism be allowed—imperceptible. After hearing Mrs. Cutler sing "The Marvellous Work," and "With Verdure Clad," it was a distinct disappointment that she was compelled, by reason of a cold, to omit two of the finest solo numbers in the oratorio—"And God Said, 'Let the Waters,'" and "O, Mighty Pens." The work of Mr. J. M. Sherlock, tenor, was very satisfactory. He sung "In Splendor Bright" with fine effect and excellent taste and developed an exquisite purity of tone and fine feeling quite worthy of the exquisite beauty of the music, in "Native Worth." Mr. John Atkinson, of Detroit, the basso of the group, in "Foaming Billows," showed a good method, fine finish and taste, which contributed to his success in all his numbers. The applause of both soloists and chorus was, while discriminating, both generous and cordial, and indicative of the general satisfaction the presentation of the "Creation" gave.

The accompaniments, which were played on a Heintzman & Co. grand piano, were given by Mrs. Mowat very effectively indeed, the limited share of accompaniments assigned to the organ being performed by Miss Katie Hurley, in her usual excellent manner.

The excellence of the work of the solosits and chorus on the opening night of the Festival give promise of a very large gathering to-night to hear the cantata, "The Rose-Maiden," a composition of lighter, more airy, more popularly attractive musical character than the solid grandeur of the stately music of the "Creation." Besides there will be additional soloists, and Tripp, one of the best pianists on the continent, will appear as a solist, and last, but not least, the splendid band of the 57th Regiment will appear in a group of selections, including a new number, Rossini's magnificent overture to "William Tell."

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Archibald Weir Died at the age of 82 Years.

It becomes the sad duty to chronicle the death of a highly respected resident of Ashburnham, in the person of Mrs. Archibald Weir, which occurred this morning. Mrs. Weir had only been ill about ten days, but she had been ailing slightly for some time. She had reached the advanced age of 82 years, and had spent a happy and useful life. Mrs. Weir, whose maiden name was Elizabeth Marshall, came to Canada 47 years ago from Perthshire, and, settling in Otonabee with her husband, had lived there continuously until about one year ago when she removed to Ashburnham. Her husband predeceased her by 15 years, since when she has lived with her son, Mr. Archibald Weir, jr., who, with one daughter, Mrs. Nelson, of Portage La Prairie, Man., are the only remaining members of the family. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at one o'clock from the residence of Mr. Arch. Weir, Ashburnham, to Keene Cemetery.

Although considerably advanced in years, the deceased lady was, until a few days before her death, bright and active, and busied herself with the domestic affairs of the household. Her death will be greatly regretted by the many friends which she had made during her long residence in the county.

THREW AN AXE AT HIS TORMENTOR.

Herbert Haines Fined $40 for Injuring a Companion.

At the Criminal Court yesterday Herbert Haines was fined $40 by His Honour Judge Weller for throwing an axe at Wilson Crothers. It is learned the incident occurred on June 24th in one of the lumber camps of the township of Cavandish. It appears that while playing around Haines lost his temper and threw the axe at his tormentor, it lodging in his back and disabling him for ten weeks. It is said had this axe gone 1-2 inch further to one side Crothers would not be alive to tell the tale. County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Danl. O'Connell for the defence.

HEALTH OFFICERS CONCLUDE SESSIONS.

Closing Meeting Held Last Night.

ELECTION OF THE OFFICERS.

Instructive Papers Read on Interesting Subjects—Dr. Aneyat on Servage Disposed—Next Meeting in Sarnia.

SECOND SESSION — WEDNESDAY.

A continuation from yesterday's issue of the report of sessions of the Ontario Health Officers' Convention follows. Dr. Bryce's excellent paper was given on Wednesday afternoon:

DR. BRYCE'S PAPER.

Dr. Bryce, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, read a most excellent paper on "The Place of Isolation Hospitals in the Suppression of Disease." He set out to show, and did show, that the contagious diseases hospital is a necessary part of public health machinery. The science of public health showed that all microbic diseases were preventable, and prevention and suppression of these was the place of the isolation hospital. Experience and practice called for small pox isolation hospitals to be apart from other buildings. Isolation hospitals are indicated for scarlet fever and diphtheria. It was held that one case of contagious disease was an epidemic as it contained the germs of an outbreak. Dr. Sykes, Medical Health Officer, for St. Pancras, London, indicates three methods of preventing spread of infection—removal of the infected from the healthy and vice versa and quarantining the household. He condemns the closing of workshops as ruinous without compensation, which presents endless difficulties. Contagious diseases hospitals in England have exerted a great influence upon reduction of the death rate and reports by Health Officers show that there is no difference of opinion in this regard. According to returns from a large number of American and Canadian cities in all cases but one small pox is treated in a separate building and the conclusion is that the development of isolation hospitals have advanced slowly on this continent compared to England, though in Ontario we can boast of "being relatively the most advanced in this work of any state or province on this continent." For years we have generally treated small pox in separate hospitals, and in the past three years isolated buildings or tents have been used even in some townships. The repeated supression of small pox outbreaks is proof of the wisdom of this course, while in Michigan small pox has been prevalent four years last week. Thirty centres were reported. Then Ontario has also to boast in many centres of separate wards in connection with general hospitals, or separate hospitals or tents for diphtheria and scarlet fever. In 1890 diphtheria regulations were passed and with the most gratifying results the deaths in Ontario in 1890 having been 693 and in 1902, only 405. Last January regulations were made by the Provincial Board of Health fixing a minimum time limit for isolation, placing the responsibility for certificates of freedom from infection upon the Medical Health Officer and above all insisting upon the removal of infected cases from houses to hospitals, temporary or permanent provided for them under the act. The results have been of marked benefit. Steps were taken to get municipal health authorities to realize the danger in scarletina. In general the action of even rural boards of health have been very satisfactory. The reduction of deaths from 104 in February to 52 in June still indicates this school year is very creditable. It is laid down that the life of the individual is the first consideration, that of the family and the community next. That the parent when able ought to pay for sickness of the child and the municipality ought to assist the parent and protect the public by providing a separate place of treatment and prevent the infected house from boycott. Fifthly, one municipality is bound to take precautions to protect another municipality. The importance of a convalescent hospital—it may be a double-wall tent. The paper concludes that "the idea of isolation hospitals is so satisfactory that we may feel sure that with local Boards of Health, realizing more fully year by year not only their power but also their responsibilities and duties, both humanitarian and legal, we shall see our several municipalities equipped with hospitals adequate for this essential part of public health work."

DISCUSSION.

Dr. Bowlby spoke of the great loss and trouble Brantford had suffered from the carelessness of Galt allowing a smallpox patient to escape quarantine, and with no legal remedy. He advocated legislation to cover such cases.

Dr Hall stated that Chatham had two isolation hospitals where the charge was $10 per week, which the patient, if able, must pay.

Dr. Bryce said that Peterborough had not been paying anything for patients, but the Board of Health must provide a place and patients able to pay, must pay.

Dr. J. R. Fraser, M. H. O. for Douro, spoke of a case of scarlet fever, which arose from a discharged patient. Douro led in the matter of isolation. A man is even hired to attend as long as necessary, even such services having in cases cost $30 to $50.

Dr. Boucher spoke of the brilliant papers of Dr Klotz and Dr Bryce. He was highly in favour of isolation hospitals and in the case of counties and towns divided, he held that they should be compelled to build, and the cost be apportioned according to population. He spoke of Peterborough's satisfactory experience in dealing with small pox by means of a double-wall isolation tent, which had been provided by a local tent maker, and had proved most satisfactory, and he invited the Association to visit Messrs J. J. Turner & Sons' warerooms where an equipped isolation tent could be seen.

The meeting then adjourned.

EVENING SESSION

The evening session was held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, and was presided over by President MacFarlane. Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of George street Methodist church, opened the meeting with prayer. His Worship Mayor Roger then extended a welcome to the visiting medical gentlemen to the town. He said that the town considered it an honour and a pleasure to be favoured with having been chosen as the place of meeting for the Executive Officers. He said that the Association had done well to choose Peterborough as a place in which to hold their sessions, as it was a thoroughly modern town and had to deal with all the ordinary problems coming up for solution. He said that he hoped the town would benefit by the deliberations of the meeting and assured the gentlemen of the hearty welcome on the part of the citizens of the town.

The Hon. J. R. Stratton was on the programme for an address, but as he was unable to be present, sent a letter as follows:—

Toronto, Sept. 8th, 1903.

G. M. Roger, Esq., Mayor of Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—I drop you this letter to say that much to my regret I cannot, as I had fully intended, be present at the public meeting of the Association to-morrow evening.

I have no doubt that you have, as Mayor of the town, extended a most cordial civic welcome to our visitors but as Parliamentary representative of West Peterborough I wish to add my own welcome which I do with all the cordiality that words can convey.

We in Peterborough are rather proud of our town and we regard hospitality to our guests as both a duty and a pleasure. The gentlemen of the Executive will be interested in knowing that we have for medical health officer the veteran Dr. Bingham, who efficiently looks after our public health. Dr. Bingham combines with his solicitude for the health of the town a fine solicitude for its good name. Let me give you an instance. He was well aware of the coming of the Executive Health Officers and he was so careful of their health that he sent samples of our city water to the chemist and analyst of our Provincial Health Department and our analysis showed that our city water was of the highest quality of purity so that Dr. Bingham can now extend his hospitality—his cup of cold water—to our distinguished visitors knowing that he can guarantee its purity and that our guests will be subjected to no temptations to dilute our city water with any stronger fluid to destroy microbes.

I notice by the programme that I am set down for an address in the capacity of Minister of Public Health. Whether or not that designation is technically true I may say that my interest in your deliberations arises from the fact that in my Department of Provincial Secretary is included that of the Provincial Board of Health. The Board of Health and the Executive Health Officers have to do with the promotion of one of the most important interests possible—that of the public health, and I may be permitted to refer to the public spirited character of our physicians throughout the province. A great many jokes are cracked at the expense of the medical profession and their relations to the undertaker, but seriously, I have found that they are a body of public-spirited and self-sacrificing men. At first thought one might say that it would be to the self interest of the doctors to discourage means to make the public healthy, since it is upon the illness and the affliction of the people that the physicians thrive, but I am bound to say and I speak with personal and official knowledge that as a body the physicians of Peterborough and the Province at large are the most prominent agents in the improvement of the public health and the consequent prevention of diseases, though in this respect, from a professional standpoint they are killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. The important work done by the Provincial Board in promoting the public health has been much facilitated by the co-operation of the physicians of the province, and the public are under a debt of gratitude to the executive health officers whose work is concretely represented by the Association now in session in Peterborough.

In conclusion, I beg the pleasure of again welcoming the visiting health officers and of expressing the hope that their deliberations, whose result I shall be happy as far as the public interests are concerned, to promote in my official capacity, will result in increased efficiency in carrying on the great and important work of promoting the health of the people of this fair province.

Yours very truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

The President then delivered his annual address which was much enjoyed. He referred to the honour which had been conferred upon him in the election to the office of President, and stated that he considered the honour all the more pronounced, when he remembered that in electing one not a member of the medical profession to preside over the Association, they had departed from their usual custom. His address which was a lengthy one was highly instructive, and those present received great benefit from his masterly effort.

At the close of the President's address Dr. Oldwright expressed his pleasure in listening to the address and moved a vote of thanks to the President, and also that the address be printed in the Journal of Proceedings.

The next speaker was Dr. Hall, whose subject was "The Rights of the Individual as Regards Enforced Quarantine." He said it was necessary in dealing with this question to endeavour to see things as others see them. The public good was more important than that of the individual, and yet in most cases, the individual good was identical with the public good. He paid a high tribute to Dr. Bryce, the Secretary of the Provincial Health Department, saying that the public health in Ontario was in a satisfactory condition, largely due to the efficiency of Dr. Bryce. Speaking of the recent amendments made to the Ontario Public Health Act, he said that in some cases unnecessarily severe restrictions had been made, looking at them particularly from the standpoint of the individual. He strongly urged the advisability of the appointment of County Health Officers by the Ontario Government, as a means of more efficiently preserving the public health. Speaking of vaccination, he said that he held the opinion that a compulsory vaccination was not a hardship, but he felt that the anti-toxin serum and vacine should be manufactured either by, or under the Government supervision. In conclusion, he said he believed that the conditions imposed upon persons quarantined should be made as light as possible and compatiable with the public health.

The next speaker was Dr. Chas. A. Hodgetts, of Toronto, whose subject was "The Hygenic and Economic Advantages of Military Instruction in our Schools." It was very interesting, dealing as it did with a subject in which all could easily become interested. The doctor in opening said that the subject of giving military instructions in public schools, was not one of modern birth, as at as early a date as 1839 this branch was agitated for in England, and in Canada at the present time the authorities are recognizing the value of this branch, and are gradually introducing it into the curriculums in the different schools. Physical culture is also, with a great deal of benefit to the scholars, being taught in many schools, and the result is one largely satisfactory. He deplored the fact, however, that no thoroughly organized system of physical culture and military instruction was in force in Ontario. He paid a high tribute to the value of the training afforded by the institution of Boys' Brigades, in many cities and towns throughout the Province. He said further that to reach the desired end, the co-operation of all sanitarianists, educationists and the Federal Military Department was necessary. He deplored the fact that at the present time more undersized, defective human beings were in existence than perhaps ever before, and the present literary achievements were being paid for dearly. He contended that to attain to a satisfactory state of manhood, a systematic physical culture training was an absolute necessity, and as an illustration mentioned the system of physical training indulged in by the Greeks, who were the most highly cultured literary nation in the world. He believed that a strong, vigorous physical nature was a necessity to a strong mental character, and made an impassioned plea for a more thorough physical training in the public schools, and stating his belief that athletics should be taught just as the literary features now are. In support of his contention he quoted extracts from letters received from three prominent Public School Inspectors, each of whom unhesitatingly endorsed the proposition to introduce this branch of training in Public Schools.

At the close of Dr. Hoggetts' address a discussion was indulged in participated in by a number of those present, in which many valuable points suggested in the papers were enlarged upon, and the opinions of the different medical men expressed. The meeting adjourned to meet in the Council Chamber Thursday morning.

THIRD SESSION—THURSDAY.

At this morning's sitting there was a considerable addition to the attendance, the congested state of the railways preventing earlier arrival in many cases. The following additional attendance is to be noted: Dr. C. K. Clarke, M.D., Superintendent Rockwood Hospital Kingston; Dr. Cassidy, Provincial Board of Health, Toronto; Dr. Kitchen, Chairman Provincial Board of Health; W. S. Richards, M. H. O., Chatham; Dr. John Amyot, Director of the Labratory, Provincial Board of Health, Toronto; Mr. G. G. Naismith, Ph. D. M. A., Chemist to the Provincial Board of Health, Toronto; Dr. N. Mulloy, Preston; Dr. W. T. Langrill, Hamilton; Mr. A. J. Macaulay, M.H.O., Brockville; Dr. Cameron, M. H. O., Owen Sound; Dr. Free, M.H.O., Kingston; A. C. Beatty, Garden Hill, M. H. O., Township of Hope.

The first business was the reading of a paper on "The Treatment of the Criminal," by Dr. C. K. Clark, Superintendent of Rockwood Hospital, Kingston. It was an elaborate consideration of the subject. In the beginning the danger of confounding the criminal with the diseased mentally or physically, was referred to. The paper dealt with several classes. The criminally insane, moral imbeciles, instinctive criminals, habitual criminals and accidental criminals. These classes were lucidly and fully dealt with." It was pointed out that treatment should not be directed to punishment alone. The prison should be a moral hospital. Reference was made to the necessity of provision for the treatment of inebriates, and the danger from indiscriminate immigration from the lower classes of Europe, and especially from the immigration of Chinese and Japanese. It was held that criminals should be deported.

In discussion, Dr. Cassidy referring to the danger from immigration, said it was high time that careful inspection was inaugurated. The Chairman suggested a committee to consider and report, and on motion of Dr. Oldwright and Dr. Cassidy, he was instructed to appoint such a committee.

Dr. Oldwright spoke specially in reference to the necessity of providing treatment for inebriates. It was our duty to second the energetic efforts of Dr. Roseburgh, of Toronto. Many inebriates in sober intervals were anxious to be helped to overcome their habit. He pointed out that Hon. Mr. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, was deeply interested in the matter, his interest being shown in a practical way by his making a liberal contribution of his personal means to the funds for taking an initial step in the direction of caring for inebriates. But the Minister could not go ahead of public opinion. The movement had also the sympathy of the Government, which could give it effect if it had public support, which he hoped this Association would help to secure.

In regard to the immigration question, Dr. Bryce said the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa had arranged for a conference of Dominion Medical Health Officers to consider

VIEWS OF FARMERS.

Presented to Mr. Ross on Subject of Taxing Railways.

COMPLAINTS OF INJUSTICE.

Premier Cordially Agreed With Views Expressed For the Equalization of Taxation, and Points Out What the Government Has Done in This Direction For the People—Election of Officers.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Equalization of taxation was the burden of the complaint poured into the ears of the Premier of Ontario yesterday afternoon by the Farmers' Association of the province. The private office of Mr. Ross was found entirely too small to accommodate the large delegation and an adjournment was had to the Legislative Chamber.

The speakers were introduced to the Hon. Mr. Ross by the newly-elected president, J. Lockie Wilson.

Angus Macdonald and Jameson Campbell of Glengarry, W. L. Gordon of Wellington, Thomas Brooks of Brant, James McKwing of West Wellington, James Armstrong of Lambton, and Major Hood of Guelph all spoke on the question. Mr. McLean of Huron said he voiced the opinion of everyone in his district, that it was unjust that the railway corporations that got the money to build their roads from the farmers, should pay no share of the taxes. John Hyatt of Prince Edward County said there was a strong feeling in his county in favor of the Pettypiece bill. In his township the Central Ontario Railway had received a free gift of $87,500, and they paid $8.50 a year in taxes. C. A. Mallory of Northumberland, said that the corporations had heretofore escaped, but now they must bear their fair share of taxation. J. F. Beam of Welland closed the argument for the farmers with an object lesson from Michigan: Previous to the taxation of the railway corporations, the per capita tax was $70, which had now been reduced to $30. He also instanced his own township, where they had four roads and 40 miles of track and all they received in taxes was $4.50, of which the G.T.R. paid $2.25 and the Michigan Central $2.25. Both of the bills before the House might need amending, but what they wanted was the recognition of the principle of equal taxation

Premier Ross' Speech.

The Premier congratulated the speakers on the brevity and force of their remarks and said he cordially approved of the equalization of taxation. The question, however, was a large one and full of difficulties. A commission had been appointed some years ago to revise the Assessment Act, which had not been done in 40 years, and in 1898 they had received from telegraph and railway companies $250,000. "This is not a large amount," he said, "but it shows that the Government is not afraid to deal with corporations of all kinds, in order to obtain a sufficient revenue for the country." The special committee to which the bills had been referred would meet in a few days and when the House met, they would have a report ready. There was no appeal to tax any but railway corporations, and perhaps the Bell Telephone Company, but the committee would consider the right to tax all corporations. Until recently they had been subsidizing railways and it was not appropriate to tax the roads at the same time they were helping them. The time for subsidies had passed, however, and it was admitted that the companies should contribute to the revenues. It was said that it would be proper to impose a rental equal to 3½ or 4 per cent. on the amount advanced the roads in the way of bonuses. The companies should be taxed only when they were earning enough to justify it and we must be prudent, for they have a chance to strike back by increasing freight rates. Everyone should bear their share of taxation, but there must be some margin on which both laborers and corporations could exist. He was in favor of increasing the exemption of wage earners to $1,000 in view of the greater cost of living, but he hoped that the committee would bring in a report that would satisfy all parties concerned.

The party then withdrew and resumed their session at Victoria Hall.

The Election of Officers.

At the morning session yesterday the following were elected officers: President, J. Lockie Wilson, Glengarry; vice-president, L. E. Annis, East York; secretary-treasurer, W. L. Smith; auditors, Wm. McCrae and J. W. Hyatt. These officers with J. F. Beam, Welland, and Major Hood, Guelph, will constitute the Executive Committee. It was decided that the membership fee should be reduced to 50 cents

The Resolutions.

The Committee of Resolutions brought in a report endorsing the public ownership of public utilities of municipality, province or Dominion and also the merit system in the reformation of the civil service. It also declared for direct legislation through the initiative and referendum, and urged upon the Governments of the country the policy of granting public lands to bona-fide settlers only, and of preserving the timbered, non-agricultural lands, to keep the public heritage from speculators. They also declared in favor of a two-cent passenger rate on the railways in Old Ontario, and the Pettypiece bill for equal taxation.

In the evening Dr Goldwin Smith and Mrs Jabel Robinson, M.P., addressed the meeting

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. ONE OF THE PROOFS

"I claim Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have been instrumental in taking me from the brink of the grave and restoring me to comparative good health."

That is the statement of Jackson Johnson, of Norham, Ont. It is one of the proofs that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia in its worst stage. Your indigestion may not be as bad as that. It may be only starting. But if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure the worst stages of this insidious disease, will it not cure yours? and is it not better to cure it now than to wait till it grows worse, as it surely will? Listen to the rest of Mr. Johnson's experience:—"My case was one of Chronic Dyspepsia. I had been doctoring for it for nearly twenty years. About two years ago I was taken with Diarrhoea which became chronic and continued for about nine months, despite all I could do for it. I continued to grow weaker, and was at last confined to my bed for a time. I was at length persuaded to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. From the first they relieved me and I continued to use them, till now I am in a position to heartily recommend them to all suffers from Dyspepsia."

A Boy's Ambition.

When Admiral Hawke was a boy about to go to sea for the first time his father gave him much good advice, ending up with the words, "I hope to live to see you a captain."

"A captain!" answered the boy. "If I did not think I should one day be an admiral I would not go to sea at all!"—Chatterbox.

COUNTRY-BORN.

In the dust of the crowded city,
O'er the squalor and loud-voiced words,
He lingers in infinite pity,
Recalling the songs of the birds.

And e'en through the noise of the traffic
He catches the sweet mystic trill
Of the silvery speech of the river
As it ripples along towards the mill.

In spite of the rough tones about him,
Above all the din of the loom,
He lists to the lowing of cattle
And gathers the violets ablo m.

His dreams are of wealth of sweet roses,
As he treads on the narrow street;
Or of searching for nuts or of posies,
Or wandering 'mid golden wheat.

An alien who's bartering his birthright
For the city smoke and gloom,
But his spirit dwells in the home land,
Though his hands may toil at the loom.

Square Dealing Pays.

Here is a little sermon on honesty that Canadians who produce for export should take well to heart. "Dishonesty on the part of the American cheesemaker," says an agricultural newspaper published in Iowa, "destroyed his English market for his product, and gave to his shrewder and more honest Canadian competitor a market worth millions of dollars a year. It pays in the long run to be honest."

Having, according to this, gained a market worth millions by honesty, it should not be necessary to remind Canadians who export cheese, butter, fruit, and other products that "it pays in the long run to be honest."

But such reminders are necessary. The Canadian trade agents abroad are sending home warnings against sharp practices in packing goods for export. The Government has found it necessary to guard the outlet, to prevent improperly packed and dishonestly graded goods from getting away to foreign parts. It seems that the individual producer often takes no interest in the foreign market, and that the small dealer is often equally deficient in a sense of responsibility, so that everything depends on the man who actually does the exporting. The Government by various newly-devised regulations seeks to enforce honesty where it does not exist, and the importance of this cannot be overestimated. But the individual producer should bear in mind that when the products of a country get a good reputation in the world's markets it means prosperity for the producing classes.

Dreaded Results of Kidney Disease.

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills.

When you think of the pain and suffering which accompany backache, rheumatism, lumbago, stone in the kidneys and bladder; when you think of the dreadful fatality of Bright's disease, dropsy, diabetes and apoplexy, you may well wonder why people neglect to keep the kidneys in perfect order, for all these ailments are the direct result of deranged kidneys.

Once the kidneys fail to filter from the blood the impure and poisonous waste matter there is trouble of a painful and dangerous nature. Among the first symptoms are backache, weak, lame back, pains in the legs and sides, deposits in the urine, impaired digestion, loss of flesh, energy and ambition, stiffness and soreness in the joints and feelings of weariness and lassitude.

Prevention is always better than cure, and hence the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on the very first indication of such derangement. Whether to prevent or cure, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most effective treatment you can obtain, for besides their direct and specific action on the kidneys, they keep the bowels regular and the liver active, and hence purify the system and remove the cause of disease.

This medicine has long since proven its right to first place as a cure for the complicated and serious derangements of the filtering and excretory organs It has the largest sale and is endorsed by more people than any similar treatment. You can depend on it absolutely to bring prompt relief and lasting cure. In view of these facts it is a waste of time and money and a risk to life itself to trifle with now and untried remedies when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are at hand. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 6

FORTUNES FLUCTUATE.

Barra Is Great in the Herring Industry of Barra—Headquarters of the Fishing Fleet—The Matje.

Far out from the mainland, where the waters of the Minch and Atlantic mingle, lies the Island of Barra, where, says a writer in the Edinburgh Scotsman, the herring industry is vigorously prosecuted each year during the months of May and June. The beautiful bay, known as Castle Bay, on a rocky inlet of which the ancient, though long-ruined castle of the McNeills still stands, forms the headquarters of the fishing fleet during the season. Herring caught around Barra and cured on the island are known as "Castle Bay" herring. The Barra herring industry is of comparatively recent origin. Little more than half a century ago the quality of the Barra "matje," or maiden, herring first attracted attention, and annually since that discovery its pursuit has been prosecuted with amazing perseverance, and at very considerable cost.

The fortune of the industry during these years has undergone many fluctuations—sinking at times to the verge of extinction, and rising again to something like piping days of prosperity. Of late, after a spell of the worst, there has been a favorable turn, and the season which has just closed takes rank among the best. The Barra matje's claim to the premier place against all comers among British herring has hitherto been ungrudgingly conceded, and rests both upon its size and flavor.

The theory among experts is that the sandy banks lying from twenty to fifty miles west and east of Barra, and forming the favorite feeding haunts of the herring shoals, provide the fish with food imparting this delicate flavor. Among such banks, especially those lying west-northwest of Castle Bay, the shoals seem to find more congenial quarters than elsewhere. There the herring attain more rapidly to maturity and greater weight.

When in prime condition the matje is oily, and readily absorbs the pickle in which it is cured, tinging it with a rich amber color, peculiar to the matje pickle, and due, it is said, to its fatty and full-fleshed condition. Some idea of the importance of the industry, and the heavy cost involved in its prosecution, may be obtained by the following figures, which are approximately correct. At the height of the season just closed the full strength of the fishing fleet numbered about 400 boats. This, averaging the boats at £600 apiece, with a drift of nets involving an additional cost of £160, brings the total aggregate value of the Castle Bay fleet fully equipped to a formidable figure, falling not far short of £250,000. Then, if it be explained that a cran, containing, say, from 1,000 to 1,200 herrings, costing the curer, at the high prices prevailing this season, from 1d. to 1½d. per herring, is retailed in the best restaurants in Berlin, St. Petersburg, at 1s. or 1s. 6d., and the total catch of the season be some 15,000 crans, the full value of this rich harvest of our northern seas will be seen to work out to startling proportions. But a formidable rival, it is said, has been found on the northwest of Ireland, but whether the new rival will oust the Castle Bay matje from foreign favor remains to be seen.

The method of shooting and hauling the nets is not without interest. The crew of seven men work in pairs, with the seventh steering. The nets are shot toward evening, and stretch for almost a mile behind the vessel. The "lie-to" is generally devoted to a few hours' sleep, and at an early hour the crew are again found at their respective posts. Then the first strain of the hauling-in rope begins. This hour brings the psychological moment, for it is fraught with the issues of the laborious venture. That it is an important hour in connection with the Castle Bay "matje" will be seen when it is stated that a single shot this season netted for the crew the handsome sum of £300. Still, the calling is beset by hazards, any or all of which may make their appearance in a single night. There may be sudden mists, or provoking spells of calm, or fierce tides running inshore and apt to entangle the nets, or shoals of dogfish—that scourge of the fisherman's life—or once in a while the great sunfish may wrap his bulky frame in the delicate nets and rend in a few moments what it may take the combines skill of the crew hours to set right; or the whole drift of nets, full of valuable fish, may be lost by setting too close inshore.

Painter and Baby.

Sir Frederick Leighton, the English painter, was so devoted to children as any mother of a family. One day he called at the house of a young painter, and announced, in his high, musical voice:

"I have come to see the last baby."

The child was brought in, and Sir Frederic took it from the arms of the proud mother. He kissed it, and then said:

"I must see those feet!"

The baby's socks were instantly taken off.

"Oh, what lovely pink toes!" cried the artist. "They are quite Greek! They are perfect."

This was in a tone of rapture, and later he said to the father impressively:

"Johnny, you must paint those dear little legs and feet. Work hard all day at drawing, modelling and painting, and at night dream of your art. You must concentrate yourself in your work. You must live in it. That's why those grand old boys, the old masters, were so great."

A Great Camphor Forest.

A primeval forest containing 120,000 camphor trees, measuring from 7 to 18 feet in circumference, has recently been discovered in Formosa. It is estimated that the yield of camphor gum from these trees will amount to 13,000,000 pounds. The forest is not entirely composed of camphor trees, but contains other varieties including an abundance of "red-grained" oak.

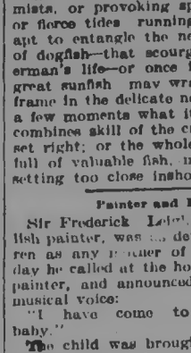
It's Impure Blood.

"What is it?" asks the mother as she notices the smooth skin of her child marred by a red or pimply eruption. It is impure blood, and the child needs at once to begin the use of Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the best and surest remedy for impurity of the blood. It entirely eradicates the poisons which corrupt the blood and cause disease. It cures scrofula, boils, pimples, eczema, saltrheum and other eruptive diseases which are the direct result of impure blood. It enriches as well as purifies the blood.



"Dr. Pierce's medicine has not only benefited me greatly, but it has done wonders for my two sons," writes Mrs. M. Hartrick, of Demster, Oswego Co., N. Y. "Both had scrofula. I have lost two daughters in less than five years with consumption and scrofula. My eldest son was taken two or three years ago with hemorrhage from the lungs. It troubled him for over a year. He took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and has not had a hemorrhage in over a year. My younger son had scrofula sores on his neck, had two lanced, but has not had any since he commenced to take your medicine."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

DOGS IN FICTION.

Parts They Have Played in the Great English Novels—Beseal, "The Talisman" Staghound.

Although it may be conceded that among the animals of fiction the horse holds first place, the part played by dogs, especially in modern literature, is very large and important. The pages of many famous novels have presented us with members of the canine race as carefully drawn and as lovingly delineated as any of the human characters introduced. Not infrequently the role of hero or heroine is doubled with, or wholly supported by, a dog. And in numberless instances it is the intervention, conscious or unconscious, of a dog upon which the whole plot turns. As might be expected, it is among the works of such novelists as are specially noted as dog lovers that the finest and most frequent descriptions of their four footed friends are to be found, and naturally Sir Walter Scott, well known for his extreme attachment to dogs, heads the list.

Big dogs are Scott's special favorites and his noblest example is Sir Kenneth's hound Rosval, who bears an all important part in the plot of "The Talisman." Rosval is described as a large staghound of splendid proportions and great sagacity, who shares his master's watch on St. George's Mount beside the banner of England, above the camp of the crusaders. Tempted by woman's guile, the knight forsakes his post for a short space, leaving Rosval to guard the flag. A base attack is made in his absence, and Kenneth returns to find the flag gone and its faithful defender wounded apparently to death in its defense. Kenneth's remorse for the violation of the English banner is scarcely more keen than his grief over the dog, who wags his tail and licks his master's hand even in the agonies of death. It is a most touching scene, drawn by a master hand, and the reader's satisfaction is not less than the knight's is represented to be when the Arabian physician Saladin, disguised, appears opportunely, and by his timely ministration saves the hound, who lives to identify his till then unknown assailant by dragging him bodily from his horse. In "Ivanhoe," Gurth, the swineherd, possesses a noteworthy dog, Fangs by name, "a rugged, wolfish looking dog, a sort of lurcher, half mastiff, half greyhound," who assists his master in the care of his refractory charges, is wounded by Cedric the Saxon, and whose adventures are carried on throughout the book.

Dickens was a dog lover, and possessed several dear canine friends. It is recorded in his biographies how greatly moved he was on one occasion by the sympathetic concern evinced by two of his favorites, Turk and Linda, when during a walk he was suddenly struck with lameness.

Thackeray, however, makes little use or mention of dogs. George Eliot also lays no great stress upon them.

Gallant Sir Thomas.

Sir Thomas Lipton has a gallant way of paying pretty compliments to ladies. Driving through Washington one day he passed a huge red automobile that stood before an imposing mansion of gray stone. A young girl in a white gown sat in the automobile, and as Sir Thomas glided by she bowed to him, smiling a radiant and charming smile. He, however, failed to see her.

The young girl looked embarrassed, vexed. She bit her lip. She thought a moment. Then she took hold of the wheel of her machine, pressed with her small foot the bulb that made the horn toot gruffly, and swiftly and smoothly she shot after the English knight.

Soon the great automobile overtook the carriage and halted. The young girl, an old friend of Sir Thomas, extended her hand, and as he took it she said reproachfully:

"You passed me a little while ago without looking at me."

With a gallant smile and inclination of the head, Sir Thomas answered:

"If I had looked at you I couldn't have passed you."

Is There a Canadian Summer?

What is becoming of our Canadian summers? One or two days of blazing heat, and now a chill which suggests all sorts of wandering refrigerators. Has that hazy-looking comet anything to do with the absorption of our mid-summer heat supply? Will scientists in communication with the sun and moon please tell us?

IN YE OLDEN TIMES.

Modern Soldiers Have Every Reason to Be Grateful That They Did Not Live When George Was King.

There was one Swift McNeill, M. P., in the reign of King George II. In fact, parliament was occupied, for the most part, by fatless members, who were content to sit and listen snore and vote, without finding fault with tariffs, "ragging," or subalterns' debts. The Parliament of those days was intended to pass a few measures, and vote a few supplies, and not to wrangle over statements which had been published in the newspapers, of which there were but few. Much as has been talked, and written, against the state of our army, we would appear to have improved somewhat on the efforts of our fore-fathers. A young officer of the period of George II. was (according to records) absolutely discouraged from displaying undue zeal, or striving to fulfil the meaning of that blessed word "efficiency." He knew perfectly well that if he distinguished himself in action another officer who had taken no part therein was quite likely to be promoted over his head. In fact, "interest" was a sine qua non; the man who had influential friends, and, of course, plenty of spending cash, got on all right; and if he had a handsome wife or sister, so much the better for his advancement.

To such a state of degradation had the army sunk at about the time when Hogarth's "March to Finchley" was painted (1746) that it was common for tradesmen and others in difficulties to enlist in the Foot Guards. This was done with the collusion of the commanding officers, who, having "scooped" the pay of the tradesmen and others in difficulties, exempted them from all military duties; and their uniform protected them from arrest by the civil power. It is hair-raising to read the old records; and as for punishments, the Duke of Cumberland's general orders contain on three consecutive days sentences of eight hundred, five hundred and eight hundred lashes, served out for "thieving," "mutinous expressions" and "insolent behavior." Deponent has one occasion witnessed the infliction of the regulation half-hundred during the "early sixties"; but what sort of cast-iron back must the "swaddie" of a century and a half ago have possessed?

Dashing of that sort is still popular in China, and only the other day a man named Shen Chien (which reads doggy) was caned to death by the order of the Empress Dowager. The punishment lasted for two hours. But he was only a journalist, and wrote things, and objected to modern improvements. In the Duke of Cumberland's army there were other pretty little punishments, calculated to make the soldier love military service such as "picketing" and the "high horse" for picketing the culprit's naked heel rested on a sharpened stake, driven into the ground, his right wrist and right leg being drawn up as high as they could be to a hook fixed in an adjoining post. This amusing sport lasted a quarter of an hour or so; and he who had to ride the high horse bestrode a sharp ridge formed of planks, with his arms tied behind him. Heavy weights were attached to both feet, and the "horse" (which was on wheels) was then drawn up and down. This ride was productive of the direst results to the unfortunate victim and the soldier of to-day has every reason to be grateful that he did not live "when George was King."

Men as Housemaids.

"He is my housemaid," was the defence put forward in a London police court by a Streatham gentleman summoned for keeping a male servant without a license. From inquiries made at various registry offices where male as well as female servants are negotiated, a representative of the Daily Chronicle learned that, though no one has had the temerity to apply for a "male housemaid," large numbers of men, especially foreigners, are employed in private as well as in numerous boarding-houses, to do the greater part of the work of a housemaid. And in many cases it is declared they do it better and with greater vigor. They are not expected to make the beds, but they will sweep the floors, and the staircases, keep the area and basement of the house clean, polish the silver and boots, and, above all, wait at table, the appointments of the dining-room being in their charge.

Nelson and His Midshipmen.

Nelson always took great interest in the training of the young middies on the ships which he commanded and never failed to be kind and considerate to them. If he saw any one of them who was by nature timid he would not speak harshly to him and so drive out what little courage the boy had, but would offer to race him to the masthead or some such place, and when they had climbed there he would take no notice of the middy's fears, if he showed any, but would smile kindly, saying, "I wonder that any one could fear to do such an easy thing as you and I have just done." Thus the boy got over his cowardice and learned to love his captain, who throughout his life showed the same consideration for those around him.

Cardinal Vaughan's Tact.

The late Cardinal Vaughan of England had an irresistible tact that made him well liked in Protestant circles.

His good taste in avoiding religious disputations of any kind when in society was one element of his acceptableness. His brilliancy of conversation was another. On one occasion the Duke of Devonshire invited him, with a score of others, to dinner on Friday, quite forgetting the significance of the day to Vaughan, but the Cardinal put in an appearance and so completely engaged the attention of those who sat near him by his flow of wit and eloquence that they did not note until the banquet was over that he had not touched either food or drink.

Stole a Ship.

It is the fashion when a famous judge or detective retires to give a list of his most remarkable cases. Sir Hartley Williams, the retiring senior puisne judge of Victoria, has been the subject of such a retrospect. One of the first cases he had to try was a very rare offence indeed—stealing a steamship. A couple of audacious scoundrels named Henderson and Wallace stole a steamer from the Clyde, disguised her very skillfully and went on a pleasure cruise around the world. At Melbourne, where they posed as scions of English nobility and received much social attention, the fraud was detected. They were arrested, convicted and sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. Stealing a ship is like stealing an elephant, a very unprofitable form of crime. The risks are enormous, and it is difficult to get rid of the stolen property or convert it into cash.—London Chronicle.

Millionaire Butlers.

Lord Ravenscourt's butler, who died the other day, leaving a fortune of £30,000, was by no means a unique instance of a gentleman's gentleman amassing a great fortune. There is a well known Conservative member of Parliament who in his early days was a butler in Lord Salisbury's household. The money he saved from his salary and tips he invested in a hotel in South Kensington, which he disposed of some fifteen years later at an enormous profit. Samuel Waugh, who left more than £2,000 when he died six weeks back, had been a butler in the Maclay family for over sixty years. A butler in a decent house may, speaking roughly, count on receiving £2 in tips for every £1 of his salary. In addition to tips, however, an important perquisite is the commission he receives from the tradesmen.—London Tatler.

MR. NASMITH'S PAPER.

Mr. G. G. Nasmith, M. A., Ph. D., Chemist to the Provincial Board of Health, read an interesting paper on the "Nature and Functions of Foods," which was of too technical and statistical a nature to lend itself easily to consideration. It contains a great deal of information regarding the nature, digestibility and preparation of foods. The latter had, Mr. Nasmith said, a large influence upon the digestibility of foods, and he stated, incidentally, that long continued low heat, applied to tough meats, made them tender.

MISS CARLYLE'S PAPER.

Miss Margaret Carlyle, Toronto, Ontario Factory Inspector, read a very able paper on "Sanitation in Factories and Workshops as Affecting Female Labour in Ontario." The question of factory ventilation was dealt with and the suggestion made that provision for a plentiful supply of fresh warmed air and the removal of that which is of far greater importance than the actual cubic space per head of occupants of factories. Special importance was attached to sufficient light, as necessary as any other precaution. The advantage of electricity over gas for heating and lighting factories was pointed out—the gas was very injurious to operators. The evil of early hours—6 to 6.30 a. m.—upon girls was emphasized. The method of supplying drinking water in pails and drinking from a common cup was condemned as both filthy and unsanitary.

Mr. Thomas Kelly, Provincial Factory Inspector, spoke in endorsation of Miss Carlyle's arguments.

DR. AMYOT'S PAPER.

Dr. Amyot, Provincial Anylist, read a paper upon "Sewage and its Disposal by the Septic Tank System." Sewage is a malignant content of sewers and cannot be destroyed by burning. Bacteria were minute vegetable organism, so minute that a drop of water could contain a billion whose function was to destroy organic matter in sewage, the basis of ferments, by which 98 per cent of organic matter could be gasified and removed. The septic tank depended upon bacteria for its efficiency. The septic tank is a modification of the cess pool or rotting box where the bacteria gasify and liquify sewage. The septic tank is a scientific application of what takes place in the old cess pool, whose contents became liquid as almost nothing solid was left. In the septic tank 50 per cent of organic matter is destroyed in 24 hours, and the balance is left to be acted upon by oxydization. The septic tank is a rotting box, a cess pool, where the bacteria do their work. It is a scientific application of what takes place in a cess pool, from which an almost clean looking fluid flowed, leaving little or no solid matter. The organic matter was bacteriologically decomposed and went off as gas and in solution. The modern septic tank is made to decompose 50 per cent. of sewage and the rest is left to another method—oxydization. It will do in 24 hours what the septic tank will take 18 to 20 days to do. Septic tanks run almost automatically, but need a skilled attendant. The paper went into details as to the construction and operation of a septic tank, which has several good qualities—it is a settling basin; it liquifies organic matter rapidly; it reduces half of the organic matter to gas; it primes the other half so that it can be easily oxydized. It has few disadvantages.

Contact beds.—The organic matter of sewage can be wholly treated by application to land, unless too much is applied, and will give a treatment of 95 to 98 per cent. of all organic matter. It is used at London Asylum to irrigate and fertilize, and on an average 10,000 gallons to the acre can be treated. Contact beds are usually 3 or 4 feet deep, the walls made of brick, cement, stone or of clay. Drain pipes laid so as to discharge by one channel are laid on the bottom and the bed filled with preferably coke, in small (half-inch) sizes. The beds are run by filling completely with sewage and left in contact for two hours while oxydization goes on and the affluent will come away minus 50 per cent. of organic matter. After emptying give the bed a rest of 3 to 4 hours. The meeting adjourned till 7.30.

EVENING SESSION.

The concluding session of the Convention was held last night in the council chamber, with Dr. Cassidy acting in the capacity of chairman, in the absence of the President, Mr. Thos. McFarlane. This session was a comparatively brief one, and no further papers were read.

Dr. Hodgetts introduced the following resolution:—Whereas there exists the necessity of some reduction and modification in both the number of subjects and the hours of study in the public school curriculum and there is need for the introduction of a uniform and regulated system of military drill which should prevail throughout the whole school system.

Resolved: That the incoming executive be instructed to make such recommendations as they deem fit to the Minister of Education of this Province, the Minister of Militia and defence of Canada, or both, with the view to the introduction of some firm of military drill," which was adopted on motion.

Dr. Bryce read the report of the Committee on County Health Officers, as follows:—

Your committee on County Health Officers, beg leave to report as follows:

1. That having carefully considered the question of the constitution of County Health Boards or Division Boards, would respectfully suggest that the Board for each county or electoral division should consist of three persons.

2. Your committee is further of opinion that such appointees should not be for a period of less than five years, and such appointees should not be made to suffer loss from the discharge of their official duties.

3. The one or more Inspectors to be appointed under the Act should be County or Division Inspectors and should devote their whole time to the discharge of their official duties.

4. Therefore the appointment of such Inspectors could not be for each Township, but necessarily would require to be made by the Government or the County, upon the recommendation of the Medical Health Officer, and your committee feel that such Inspector and Inspectors should be under such control of the Medical Health Officer as would enable him to suspend such Sanitary Inspector.

5. That there should be a Health Board for a population not exceeding in number 40,000 souls.

Mr. W. Chipman, E. C., discussing the paper of Dr. Amyot on Sewage disposal, given at the afternoon session, said he was pleased to congratulate the author of the paper on its excellence. He was also pleased to learn of his remarks in reference to the septic tank at Berlin, and to know that the Doctor attributed the failure of the tank to do what had been expected of it to the fact that it had been overworked. He said that no doubt many of those present had seen in the press articles dealing with proposed sewage disposal plants and heralding them in most cases as being sure cures for all the troubles which the different municipalities had suffered, and in many cases later reports gave the information that the disposal plants had not accomplished what had been expected of them, and in every instance, or nearly so, the real fault was in the fact that the municipalities had not given the plants sufficient attention. He then entered into a comprehensive defence of septic tanks as a means of disposing of sewage, in comparison with other means. Mr. Chipman's remarks were much appreciated by those present.

Dr. Malory, of Preston, continuing the discussion asked a number of questions bearing upon the conditions existing in his town. After some further discussion in which the relative merit of septic tanks and the other various means of sewage disposal were talked of, the election of officers was proceeded with resulting as follows:—

President—Dr. Lane, of Mallorytown.

Vice President—C. A. Bowlby, of London.

Secretary—Dr. Hodgetts, of Toronto.

Executive Council—Dr. P. N. Bryce, Toronto; W. Chipman, C.E., Toronto; Dr. Shaw, Keene; W. S. Richards, of Chatham and Dr. Boucher, of Peterborough.

Dr. Bryce presented a report of his stewartship during the past year. He said that no special business had come before the Executive Council during the year except the selection of the place of meeting. He felt satisfied that the members would be unanimous in their opinion that no mistake had been made in choosing Peterborough, as he was sure each had enjoyed the sessions of the convention. He reported that a balance of $73.00 remained in the treasury. He made a motion to the effect that the Executive Council be recommended to choose Sarnia as the next place of meeting, which was carried.

Dr. Thompson then introduced a resolution expressing the thanks of the association to the Mayor and the members of the town council for their courtesy in extending to them the invitation to meet here, and for the reception accorded them, as well as the entertainment provided in the course of their visit, to the Officials of the American Cereal Company for their kindness in showing them through the immense cereal works, to Mr. Rogers, the engineer in charge of the Lift Lock for the pleasure of their visit to that wonderful work and to the Peterborough Medical Association for the trip provided around the Kawartha Lakes arranged for to-day. The resolution was enthusiastically adopted.

Dr. Oldwright then moved a vote of thanks to the retiring President for his work in connection with the Association during the year.

Mr. Bowlby, also moved a similar vote to the Secretary, Dr. Bryce, to whom he paid a high tribute for his untiring energy during the years in which he has held the office. He has given the Association very efficient service and it was with regret that his determination to retire from the office was learned. Dr. Oldwright followed with a vote of thanks to the press for the reports of the meetings given, which, after a few words of thanks from President-elect Lane closed the session and the Convention of Executive Health Officers of Ontario for 1903.

This morning at 8.30 the members of the Association left on the Grand Trunk for Lakefield where the steamer Empress was boarded and a trip embracing the chain of lakes was made. This pleasing trip was arranged by the members of the Peterborough Medical Association, many of whom accompanied the party. Hon. J. R. Stratton, Provincial Secretary, under whose charge the Provincial Board of Health is, was also one of the party.

That great chorus of 150 voices, of which Peterborough has such good reason to be proud, at the Rink in Cantata to-night. Reserve your seats without delay.

INDIANS ON THE YUKON.

They Submit to Starvation With Resignation—They Are Also Said to Be Good-Natured and Harmless.

The Indians on the Yukon are good-natured and harmless, says a writer in Forest and Stream. In many ways they remind one of the Southern negro. They sing "My Girl's a High-Born Lady" and all the latest music hall airs. It is said that the British drum beat sounds around the world, but nowadays popular songs do the same thing, and in a very much more thorough way. At Guam, in the Ladrones, the newspapers tell us the natives sing "Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-aye," and this air is often heard along the Yukon. No doubt it has penetrated to Timbuctoo and the sacred city of Thibet. Judging from the Yukon, native music seems to be dying out. The catchy airs of the music hall are supplying a world of music. The Indians have very keen ears, though their voices can hardly be called melodious. Some of them will catch an air after hearing it once, and reproduce it correctly by humming or on the mouth-organ. I never heard an Indian whistle or sing at the full extent of his lungs, though very likely they do both.

Give an Indian a mouth-organ, "juice harp," as Huckleberry Finn's negro had it, or an accordion, and you will insure his happiness, no matter if he is cold or starving. The Indian is as yet ignorant of the banjo, but when he is once introduced to it I think it will be his favorite instrument, as it is with his sable brother. It must be borne in mind that I am speaking of the interior Indians. The coast Indians are a very different breed. They are fighters and quarrelsome, robbing the white man by exorbitant packing charges now that they have learned it isn't wise to do the thing by force of arms. It was these Indians who, by right of their possession of the passes, made the interior an unknown country for so long to the white man. Up to a very recent date they effectually monopolized the trade of the Yukon. They even checkmated the Hudson Bay Company when it attempted to gain an entrance into the country from the east, capturing and burning the post established at Fort Selkirk in 1852. These Indians are powerfully built, and a twelve-year-old girl will trudge along with as heavy a pack as the average white man can carry, while their skookum packers carry as much as a horse.

Indians are not very particular about the condition of their food, and will dispose of some pretty rank messes, but one thing they will not eat is wolf. More surprising still, if true, is the reported fact that Indian dogs will not eat wolf. These dogs rob white men's caches, tearing open sacks and gorging on raw flour and oatmeal, and nothing from soap to sulphur matches is safe from their depredations. Wanting to dispose of the carcasses of the wolves we killed below Selkirk, I asked the Indians if they could use them. They said no. I suggested feeding to the dogs, and they shook their heads again. "Dog no muck muck wolf," they said. "Todder way, wolf muck muck dog."

When the time comes for starving, the Indian takes it as a matter of fact and contentedly. Only once in a while is there a weak-livered one who cries and says: "Muck muck all gone. 'Fraid poor Indian die." They peel the bark from pine and even popple trees and eat the softer inner portion. The pine bark is full of resin and nasty stuff, and there is certainly no nutriment in it. It serves, however, to fill the stomach and lessen the gnawing at the inwards. One can travel for miles along the Yukon and never be out of sight of peeled trees, marked with the characteristic arrow-shaped blaze. The fact signifies the frequency of periods of starvation, for there are only a few hundred Indians in all on the whole length of the upper river.

A Typical Dawson City.

A Dawson City paper says: Corporal Bell of the N.W.M.P., who lately returned from the outside, tells some amusing stories of the ideas entertained by people in the east of the Klondike and conditions as they obtain here.

At the Lucas House in Toronto, where Mr. Bell registered from Dawson, he was importuned with innumerable questions, for example, one fellow said:

"Woally, my dear fellow, I am pleased to meet you, doncherknow, for I wish to ask you a question, doncherknow. I have been told that the Yukon River is all the way from twenty to fifty feet deep, and that the water freezes solid every winter; that the fish freeze up in the ice and that carving fish out of the ice is a favorite pastime with you people, also, that when the ice thaws in the following spring the bloomin' fish not mined in the winter begin to wriggle, doncherknow. Now, dew tell."

The Dawson corporal was just recovering his breath to inform the new arrival from across the pond that he had received only straight tips regarding the habits of the Yukon in winter, when a freshly arrived Australian chipped in with:

"But blimo me, they say that no matter how thick the ice is in the fall the bloomy worms eat it all up before spring. Taik this bit of paper and a pencil and draw me the outline of a bloomin' ice worm, for I am wild to see what the critter looks like."

Bell explained that he had the picture of a families reunion of ice worms in his Saratoga over at another hotel and told the crowd to call the following afternoon to see it. They were delighted with the invitation, but the wily corporal left the city on an early train next morning.

Crowd Sides With Assassins.

Belgrade, Sept. 11.—A mob made a great demonstration last night against the newspapers which have defended the army officers recently arrested. The crowd attempted to proceed to the Turkish Legation, but was dispersed by the police. Many persons were slightly injured.

Two Bodies Found.

St. Thomas, Sept. 11.—Two bodies were washed up on the beach at Port Stanley yesterday. They were badly decomposed, and identification was impossible. It is supposed they belonged to some United States vessel's crew and were victims of a wreck.

P. T. Barnum.

Mr. Barnum, the great circus king, said: The only way for any business man to get along is to advertise his business. He doesn't recommend copying; No 1. He says paint your name and business in the most prominent place and do not stop at that, but paint it as many times as you can find conspicuous place. Now pictorial signs as flashy as the artist can produce is the best ways and means. The great show man said don't try to please your next door neighbor. He remarks, "I have often heard it said, 'Mr Smith has a sign and it is like so and so; I think I will have one the same.' Now that is the greatest mistake a business man ever made. Be original always.'" Get Fred Cook to paint your signs to suit your business, as he is original with his way of advertising. He doesn't copy nor does he intend to, and that is why Cook does the sign trade of the town. He is always ready to submit a design and always guarantees not to disapoint you. Just ring up 'phone 119 and order your exhibition signs.

Have You Criminal Eyes?

A Russian savant lays claim to a discovery for detecting criminals. According to M Karloff, you can tell a criminal by the color of his eye. Murderers and thieves have maroon or reddish brown eyes, tramps light blue, and so forth. M Karloff has classified eyes into families and has drawn up rules which he declares to be infallible. Honest folk have dark grey or blue eyes.

Having bought out the business and stock of the Singer Supply Co., on the understanding that they were leaving for North Bay, I have had another lucky chance to pick up a large consignment of still better bargains. By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

GALE WAS TERRIFIC

The British Isles and Their Coast Swept by Deadly Storm.

THE LOSS OF LIFE LARGE.

Communication With the Outside World Seriously Interrupted — New Breakwater at Dover Destroyed—Lloyds Reports Large List of Casualties to Ships—Lightship Adrift Off Goodwin Sands.

London, Sept. 12.—From all parts of the country come reports of destruction on land and sea by the terrific gale. The wind has now abated, but telegraphic or other communication with the outside world is only possible after much delay. In some cases the lines are entirely down. The suburbs of the metropolis are littered with trees and branches, which have been blown down.

The breakwater of the new harbor in course of construction at Dover has been entirely swept away, involving a loss of many thousands of pounds sterling. The channel steamers from France arrived late yesterday morning after perilous riding out in the storm for six or seven hours. Many lifeboat rescues were made, and several fatalities and many accidents were recorded. Much wreckage is being washed up all around the coasts.

From Dungeness it is reported that a Kotches crew numbering eight men were all drowned. At South Sea several bodies have been washed up. Several yachts there got adrift and were wrecked on the beach. A lifeboat has gone to the assistance of a barge, which is in distress off Weymouth, and it is feared that a schooner yacht has been lost with all hands.

Poole, Whitetable and Portsmouth all report wrecks and fatalities. A derelict yacht has been towed into Portsmouth. The fate of her crew is unknown. Much damage has been done at Bath and Hastings. The parade at the latter place has been partly washed away. A vessel is in distress off the Goodwin Sands where the Lightship is adrift. The lifeboats have been busy along all parts of the coast. The hop crops have all suffered great damage.

While the details of the havoc wrought by the great storm which raged over the British Isles Thursday are necessarily incomplete, the reports coming in from all parts of the United Kingdom show that the devastation was general, and it is feared that the loss of life is much greater than was at first supposed. Lloyds already report over fifty serious casualties to shipping. A great number of minor craft is believed to have been lost, and the bodies washing ashore continue to swell the terrible list of fatalities.

Despatches from France and Germany indicate that widespread damage has been caused by the storm on sea and land. Telephone communication between London and Paris has not yet been restored, and there is much delay in telegraphic despatches owing to the damage to the continental land lines. Telephonic and telegraphic communication in England is badly demoralized.

Bathing Houses Swept Away.

Paris, Sept. 12.—Reports from Havre, Cherbourg and Dieppe show that the heavy gales along the coast caused widespread damage. Casinos and hundreds of bathing houses at the summer resorts were swept away. Telegraphic communication with London and throughout France was interrupted.

BACK TO FORMER HOME.

French-Canadians of New England States Find Homes There.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—L. O. Armstrong, colonization agent of the C. P. R., has completed his report for the six months ended in July. It shows the number of parties of immigrants going from Quebec and the Eastern States into New Ontario and the northern portion of Quebec. During the six months covered by the report 461 parties, representing about 7,000 persons, entered the new country from Eastern Canada and the United States. Most of them went to the Labelle district in Quebec and to points between Mattawa and Sault Ste. Marie on the Soo branch. For the most part they are French-Canadians, and many of them have come from Lowell, Lynn, Haverhill, Brockton, Worcester, Boston, Springfield and other cities in Massachusetts and the other Eastern States.

Threaten Grand Trunk Tie-Up.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—At a secret meeting of employes of the Grand Trunk a complete tie-up of the road was decided on unless their demands for an increase of wages and other concessions were granted within ten days. Favoritism of British over United States employes, compulsory work on Sundays and holidays without any pay are two of the more important complaints.

$5,000 in Prizes.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Lieut.-Col. Donaldson, Secretary-treasurer of the Dominion of Canada Artillery Association, is busy paying off the prizes won this year. The total amount paid in prizes last year was $3,785. This year the list has been increased to nearly $5,000.

Three More Protests.

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—Three more election petitions have been filed at the Court House against Hon. Clifford Sifton, the member-elect for St. Boniface, J. N. Lecompte, for Assiniboia, and Valentine Winkler, member-elect for Whitehead.

DID THEY SMUGGLE?

British Clothing and Woollen Firms Involved.

THE BRITISH ARE INDIGNANT

Reflections on Lord Alverstone, Chairman of Alaskan Boundary Commission, Are Warmly Resented—A Reuter Despatch the Subject of Caustic Comment—Canadian Members of Commission Indignant.

London, Sept. 12.—Anent Reuter's information supplied from a well informed Canadian source, British official circles are indignant that such statements should have been made, particularly so on the eve of the opening of the Alaskan arbitration proceedings. It is held that not even the intense feeling aroused in the Dominion on the question can justify such groundless accusations. "They are unwarrantable reflections," said one official, "on the integrity of Lord Alverstone, because they insinuate he has received, or will receive, instructions to find for the United States, no matter what opinion he might hold after hearing all the arguments."

It is certain that Reuter's well-informed Canadian source is not a member of the Commission or an official at present in London representing Canada, as they, as well as British official circles, are indignant at such a statement.

CHARGES OF SMUGGLING.

British Clothing and Woolen Firms Are Involved in the Charges.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

It is reported here that one of the United States custom officials at Montreal stated that his department will get indictments against a number of British woollen manufacturers of clothing and dealers for smuggling clothing through Canada. The London Chamber of Commerce denies any knowledge of cases of smuggling. The leading firms of woollen exporters also profess ignorance of the matter.

The Daily Express, under the heading of Market Gossip, suggests that the Stock Exchange should have a section devoted to Canadian stock descriptions of all sorts.

Wealth of the Colonies.

Sir Robert Giffin, reading a paper before the British Association on the wealth of the Empire, and how it should be used, gave Canada's aggregate income as two hundred and seventy million pounds, and that of Australia as two hundred, and ten millions. Canada's capital or wealth are one billion, three hundred million; Australiasia one hundred million.

Discussing the contributions to the Victoria memorial by the Australia Parliament a labor leader remarked: "Why should we build useless heaps of brick and stone," was greeted with loud cheers.

A Women's Paper.

The Daily Mail announces a new paper to be called The Daily Mirror, to be devoted to women.

A Liverpool report says that the White Star, Dominion and American lines will shortly cease to exist as distinct organizations, and the business of the two latter will be taken over by the White Star.

DANGER OF SEPARATION.

London Journalist Comments on Boer War Commission's Report.

London, Sept. 12.—(C.A.P.)—An article by Frederick Greenwood in The Monitor on Monday's Cabinet meeting says that Chamberlain cannot launch his "No preference, no Empire" campaign without extending the scandal of the army commissioners' report, for his theme must be, as he has said, the tremendous danger of seperation. The danger is not far off. Chamberlain has been convinced of this by the refusal of the colonies to come within the goverance of the War Office and Foreign Office, or even to enter partnership with them.

The report justifies the colonial policy of refusal in every part of every page. For its readers in Canada and Australia that amazing book of revelations might properly be entitled "A Warning Voice from Westminster."

THE SLAP AT CANADA.

Due to Emigration Agent's Excess of Zeal in Work.

Manchester, Sept. 12.—(C.A.P.)—The London correspondent of The Courier says there is a growing feeling on the question of British emigration, especially with regard to the continuous exodus to Canada. It is imperative that the actual condition of the labor market there be known here. The Canadian emigration officials act conscientiously enough, but it is unfortunate that they cannot control the so-called emigration agencies. It may be that even the authorized agents of the Dominion have displayed excessive zeal. At any rate the situation is extremely unsatisfactory and calls for strict investigation.

Sir Edmund's Generosity.

London, Sept 12.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Barton of Australia suggests that Australia contribute $25,000 to the Victoria memorial now in course of erection in London.

New Canadian Service.

London, Sept. 12.—(C.A.P.)—The Canadian Pacific fortnightly service between Antwerp and Canada will commence in October.

HUGH MANN KILLED

Brother of Mr. D. D. Mann of the Canadian Northern Railway.

BY INVENTION OF HIS OWN.

Lost His Footing While Setting His Massive Track-Laying Machine on the C.N.R. Tracks, West of Erwood, Man., and He Was Crushed So Badly That He Died Shortly Afterwards.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 12.—Hugh Mann, a well-known railway contractor, and a brother of D. D. Mann, vice-president of the Canadian Northern road, was killed on the C. N.R., west of Erwood, yesterday, where he was inspecting the work of a track-laying machine, of which he was the inventor. Details as to the cause of death are lacking. Deceased was about 45 years of age, and very popular with all railroaders here.

A later despatch says: The massive machine went out of order, and while endeavoring to set it to rights, he lost his footing and was crushed so badly that death resulted. He was taken to the station at Erwood, where he died. For years Mr. Mann has been perfecting this machine, which was of his own invention, and frequently during this time he had narrow escapes from death.

M'ALPINE'S IDENTITY.

Brother of Pastor of Baptist Church in Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, Sept. 12.—The unknown man killed in the Northern Pacific yards at Grand Forks, N.D., on Wednesday, with a letter addressed to J. P. McAlpine, Toronto, is a brother of Rev. J. R. McAlpine pastor of Knox Church here. Knowing that his brother was at Grand Forks temporarily, Mr. McAlpine telegraphed for further information, and his surmises as to the identity of the man were verified. Deceased was an only brother and has a wife (nee McCrae, of Durham), living in Toronto, who received a letter from him last Monday conveying the intelligence that he was well. The unfortunate man was engaged in railroading and when found his head had been severed by the wheels of a freight car.

Brakeman Fatally Injured.

Hamilton, Sept. 12.—Thomas Hughson, a T. H. & B. brakeman, was fatally injured last evening, so the doctors believe. While setting a brake on a car in the company's yard, near Walnut street, he slipped and fell from the top of a car, breaking his neck. He is a married man, 35 years of age.

Fork Broke His Neck.

Watford, Sept. 12.—A terrible accident occurred at a threshing on the farm of J. Benstead, 10th concession of Brooke, at noon yesterday, whereby Walter G. Moore, a neighbor and well-known farmer, met his death. Edward Boulby was engaged in cleaning the sieves at the rear of the separator when the handle of his fork caught in the fan of the blower, driving it with terrific force over his shoulder, one of the prongs striking Moore in the chin, penetrating his throat. The force of the blow broke his neck and death was instantaneous. Moore was a married man and leaves a widow and three young daughters.

Drowned in a Cistern.

Ingersoll, Sept. 12.—Donald, the 3-year-old son of Daniel Robertson, was drowned in a cistern at the rear of the family home yesterday morning.

Found in Niagara River.

Niagara Falls, Sept. 12.—Early yesterday morning the body of a woman was taken from the Niagara River below the upper steel-arch bridge. Late in the afternoon the body was identified as that of Mrs. Chester C. McClure, of No. 87 Plymouth avenue, Buffalo, who threw herself over the Horseshoe Falls a week ago.

WILKIE CASE DECIDED.

Commission of General Assembly of Presbyterian Church Hands Out Report.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Last night the Commission of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, which has been in session since Wednesday morning considering the case of Dr. Wilkie and the Central Indian Mission, handed out its report. The Commission, without attempting to apportion the exact measure of blame for the exact condition of affairs, decides that under existing circumstances Dr. Wilkie cannot with advantage resume his former work in Central India. The Commission finds there is no evidence affecting the character of Dr. Wilkie as addicted to the use of noxious drugs and accepts his declaration to the contrary without reserve. It recommends that strenuous efforts be made by the Foreign Mission Committee to secure for Dr. Wilkie some suitable field in connection with foreign missionary work.

Demonstration For Mays.

Hamilton, Sept. 12.—The inquest on the death of Osborne Taylor, who was fatally injured last Monday night in a wrestling bout, was opened last night, but will not be completed until Monday night. Harry Mays, the young man who is lying in jail, charged with inflicting the injuries which caused Taylor's death, was brought up, but was guarded by an officer. All the evidence taken last night indicated that it was a pure accident. Sympathy is so strong for the prisoner that there was a demonstration in his honor. After he told his story, Crown Attorney Crerar and J. W. Nesbitt, K. C., who appeared for the Taylor family, said they would do everything in their power to get him out on bail this morning.

Potatoes Rotting.

Ft. Thomas, Sept. 11.—Farmers and gardeners around this locality report that a blight has again visited the potato fields, and that the tubers are rooting in the ground. The real cause of this is, no doubt, the excessive rains which have fallen during the past month.

Poachers Watched.

St. John's, N. F., Sept. 12.—The Canadian Government steamer Neptune, bound for Hudson Bay, where it will winter, reached Pack's Harbor, Labrador, on Aug. 28, and expects to arrive at its destination, Chesterfield Inlet, about Sept. 20. One of the chief purposes of her visit there is to prevent American whalers from fishing in that bay in future.

It's Their Loss.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The Department of the Interior has received word from Dr. Bell, of Vienna, that the invitation of Canada to the International Congress of Geologists to meet in this country has been refused and the invitation of Mexico accepted.

A Danger Period Through Which Every Woman Must Pass.

Owing to modern methods of living, not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. At this period a woman indicates a tendency towards obesity or tumorous growths.

Those dreadful hot flashes, sending the blood surging to the heart until it seems ready to burst, and the faint feeling that follows, sometimes with chills, as if the heart were going to stop forever, are only a few of the symptoms of a dangerous nervous trouble. The nerves are crying out for assistance. The cry should be heeded in time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life, and all women who use it pass through this trying period with comfort and safety.

TWO COLUMNS OF PROOF.

"DEAR MRS PINKHAM:—I was sick and nothing seemed to do me any good until I began taking Mrs. Pinkham's medicine.

"It was Change of Life with me and falling of the womb. I had severe pains all through my body. I had a terrible cough and people thought I had consumption.

"I took six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and two of Blood Purifier, and two boxes Liver Pills, and I am now stouter than I have been for a long time. I can do all my work now, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"If any one wishes to write me, to verify these statements, I will gladly answer their letters."

MRS. CLARA CHEZEM, Jewett, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For seven years I had been suffering, was passing through the Change of Life, and my womb had fallen; menses were so profuse that at times I was obliged to lie on my back for six weeks at a time, could not raise my head from pillow. I had been treated by several physicians, but got no relief.

"I was advised by friends to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and after taking it six weeks I was able to be around all the time and do my housework. I know your medicine saved my life and I cannot praise it enough."

MRS. LIZZIE ROECAP,
519 Smith St., Millville, N.J.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have worked hard all my life, and when the Change of Life came I flowed very badly for weeks at a time. I would stop for a day or two, then start again. I went to see a doctor and went through an examination, and spent two hundred dollars for medicine and doctor's bills, but I did not get the relief I expected.

"At that time I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and began its use. I have found it to be just what I needed.

"I wish every woman suffering from female trouble would try it. I recommend it to all my friends."

MRS. WM. DAILY, Millbank, S.D.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it a duty I owe you and every suffering woman in the land to tell of the wonderful results I have found in using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills.

"Passing through the Change of Life, some of the physicians consulted said nothing but an operation would save me. But your medicine alone cured me."—MRS. MAGNOLIA DEAN,

C. P. R. AND DOMINION PROGRESS.

The continuous growth of the Canadian Pacific Railway as revealed by the report just issued for the last fiscal year, is a most substantial and satisfactory assurance of the progress and prosperity of the Dominion in agriculture, manufacture and commerce.

The Canadian Pacific, although a private enterprise, is so essentially national in its character, scope and operations, that it reflects, probably more than any other single institution, the condition of Canada as a whole.

It is to the gross earnings that we turn to touch the pulse of the nation's prosperity, for the net earnings are affected by increases in working expenses and the growing expenses and the growing pay rolls, all of which contribute to that prosperity, while diminishing the actual profits of the company.

The gross earnings reached the splendid total of $43,957,373—a more marked advance than has been shown by any previous year of the company's operation The working expenses have gone up with a leap, too, but this is the inevitable result of expansion and of increased remuneration, and increased cost of material, fuel and nearly all the incidentals to railway operation. They now reach the aggregate of $28,120,527.

But if the gross revenue and working expenses have grown, so too have the net earnings, which reach the substantial total of $15,836,815, and enables the company to pay the biggest dividend in its history, with well-founded hopes that the happy experience will not be a solitary one, as the surplus of nearly four million dollars attests.

Thus have faith and confidence in Canada's possibilities been justified, and we see each and every increase of transportation facilities followed by the advance of settlement and the enlargement of the volume of traffic.

The company is not content with providing merely for the present but is looking with a steady eye to the future. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy declares that it is proposed to continue the policy of increasing the rolling stock equipment as rapidly as circumstances will permit, until the company is well ahead of its immediate requirements.

Another feature of interest is the extent of the land sales and the amount of revenue they are bringing in The sales aggregated no less than 2,639,617 acres, or 16,497 farms of a quarter section each. The amount of capital produced by the sales was $9,695,673, an average of $3.67 per acre, all of which goes towards the retirement of land grant bonds. But what splendid evidence these figures are to the extent and character of the settlement that is in progress! When it is borne in mind that the land sales of the Canadian Pacific represent after all only a fraction of the settlement of the Northwest, it is not difficult to realize how thoroughly the possipilities of the West are ppreciated.—Ottawa Free Press.

HANDLING THE APPLE CROP.

Some Excellent Advice Given by the Department of Education.

Some timely and valuable advice on the selling, pickling and grading of apples is given by Mr. W. A. McKinnon, chief of the Fruit Division, Ottawa. Everyone interested in the growing and marketing of apples should write for a copy of Mr. MacKinnon's bulletin on the "Export Apple Trade."

SELLING THE CROP.

When the grower is not also an exporter he may sell the apples in one of two ways, either at so much a barrel or at a lump sum for the entire orchard. As buyers often make their contracts long before picking time, either method involves consideration of the probable market price during fall and winter, which will be regulated by the total supply and demand, influenced too by changes in the quality of the crop. When to this uncertainty we add the difficulty of estimating months in advance the total yield of an orchard, subject to all changes of weather, to drought, hail and wind storms, the unbusiness-like character of bargaining by the lump is apparent. Whichever party gains an undue advantage, the trade suffers from this as from any other kind of gambling. The system was strongly condemned by the National Apple Shippers' Association and our Canadian buyers describe it as an unmixed evil. Surely no more need be said to induce both buyers and sellers to abandon such guesswork and to buy and sell by fixed standards of measure.

PICKING.

All apples should be carefully picked by hand with the stems on and without breaking the skin or bruising the fruit in any way.

As a general rule it is advisable for growers to harvest and pack their own fruit, whether they eventually sell it on the premises or ship to foreign markets. In either case it is a great advantage to the seller to know exactly the quality and variety of the fruit in every package. It is a still greater advantage to have each variety picked at just the proper time. No wholesale buyer is able to have his men arrive at each orchard just when the apples are ready. The result is that every season a great many orchards throughout Canada are picked either too early or too late. Fruit picked too early may keep but it is apt to become tough and tasteless; if picked too late it will not keep, as the process of decay has already begun.

TIME TO PICK.

Tender varieties should not be allowed to ripen on the trees or they will not carry well. Certain others, sometimes styled "winter varieties," such as the Baldwin and Spy, will gain colour and flavour if left on the trees as long as the frost will allow, besides being less liable to spot and mould during storage. It will pay the farmer well to pick his own fruit and see that this first step in marketing entails no needless waste.

Moreover all varieties of apples are not ready for picking at the same time even if destined for the same market; and some early varieties should have more than one picking to get all the fruit at the proper stage of maturity. Only the grower is in a position to watch his orchard and harvest the crop to the best advantage, and it is the grower who loses when he entrusts this task to another for buyers are certain to allow for shrinkage from this cause. Another loss to the grower arises from carelessness of hired help, who often injure trees by breaking limbs and fruit spurs.

REMOVAL OF DROPS.

Before any fruit is taken from the trees, every apple, good, bad and indifferent should be cleared off the ground and carried away, to be used for feeding or for any other purpose for which they may be fit, but not for export. Similarly, apples which drop during the picking process should be kept by themselves. We must give the fruit a fair chance from the start; wormy, rotten or otherwise diseased apples spread contagion, and bruised or defective fruit will not pay for labour, heavy freight charges and commission.

LADDERS AND BASKETS.

Step-ladders may be used for getting at the lower limbs, and long point-top ladders for the upper branches. The baskets should be small enough to allow the apples to be turned out with a gentle sliding motion. In picking, care should be taken to avoid breaking off the fruit spurs, which contain the promise of next year's crop.

GRADING

Grading always pays, whether the crop be light or heavy. When the wormy bruised, mis-shapen and spotted apples have been removed, the following qualities should be apparent in the higher grades: (1) Uniformity in size; (2) uniformity in colour; (3) freedom from defects.

Two grades will usually be found sufficient for export, and both of these should be practically free from insect or other injuries, the second being inferior to the first only in point of size and colour. All the apples in one grade cannot be uniform in size, but the apples in a single package should be so, for the fruit will be viewed and sold by the package.

It may well happen that a third grade, exclusive of culls, will be found to consist of fair marketable fruit, which the grower feels disposed to export. But this grade, lacking any special features of excellence and showing a greater percentage of waste often eats into the profit earned by the finer fruit, besides reducing the general reputation of the shipper's brand. Much better average results are likely to be obtained in local markets or from evaporators

The merits of mechanical graders placed on the market from time to time should be carefully investigated by all whose shipments are large. A really good and rapid grader will effect a great saving in time and money, and produce a wonderful appearance of the fruit when each size is placed in packages by itself

The expert women who grade French fruit for market perform the operation without mechanical aid. A few days' practice with measuring rings is sufficient to train the eye so that fruit is accurately graded within a quarter of an inch. Many who are attempting to grade by hand will find that the use of a piece of shingle or other light wood, in which holes are cut measuring two, and a quarter, two and three-quarters, three and three and one-half inches respectively will be of great assistance in this work. By testing an apple now and again the packer will soon become expert in determining the size without the use of the testing board.

TRYING TO AVERT WAR.

Increasing Terrible Tales of Atrocities Committed by Turks Reach London Ears—103 Bulgarians Killed.

London, Sept. 12.—The powers are evidently still exerting pressure, both at Constantinople and Sofia to avert a Turco-Bulgarian war, apparently with some temporary success; but, meantime, increasingly terrible tales of atrocities committed in Macedonia shows the situation is daily becoming aggravated.

"Yes," answered Mr. Brimkin, "but my devotion has taken a more practical form. Every month I pay the meat bill."

Dreaded Results of Kidney Disease.

DR. CHASE'S Kidney-Liver Pills.

When you think of the pain and suffering which accompany backache, rheumatism, lumbago, stone in the kidneys and bladder; when you think of the dreadful fatality of Bright's disease, dropsy, diabetes and apoplexy, you may well wonder why people neglect to keep the kidneys in perfect order, for all these ailments are the direct result of deranged kidneys.

Once the kidneys fail to filter from the blood the impure and poisonous waste matter there is trouble of a painful and dangerous nature. Among the first symptoms are backache, weak, lame back, pains in the legs and sides, deposits in the urine, impaired digestion, loss of flesh, energy and ambition, stiffness and soreness in the joints and feelings of weariness and lassitude.

Prevention is always better than cure, and hence the advisability of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on the very first indication of such derangement Whether to prevent or cure, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most effective treatment you can obtain, for besides their direct and specific action on the kidneys, they keep the bowels regular and the liver active, and hence purify the system and remove the cause of disease.

This medicine has long since proven its right to first place as a cure for the complicated and serious derangements of the filtering and excretory organs It has the largest sale and is endorsed by more people than any similar treatment. You can depend on it absolutely to bring prompt relief and lasting cure. In view of these facts it is a waste of time and money and a risk to life itself to trifle with new and untried remedies when Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are at hand One pill a dose, 25c a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 5

The exports of domestic produce aggregated $39,855,302 an increase of $3,108,448. For the month of August only there was a gain of $4,487,881 in imports, and of $2,661,814 in exports.

Never Knew the Luxury of a Mother's Breast.

Mr. H. Lovelock, Bellevue Ave., Toronto, Ont., for the benefit of infants who cannot be nursed at the breast, writes as follows:—"I desire to substantiate what is said about Lactated Food. Our little baby is one year old, and if ever a child looked the picture of health and contentment, our dear little pet girl does; and she owes it all to your Lactated Food. She has never known the luxury of a mother's breast. For the first three weeks of her existence we were at a loss to know what to give her, as she could keep nothing on her stomach. A kind friend suggested your food, and from that time to the present, we have constantly used it, and desire to thank you for your life-giving food. I cannot speak too highly of it." At all drug stores.

Sarah's Gloves.

A family in the south had a coal black cook named Sarah, whose husband was suddenly killed in a quarry accident. For the time being her grief was allayed by the preparations for an elaborate funeral, and on the day of this event, so dear to negroes who desire to show their importance, she appeared before her mistress in deepest black, but on her hands were a pair of white gloves, such as soldiers wear at dress parade and guard mount.

"Why, aunty," exclaimed her mistress, "what made you get white gloves?"

Sarah drew herself up indignantly and said in the chilliest tones, "Don't you suppose I wants dem niggahs to see dat I'se got on gloves?"

A Busy Day.

"Ebenezer, dear," cried the wife of the kindly old capitalist as he slouched heavily homeward in the dusk, with his toil worn hands begrimed with gold dust and his back bowed by heavy and laborious calculation, "hurry now and water the stock and then come in, dear, and we'll sit down cosily and cut coupons."

"And glad I will be to jest," sighed he. "I've been shearing lambs all day. Dum this life! Dodgast it anyway! I got half a notion to sell out and move away, I'm that tired out."

Ah, life is a hard problem.

Jones—No, thank you. I'll stay at home. When I go anywhere I want a change.—Wasp.

ONE OF THE PROOFS

"I claim Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have been instrumental in taking me from the brink of the grave and restoring me to comparative good health."

That is the statement of Jackson Johnson, of Norham, Ont. It is one of the proofs that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure Dyspepsia in its worst stage. Your indigestion may not be as bad as that. It may be only starting. But if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure the worst stages of this insidious disease, will it not cure yours? and is it not better to cure it now than to wait till it grows worse, as it surely will? Listen to the rest of Mr. Johnson's experience:—'My case was one of Chronic Dyspepsia. I had been doctoring for it for nearly twenty years. About two years ago I was taken with Diarrhoea which became chronic and continued for about nine months, despite all I could do for it. I continued to grow weaker, and was at last confined to my bed for a time. I was at length persuaded to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. From the first they relieved me and I continued to use them, till now I am in a position to heartily recommend them to all suffers from Dyspepsia."

Toronto, Sept. 11.—The Provincial Justices of the Peace held a convention yesterday at the Parliament Buildings and discussed grievances under which they complain they are laboring. They also passed a resolution to the effect that parties bringing actions against magistrates should be compelled to furnish security for costs. A deputation waited on the Attorney-General yesterday afternoon and presented their requests, which will receive the consideration of the Government.

THE TREADGOLD COMMISSION

Conservatives Bring Up the Subject in Parliament—The Premier's Reply—The Redistribution Bill.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The Yukon is a never failing spring from which flows a stream of Opposition eloquence that upon slight provocation may be depended upon to engage the attention of the House for a few hours when party emergency demands. Yesterday the Opposition were looking forward to the return of their leader on Monday, and a desire to mark time appeared to prevail. Mr. Monk brought to the attention of the House certain newspaper articles which appeared in a Dawson City newspaper, criticizing Mr. Justice Britton's method of conducting the inquiry into the Treadgold concession. He demanded an extension of power granted the Commission, and Dr. Sproule opposed the appointment of Judical Commissioners generally.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier regretted that the leader of the Opposition for the time being had allowed himself to be made the medium through which scurrilous articles, which he had not deemed worthy of notice, were placed upon the records of the House. Hon. James Sutherland made the pertinent suggestion that too much attention was being paid to alien agitators, who were anxious to secure for themselves a concession which had been granted to a British subject. Rev Dr. Douglas of East Assiniboia quoted the despatch in The Globe announcing that the C. P. R. and Canadian Northern had joined hands to increase the elevator rates, as another argument for more effective control of the railway companies.

In committee on the redistribution bill nine of the fifty-three Ontario constituencies, which stood over from the previous day were disposed of. The chief bone of contention was the County of Brant, which was adopted as recommended by the committee.

How Iron-ox Tablets Cured a Well-Known Guelph Man of Catarrh of the Stomach.

The Guelph Waterproof Clothing Co., Guelph, Ont.

December 12, 1902.

Through your Iron-ox Tablets I have received a great blessing. For years I was troubled with my stomach. I doctored with several good doctors and they told me I had dyspepsia, but I was sure it was not that which ailed me. At last I found out it was catarrh of the stomach, and they told me I could not be cured. It got so bad at last that my stomach had ulcers, and I suffered something awful. Being a commercial traveler I received a box of your Iron-ox Tablets free last winter. I took them right along and I noticed, when away from home and staying at hotels, eating different food, it did not hurt me as it always did before; so when that box was empty I bought two more and have since had two more, and I must say my stomach is fully restored to its old-time work. I never leave home without a box of Iron-ox Tablets with me, as I believe them to be the best thing for the stomach ever made. I have recommended them to a very great number of people. As I travel from one end of the country to the other I am well known. I am a member of the above firm and do the travelling for them, and everyone that knows how I suffered with my stomach knows the difference now. I would have written sooner, but waited to make sure it was lasting, and I feel sure it is. I must say it is the best remedy I have ever used, and I would not be without it. Hoping your Iron-ox may cure many as it has me, I am yours sincerely,

W. F. PAYNE.

PRIDAY AT THE FAIR.

90,000 Present at Dominion Exhibition—Ontario Cabinet Ministers at Directors' Luncheon—Dairy Competition Prizes.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—Society Day attracted about 20,000 people to the Exhibition. This was a considerable falling off, but the day was ideal and those who did go were afforded an excellent opportunity of seeing the exhibits without the crush that has characterized the sight-seeing during the previous two weeks.

To-day some of the animals are away to the London and Ottawa shows, the directors making special provision for allowing the exhibitors to remove their stock, but any desiring to remain were invited to do so.

The Directors' Luncheon.

Premier Ross, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Hon. John Dryden, Sir Horace Tozer and Mr. De Forrest of "wireless" fame, were the star performers at the directors' luncheon. The speeches were very brief as the president desired to show the guests the parade of cattle and horses in the ring at 2 o'clock. Mr. Dryden said he had been born a farmer and had been trying to improve on the original product ever since. The Exhibition had shown excellent progress, but he desired to suggest three things for still greater improvement. Let it be as clean as possible; keep the educational idea forward; and continue to make necessary improvements. The greatest need of the association was a live stock pavilion, where the public would be afforded an opportunity of witnessing the judging in all kinds of weather.

President McNaught said the directors had the idea but lacked funds, and whenever the City Council or the Ontario Government would furnish the money the pavilion would be erected.

The Premier congratulated the president on the great success which has attended the Exhibition.

Mr. De Forrest was gratified at the co-operation he had met with in Canada, and foresaw the day when the wireless would compete with the land wires.

Sir Horace Tozer spoke of the great natural endowment of the Fair in the beauty of the site, and he heartily congratulated the directors upon their prosperity.

Parade of Live Stock.

At 2 o'clock the parade of the prize cattle took place in the main ring. It was the finest and largest show in the history of the Fair. The first prize herd led the parade, followed by the various classes, the herds leading, and then the individual prize animals. Then followed a mile of horses, extending twice around the ring.

Dairy Contest Awards.

The dairy building was the scene of the awards in the various butter-making contests yesterday. The free-for-all contest closed at 3 o'clock. There were but four competitors, and the winners were: First prize, W. B. Cockburn, Hamilton; second, Maud Parkinson, Jarvis. The non-professional class, open to families of farmers, resulted in the following winners: First, M. Stonehouse, Port Perry; second, Mabel Parkinson; third, Maud Parkinson; fourth, C. L. Rogers, Dorchester Station.

In each class the first prize was $40, the second $30, $20 and $10.

Head Massage Saves Hair.

"The hairbrush is responsible for much of the baldness that we see," a barber said. "It irritates the scalp. It destroys the little, delicate, tender follicles of hair that are trying their best to get on in the world."

"What would you substitute for the hairbrush—the comb?" a man asked.

"By no means. I'd substitute rubbing with the hands—massage. A little massage morning and evening, with a shampoo once a week, would keep the hair in excellent condition. It would encourage new hair to grow, whereas the vigorous brushing that is so common scares and kills all the feeble new hairs as soon as they sprout out. The brush and comb should only be used to part and arrange the hair—for about half a minute, that is, daily."

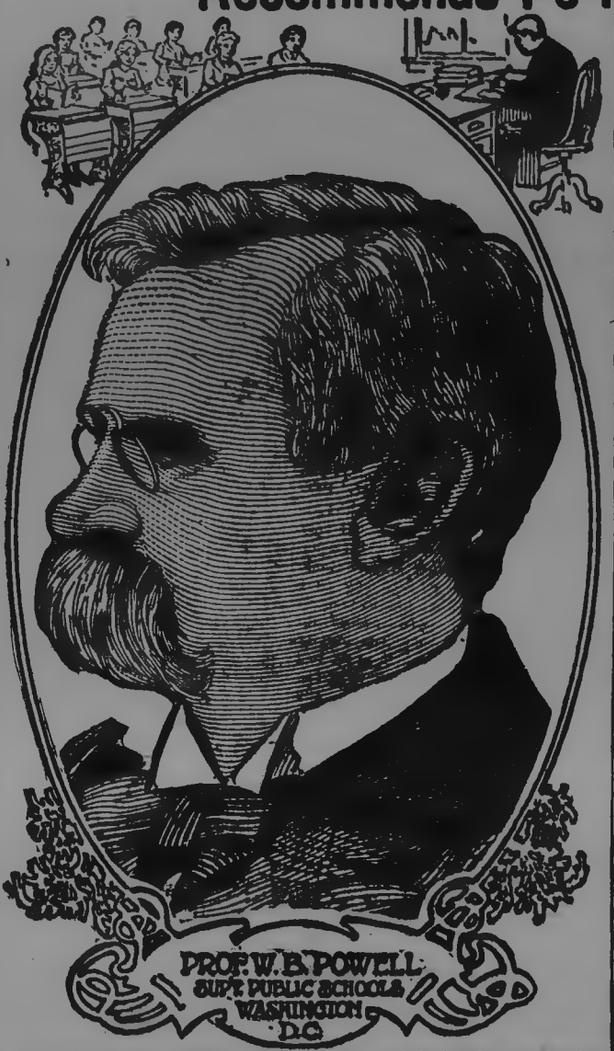
SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS FOR FIFTEEN YEARS.

Professor Powell, of Washington, D. C., Recommends Pe-ru-na.



Prof. W. B. Powell, of Washington, D.C., is one of the best known educators in the country. For fifteen years he has been Superintendent of the Public Schools of Washington, which is considered the best school system in the United States. Professor Powell is the author of a number of school books which are used throughout the United States.

This well known gentleman does not hesitate to recommend Peruna to his countless friends and acquaintances all over the United States. In a recent letter from 1410 N street, N. W., Washington, D.C., to Dr. Hartman, he says:

"Permaded by a friend I have used Peruna as a tonic, and I take pleasure in recommending your remedy. Peruna is indeed a good medicine and should be in every household."—W. B. POWELL.

SUCH straightforward evidence cannot be overlooked. What the common people say carries weight, but when a man of national prominence says "Peruna should be used in every household," it is a significant fact to the increasing prominence and undoubted efficacy of Peruna.

Peruna is of national fame as a catarrh remedy. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession. It makes diseased mucous membranes healthy, whether it is the mucous membrane lining the nose, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys or pelvic organs. It cures various diseases of all these organs, because two-thirds of the ills of mankind are due to catarrh. With healthy mucous membranes climatic diseases lose their terror, the system is enabled to throw off contagion, and health follows inevitably.

Mr. A. T. Wood, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes:

"For many years I have been a sufferer from catarrh, and have spent time and money with physicians and used many kinds of remedies which were 'guaranteed sure cures', but in every case it was money thrown away.

"I reaped no benefit whatever from them. In my seemingly vain search for relief I purchased a bottle of Peruna, having seen evidences in it wherever at the time. This was about one year ago, and I began to improve and was able to attend to my business without being constantly hampered by every kind of pain known to a human being. My hearing, which was almost entirely gone in one ear, gradually much better. The medicine not only seems to cure, but to prevent disease.

"This winter when every one was suffering from la grippe, I stood like a stone wall, absolutely proof against it. I am not a believer in 'patent medicines,' having found the majority of them fakes, but I do not hesitate to recommend Peruna as the best medicine for catarrh the world has ever seen. I keep a bottle of it at home constantly and shall continue to do so, because I believe it to be the best medicine on earth. I have many friends that I don't put a bottle of it in my grip."—A. T. WOOD.

Mr. Evan D. Rowen, Dodge City, Kas., Conductor on the A. T. & S. F. R. R., writes: "I have had catarrh of the stomach forseven years, and I began to think that I never was going to be cured. At the time I began taking Peruna I was unable to make more than two trips on the road a day, then not being able to keep anything on my stomach. I then weighed 175 pounds. I have been taking Peruna about four times and have never lost a day, and now weigh 195 pounds."—Evan D. Rowen.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

TELLING TREES' AGES.

Only Accurate Way Is Said to Be by Girth Measurement.

"The only accurate way to estimate a tree's age is by the measurement of its girth," said a botanist. "The counting of the rings of exogenous trees can only be applied to such as are cut down in their prime, for these trees, when they begin to die, cease to add their yearly rings. Girth measurement is the only safe guide to the age of trees.

"Hence all over the world botanists have now for some years been measuring trees of known and unknown age, compiling thus a volume of statistics that will become more and more valuable as it increases in size.

"The yew is the longest lived of trees. Three feet a century, our statistics show, is its normal growth. According to this rule, the Fortingal yew of Scotland, which was fifty-six feet in girth in 1769, must have lived over 1,800 years. The Tisbury yew, in Dorsetshire, is thirty-seven feet in girth and should be, therefore, 1,200 years old.

"There is a table of the age of oaks that differs from this. It is not a very satisfactory table, but it was compiled from trees of known age, and therefore it is statistically very valuable. According to it, a 40-year-old oak had a circumference of 8 feet; 83 years, 12 feet; 100 years, 18 feet; 200 years, 20 feet; 250 years, 27 feet; 800 years, 33 feet."

THE "ROSE MAIDEN" MUCH ENJOYED.

Second Evening of the Musical Festival.

A DECIDED MUSICAL TREAT.

Work of Chorus Especially Effective—Mr. J. D. A. Tripp in Excellent Piano Solos—57th Reg. Band Gave Selections.

The applause given by the thousand or more persons who last night listened to the Festival Chorus in its rendition of the "Rose Maiden," a light pleasing Cantata by Frederick Cowen, was not given from mere force of habit, but was an expression of genuine pleasure produced by the really excellent production of this beautiful piece of music. The new hockey rink in which the Festival has been held was last night almost filled by the most musicianly inclined of Peterborough's citizens, with a fair sprinkling from outside points, and it is safe to say that no event of the kind has ever been held that was more successful. Looking at it from the standpoint of the conductor, Mr. Wodell, must feel highly gratified at the results of the training given the members of the chorus. To have taken 100 voices and, in the short space of seven weeks, given them the necessary training to enable them to produce with such credit, the "Creation" oritorio, and the "Rose Maiden" is an accomplishment of which he may well be proud.

No better place than the rink could have been chosen for the production of these musical selections, and it was a genuine surprise as well as a pleasure to the audience on both evenings to find the accoustic properties of the building so perfect. The softest tones could be distinctly heard even at the extreme end of the building.

It will be casting no reflection upon the work of the chorus in the "Creation" to say that the programme last evening was the more enjoyable of the two. The class of music represented by the "Rose Maiden" is more popular with the majority of audiences, and certainly that which listened to its rendition last night showed genuine appreciation of the musical ability displayed by the home talent. The chortus parts in last night's production were heard to much better advantage than those of the "Creation," and it was much more evenly balanced. The addition of 40 voices from Omemee was a decided acquisition, and the evident weakness of the soprano section on the previous evening was entirely eliminated, and all parts were equally well sustained. They also showed greater confidence in themselves than on the previous night, and responded perfectly to the conductor's leading. The chorus was always held in complete control by Mr. Wodell, and it is a decided compliment to his ability as a conductor that in such a short time as he has had the singers in training, such a satisfactory degree of proficiency has been attained.

The two choruses from which the greatest pleasure was derived were those of the last in each of Parts I and II. "Mid the Waving Rose Trees," and "'Tis Thy Wedding Morning," each of which had a bright swinging movement, with plenty of opportunities to show shading and expression, which were both perfectly accomed. The climax, however, was reached in the finale, "Yea, E'en as Die the Roses," tenor solo, by Mr. Sherlock, blending into a full chorus, which concluded the production in a thoroughly fitting manner.

In the work of the chorus parts in the two productions, and more especially in that of last night, it was amply demonstrated that an unusually high degree of musical ability is possessed by the young people of the town, and, that it only requires the opportunity, and training to produce vocalists of more than usual talent.

A pleasing innovation was introduced last evening when the 57th Regiment Band, under the leadership of Bandmaster Rupert Gliddon, rendered four selections preceding the Cantata. The celebrated overture "Nabucca," was the first selection played, and in its rendition, the reputation which the band has made for itself was well sustained.

The second number was the grand selection "Attila," by the great Italian composer, Verdi, which, with Wagner's "Evening Star" and Gillett's "In the Mill," were thoroughly appreciated. That Mr. Wodell, in securing the noted piano virtuaso, Mr. J. D. A. Tripp, of Toronto, as soloist, had guaged well the musical tastes of Peterborough people was made evident by the applause which greeted his appearance. To those who had never had the opportunity of hearing Mr. Tripp in his interpretations of the best composers, it was a rare treat, as it was also to those who having heard him, were desirous of renewing that pleasure. The selections rendered were all of a clissical order, and yet so well were the numbers chosen, that even the most uncultivated musical taste found a pleasure in hearing Mr. Tripp. He once again proclaimed himself complete master of his instrument, and Mr Wodell is to be congratulated on securing him as a special attration in connection with his Festival. The solos rendered were,—Beethoven's "Andante Favori in F; Rameau's "La Tamburin"; Paganini-Schumann, "Caprice Celibre," in E; Rubinstein's "Barcarolle," in G minor; Paganini-Liszt, "La Campanella."

The special solists in the "Rose-Maiden" were,—Mrs. Cutler, of Boston, soprano; Mrs Van Luven, of Napanee, mezzo-soprano, and Miss Violet B. Smith, of Toronto, contralto; Mr. J. M. Sherlock, of Toronto, tenor, and Mr J. Atkinson, of Detroit, bass.

Mrs Cutler, who was suffering from the effects of a cold on the previous evening, was in perfect form last night, and her solos were of a very pleasing character. Her enunciation was very clear and in the somewhat difficult passages necessitating very high notes, she acquitted herself with perfect ease. It is perhaps not saying too much to assert that no soprano ever appearing in Peterborough has created a more favourable impression or exhibited greater talent than Mrs. Cutler. In the duett, "I Know a Rosebud Shining" in which Mr Sherlock took the tenor, with Mrs. Cutler, the soprano, their voices showed a perfect blending, and it was received with rapturous applause.

Mrs. Van Luven, who possesses a rich mezzo soprano voice, was heard last night for the first time in Peterborough, and her rendering of "Ask of You Ruined Castle" and "Yet Chime they so Sadly," were most satisfactory to the audience, as was most unmistakably evidenced. Her voice, which is naturally a sweet one, shows the result of consistent training, and is characterized by an expression and enunciation which, with the richness of her tones makes her singing much enjoyed.

Miss Violet B. Smith, possesses a good contralto voice which was heard to good advantage in the trio 'Hast Thou Wandered," the other parts being taken by Mrs. Cutler and Mr. Atkinson. This was the only opportunity in this selection for Miss Smith to show her individual work, but she evidently has good control of her voice, which gives indication of being one of peculiar richness. Her notes were very clear, and her expression good.

Regarding the work of the male soloists, Mr. Sherlock and Mr. Atkinson, it is sufficient to say that the reputations which they made for themselves in the "Creation" on the previous evening were well sustained. Perhaps the solo in which Mr. Sherlock's fine tenor voice was heard to the best advantage was in "The Sheep of Even." He evidences an especially pleasing style in his singing; his rich, clear notes above the staff being much enjoyed.

Mr. Atkinson's most enjoyed selection was the first solo in the third part "Where Gloomy Pine Trees Rustle," and in it his voice showed the range and fullness characteristic of his work in the "Creation."

Mrs. T. J. Mowat, performed the duties of accompanist on the piano in a manner which not only won her the hearty approval of the soloists, but proclaimed her to the audience as being a more than usually accomplished pianist. Miss Hurley, as on the preceeding evening presided at the organ, and her duties in that capacity were well performed.

The result of the two evenings' performances cannot but be satisfactory to Mr. Wodell, and to all those interested in it. Mr. G. W. Mulligan has worked indefatigably for the success of the Festival, and no small share of the credit for its satisfactory culmination must be given him.

NOTES.

Miss Violet B. Smith, of Toronto, who sang so well last night, in the Trio "Hast Thou Wandered," with Mr. Cutler and Mr. Atkinson, is a pupil of Mr. Wodell, having studied with him a year in Boston. She is on the teaching staff of St. Margaret's, Toronto, and has a good class in that city. The lady very kindly assisted the chorus in the special alto parts. She has a fine voice, and excellent style.

Mrs. F.E.VanLuven, mizzo-soprano, Napanee, who sang so well the dramatic scena "Yet Chime They So Sadly," last evening, is a pupil of Mr. Wodell, having done all her studying with him. Her voice is an excellent organ, and Bandmaster Gliddon spoke highly of her artistic style. She most kindly assisted the chorus throughout the Festival

AN INCENTIVE TO CONSISTENT STUDY.

Prisees Offered by Public Spirited Citizen.

As a stimulant to the best work of which they are capable, Mr. James Lynch has made an offer of a prize of $5.00 in gold each to the boy and girl obtaining the highest number of marks in the entrance examination from the boys' and girls' separate schools. The boys' prize this year was won by Harry Quinlan, who obtained not only the highest number of marks from the separate school, but also the highest of any boy writing on the examination. Miss Kathleen Wallis was the winner of the girls' prize. The presentation of these prizeswas made this week by Rev. Father McColl, in the presence of teachers and pupils. Mr. Lynch has kindly renewed his offer for the coming year so that scholars have something to look forward to as a reward for consistent work.

STREET RAILWAY AGREEMENT

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear sir,—I have read the petition to the council asking them not to pass the Street Railway By-law to close the proposed contract with the Peterborough Radial Railway Co., and I have read the proposed contract. It appears to be a fair and reasonable one save in one particular. The workingman's ticket should be thirty for $1.00 and this should be provided for in the contract. It takes two to make a bargain and this railway project does not present so many inducements as to enable the town to impose unusual stipulations. This railway and every other railway in the country in small places has been ruinous to the operator, and it is no use comparing Peterborough with Toronto, and valuing the franchise at absurd figures. It is a desirable thing to have but like all such benefactions it has its evils. It will cut into all who make money out of horses.—blacksmiths, carriage makers, etc., and that, I suppose, accounts for many names I noticed on the petition. The dealing with the Peterborough Light & Power Co. for public light is not favoured by the Otonabee Power & Light Co., and that accounts for the hostility of Mr. R. H. Hall, Adam Hall, Mr. Meldrum and others.

Now, sir, I like to see public measures much discussed and when anyone attempts to mould my opinion I want to be sure that the party is fair in argument, using true figures, statements, etc. If I find the party has good judgment, is disinterested and honest in his statements I will give great attention to the argument, but if I find the party interested, using false statements and spurious arguments then I turn somewhere else for guidance.

This petition is the work of Meldrum & Co. "The hand is Esau's but the voice is Jacob's." And so I now understand the motive. I turn to the figures set out in the petition and I find that they are untrue—here there is an interested party and one using false figures. That is enough to make me disregard the petition. The fact is the people want the railway. They want it on fair terms and anyone who attempts to show that the terms of the proposed contract are not fair—as they appear—must approach me on different lines from those adopted by Meldrum & Co.

I believe that if this by-law is submitted to the people they will quickly decide whether Meldrum & Co are to be allowed to block this railway project to serve their own purposes. I want Meldrum & Co and every other enterprising person or company to prosper but not at the expense of the people.

Yours truly,
WORKMAN.

OBITUARY.

Death of Miss Fair Deeply Regretted by her Many Friends.

The many friends of Miss Sarah Jane Fair will be pained to hear of her demise which occurred yesterday at 5.15 p.m. at the residence of her brother Mr. Robt. Fair, 105 Dickson street. The deceased lady had been suffering for about a year with chronic ailment, to obtain relief from which she spent the winter at Clifton Springs, N. Y. Unfortunately, but little improvement in her condition was afforded, and the result was her death yesterday.

She was the eldest daughter of Wm. Fair, of Millbrook, in which town she lived until, on the death of Mrs. Robt. Fair some years ago, she took charge of her brother's household, and during her residence here had made many warm friends by her genial disposition and engaging manner.

By Miss Fair's death the family suffers its third bereavement since 1900, the other members deceased being Mr. Robt. Fair's brother, George and his sister Annie. The body will be taken to Millbrook to-night There will be a service held at the house at 7.45 p.m. after which the body will be taken to the station. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 1.30 to St. Paul's Episcopal church cemetery.

The late Miss Fair has been a devoted member and worker of St. John's congregation for the past ten years; a valued teacher in the Sunday school; a member of the choir and treasurer of the King's Daughters, with which work she was particularly identified. She was in many ways closely connected with the life of the church and her loss will be a great one. In private life she was a thoroughly competent and true woman, exhibiting a healthy and beneficial influence on all around her. She took pleasure in social life and was a member of the Peterborough Golf Club Conjoined with general regret at Miss Fair's death is general sympathy with the bereaved relatives.

VISITING DOCTORS DO STONY LAKE

As Guests of Hon. J. R. Stratton and Local Medical Association

A Very Delightful Outing—Banquet at Burleigh Falls—Ozone and Enjoyment.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Association of Executive Health Officers of Ontario, came to a delightful close by a delightful it m, not down on the programme. This was trip yesterday to Stony Lake and a luncheon at Burleigh Falls. Hon. J. R. Stratton Provincial Secretary and Minister of Public Health and the Peterborough Medical Association co-operating were the hosts of the day, and their success in giving the visiting gentlemen a delightful day was very greatly appreciated.

The members of the local Association had as guests the members of the Provincial Association in attendance at the annual meeting, and amongst those also favoured with the privilege of joining the excursion were,—Hon. J. R. Stratton, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Halliday, Dr. Scott, Mayor Roger, Aldermen Rush, Batten, Clinkscale and Corkery, Mr. C. R. Armstrong, town clerk; Mr. E. H. D. Hall, town solicitor, Mr. John Crane, local manager, Ontario Bank; J. M. Irwin, Dr. Caldwell, Dr. McFall, Dr. Morgan, Dr. McCullough, Dr. Bradd, Dr. Amys, Mr. R. B. McKee, W. C. Redmond, Westwood, Medical Health Officer, of Asphodel; Dr. J. F. Fraser, Mr. F. J. Lillicrap, Lakefield, and Messrs. F. X. La Rochelle and Fred Martin, Montreal.

The guests of the Association were placed aboard a special car provided by the courtesy of the local Grand Trunk authorities, and the excursion was personally conducted by Mr. W. Bunton, up-town agent, who during the day was untiring in his efforts to make the trip pleasant to those he had in charge.

Arrived in Lakefield the party boarded the steamer Empress in charge of Capt. Johnston, who with his crew, added an important part to the success of the outing. A pleasant incident of the beginning of the voyage was that the Empress encountered at Young's Point the Rambler, the beautiful private yacht of Mr. Wm Mackenzie, of Mackenzie & Mann, which, after a cruise, was on her way to Kirkwood; the two vessels locked through together at Young's Point, and after opening out into Clear Lake, the two steamers, treated their respective passengers to a pretty, but mild little race. The Empress remained the Empress.

The trip to Burleigh through the beautiful waters of Clear and Stony Lakes was a perpetual delight. The weather was simply superb, the temperature mild, the sun shining brightly and the air pure, clear and bracing. As during the entire voyage the local hosts, the members of the Association and the citizens as well, did all in their power to give enjoyment to their guests and increase the pleasure of the outing. Arrived at Burleigh Falls the visitors inspected the double locks and were much interested in the process of locking through the Rambler.

After that the party repaired to the Burleigh Falls Hotel, where by the kindness and thoughtfulness of Hon. Mr. Stratton a capital luncheon was served, a feast which was greatly enjoyed in spite of the fact that Mr. Stratton had also provided light refreshments on the steamer. However, thanks to the invigorating nature of the pure air of the lakes, ravenous appetites, needing progressive satisfying, prevailed; the travellers were therefore prepared to do justice to the excellent meal spread by mine host Thomas Darcy. Everyone was loud in his praise of both the excellence and variety of the menu, and capital culinary care that had been bestowed upon its preparation. The visitors, especially who were new to the sweetness of Stony Lake's piscatorial treasures, were particularly captured by the fish course—baked 'lunge and fried bass. There was no formal toast list. Hon Mr. Stratton, however, proposed the toast of "The King," which was loyally honoured. "God Save the King" being sung with an enthusiasm which aroused the surprise of some of the American guests of the hotel who could hardly understand how a monarch 3,000 miles distant could evoke such unmistakable evidence of loyal devotion. Dr. Boucher President of the local Medical Association proposed the health of Hon. Mr. Stratton which was also enthusiastically honoured. Mr. Stratton in a few words of reply spoke of the pleasure it afforded him to welcome the members of the present association. He assured them of his deep sympathy— both personal and official—with the important work they were doing and hoped that the result of their deliberations in Peterborough, would be for the interests of the public health in an increased degree. He hoped their visit had been as pleasant to themselves as it had been to the people of Peterborough. In conclusion he proposed the health of Dr. Lane, the newly elected President of the Association and the very hearty manner in which it was received, showed how highly he was esteemed by his associates as well as by the Peterborough people, who had had the pleasure of meeting him. Dr. Lane is certainly, in a dual sense, a man of weight in the councils of the Association.

After luncheon the party re-embarked and the Empress leisurely steamed her way to the head of the lake. Every inch of the way seemed to be a delight to the visitors, many of whom had not before seen anything better than Muskoka. Constant inquiries were made as to objects of interest in the progressively changing field of vision, and the hosts of the day were assiduously untiring in their efforts to contribute to the pleasure of their guests. All were simply delighted with Stony Lake and loud in their praises of its evidently ideal adaptability as a pleasure and health resort. Many expressed their purpose of making further acquaintance with the lake and one medical gentleman from the west intends to come with his wife to spend a fortnight there even this season.

On arrival at Lakefield the Medical Association of Peterborough took advantage of the interval till train time to provide supper for their guests at the Craig House. The special car was boarded for Peterborough, where the party arrived safely and well satisfied with the abundant enjoyment the day had afforded and it would be difficult to decide which was most delighted —the hosts with the pleasure they had derived from extending a grateful and hearty hospitality, or their guests to the heartily acknowledged enjoyment they had received by the excursion of the day.

On the return to town a meeting of the Provincial Board of Health was held and considerable business of importance was transacted.

THE CHURCHES.

Rev. W. B. Heeley, the travelling secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, will preach at All Saint's Church in the morning and St. John's in the evening. Informal meetings will be held by him at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at St. John's and at 4 o'clock in All Saint's. Rev. BLOODLESS BATTLE, 500 WERE SLAIN.

An Unruly Army Smothered With a Blanket.

It is not often that a raid takes place in Peterborough, but one was made yesterday afternoon on Mr. Jobe's confectionery shop and moreover the local police were far away from the scene. This raid, however, was one made by bees on Mr. Jobe's confectionery, which, at any rate showed that although bees do not bark nor bite, they have "sweet teeth." It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon when there was a buzzing sound and the invasion of the interior of the shop began. "With undaunted courage and and practically no resistance, on the part of the defenders, the army of little creatures stormed and took up a commanding and truly enviable position on the sweet stuffs, after which a series of races, witnessed by numbers of spectators, were run off up the large plate glass window. Notwithstanding the efforts of the inmates of the shop the bees could not be got rid of. Mr. J. Holmes with a box of honey came on the spot but could not hive the unruly little creatures who had lost, he said, their queen. Toward evening the bees were smothered with a blanket and this morning 500 or 600 of the slain remained to bear witness to the fact that a bloodless battle had been fought and won.

Was Hovering Between Life and Death

A few days trial of Lactated Food, will convince any intelligent mother that it is the right form of nourishment for her weak and puny baby. No other food can give such prompt and happy results at a time when the little one is hovering between life and death. A Montreal lady last August wrote as follows: — "My baby was so weak and sickly a few weeks ago that we despaired of her life. We tried nourishment of every kind, but could not get anything to remain on its stomach. We heard of Lactated Food, and commenced its use. There was an improvement the very first week, and to-day our baby is well and strong. Lactated Food saved her life." Sold at all Drug stores.

An Electrical Event.

Next Saturday afternoon, September 19th, a series of interesting athletic sports and games will be held under the management of the C.G.E. Co. Benefit Society, in the T.A.S. grounds, Murray street. An attractive programme of events is in preparation, which will be well worth the price of admission. Gentlemen's tickets 15c., ladies' 10c. Everybody is invited. W. P. T. Barnum.

Mr. Barnum, the great circus king, said: The only way for any business man to get along is to advertise his business. He doesn't recommend copying; No 1. He says paint your name and business in the most prominent place and do not stop at that, but paint it as many times as you can find conspicuous places. Now pictorial signs as flashy as the artist can produce is the best ways and means. The great show man said don't try to please your next door neighbor. He remarks, "I have often heard it said, 'Mr Smith has a sign and it is like so and so; I think I will have one the same.' Now that is the greatest mistake a business man ever made. Be original always." Get Fred Cook to paint your signs to suit your business, as he is original with his way of advertising. He doesn't copy nor does he intend to, and that is why Cook does the sign trade of the town. He is always ready to submit a design and always guarantees not to disapoint you. Just ring up 'phone 119 and order your exhibition signs.

PROPOSED ELECTRIC RAILWAY FRANCHISE

The following is a copy of the proposed agreement between the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough and the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, to confirm which a by-law was read a first time at a meeting of the Town Council on September 8th, inst., and which will be further considered at a meeting of the council on Monday night, Sept. 14th, 1903, at 8 o'clock.

S. R. ARMSTRONG.
Town Clerk.

THIS INDENTURE
made in duplicate the day of 1903.
BETWEEN
THE CORPORATION OF THE TOWN OF PETERBOROUGH, hereinafter called the "Corporation," of the first part
and

WHEREAS the said company has been duly incorporated for the construction and operation of an electric railway in the Town of Peterborough and in the Townships of North Monaghan, Smith, and Douro, and in the Villages of Ashburnham and Lakefield and to connect the Villages of Lakefield, Young's Point and Chemong Lake, respectively, with the Town of Peterborough.

AND WHEREAS the said Company has applied to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough to grant the Company a franchise over the streets of the said Town which the Corporation has agreed to do upon and subject to the conditions herein set forth.

1. The Company shall build and put in operation for passenger, express and freight business at least five miles of electric railway in continuous or connected series of lines at least five miles of electric railway in continuous or connected series of lines in the Town of Peterborough and in the Township of North Monaghan by re-opening the line formerly used by the Peterborough and Ashburnham Street Railway Company and by extending the present line to the River Otonabee provided the consent of the Township of North Monaghan can be obtained to such extension in North Monaghan and by constructing a new line from the corner of Park and Charlotte Streets along Park street north to McDonnell street, and from the corner of Park and McDonnell streets to Jackson park.

2. The lines of the railway described in the first paragraph hereof shall be built, equipped and operated not later than the 1st day of July, 1904.

3. The Corporation doth hereby upon and subject to the terms, provisoes and conditions herein reserved and contained and subject to the provisions of the Act incorporating the Company grant to the Company the exclusive franchise and right to use the streets of the Town of Peterborough (except Crescent street on which no railway shall be placed) for the purpose of a street railway for carrying passengers, freight, express and baggage including the right to place the necessary poles, wires, ties, rails, turnouts and other appliances thereon for the purpose aforesaid and the necessary stringers for strengthening bridges and culverts.

4. The franchise or right to use the streets of the Town of Peterborough as aforesaid shall be held and enjoyed by the Company for the period of thirty years from the first day of July, 1904, subject to the faithful performance by the Company of this agreement on their part and may (after notice in writing has been given by the Corporation to the Company notifying it of the default and such default has not been remedied within three months after the service of such notice) be declared forfeited by a resolution of the Council of the said Town on default by the Company of any part thereof or on failure on their part to complete, equip and operate the lines mentioned in the first paragraph hereof or to operate the same and all other lines of railway built by the said Town as herein specified and shall also be subject to the provisoes for the determination of the same contained in paragraphs 5, 25 and 35 hereof.

5. That in case the Company shall on request of the Council to be made after the first day of July, 1910, neglect after notice in writing being served upon the Company or an officer thereof in accordance with a resolution of the Council requiring the construction of a railway on additional streets in the Town of Peterborough to build and have in operation such railway within nine months after giving of such notice the franchise of such streets shall revert to the Corporation and the Corporation shall in that case have the right to grant a franchise of such last streets to any other company or person and any other Company or person shall have the right to cross the tracks of the Company with its line or lines of railway without payment of any sum for the privilege of so crossing except an equitable share of the cost of making the crossings and maintaining the same. Provided that if a sewer be constructed on such street or streets within ten years after the construction of the railway the Corporation will at its own cost move and replace the ties.

6. That the propelling power of the lines of railway shall be electricity or such other improved power as the Company shall at some future time with the consent of the Corporation adopt and put into operation and that in case electric power is used the electrical pressure between any trolley wire and the rails or between any two trolley wires shall not be greater than 600 volts.

7. Provided, however, that whenever there shall occur a fall of snow which shall materially obstruct and prevent the running of the cars the Company may use sleighs to be drawn by horses or motors upon the Company's lines in the Town of Peterborough until the cars can be used on the track, but the tracks shall be freed from snow and ice at the expense of the company so soon as practicable so that the cars may be used continuously and no salt shall be used by the Company on its tracks within the said Town.

8. Provided further, that in case of temporary failure of the usual propelling power without fault or neglect on the part of the Company the Company may use horses or motors to draw busses or to draw the cars upon that part of the Company's lines in the Town of Peterborough during a reasonable time required to repair such usual propelling power.

9. That all the works of the railway shall be executed and maintained in a substantial, efficient and modern manner and with all the ordinary safeguards necessary for the protection of persons and property from injury and damage in the application and use of the power and in the operation of the railway that all wires used as electrical conductors carrying over 600 volts except bond and trolley wires are unless otherwise authorized by the Corporation to have a suitable insulating covering, that the rails shall be bonded and the bonds maintained in an efficient and modern and connected with the power generator or generators with a proper and efficient system of return wires so as to prevent the straying of electricity and where the tracks of the Company cross any railway tracks a heavy copper cable shall be used to carry the return current under the tracks of the intersecting railway and that a voltage survey is to be made by the Company under the direction of and when required by the Corporation Engineer to determine the electrical condition of the underground pipes, cable sheathing and other structures in regard to the condition of the Company's return current, and in case the said survey shows or it is shown by examination that conditions dangerous to the life of such pipes, cable sheathing or other structures exist then the Company is to correct such conditions within a reasonable time by changing or adding to the system of return wires or by other efficient means and that the carriages used on the road shall be of modern design and finish as regards appearance, comfort and safety and shall be provided with modern fenders on the advancing ends which shall be maintained in good condition, and shall be lighted at night by electricity and properly heated in cold weather under a penalty of $10 00 per day for each car not so heated which penalty may be recovered as liquidated damages by the Corporation from the Company.

10. That the track or tracks shall be of the standard guage of four feet eight and a half inches and the "T" rails or such other suitable rail shall be used on the streets in the said Town and that the rails to be used shall be of the weight of at least fifty-six pounds to the yard. In case the tracks of the Company cross any bridges or culverts the Company at its own expense is to place all girders and works necessary for strengthening the same so as to safely carry the cars over such bridges or culverts.

11. That the Company shall lay the rails flush with the streets and bridges so as to cause the least possible impediment to the ordinary traffic of the streets, that the same shall be laid in accordance with the existing level or grade of the street or a grade to be fixed by the Town Engineer at the time of laying the same or as near thereto as is compatible with a proper execution of the work and in that case the Corporation shall at any time after the year one thousand nine hundred and ten require it, the Company at its own expense shall lower or raise and relay its tracks so as to conform to the grade of such streets or parts of streets as altered or affected on either side of the tracks by the cutting or filling of the streets.

12. That the track or tracks shall be originally placed on such part of the street as shall be directed by the Town Engineer. That the poles of the Peterborough Light and Power Company shall be used if possible and that additional poles required shall be placed close to the sidewalks. That where wooden poles shall be used the same shall be uniform and shall be dressed and painted in a becoming manner if the Town Engineer shall so require.

13. That the Company shall so construct and maintain the railway that the same will not interfere with the town's sewers, water pipes, water tables and drainage, and that the Company shall in good and substantial manner pave and re-pave and maintain in repair with the same material as the Corporation uses outside the rail the roadbed within the rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks, and keep that part of the bridges and culverts between their outside rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks, and keep that part of the bridges and culverts between their outside rails planked or paved with the same material and in as good condition as the Corporation uses and and maintains the rest of such bridged and culverts, and that in case the roadbed outside the rails is disturbed by the Company when preparing its tracks then the company shall promptly replace the same in as good condition as before being disturbed free of cost to the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough.

14. That subject to the terms and conditions of paragraphs 5 and 11 hereof in case of laying down sewers, water pipes, connections, services and conduits for wires and other purposes or the grading, repairing or paving of the streets or rebuilding or repairing bridges and culverts by the Corporation if it shall in the opinion of the Council be necessary or convenient to remove the rails the same shall upon the request of the Council be removed by the Company and be relaid at the expense of the Company, but such requisition of the Council shall be made so as to cause as little as possible loss, injury or inconvenience to the Company having regard to the work to be done by the Corporation.

15. That the trolley wires shall be suspended at least 16 feet from the ground.

16. That none of the poles or wires shall be erected or strung so as to injuriously interfere with the poles or other apparatus connected with the public street lighting, police patrol or fire alarm systems of the Town of Peterborough, or telephone lines, and that no shade tree is to be injuriously trimmed or have its roots disturbed, except with the consent of the Corporation engineer.

17. That in case of fire in buildings adjacent to any streets on which the railway runs it shall be lawful for the Corporation or its servants upon the order of the mayor, or of the chief, or other officer at the time in command of the Fire Brigade to cut the Company's wires without the Corporation or its servants being responsible for any damages or costs on account thereof.

18. That the Company shall construct and keep in repair all street crossings for foot passengers between its rails of a similar character to those adopted by the Town Council, the Corporation providing the material for the same at the edge of the track.

19. That during the operation of laying and relaying the ties and rails a free passage for vehicles over the streets shall be kept open and immediately after the laying and relaying the ties and rails the materials removed shall be replaced in as good and substantial manner as before removal and the surface of the street made flush with the rails and all surplus material removed by the Company and deposited where directed by the Town Engineer or street inspector or other officer having charge of such streets.

20. That the Corporation shall not be liable to the Company for any damage the Company may sustain or incur from the breakage of any sewer or water pipe or for any damage or delay that may be caused by the construction of bridges, culverts, sewers, laying of water pipes, services, connections, conduits or repairing the same or from any delay or damage caused by freshets or fires.

21. That it shall and may be lawful for the Corporation to lay down or permit to be laid down in the streets water pipes, services, conduits for wires, connections, gas pipes and sewers and to alter and repair or permit to be altered and repaired the same respectively, and also subject to section 11 hereof to grade, alter, improve and repair the streets whenever public convenience may so require and to rebuild and repair bridges and culverts without cost or claim for damages to or against the Town for interruption or interference with the traffic of the Company or its railway.

22. That no turnout or siding shall be made or placed on that part of George street between Murray and Charlotte streets and no turnout or siding shall exceed 250 feet in length without the consent of the Council.

23. That no part of the railway shall be open to the public without the sanction of the council to be given on certificate of the Town Engineer or other town inspector that the railway is in good condition and constructed as herein provided.

24. That whenever it shall be necessary to remove any snow or ice from the track of the railway, the same shall not be left in heaps but spread evenly over the street as shall be directed by the officer of the Corporation for the time being charged with the supervision of the streets and the Corporation shall when the said officer deems necessary remove the snow lying between the outer rails of the roadbed and the kerb on all streets in the said Town upon which the cars of the Company are operated, to such depths and when and in the manner directed by the said officer, the expenses of such removal to be borne by the Corporation and the Company, as follows:—During the first five years of the term of the franchise hereby granted to be borne by the Corporation; during the next five years of said term one-quarter of the expense to be borne by the Company and three-quarters by the Corporation and during the remainder of such term the said expense is to be borne equally by the Company and the Corporation and the said Company is to pay to the Corporation its share of such expense on or before the first day of May after said work is done in each year.

25. That if the Company shall fail to construct, complete and operate before the first day of July, 1904, the portion of the railway required to be constructed and operated as herein provided for by that date the Municipal Council may by resolution declare such failure shall work a complete and absolute forfeiture of any privilege or franchise on or over the streets granted by the Town to the Company and upon the passage of such resolution the privilege and franchise hereby granted shall be forfeited provided that the Company shall not be held responsible for delays beyond the said date caused by strikes, injunctions, inability to cross steam railways or any other cause beyond the control of the Company, nor shall any forfeiture be declared on account thereof.

26. That in case the Company shall refuse or on reasonable notice neglect to do and perform any matter or thing required to be done by the Company as herein provided the same matter or thing may be done by the Town and the cost thereof recovered from the Company.

27. That the Company shall and will at all times indemnify and save harmless the Corporation from and against all loss, cost, charges, expenses, suits, actions, claims and demands whatsoever arising or occupying by reason of the construction, maintaining, repairing or operating of the said railway or in anything connected with or relating thereto or resulting from or arising out of the same or the failure or neglect of the Company to do or perform anything which the Company is by agreement or by law required to do or perform, including the maintenance of that portion of the streets and bridges to be maintained by the Company and the removal of snow as provided herein.

28. That the Company shall operate and run its cars on its lines in the Town of Peterborough from the Hour of 6.00 a. m. until the hour of 11.00 p. m. of each day except Sunday. Between the hours of 8 a. m. and 10 p.m. the cars shall run on George, Lake (between George and Lock) Lock, Smith (between George and Water), Charlotte, Park and than fifteen minutes; and on the rest of the line now or hereafter constructed in the Town of Peterborough and at other times at intervals of not more Water streets at intervals of not more than twenty minutes, but the Company shall be permitted to operate its cars more frequently if it shall see fit. Provided that when the population of the Corporation reaches 30,000 and thereafter the cars shall commence to run at 5.30 a.m. and run until 12 midnight and at such intervals as the Corporation Engineer, with the approval of the Municipal Corporation may from time to time determine, but the Company shall not be compelled to give more than a ten minute service. That in operating the railway the cars shall stop at the fourth crossing of intersecting streets and the body of the car shall not stop on or over a crossing or on any intersecting streets and cars shall not be left on any street at any time unless waiting for passengers.

29. That the Company shall not without the consent of the Council run freight cars on any street, except Dethune street between the hours of six o'clock a.m. and ten o'clock p. m. and shall not run freight cars on any street in the Town of Peterborough at such time or in such way as to cause serious inconveniences to the public using the streets, having regard to the time and occasions and the number of people or vehicles using such street, but the Company shall not place any tracks on Dethune street without the consent of the Municipal Council but may use subject to the consent of the Company owning them, any of the tracks at present thereon.

30. That the fares to be charged by the Company over any line operated or controlled by the Company within the limits of the Town of Peterborough or the extension in the Township of North Monaghan herein provided for shall be as follows:—

Ordinary fares including transfer tickets not to exceed five cents each or twenty-five of such tickets for one dollar, working persons' tickets to be used between 6 and 8 a.m and 12 noon and 1 p.m. and 5 and 6.30 p.m. shall be at the rate of six tickets for twenty-five cents; tickets for school children shall be issued in non-transferrable form to all children attending the public, separate and high schools upon a written order from the principal of the school which the scholar attends, such tickets to be issued at the rate of ten for twenty-five cents. Children of six years of age and under unaccompanied by an adult to pay three cents. If accompanied by an adult to be carried free. That the tariff of charges and fares of the Company shall be kept posted up in all cars on the railway. Transfers shall be given over all lines in the Town of Peterborough and the said extension to the river Otonabee free of charge; passengers' hand baggage unchecked on all cars going to points outside the Town shall be carried free of charge; checked baggage under 100 pounds to be charged ten cents and for each additional fifty pounds five cents for any one passenger and over that weight to be charged at the same rates as the steam railways charge for excess baggage; charges for freight shall not exceed those charged by the Grand Trunk Railway or Canadian Pacific Railway for a similar class of freight for the same distance.

31. That the Company shall not run freight cars unprovided with fender, gong and headlight in the Town of Peterborough at a greater rate of speed than eight miles per hour and that efficient warning devices to be placed on the advancing end of the car are to be used in case freight cars unprovided with fender, gong and headlight are pushed along ahead of the car or electric locomotive furnishing the motive power, and that freight cars shall not be run in any case at a greater rate of speed than 12 miles an hour within the said Town.

32. That each car shall be numbered and shall be supplied with a gong to be sounded on approaching a crossing and intersecting street or in case any person or vehicle shall appear on or near the track.

33. That the conductor shall be required to announce to passengers the names of streets and public squares as the cars reach them, and the cars at night be provided with headlights and distinguishing signs to be approved by the Corporation Engineer.

34. That the persons employed by the Company in operating its cars shall wear distinctive clothing.

35. That in case the Company shall in any one year without the consent of the Town Council cease to operate any portion of their line as above provided for in paragraph one and any extensions in the Town of Peterborough a total number of days exceeding ninety, then and in such case the Company shall ipso facto forfeit the franchise hereby granted and the right to use that portion of the railway within the Town of Peterborough together with the rails thereon which shall become the property of the Corporation and the Company shall, in addition indemnify the Corporation in respect of all costs incurred in taking up the rails and putting the streets in proper repair.

36. That it is understood that clause 35 of this contract shall not justify any cessation in the operation of the railway except for cause beyond the control of the Company, such as strikes, accident, to the rolling stock, equipment, motive power or roadbed of the Company.

37. That the property real and personal of the Company within the Town of Peterborough used exclusively for railway purposes and the income derived from the railway shall be exempt from all taxes during the term of twenty-one years next after the first day of July, 1904, and the Corporation will extend this exemption for nine years further if authorized to do so by law.

38. That the Company shall have the right to lay a double track on any street or streets in the Town of Peterborough when giving a ten minute service on such streets, but no car is to pass another car discharging or loading passengers without sounding the gong and reducing speed to one mile an hour.

39. That the Company shall have the right to close down from the 1st day of November to the first day of May following in any year that part of the proposed line between the intersection of Lock and Lansdowne street and the River Otonabee and that part of the line between the corner of McDonnell street and Park street and Jackson Park.

40. That the Corporation will at the expense of the Company and on deposit of the necessary fees petition the Legislature at its next session for an act to confirm this contract, and to authorize the exemption from taxes herein provided for and will use all lawful means to have the same confirmed by the Legislature.

41. That the Corporation will assist the Company to obtain crossing rights over existing steam railways in the Town of Peterborough and will unite with the Company in making application therefor and in procuring the passage of the same through the Railway Committee or other tribunal appointed to confer said crossing rights.

42. That at the expiration of the said franchise period of thirty years provided that the Company shall have in all matters carried out and observed the terms of this agreement on the part the Company shall have the right to remove from the streets their rails, ties, poles, wires and other plant and appurtanances provided however that in such case they shall leave the streets in good repair. Notwithstanding anything herein contained the Corporation shall have the right at the expiration of the said franchise period to take over all the property of the Company at a valuation to be determined by arbitration, if necessary, under the provisions of the Act respecting Arbitrations and References.

43. That whereas it is provided by section 13 hereof that the Company shall in a good and substantial manner pave and repave and maintain in repair with the same material as the Corporation uses outside the rail the roadbed between the rails and the devil strip between the turnouts and double tracks. It is nevertheless understood and agreed by and beteween the parties hereto that during the last five years of the term of this franchise the Company shall not be compelled to change the character of the pavement between the rails or devil strips but shall only be compelled to renew and keep in repair the same description of pavement as exists at the expiration of twenty-five years of the term of the said franchise.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the Corporation and the Company have caused their respective Corporate Seals to be hereunto affixed as testified by the hands of their respective proper officers in that behalf.

A CIVILIAN SOLDIER.

Canada's Interest in the Memory of Sir William Johnston.

Canada and New York have a joint interest in the memory of Sir William Johnston, the most picturesque personality of the generation immediately preceding the commencement of the American revolutionary war. He was an Irishman by birth, but at twenty-three he emigrated to the wilds of the Province of New York to manage an uncle's landed estate which lay in the valley of the Mohawk River not far from Schenectady. All about him were the survivors of the great tribe which gave the river its name, and with these and others of the Iroquois confederation he became intimately acquainted in the course of the traffic which he carried on with them. By honorable dealing, an attractive manner, and facility in accommodating himself to their modes of life he acquired an ascendancy over the Indians that was as advantageous to the Government as it was profitable to himself.

When still young he was created military commander of the Six Nations, and through this appointment he was drawn into the frontier wars against the French. He took part in 1754 in the Albany Congress, which was in some sense the prototype of the later gatherings out of which was evolved the American federation. With the rank of "Major-General" he took part in the campaigns of 1755-60, that ended in the capitulation of Montreal, at which event he was present as commander of the Indian allies of the British. His great personal influence with the Indians of New York kept them from joining in the conspiracy of Pontiac three years later, and when the movement died down he it was who by a treaty of amity quenched at Niagara the smouldering embers of that curious uprising.

Sir William Johnston, in the enjoyment of a liberal pension and a Baronetcy, lived till 1774 on an extensive estate granted to him by the British Crown close to the place which had long been his home. Johnstown, called after himself, was founded by him, and there a monument to perpetuate his memory will be unveiled this month. As the battle of Lexington was not fought till 1775 he was just spared the catastrophe that scattered his family and drove them to reside near Montreal. His son, Sir John Johnston, fought on the British side in both the revolutionary war and the war of 1812-15. To those who admire patriotic statesmanship there is on this continent no shrine more worthy of a visit than the old home of this famous civilian soldier, whose reputation is the heritage of two nations and whose memory is unstained by any act of savagery.

Story of Principal Buchan.

Not a fortnight after Mr. Buchan's induction in 1881 he gave the whole Upper Canada College, Toronto, in prayer-hall assembled, a taste of his quality as a disciplinarian. There had arisen some slight friction regarding, if memory serves, Day by Day in Toronto News, a change in the rule allowing members of the Sixth Form, two, in place of three, afternoons' leave down town each week. Mr. Buchan made the change after deep consideration, and, after receiving a deputation from the Sixth, promised to announce his final resolution the next afternoon at prayers. The statement was duly made, and it was that the change must take place. Suddenly from where the Sixth sat, came a sibilant, long-drawn hiss. The boys were amazed. Nothing of the kind had been ever heard in that hall before. Mr. Buchan gazed towards the Sixth, and, in cold, even tones, said:

"The boy who hissed, stand up."

In a second a tall, broad shouldered youth was on his feet.

"A——," said the Principal, "you will take ten demerits."

The boy turned white and sat down. He and another were running neck and neck for the headship of the school, and the Prince of Wales scholarship. Ten demerits meant that a number of marks representing a fair month's work would be deducted at the end of the year. The judgment of the Principal meant death to the offender's chances; it was about the stiffest sentence that could be imposed, short of expulsion. The culprit, who is one of the leaders of his profession to-day, took his punishment gamely, but it was neither mitigated nor remitted, although his rival and conqueror—as subsequent events showed—begged Mr. Buchan to let him take five of his demerits himself. This might have allowed a third boy to gain the coveted distinction, but this was doubtful, as the two lads mentioned were head and shoulders above their formmates. Mr. Buchan sternly refused to make any change, so the friend and advocate of the boy who hissed went ahead and cantered in with the honors. He was as much provoked at being denied the contest as he was pleased at his success.

Sir Melville Parker, Bart.

The illness of Sir Melville Parker, Bart., is causing his friends much anxiety. Sir Melville, who is nearly 80 years of age, suffered a stroke of paralysis at his home near Cooksville a few days ago, and his condition is rather grave. Should he die, the baronetcy is ended.

Sir Melville is the second son of the late Admiral Sir Henry Parker, and is the sixth baronet, the title having been created in 1797. The Admiral settled near Cooksville, and had three sons, Henry, who married a sister of the late John Hector, Q. C.; Albert, who also married in Canada, and Sir Melville, who married Jessie, also sister to Mr. Hector, in 1847. He succeeded to the baronetcy in 1877. Their one child, May, married Lieut. Gordon of the Imperial service, afterwards Commodore Gordon of the Canadian naval service. Lady Parker died about three years ago.

A YACHT RACE.

Excellent Description of Watching One by a Writer Who Saw Strathcona Win First Race From Irondequoit.

The pale blue was butterflied with timid gray wings. Flags fluttered. A lazy sou'wester fanned out of the smoke-shot sky-line. And fifty-one lopsided big sails and little sails, fat with the wind, were crawling along to westward—just as they felt inclined; all but two that since the pop of a gun from a steamer had been doing a windy waltz anywhere within a furlong of a bobbing buoy, says a marine writer in the Toronto News.

One was a cream-colored big butterfly, the other a phantom of white wings. They cut a pair of foam-spitting curves, pointed their fib-booms at the buoy and bore down like a pair of swans. Just at the second when to the man without a telescope on the breakwater it looked as though one boom would put a pencil of daylight through the other's fore-sail, they wheeled side-long. A gun popped—to signify that all the previous manoeuvres had been merely skirmishes; but this was the race. The butterflies glided after—just as they felt inclined. Most of the crowd sat leisurely along the rocks, some with their books open again. Some headed off for a stroll. That is one advantage of yacht race over a horse race—you may go away and leave it without missing much. For it is not highly exciting to bore long-distance holes in two dabs of sail out on the smoke-line. The best frame of mind to wait for the finish is one of suspended animation. Of course, there are a good many wise aquatic folk, who can see signs and symptoms in a pair of hazy white wings on a mile of mist. But you never hear them shout or swear. It is almost as subdued a pastime as botting on the clouds.

Watching a yacht race in a lazy wind is a good deal like gazing at a comet. There are always some folks who can see a comet in any patch of the milky way that looks as though it had a tail. And these are a lot of people at a yacht race who can tell the Strathcona from the Irondequoit, when they both look as much alike at five miles as a pair of Indian tepees on the prairie. It takes considerably tenacity of purpose for an average man to watch just those two patches of sail, and ignore all the others—especially if he knows not which is which. Practically, it is about as useful to enquire that from the average man with the binoculars, as it is to try to see a fish in a pond when somebody else tells you to. One man tells you the Strathcona is fair in front of another little boat—when from the perpendicular to your pair of shoes the one in front is the Irondequoit. Another tells you to sight over his shoulder fair in the direction of his finger, forgetting that his shoulder on the beach represents about five miles on the yacht-course, and that his finger wobbles like the end of a pole on a man's back. The next man subjects you to a series of categorical questions. "You see that steamer?" "Yes." The bunch of sails next to it?" "Sure." "Well, then, you see the little black sail?" "Black sail?" you murmur incoherently, not quite sure that his ideas of a rainbow are quite the same as yours. "Well, you see that white cloud that looks like a sheep—?" You mumble stupidly that they all look like sheep, when he says, "Well, the one with the tail on—d' you see that?" "Y—yes—" "Well, that's not the Strathcona—for she's going to come out head."

And that man's laugh pretty nearly makes a dead calm of the wind. You scarcely begin to feel cool again before there comes a chung!—then a chanvari of whistles like half a dozen circus calliopes, more guns—and by the way the hats are cutting circles on the breakwater you know that a lot of people are trying to shout louder than the guns and whistles. All which signifies that in the long, lazy crawl home the Strathcona has crossed the line first.

The 8 Hour Day

Which the working man has fought for and succeeded in obtaining is something the wife has no share in. Her day begins before his and ends long after it, as a rule, and many a night her rest is broken by the baby's fretfulness. The healthiest woman must wear out under such a strain. What can be expected then of those women who are weakened by womanly diseases?

Women who are weak, worn-out and run-down will find new life and new strength in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I suffered with female weakness about eight years—tried several doctors but derived no benefit until I began using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs John Green, of Louisville Boyle Co., Ky. "This medicine was recommended to me by other patients. I have taken six bottles and I feel like another person."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription," is only seeking to make the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss. Refuse all substitutes.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

Canada's Trade With Japan.

The United States are being made aware that they will have to encounter competition from Canada in the markets of Japan. E. C. Bellows, United States Consul-General at Yokohama, in a report to his Government on the foreign commerce of Canada, states: "The imports from Canada and other parts of British America to Japan now amount to only a trifle over one per cent. of the value of those from the United States, but the people of the Dominion are making a strong effort to increase their trade in the east. At the Osaka Exposition, now open, the Canadians are spoken of as having the largest and best of the foreign exhibits. They are striving especially to advertise the merits of Canadian flour. Bread is baked on the grounds and sold or distributed freely among the natives, to whom the superior quality of the Canadian product is explained; and it is reported that large orders have been received for flour as a result of this work. The United States have been furnishing from 96 to 99 per cent. of all the flour imported into Japan, and last year this commodity ranked third in value of the imports from the United States, raw ginned cotton being first and kerosene oil second. The most important import from Canada in 1902 was salted salmon and trout, of which she furnished nearly twice as much as the United States, followed by timber and lumber—boards and planks—of which her quota was less than two-thirds of ours.

Unlucky Day, Friday.

It was Monday morning, and the rent collector was busy pursuing his fell task. His bag was getting heavier, but his heart was light till he reached the house of Mrs. Sandish. Master Sandish opened the door here, and, with the air of one who had learned his message well, he said:

"Mither and faither's oot. Will you please to call on Friday?"

"H'm!" said the collector. He would have said more, but it did not seem of much use. Then a thought struck him. "And why on Friday, my little man?"

"That's what I dinna ken," said the little man, "unless it's because we be gaun tae flit on Thursday."—London Tit-Bits.

Declines to Accept Fees.

Nicholas Murphy, K.C., who is an old friend of Sir Melville Parker, who has been recently ill at his home in Cooksville, noted the fact that Sir Melville, who over 40 years ago was appointed a justice of the peace, is one of the very few holders of such office who declines to accept fees or emolument for his services. While living a quiet retired life as a country gentleman, Sir Melville has always taken an active interest in local affairs, and was warden of Peel County, and was reeve of Toronto Township for several terms.

"A man of education," said Mr. Murphy, "of refinement and of a most genial disposition, with both friends and opponents, and a Justice of the Peace for many, many years, in the County of Peel, Sir Melville has settled more cases that have come before him by making friends of those who wanted to be enemies, than any other Justice of the peace in Canada. And he was always an adherent of the fact that stands patent, that Justices of the Peace should not be paid fees, and he held his position in that capacity without any fees or reward for his valuable and long service."

The Proper Treatment for a Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is usually two or three months before he has fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, for in many cases in which Chamberlain's Pain Balm has been promptly and freely applied, a complete cure has been effected in less than one week's time, and in some cases within three days. For sale by all druggists.

BABY'S FUTURE

Something for Mothers to Think About

Lives of Suffering and Sorrow Averted

And Happiness and Prosperity Assured by

Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills When All Else Fails.

Every child born into the world with an inherited or early developed tendency to distressing, disfiguring humours of the skin, scalp and blood, becomes an object of the most tender solicitude, not only because of its suffering, but because of the dreadful fear that the disfiguration is to be lifelong and mar its future happiness and prosperity. Hence, it becomes the duty of mothers of such afflicted children to acquaint themselves with the best, the purest and most effective treatment available, viz., The Cuticura Treatment.

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent, to cool the blood in the severer cases, are all that can be desired for the speedy relief and permanent cure of skin tortured infants and children, and the comfort of worn-out parents.

Millions of women use Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp, hair and hands, for annoying irritations and weaknesses, and for many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves.

Cuticura Resolvent, Blood and Skin (in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap are sold throughout the world. OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The harvest is about completed; well saved and an abundant crop, particularly the oat crop, from which such good profits were derived last year from Peterborough Cereal Works.

The sugar beet crop around here promises to be the most favourable of root crops and if prices are as satisfactory as promised an increase of acreage is sure.

Dr. Keith has arrived home with his bride from London and settled down in his new office and home in the west end.

Omemee Presbyterians expect their new minister and induction to take place about 1st October, Mr. Whitelaw, of Quebec, being the selection.

Pigeon River waters being very high, it is expected that Peterborough crafts will commence up in October for our sugar beets, they being cheaper here.

BOYS OF TO-DAY

Will be the Men of the Future.

They Should be Rugged and Sturdy. Full of Life and Ready for Work, Play or Study—Keep Them Healthy.

Growing boys should always be healthy and rugged. Ready for play, ready for study, and ready at any time for a hearty meal. This condition denotes good health, but there are entirely too many who do not come up to this standard. They take no part in the manly games all healthy boys indulge in; they are stoop-shouldered, dull and listless; they complain of frequent headaches, and their appetite is variable. Sometimes parents say, "Oh, they'll outgrow it." But they won't its the blood that's out of condition, and instead of getting better they get worse. What boys of this class require to make them bright, active and strong, is a tonic, something that will build up the blood and make the nerves strong. There is no medicine that can do this as quickly and as effectively as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Mary Compton, of Merriton, Ont., tells what these pills did for her sixteen year old son. She says: "About two years ago my son Samuel began to decline in health. He grew very pale and thin and at times experienced serious weak spells, coupled with a tired, worn out feeling, and as the weeks went by he grew worse. This alarmed me, for my husband had died of what the doctors called pernicious anaemia, and I feared my son was going the same way. I had often read that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills would cure anaemia, and decided that he should try them. A couple of boxes made a decided improvement in his condition, and by the time he had taken half a dozen boxes his health was better than it had been for some years previous. His weight had increased, his listlessness had disappeared, and he was blessed with a good appetite. I may add that other members of my family have been benefitted by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I consider these pills the best of all medicines."

Poor and watery blood is the cause of nearly all diseases, and it is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood, both enriching it and increasing the quantity, that they cure such troubles as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, heart troubles, incipient consumption and the various ailments that afflict so many women. These pills may be had from any dealer in medicine or will be sent post paid at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. If you value your health never allow a dealer to persuade you to take something else.

Harry to Olive.

Tess—Harry Goodley is engaged to Olive Soberle. You've heard of it, of course?

Jess—No! The idea! I thought she was too much wrapped up in her temperance work to bother with matrimony.

Tess—It seems not. By the way, her engagement ring is quite appropriately inscribed, the very essence of temperance—"H2 O."

When your boy or girl returns to school it is of prime importance that he or she should be in a condition physically to stand the combined strain of arduous study and normal growth.

If you observe any signs of lassitude, lack of energy, loss of appetite and inability to keep up with his class, you are strongly recommended to use a bottle or two of FERROL (the iron-oil food). SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. W. W. MAGUIRE

Occurred This Morning After But 20 Hours' Illness.

Late Mr. Maguire Was Well Known in Town and Was Extremely Popular—One of the Local Managers of Brokerage House.

A more than usually distressing occurrence was the sudden death of Mr. William Maguire, this morning at the White House, where he has been boarding for some little time. Mr. McGuire was well known to the business section of the citizens because of his connection with the brokerage firm of McMillan & Maguire. He was in co-partnership with Mr. E. S. Clarry in the management of the local office of the above firm.

The facts in connection with the death of Mr. Maguire are briefly as follows: He retired on Saturday evening at his usual time, and in his usual good health, except that he was inconvenienced by a slight cold. On rising yesterday morning he took a Seidlitz powder, which he had procured the previous evening, and shortly after having taken it he complained of feeling unwell. He, however, partook of a light breakfast, and shortly afterwards became worse, saying that he experienced a strange feeling. In taking the powder he remarked that it tasted bitter, and in fact took only a small portion of it on that account. His physician, Dr. McCullough, with Drs. Boucher and Morgan, were summoned, and on arriving about ten o'clock, found their patient in a semi-conscious condition. He, however, was able to describe his condition, and tell of the circumstances in connection with his illness. He gradually became worse in spite of all the efforts of the doctors, and at eleven o'clock had to be placed in bed, as the result of a physical collapse, and about the same time he lost consciousness, which he never recovered, and passed away about six o'clock this morning.

The physicians state that the symptoms indicated the presence of some form of opium, and although every known treatment was made use of his system did not respond to their application.

Coroner Gray viewed the body this morning and decided that an inquest was unnecessary, as there was no indication of culpable negligence on the part of anyone. County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood concurred in the opinion of the Coroner, and as the relatives of the deceased do not wish it, no inquest will be held.

The body was prepared for burial and will be taken by the 5.10 C.P.R. train this afternoon to Weston, where interment will be made.

Mr. Maguire, who is a brother of Mr. D. F. Maguire, one of the principals of the firm of McMillan & Maguire, has been a resident of Peterborough since the 1st of May, and during the interval between that time and the present, has made a great many friends by his engaging manner, and genial disposition, and had become extremely popular. He was a member of the Bowling Club and made many warm friends among the men who frequent the green. The members of the Club sent a beautiful wreath as a mark of the esteem in which he was held. Mr. E. S. Clarry, with whom Mr. Maguire has been associated in the business here, feels deeply the loss which he has sustained in Mr. Maguire's death. During the time in which they have been in business together their relations have been the most pleasant.

Mr. Magire was a married man; his wife being Miss Zylfiax, of Listowell, but whose parents now live in Orangeville. He had been married 7 years.

In addition to his brother, Mr. D. F. Maguire, another brother, Thomas, of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, and two sisters survive him. Mr. Maguire was a member of Weston Court, C. O. F. Mrs Maguire has been visiting at her home in Orangeville for about 10 days, and had not returned when her husband's much regretted death occurred. Mr. Thos. Maguire, with Mr. McMillan, of the Brokerage firm, arrived in town on the midnight train, and are taking charge of the body.

What undoubtedly influenced the friends of the deceased on deciding that an inquest into the cause of his death was unnecessary, was the fact that Coroner Gray and Crown Attorney Wood, after having instituted and conducted the most searching investigation, arrived at the most definite conclusion that no one is in the slightest degree to blame for Mr. Maguire's death. The powders which he took were procured from Ormond & Walsh's, and were part of a shipment of 100 received on Thursday from a wholesale drug house in Toronto, where they were manufactured. In the interval between Thursday and Saturday at least a score of persons purchased powders from the same lot and no evil effects were experienced from their use. It was therefore utterly impossible that any poison could have been mixed with the powders, and in further support of this fact Coroner Gray was in communication with the manufacturers in Toronto, and they state most positively that the portion of their labratory in which the powders were prepared, is at least 200 feet from where there is poison of any form and assert to the perfect satisfaction of the Coroner that it is an impossibility for any poison to have become in any way associated with the powders, and as a result of his investigation, Coroner Gray authorizes the statement that no blame is attached in any way to anyone, and that the deceased's death resulted from causes unknown

TRINITY UNIVERSITY FEDERATION DEALT WITH

In a Sermon by Rev. J. C. Davidson.

Advantages to be Gained by Federation With Toronto University—Use of Splendid Equipment of the Latter Institution.

At St. John's yesterday morning, Rev. J. C. Davidson gave an address explanatory of the University Federation Movement, and dealt with principles underlying it. A brief sketch was first given of the history of Trinity, which was the most valuable possession of the Church of England in this country. Controlled by the whole bench of Bishops and a representative council comprising some of Canada's leading educationists and financiers, Trinity's platform was broad and her work and influence far reaching. The residential feature of the University had largely contributed to this, binding the students together and to their collegiate home.

The present leaders were pressing forward Federation in the hope of unifying and improving national education and enabling Trinity to make a more close and direct contribution to the stream of Canadian thought and life. It was undoubtedly a great venture and no wonder that there was aroused the conscientious opposition of men who believed the distinctive principles of Trinity were endangered, and that the aims of her founders were being interfered with.

Whatever opinion might be held on these points, however, the demands of the age had been such, especially in the science departments, that Trinity seemed to be unable to properly meet them, though in her other departments she was well abreast of the age. It was necessary, then, either to raise a great extra endowment, which could not well be done, or to federate with Toronto. After long negotiations, the Government had unexpectedly consented to give most liberal terms and Federation was decided upon. The College still belonged to the church as much as before and she would add to past advantages all the use that she wished to make of the costly equipment of the University of Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Davidson then passed on to speak of one great principle underlying this movement; the desire to make the church's position one of less isolation and aloofness. Whether this aim were accomplished or not, the speaker said it was one which would commend itself to them all; while churchmen should stand firmly, and, if need be, alone, for principle, and never sacrifice the distinctive heritage entrusted to them for mankind, we should carefully distinguish between what was essential and belonged to the faith and other things, which might be matters of mere opinion or taste. And we should take every opportunity of coming into, and keeping in, friendly contact with other Communions, in so far as this did not involve the compromise of truth. It was the fear of unfaithfulness in this respect which had compelled our attitude in the past, and would still influence it, necessarily, in the future. But while we were loyally to conserve what had been given to us in trust in the past, even at the expense of our feelings, we were also to consider and do what was required by the present, and lend our efforts, so that religion might, in so far as possible unite, instead of dividing, a religious community

Having bought out the business and stock of the Singer Supply Co., on the understanding that they were leaving for North Bay, I have had another lucky chance to pick up a large consignment of still better bargains. By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

The Renfrew Mercury continues its interesting series of articles dealing with municipal ownership in the smaller towns of Ontario. The latest contribution is a sketch of conditions in Port Arthur, written by Mr. F. B. Allen, editor of the Evening Chronicle of that town. Port Arthur has pushed municipal ownership further than is usually the case in Ontario, the town owning a street railway system, a telephone service, an electric lighting plant and the means of developing a considerable quantity of electric power. It is also installing waterworks and a sewage system. The street railway is seven miles long, and connects the town with Fort William and West Fort William. An extension of a mile and a half has been authorized to a large park which recently has been acquired. The original investment was $115,000, and the railway for some years was operated at a loss. Latterly it has begun to pay. The earnings last July were rather over $4,000, and the operating expenses during May (the last month for which figures are available) were less than $1,700. To operate the cars the municipality has erected works on Current River, which give 750 horse power, and an amount which can be increased to 1,000 horse power. The Canadian Northern has asked the town to quote a rate for a large quantity of power for use in its elevators. Some energy is sold at $25 a horse power per year.

The telephone fight is going in favour of the town, Mr. Allen declares. He describes the municipal plant as "magnificently modern," and says it has an exchange of 250 subscribers. When all the instruments have been installed the list will be 300. Fort William also has a municipal telephone system, and the two have a free exchange, so that each subscriber can be connected with about 500 instruments. The Bell Company's offer of free telephones has practically no takers, according to Mr. Allen, "and the sight of a Bell Company 'phone outside of the railway office is indeed rare." The municipal rate is $24 a year for a business telephone, and $12 for a house instrument.

The town owns the lighting plant, which has cost it about $25,000, and is installing a waterworks system which will cost about $100,000. The water will be pumped from Lake Superior. Sewers will be laid concurrently, at a cost of over $60,000. The taxes at present are 25 mills on the dollar. The people feel that while they have invested considerable sums, they have value. They also feel that they will profit by any increase in profits. They expect ultimately to have "the lowest rate of any town in Canada."

IN MEMORIAM.

The following lines composed by a school-mate are in memory of Mary Ellen Brick, daughter of Mr. John Brick of Ennismore, who died on April 7th, 1903, at the brink of womanhood, 20 years of age:

Oh, what is youth, what is beauty
But mere shadows of the day?
One touch of Death's cold icy hand
Transfigures them to clay.

A place is vacant in our home;
That voice we love is stilled:
A place is vacant in our midst
That never can be filled.

Yes, dear Mary Ellen has left us.
Her toils and cares are o'er.
In Heaven we hope to meet her;
But on earth, alas, no more.

Loving friend, thou art sleeping
In the cold and silent tomb;
Calmly sleeping, gracefully waiting
The glorious resurrection morn.

Cut down in girlhood's happy prime,
Dear Mary Ellen so kind and true;
Laid low on a bright spring morning,
Oh, it was hard to bid adieu

Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding
O'er the spoils that Death has won,
We would at this solemn parting,
Calmly say "Thy will be done."

—NELLIE O'CONNOR,
A school-mate.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Happenings of Interest at Lakefield.

The following from the Pasadena Weekly News will be of interest to many citizens of Peterborough and surrounding country as Prof. Graham is a son of Mr. Robt. Graham, of Lakefield, and was born in the town of Peterborough. Prof. Graham is well and favourably known in this community and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his success in his present home in California. In an address by Mr. D. Arnold, president of the school board of Pasadena, at the opening of a large new school there, the speaker says:

"At the establishment of the high school in June 1891 by a practically unanimous vote Prof. J. D. Graham was elected principal, which position, with the added duty of supervising principal of all the city schools, he has filled with marked ability, until the close of the past school year, at which time he was elected superintendent of all the schools of the city. In passing it is but just to state that to Prof. Graham's tact and ability, his untiring devotion to the interests of the schools and to the unwavering confidence of the officers and patrons a large share of the success attained is due. The success of the high school has been eminently satisfactory, and in some respects phenomenal considering all the conditions under which it has existed. It has maintained its standing in the accredited system of the great universities with a steadily advancing percentage of excellence, until it arose to the head of the column. The attainment of this result reflects great credit upon the teachers and principals of Pasadena, especially in view of the fact that our competitors were met by schools from all part of the state, some of which had superior advantages in the way of rooms laboratories and other appliances."

DR. BARNARDO'S WORK.

The August-September issue of the National Waifs' Magazine (the official organ of Dr. Barnardo's Homes) contains the 37th Report of this National and Philanthropic work. During 1902, no fewer than 10,578 applications were received and after very careful investigation and sifting 3,501 of these candidates, who were orphans or absolutely destitute, were freely admitted to the permanent benefits of the Homes. On the 31st December, 1902, the Association had under its care 6,399 Waifs, whilst during the 12 months which ended on that date 9,785 otherwise forlorn and destitute boys and girls had been under the care of the Homes. This is the only Society which admits always freely and without delay or hesitation Children of both sexes, of any age, creed, birthplace or physical disability — whether crippled, diseased, deaf and dumb, blind, or otherwise afflicted. Even those who come in but to die are given the benefits of the Institutions. No process of voting or election is required nor any monetary payment. The sole plea, "destitution," is that which unlocks the gate. Emigration is one of the chief outlets, and during the year, 1,053 Boys and Girls were sent to Canada, bringing up the grand total emigrated to 13,057. Great advances have been made and many new Branches in the Provinces have been opened, including the Watts Naval Training School, in Norfolk. As a proof of the confidence which the public have in this work, the donations last year shewed an increase of £32,975 5s. over the receipts for 1901, the total donations for the year amounting to £178,732 13s. 8d.; but the Council strongly plead for a permanent income of not less than £200,000 in order to meet the claims of destitute childhood from all over the Kingdom. We are informed that a copy of the Report will be sent post free to any address on application to the Head Offices, 18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, Eng.

SHE HAD TO SIT UP IN A CHAIR.

Mr. Jas. Kinsella Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Peculiar Medical Case Ends in Another Victory for the Great Kidney Remedy.

St. Malachie, Dorchester Co., Que., Sept. 14.—Special.—A medical case of particular interest, especially to women, is causing much talk here. Mrs. James Kinsella suffered from Kidney Disease, which so affected her that she could not sleep and she was obliged for two summers to pass her nights sitting in a chair. To-day she is practically a well woman. Interviewed regarding her cure she said:

"I had a pain in my right hip, in the back and was swollen all down that side of the abdomen. I could not sleep at night and I was obliged to sit up in a chair for two summers.

"Reading of cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills I bought one box. That gave me such relief that I continued to use them. They did me a world of good and now I can go to bed like other people. I have never had to sit up in a chair since I used Dodd's Kidney Pills."

PETER I. IS UNEASY.

Will Protect Himself With Old-Time Swiss Guard.

Vienna, Sept. 14.—King Peter of Servia does not feel that he is in security at the Konak and intends to establish a Swiss guard on the model of that existing in France at the time of the French revolution. This project is criticised by inhabitants of Belgrade. But, as a measure of precaution, it seems to be justifiable. Unflattering rumors are circulated regarding the conduct of the army. The officials of war have had some secret meetings lately, and General Laravitch, the most popular chief of the army, is said to be on the eve of making a pronounciamento.

GEN. KITCHENER THE MAN.

Lord Rosebery Wants Him Appointed to Reorganize War Office.

London, Sept. 14.—Lord Rosebery, replying to a correspondent on the subject of the recent report of the commission of inquiry into the South African war, vigorously condemns the Cabinet as being severally and individually responsible for the disasters and the inaptitudes of the conduct of the war and advocates a new departure in the military management of Great Britain, commencing by requesting the King to entrust the entire management of the War Office to Gen. Lord Kitchener, with the fullest authority to reorganize the present system.

TO THE PEACE RIVER.

To break away from the monotony of a work-a-day world, to cast aside the ceremonies, duties and restrictions of communal life, to lose sight of the frail perishable handiwork of man, and be transported to a region almost unknown where the blighting touch of civilization has not yet marred Nature's solemn grandeur, not the smoke and din of commerce mocked the still glory of the breaking day. Such has been the summer holiday of Harold Paine, V.S, of Oxbow, and Angus Evans, of Boscurvis, who, on 17th of June last started for that much talked of but little known region, the Peace River country. Their way lay by rail to Edmonton, the furthest northern point to which the C.P.R. octopus has stretched its iron tentacles. There they outfitted themselves with horses, tents, slickers and supplies, and in company with Thos. Allingham, of Edmonton and the two Shaw brothers of Carberry, they set out for Athabasca landing, one hundred miles from Edmonton. Over this trail the supplies for the trading posts and scattered settlers in the far north are freighted by teams through stretches of bog and swamp. At the landing the party embarked in flat bottomed boats and were towed by half breeds, hitched to their burden with breast collars like horses, 85 miles up Athabasca river and 65 miles up Little Slave River to the Lesser Slave Lake, a fine sheet of water long known to the old fur traders. To the head of this lake, 85 miles, the party journeyed by row boats, assisted in fair winds by the addition of sails, to where a Catholic mission is stationed for the spiritual nourishment of the tiny settlement of pioneers who are bearing the hardships of their isolation in happy anticipation of the fortune coming to them with the advent of railway communication. The soil in that district is very rich and the tourists found plenty of vegetables ready for use. The travellers were fortunate enough to secure the services of an ideal guide—St. Pierre, a native of that country, who knew the wilderness as a book, and who proved himself throughout a perfect fountain of information and advice. Leaving behind the little mission and its faithful Cure, the party proceeded by horseback along another 55 miles of wet and difficult trail to Peace River landing. In these long stretches of wearisome travel the unflagging care and good humor of the guide St. Pierre proved a constant source of comfort and entertainment to the pilgrims. Peace River, as little known to Canadians as though it flowed through Asia, is a mighty torrent that carries the water shed from the Rocky Mountains down to Lake Athabasca, from where it flows down the McKenzie basin to the frozen wastes of the Arctic. At the ford, the river is 600 yards wide and flows very swiftly. From there they journeyed 65 miles over beautiful prairie to Dunvegan, another small settlement on the Peace river, lying between banks 900 feet high. Twelve miles of zig-zag climbing brought the travellers to the toplands. Back to the south-west of Dunvegan the party travelled over the Spirit River valley, a beautiful tract warmed by the chinook winds and an ideal grazing ground. Then, after threading their way through sixty miles of bush, they emerged on Grand Prairie, disclosing to them a perfect panorama of lake, plain and river. Some patches of cultivated ground were found here producing good crops of grain and vegetables. Another stage of 70 miles brought the travellers to Beaver Lodge country, a rich prairie land waiting the approach of some home seeker. There the outward journey ended and the return began by way of Grand Prairie to Lesser Slave Lake, where they reluctantly bade farewell to the merry guide St Pierre, and descended the Athabasca river to the landing, from where the final stage on horseback brought them again to Edmonton, and thence back to Oxbow, which was reached on August 13th. The trip included total of 600 miles in the saddle. The impressions gathered on the journey were varied and memorable. The travellers found many rich stretches of country, capable of producing all that man required. The shelter of the Rocky Mountains and the tempering influence of the chinook winds make it a desirable country for settlement, but the distance from the centres of trade and the difficulties of access to the country, which will handicap it for years yet to come, leave it peacefully slumbering in almost a state of nature, where the echoes give back only the crack of the fur traders' rifle, and where the adventurous traveller may roam at his will.

Cantois was seized by onlookers, but before he could be disarmed, turned the pistol on himself, inflicting a fatal wound.

Deserves Lynching.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 14.—W. H. Davey, who has been conducting an automobile and bicycle business on Third street, was arrested Saturday, charged with indecently assaulting a little girl of twelve years of age. He is said to be an old offender in the outraging of little girls. Yesterday lynching was spoken of. Judge Horn on this account refused the man bail, telling him he was taking his life in his hands to go on the streets, and saying one could hardly blame the parents if they did, and that no jury would ever convict them of murder.

TO MOBILIZE ARMY.

Bulgarian Government Urged to Take Action at Once.

MASSACRES BY WHOLESALE.

Sixty Thousand Reported Slain in One District—War Between Bulgaria and Turkey Appreciably Nearer—Revolting Atrocities by the Sultan's Troops—Unburied Bodies Cause Epidemic.

Sofia, Sept. 14.—The Council of Ministers is said to have decided to mobilize the first and second army divisions whose headquarters are at Sofia and Philippopolis. Alarming rumors are current of further wholesale massacres of Bulgarians in the Vilayet of Monastir. One report says that 60,000 persons have been slaughtered in the district of Leren alone, which is purely Bulgarian. Other reports affirm that the Turks have burned the Christian quarters in three towns, Florina, Oxhilda and Resen.

Burned Thirty-four Villages.

Further details of the villages burned and massacres committed in the Vilayet of Monastir have reached here from reliable sources at Salonica. The names are given of 34 villages in the Kaza of Okrida, which have been burned by the Turks. At Velgoshti, near Oratoka, 12 men and women perished in the flames. Sixty peasants were killed in this neighborhood, most of the bodies being left unburied. Nine villages and a large forest have been burned in the Kasa of Rosen. At Podmochani and Pokoivenik many women and children were killed. In the Kasa of Presps the soldiers surrounded a forest in which women and children from the villages of Louboino and Bratichino were concealed. They violated the women and put many of them to death. The monastry of St. Golm, in the Kasa of Velca, has been plundered. The town of Klissura is filled with refugees from burned villages in the district, including many wounded women from the neighborhood of Klissura and Nevska. The large number of bodies lying unburied and decomposing has caused an epidemic among the Turkish troops, from which many have died.

The Albanian and Turkish troops collected in the Vilayet of Adrianople appear to be pursuing their usual tactics of burning and plundering the villages and killing the peasants instead of making an attempt to break up the insurgent bands. Very little news is filtering through from Monastir, but all reports agree that the position of the Christian is desperate. The Turks are making a clean sweep of the whole Bulgarian element.

The Albanian soldiers in the Vilayet of Adrianople are rtated to be entirely beyond control. At Kosturseo the Influential Beys complained to the officers of the excesses committed by the troops. The officers resented the criticism and told the soldiers that the Boys were friends of the revolutionaries, whereupon the soldiers burned the Bey's farms. The Turks have burned the Villages of Almagik and Erikler, in the district of Losengrad. They beheaded 22 Bulgarians at Almagik in the presence of their families. Twelve thousand troops are assembled around Malktonovo, and are engaged in fleeing to the forests and mountains. All the Turkish population in the District of Losengard has received arms, even the boys have revolvers.

STERN TO BE HELD,

United States P.O. Inspector Carries a Tale to Washington.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Post Office Inspector Mayer Saturday returned from Toronto, Ont., where he held a conference with the Crown Counsel and the United States Consul regarding the case of Leopold Stern, the Baltimore contractor, under indictment in connection with the postal cases. The Canadian authorities agree to hold Stern for some time and the State Department will forward the necessary papers in support of its request for extradition as speedily as possible.

BRITISH TRANSPORT LOST.

Ship Conveying egiment to India Sat to Have Foundered.

London, Sept. 14.—An unconfirmed rumor is current that a transport carrying a British regiment to India foundered in the gale which swept the British coast last Thursday.

Horse Stepped on Him.

Hamilton, Sept 14.—T. H. Crerar, son of Crown Attorney Crerar, was seriously injured Saturday afternoon by a fall from his horse. He was having a run with the Hamilton Hunt Club on the mountain. His horse failed to negotiate a fence covered by bushes, and he was thrown to the ground. The horse stepped on his back and broke two ribs. His nose was also broken.

News too Good to Keep.

Persons who have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are usually so well pleased with the benefits derived that they tell the good news to their neighbours. There is no medicine which so promptly awakens the action of the liver, invigorates the kidneys and regulates the bowels as Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and for this reason they are unapproached as a family medicine. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers.

U.S. Military Rifle Champion.

Sea Girt, N. J., Sept. 14.—The big shooting tournament here closed Saturday immediately after Lieut. K. K. V. Casey, 71st Regiment, New York, had won the military championship of the United States for one year. He attained a grand total of 192 out of a possible 210.

MAY SPLIT IN TWO.

British Cabinet Meeting of the First Importance.

ALL SORTS OF RUMORS RIFE

Premier Balfour Will Announce His Final Determination as to Mr. Chamberlain's Scheme—Strenuous Efforts to Avoid a Split in the Cabinet—Everything But Abandonment Offered Devonshire.

London, Sept. 14.—A special meeting of the Cabinet has been summoned for to-day, Sept. 14, and the political atmosphere is thick with rumors. These include reports that the Government will break up and that a general election will occur, or, at least, that the Cabinet will be reorganized. On the other hand, it is declared that no open breach will be developed and that with the exception of providing another office for the new Marquis of Salisbury (who, as Lord Cranborne, was Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs), things will go on much as they were before.

Cabinet May Dissolve.

(Canadian Associated Press Cable.)

London, Sept. 14.—What the Cabinet Council will learn to-day is the final determination of the course Balfour will take at the parting of the ways, which, as Punch put it last week, leads by one bifurcation to Devonshire House, by the other to Highbury. During the last few weeks efforts, still continued, have been made to avoid a split in the Cabinet. Every inducement short of the absolute abandonment of Mr. Chamberlain's scheme have been held out to Lord Devonshire to keep him at his post, but unless Mr. Chamberlain has practically surrendered it is most unlikely that the Cabinet can possibly hold together.

Thanksgiving Day.

Ottawa, Sept 14.—The Canada Gazette proclaims October 15, as a day of thanksgiving throughout Canada.

Snow fell to the depth of ten inches in Manitoba on Saturday, resulting in great damage to the crops

A SEPTEMBER BLIZZARD.

Worst Snowstorm Ever Experienced in Manitoba in September.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—The central and western portions of Manitoba were visited Saturday by probably the worst storm ever experienced in the month of September. The heavy rain of Thursday and Friday suddenly turned to sleet and snow, and this, combined with a heavy wind, developed one of the liveliest September blizzards on record. Telegraph wires are down in all directions westward, making communication impossible, but the meagre details gathered from travellers reaching the city by delayed trains to-day show that the snowfall was general from the boundary line to the northern part of the Province, with Portage la Prairie and Morden on the eastern limit line.

Over three hundred telegraph poles are reported down between Carberry and Virden, and a large number between Gladstone and Minnedosa. The only points to be reached by wire are on the southwestern branch to Deloriane. The snow is reported to be from three to ten inches deep at some points on the railway north and west of Carberry.

MUTINY ON THE KEARSARGE.

190 Men of United States Flagship Imprisoned at New York.

New York, Sept. 14.—The sailors of the United States Flagship Kearsarge, which, together with the Alabama, the Texas, the Illinois and the Chicago, anchored off Staten Island yesterday have been in a condition bordering on mutiny for many weeks. By sailors and petty officers on other ships it was said that when the Kearsarge came to anchor 120 men were imprisoned because of mutinous conduct. These men say they have renamed the flagship the "Curse Hard" on account of the voluble dissatisfaction continually expressed by the crew.

CAVE-IN OF RAILWAY TUNNEL.

One Man Killed and Twelve Laborers Are Missing.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 14.—By a cave-in at the Green Tree Tunnel of the Wabash Railroad in Green Tree borough late Saturday night one man was killed, two hurt and 10 or 12 laborers are missing. Fellow workmen believe the missing are buried under the ten feet of coal, slate, rock and other debris that chokes the tunnel for a distance of 55 feet.

The officials of the Kenefick Company, the contractors in charge of the work, believe that only one man was killed.

MR BORDEN IS BACK.

Tacit Understanding to Have House Adjourn in Three Weeks.

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—Discussion in Committee of the Whole on the bill providing for the construction of a new transcontinental line will be resumed by the House of Commons to-day. Mr. Borden is back, greatly invigorated by his stay at Caledonia Springs, and will once more take charge of the Opposition force. The debate will not last very long. A tacit understanding exists to reach prorogation in three weeks.

Premier Coombes Hissed.

Paris, Sept. 14.—On the occasion of the unveiling of a memorial to Ernest Renan, the historian and Orientalist, at his native town of Traguier, Brittany, yesterday, some demonstrations were made against Premier Combes in the villages through which his carriages passed on the way to Treguier from Protrieux. Hisses and shouts of "A bas Combes" and "Vive la liberte" were raised by the peasants. During the delivery of the speeches the antagonists of Premier Combes became so threatening that a detachment of troops was ordered out. The soldiers forced the hostile crowd back and restored quiet. The clerical party organized the hostile demonstration.

Verdict in Wreck of Tug Mersey.

Quebec, Sept. 14.—The inquest on the victims of the disaster to the tug Mersey, which foundered on the Lower St. Lawrence a month ago, while en route to Seven Islands, terminated Saturday night at Sandy Bay, Matine County, when a verdict was rendered, holding Michael Connolly, proprietor; Hypolite Gagnon, captain, and Barras, second mate of the Mersey responsible for the death of the five victims. Warrants have been sworn out against Connolly, Gagnon and Barras.

Drowned in St. John River.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 14.—John H. McMulken, a prominent resident of Indiantown, lost his life in the St. John River on Saturday night. A rope fouled on the propeller of a steam yacht, and while one of the crew was trying to clear it McMulken held a lantern. He lost his balance, fell overboard, and was drowned. He was 28 years old, unmarried and the agent of the Star Line Steamship Company.

Dynamite Car Explodes.

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 14.—Clarence D Hopper and Roy Boucher, switchmen, of the Michigan Central Railroad, were instantly killed by an explosion of dynamite in a car in the yards at West Bay City yesterday. Robert Roblin, engineer; William Noble, fireman, and John Cracile, conductor, were injured. Cracile is so severely injured that he may die.

Under Water.

Ordinarily a diver is able to remain under water from one to two and a half minutes. James Finny, a professional diver, in London, stayed under water 4m. 29s. Professor Enochs stayed under water at Lowell, Mass., for 4m. 46s. Professor Beaumont of Australia made a record of 4m. 35s.

ANCIENT HIBERNIANS INSTITUTE A DIVISION.

Starts With a Membership of Over 60.

One of the Strongest Societies in America—List of Officers who Will Preside Over Local Division.

A meeting was held in the T. A. S. rooms Saturday evening for the purpose of instituting a Division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, one of the oldest and most influential Catholic organizations in the world. It is one of the strongest, both numerically and financially of any similar society on the American continent.

The objects of the society as set forth in the Preamble of the Constitution are, briefly, as follows:—

The members of The Ancient Order of Hibernians in America declare that the intent and purpose of the Order is to promote Friendship, Unity, and Christian Charity among its members, by raising or supporting a fund of money for maintaining the aged, sick, blind and infirm members, for the advancement of the principles of Irish Nationality; for the legitimate expenses of the Order, and for no other purpose whatsoever.

The motto of this Order is "Friendship, Unity, and Christian Charity."

Friendship shall consist in helping one another, and in assisting each other to the best of our power.

Unity, in combining together for mutual support in sickness and distress.

Christian Charity, in loving one another and doing to all men as we would wish that they should do unto us.

This Order is to be formed exclusively of practical Catholics. Therefore, each member is expected to comply with all his Christian duties.

Its membership includes many of the leading Irish Catholics of wealth and influence in America and is rapidly growing in members. The Society has an endowed chair in Washington University, and is erecting a handsome Hibernian Temple in New York, costing several million dollars. In Canada also, the Order is making rapid strides, and has Divisions in 13 counties in this province and is well established in every other province in the Dominion.

The question of the organization of a Division in town has been under contemplation for some time and at the meeting Saturday night there was a large attendance. Mr. R. J. Slattery, LL. B., Provincial Treasurer, and Mr. T. J. Monahan, both of Arnprior, assisted in the institution of the Division. Mr. Wm. Crowley was chairman, and introduced Mr. Slattery, who, in an eloquent address outlined the objects and aims of the A. O. H. At the conclusion of his address 60 members were enrolled and following officers were elected and duly installed by Bros. Slattery, Monahan and Murphy:—

President—Wm. Crowley.
Vice-President—D. Holland.
Recording Secretary—Jas. Drain.
Financial Secretary—J. J. Lynch.
Treasurer—Jos. Kelly.
Serg.-at-Arms—B. J. Brady.
Standing Committee—Messrs. T. J. Begley, (Chairman,) J. J. Hickey, F. Dercher, J. Hanrahan, F. Holland.
Medical Examiner—Dr. Coughlin.
County President—Jos. Maher.

The Chaplain will be chosen by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor.

The remaining county officers will be chosen at a later date.

The Division is to be congratulated on the excellent set of officers chosen. They have all had experience in other societies and under their leadership the local Division of A. O. H. gives promise of a splendid future. The number of members already enrolled will doubtless be largely added to at the next meeting which will be held on Sept. 24th.

The Division has been instituted with the full consent of the clergy, with whom it works in co-operation.

THE ATHLETIC LACROSSE TEAM.

Lend a Helping Hand to a Clean Sporting Aggregation.

The attention of public spirited citizens in sympathy with clean, honest, straightforward sport is called to the letter in this issue of Mr. Kenner, president, in which an appeal is made to our citizens to render the Athletic lacrosse team a little financial assistance. The team needs $50 to take them to Markham where they go to win another match—to take another step in the path that leads to the championship pennant. The boys have done well this season, played a clever, clean game, and are desirous of help. Winning the pennant will not only bring credit to the team but very effectively advertise the town. One dollar contributions are solicited, and there are certainly fifty—or rather forty-three, for $7 are already acknowledged—who will be willing to contribute one dollar each to help realize the necessity of calling out the band to play "See, the Conquering Heroes Come," when the boys return home from playing the deciding final game.

J. Gracey vs. P. Hamilton.—Won by J. Gracey, 5 up and 4 to play.

J. Laurence vs. V. C. McGill.—Won by J. Laurence, 2 up.

The above gives the results of the first round of the open championship and the draws for the second round which will be played off on Saturday, Sept. 19th.

The draws for the second round are as follows:—

F. McGill vs. Dr. Eastwood.
R. M. Hamilton vs. S. Ray.
C. B. McAllister vs. J. H. Burnham.
J. Laurence vs. J. Gracey.

Contestants will have until the 19th inst., inclusive to play off this round.

Many of the draws for first round of championship were played off on Saturday afternoon and were very interesting and closely followed.

It is difficult to pick the winner of the championship this year and there will likely be some very close and hard fought games.

The draws for the second round of the Stratton Trophy competition have been made and are posted at the Club House.

The professional, Mr. Freeman, left for Toronto on Saturday evening after giving two weeks coaching to the members. His services were very efficient and were highly appreciated.

RUGBY.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club will be held to-night at the Oriental Hotel and it is earnestly desired that a full attendance of members be on hand, as matters of vital interest to the Club will be discussed. The placing in the O.R.F.U. of a senior team is an undertaking which will require the co-operation of all the members, and it is very desirable that at the meeting to be held to-morrow night, a full attendance of all members will be on hand. It is learned that in view of the apathy which is being to a degree manifested, it is extremely improbable that a senior team will be entered this year, and this meeting is called in which a final opportunity will be given for players to signify their intention to help the club.

• • • •

The Britannias will meet in the Oriental to-night at eight o'clock for organization.

LACROSSE.

A full practice of the Athletics will be held to-night at eight o'clock. O'Flynn will be in the game.

• • • •

The following letter from Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, President of the Athletic Lacrosse Club, sets forth in a straightforward way the condition of the Club's affairs, and the request contained therein will no doubt meet with a generous response. It has been with considerable pardonable pride that Peterborough citizens have watched the record of the Athletics both in their games at home and abroad, and their clean, gentlemanly exhibitions of the National game have won them many friends, to whom the appeal contained in Mr. Kenner's letter should not be made in vain:—

To the Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Executive of the Athletic Lacrosse team, held on Saturday night, it was decided to appeal to the lovers of our national game for a little financial aid.

We have had only two home games this year; the first against Belleville, and the second against the local T.A.S. Lindsay was so ignominiously defeated on their own grounds that they defaulted the return game and that deprived us of a gate. On Labour Day the team had to play a sudden death game at Stouffville against St. Catharines, and on Wednesday next they are ordered to play a similar game at Markham against the Elora team. Practically no gate money is secured at these matches and consequently the club at present is financially embarrassed.

The record of the team, so far, has been exceedingly good. Belleville, the local T.A.S., Lindsay and St. Catharines have in turn had their dreams of the championship dispelled. There are four teams still in the running. By winning two more games, which is not beyond the range of possibility, another championship will come to Peterborough. But whether victorious or vanquished the Athletics will bring no discredit to the town as they play a clean gentlemanly game.

Fifty dollars is required for the next trip and we are quite confident that this amount will be forthcoming. No subscription of more than $1 is asked for and the names of the donors, with the kind permission of the Examiner and the Review will appear in these papers.

Subscriptions may be handed to Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, president of the club, at the Oriental, or left at the offices of the Examiner or Review. The following have already subscribed: Hon. J. R. Stratton, $1; W. H. Hill, $1; W. Stocker, $1; W. Loch, $1; George N. Graham, $1. The Peterborough Review Printing & Publishing Co. $1; Jas. Hamilton, $1.

Yours truly,
H. R. H. KENNER.

BASEBALL.

The Excelsiors to play the Chicago Stars will be picked from the following: Belleghem, McCorry, Pilling, Graham, Wareham, Sheridan, Byers, Simpson, Pilling, Miller and Flaherty.

• • • •

At Cobourg on Friday the Lindsay team trimmed the home nine to the tune of 7 to 4. Flaherty of the Excelsiors pitched for the visitors in Cobourg down to 3 hits. Lindsay got 11 hits off McKinnon, who struck out 7 men. Flaherty fanned 11 of the Cobourgs, striking out 3 in succession in the 7th and 8th innings, with men on bases. Sheridan of the Excelsiors played right field for Lindsay and secured 3 hits. Flaherty had 2 hits, one of which was a 2-bagger. The other hits for Lindsay were made by Workman 4; Stocker 1, and McGill 1. The feature of the game outside of Flaherty's great pitching, was the batting of Workman, Sheridan and Flaherty.

• • • •

The Chicago Stars Ladies' Baseball team will meet the crack Excelsiors on the Oval to-morrow afternoon and will try hard to check the victorious career of the locals. The Stars won four of six games played last week and reports say that Maud Nelson, their pitcher, is a wonder and has all the curves of a National League twirler. She has speed to burn, and thinks she can hold the local batters down to a few hits. The game will be called at 3.45, and will be played good and fast. There will be good seating accommodation and everything will be done in a clean and up-to-date manner.

• • • •

The game between the Excelsiors and the team representing the Intermediate League played on Saturday was won by the former by a score of 7—1.

The score by innings follos:

THE COLDSTREAM GUARDS BAND.

An Expert's Enthusiasm Over its Work.

Mr. R. H. Gliddon, band master of the 57th, has returned from his visit to Toronto, where he heard the Coldstream Guards' Band at Massey Hall, by which he has been fired to enthusiasm. He says the programme throughout was magnificant, but the performance of the Tannhauser overture and Taschackowsky's "1812 overture" were simply revelations indescribably fine. The public of Peterborough will be delighted to learn that these numbers will form part of the programme to be presented by the Coldstreams at their concert here on Sept. 23rd.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

A Plea for Submitting Proposal to a Popular Vote.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—In a matter of such importance as the Street Railway Franchise which is going to extend over a period of thirty years and which necessarily involves a large liability on the part of the town, I think that the council should submit the question to the vote of the ratepayers. Whilst I am particularly interested in the welfare of the town and would like to see the railway running, yet I feel that too high a price should not be paid for it, especially as other opportunities will, no doubt, present themselves within a few years which will enable the town to get a profit out of the railway instead of giving a company a bonus to accept a valuable franchise from the town.

I hope that our aldermen for the sake of their own reputation will yet submit this question to the vote of the ratepayers, and thus free themselves of any suspicion which people are only too ready to cast upon them when a valuable franchise is given away without the voice of the people.

Yours truly,
J. J. HARTLEY

REV. W. B. HEENEY M. A., AT ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Sermon From Travelling Secretary of St. Andrew's Brotherhood.

"The Duty of Every Christian to Make Another"—The Singing.

Rev. W. B. Heeney, M.A., Travelling Secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, preached yesterday morning in All Saints' church. He began an excellent sermon by commenting on Hymn 403, which had been sung just previous to the sermon. The main theme of his discourse was the necessity of everybody holding out a helping hand to others, and bringing them before the throne of Almighty God. He remarked that it was imperative for everybody to make up their minds to the fact that Jesus Christ must be found. How many questioned the preacher, of us realize that He is with us here, although He has gone away, for had He remained in the world as man, He could not be in this church and every other place in the world, at this moment. However, he is with us, and with everyone in the universe. He sees us, watches over us, and keeps guard over us always.

When we have found Christ, said the reverend preacher, then we have to confess Him before our fellow men. We must let our light so shine in our little community that we will be an example for others to imitate. Archbishop Benson said, "The first duty of every Christian is to make another a follower of Christ." Just like travellers in a desert looking for water, who spread out in a long line across the plain, should be the attitude of the Christian church. When one has found the desired object, he cries "Come!" which is repeated all along the line till all hear the glad news. So must the Christian say "Come!" He may be always saying "Come," but we do not always take the opportunity, still less do we pass on the word to our brother men.

The preacher dwelt at some length on the fact that many did not attend church "because they were so busy." He said the duties to God should precede all earthly ones. We should look upon it in the same light as the shoemaker who when asked what was his trade, said, "I have to try and extend the Kingdom of God, and I mend shoes to defray expenses."

He concluded by urging every person who really believed in Christ as a reality, to give his belief to others.

"EDUCATIONAL DAY" FOR METHODISTS.

Special Services in George and Charlotte Street Churches.

Rev. Prof. Badgely, B. D. LL. D. and Rev. J. J. Rae the Preachers for the day—Some Facts Regarding Educational Institution.

Yesterday was "Educational Day" in the Methodist churches in Peterborough, the preachers for the day being Rev. J. J. Rae, of Simcoe street church, Oshawa, formerly pastor of the Charlotte street church here, and Rev. Prof. Badgley, B.D., LL.D., of Victoria University. The former preached at George street in the the morning, his subject being "The Well-Developed Man," and the text Ephesians 4, 13, "Till we all come in the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

He said that Christ's idea in life was the conquest of the world, and in His living He set Himself to its accomplishment. He lived for it, taught it, and died for it, and to this end He sought the co-operation and help of men, because by this means only could it be accomplished. He sought to inspire men to become well developed, in order that they might be qualified to be co-labourers in His world conquest. Thus all through His life He appealed to men to be at their best. This is the object of the Gospel. Continuing, he said, that the present found three classes of people in existence, and in the church. There was the literary class, represented by the Greek of the Apostolic age; the practical man, as represented by the Roman of olden time; and the spiritually minded man, who found his counterpart in the Jew who existed in the time of Christ. He said that to-day was a time of marvellous literary achievement, as it was also one of extraordinarily practical principles, and of intensely religious sentiment, and the only hope for the world was in the consolidation of these three forces. The truth must be faced, no matter how unpleasant, that there is an arraignment of the intellectual life against the spiritual, and likewise a contempt on the part of the practical for both, and if the church is to fulfil its mission the different factions must effect a fusion, as it was the only solution of what is the greatest problem affecting human life. Mr. Rae's sermon was eagerly listened to, and the manner in which he dealt with his subject proclaimed him to be a deep thinker, and thoroughly conversant with the more serious problems which are engaging the best thought of our times.

REV. PROF. BADGLEY.

The speaker at the evening service was Rev. Prof. Badgely, who prefaced his sermon by making some explanations in reference to the work of Victoria University, with which he is identified, and in the interest of which the educational services were being held. He said that Toronto was the fifth city on the continent in the number of its students attending its different universities, colleges, and affiliated schools in its midst, and in proportion to population was perhaps the greatest student city in America. Speaking of the Provincial University, he said that the amount on which it managed to do its work, ($150,000 per year) was probably the smallest amount of any similar institution on the continent, in proportion to the number of students educated by it—teaching faculty. The affiliation of Victoria College, the Methodist institution, with the Toronto University, which is the university supported by the Provincial Government, although opposed by many at first, was, he was convinced, an act of the greatest wisdom, as events now show, inasmuch as all students enrolling in Victoria College, have the benefit of the special equipment and learned faculty of the Toronto University, and, in addition, the scholarships given the Toronto University students are also open for competition on the part of Victoria students, and last year the student who captured the leading matriculation scholarship in Toronto University was enrolled at Victoria. This was but one of the many advantages gained by the affiliation. Speaking of the increased amount necessary to maintain a university, over that of a few years ago, he said that while some years ago $25,000 or $30,000 were sufficient, it now required a much greater amount, because of the multiplicity of subjects taught, and the greatly widened scope which a degree in an accredited college embraced. It was not so long ago that a degree was thought to be a comprehensive one which included the languages, a very limited knowledge of the sciences, and the same in mathematics, while to-day the diversified needs of the people demand subjects which were not dreamed of being included in the curriculum of the colleges of a few years ago.

Victoria College was an institution of which Methodism may well be proud, and it owes no small debt of gratitude to some of its friends who are well known in Peterborough. Referring to the charge made in some of the Toronto dailies that Toronto University was a godless institution, he declared that the statements were untrue, and that the university was conducted upon high moral as well as literarly lines.

Prof Bidgely preached an eloquent sermon upon the text found in Matt. 18, 3, "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." He said there were three stages in human life; the first being that of acquisition—when the child was young it received its impressions which, in most cases, influenced its after life. The second stage was that marked by activities of our own, and thinking for ourselves, in distinction to the trust in others which characterized the earlier period. The third, was a period of re-adjustment as a result of the new thought which entered the mind. The professor's sermon was a scholarly and inspiring one, and was much enjoyed.

The music of the choir at both services was a distinctive feature, the anthem of the morning service being "O Blessed are They which Love Thee," by G. L. Osgood. A soprano solo occurring in it was beautifully rendered by Miss Bertha Parnell, while Mr. Mulligan sang the bass solo. For the offertory the selection was "Fear Not, O Land," by Arthur Berridge. In the evening the musical service was especially effective, the selections given being Lincoln's setting of "Abide with Me," opening with an alto solo which Miss Irene Gray took in a musicianly manner. Miss Metheral, in the same anthem, sang in good voice, a soprano solo. Gounod's "The Sands of Time are Sinking," with a bass solo, which was sung by Mr. Mulligan, was the offertory selection, and perfect shading and good expression were characteristic features of its rendition. Mrs. Mowat presided at the organ and materially assisted in making the musical service a success.

MONTH'S MIND MASS AT CAMPBELLFORD

In Memoriam the Late Rev. Father McCloskey.

The following members of the clergy were in Campbellford on Friday attending the month's mind mass in memory of the late Rev. Father McCloskey: Bishop O'Connor, and Rev. Fathers McColl and John O'Brien of Peterborough; Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay; Rev. Father Scanlan, of Grafton; Rev. Father McGuire, of Hastings; and Rev. Father McGuire, of Wooller.

The mass was sung by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, the Deacon of the mass being Rev. Father Scanlan, and the sub-deacon Rev. Father John O'Brien. The sermon was preached by Rev. Father McGuire, of Wooller, and was an eloquent exposition Rev. Father McGuire of Hastings, acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The work of the parish will be attended to by Rev. Father Whibbs, who was recalled from St. Patrick's church, Hamilton, for that purpose. The reverend gentleman is attached to this diocese but has been temporarily engaged at Hamilton.

New Wholesale House.

An addition to the rapidly increasing list of wholesale business establishments in Peterborough is soon to be made. Mr. Frank J. MacPherson, the enterprising electric dealer and bicycle liveryman, has just returned from a trip through some of the American cities where he has been on a purchasing trip. He has decided to embark in the wholesale electric supply business, being convinced of the fact that an opening exists here for such an enterprise, because of the large business done here in that line, and because of the facilities here for shipping to other towns in the vicinity. He will continue to occupy the same premises as those in which his present business is conducted. The second floor of the building is being filled up for the accommodation of the enlarged business.

Mr. MacPherson has made arrangements with manufacturers in Buffalo and Cleveland, as well as many Canadian makers. This will be the only wholesale electrical supply house between Toronto and Montreal and no doubt will do the volume of business, which the enterprise of the promoter deserves.

When the business is opened Mr. MacPherson will be in a position to supply the retail trade with the most modern fittings for electricity and gas illuminators. When the alterations in the buildings will have been completed the store will present a very handsome appearance and will be a credit to the business ability and foresight of the proprietor.

POLICE COURT

At the police court this morning a local hotel-keeper was charged with having blinds over his bar-room window and restraining the license Inspector from entering his bar during prohibition hours. James Haverson, K. C., of Toronto, appeared for the defendant. Both charges were dismissed.

P. T. Barnum.

Mr. Barnum, the great circus king, said: The only way for any business man to get along is to advertise his business. He doesn't recommend copying; No 1. He says paint your name and business in the most prominent place and do not stop at that, but paint it as many times as you can find conspicuous places. Now pictorial signs as flashy as the artist can produce is the best ways and means. The great show man said don't try to please your next door neighbor. He remarks, "I have often heard it said, 'Mr Smith has a sign and it is like so and so; I think I will have one the same.' Now that is the greatest mistake a business man ever made. Be original always.'" Get Fred Cook to paint your signs to suit your business, as he is original with his way of advertising. He doesn't copy nor does he intend to, and that is why Cook does the sign trade of the town. He is always ready to submit a design and always guarantees not to disapoint you. Just ring up 'phone 119 and order your exhibition signs.

THE BOUNDARY CASE

Dr. Robert Howard Speaks of the Canadian Feeling.

TO STIFFEN BRITISH BACKS.

"Canadians Would Be Much Incensed If the British Commissioners Showed a Disposition to Give Away Canada's Rights"—Counsel to Disagree Given by an Evening Paper of London—Eventualities.

London, Sept. 14.—A despatch to a news agency from Liverpool quotes Dr. Robert John Howard, the son-in-law of Lord Strathcona, the Canadian High Commissioner, who arrived there on the Cunard Line steamer Lucania Saturday, as saying that every means is being taken to stiffen the backs of the British representatives in the Alaskan boundary matter to resist the American demands.

He added. "The Canadians would be very much incensed if the British Commissioners showed a disposition to give away Canada's rights."

Dr. Howard's remarks were prompted by statements published here, from a Canadian source, intimating that Canada might be sacrificed by Great Britain for the sake of the latter's friendship for the United States.

Representatives of the Associated Press asked the American Commissioners now in London for an opinion on the subject, but not one of them would consent to be quoted. The British officials openly say that such criticism certainly will not predispose Lord Chief Justice Alverstone to pass favorably on the Canadian argument

One of the afternoon papers yesterday said it was conceivable that Lord Alverstone may be brought to "look through American spectacles" and that perhaps the best thing would be for the Commissioners to disagree, adding. "If the decision is against the United States we doubt whether American opinion would allow the American Government to respect the finding, or, if it is against Canada it is possible that it may spell separation, from the Mother Country."

CANADA'S CASE JUST.

Canadians Would Be Much Incensed If Rights Were Given Away.

(Canadian Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 14.—Dr. Howard, who arrived Saturday by the Lucania, discussing the Alaska Boundary Commission, said Canadians were so certain of the justice of their case they they would be very much incensed if the British Commissioners showed a disposition to give away their rights. The question was agitating the Dominion very keenly, and every means was being taken to stiffen the backs of the British representatives to resist the American demands.

Canada's Prosperity Pleasing.

London, Sept. 14.—Reports from Canada of the splendid crops, combined with the official figures given on the subject of revenue and foreign trade of the Dominion, promise a revival of business in Canadian railways on the stock exchange.

Outgoing steamers are still crowded. Most of the steerage passengers are people going to Canada to join friends.

Steamship Agents Defended.

John Ennis, passenger manager of the Allan Line at Liverpool, writing to the press, protests against the wording of the Dominion Government's warning to emigrants. Mr. Ennis says it is so worded as to cast serious reflection on the numerous agents of the steamship companies who are just as desirous as the Canadian Government officials to oppose and clear out of the business adventurers who always come upon the scene when emigration is at its height. Mr. Ennis says if the Canadian Government know cases in which steamship agents abused their position, let them give chapter and verse, so that the wrong-doers may receive the punishment they deserve.

It Is a Hard Life.

London, Sept. 14.—An article in The London Globe on the Canadian wheat fields is not encouraging to intending emigrants. It concludes by saying that if the Northwest is a rich country it seldom yields its riches lightly, and those who are likely to shrink from over-exertion, heat or biting cold may as well stay at home, for they will be badly disappointed with it.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to b a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

Cancer Caused Pope's Death.

Rome, Sept. 14.—Drs. Lapponi and Marzoni, the physicians of the late Pope Leo, have published a defence against the attacks made upon them by Dr. Cardarelli, who practically charged that they had made a wrong diagnosis of the Pope's disease, and declared that he died of tuberculous pneumbnia. Both physicians say trat they detected the true nature of the Pope's illness, but Cardinal Rampella, the Papal Secretary of State, objected to having it made public. The physicians, thereford, wrote in the presence of a witness a full history of the case, giving the real nature of the disease.

What Caused Death.

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—The body of Hugh Mann, who was instantly killed by his own track-laying machine, near Elwood, was brought into Winnipeg yesterday afternoon on a special train sent out by the Canadian-Northern. Death was caused by his clothing becoming entangled in the machinery.

The Fires of Eczema.

So keen is the suffering of many people who endure the stinging, itching sensation of Eczema that they speak of the skin as being on fire. By its soothing, healing, antiseptic influence Dr. Chase's Ointment possesses of inestimable value in every home, and when once introduced becomes a household necessity. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the standard the world over, and has no worthy rival.

BUSINESS AT THE SOO.

Several Assignments of Failures Accentuate the Situation.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 14.—The condition in which affairs in the Canadian Soo are at the present time as a result of the condition of Consolidated Lake Superior is shown by the fact that W. D. Hamilton, lessee of the International Hotel, a property of the Consolidated, has announced his assignment, though he has not yet given out a final statement.

Along with this comes the announcement of the assignment of Cooke & Co., grocers. In connection with the news of these failures comes a rumor that the Chemical works and the Pulp mill are to be shut down, and that President Shields, beaten at his attempts to reorganize the company, will resign shortly.

These rumors are considered to have not the least foundation, but with the failures they show the panicky condition of business in the city.

MOVE FOR GOOD ROADS.

Deputation Will Wait on Dominion Government in Its Interest.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—In connection with the agitation that has been in progress for over a year to lead the Dominion Government to establish a Dominion division for good roads, a strong deputation is to wait on the Government next Thursday at Ottawa. Among the members of this deputation will be the wardens of all the various counties in Eastern Ontario, representing the Eastern Ontario Good Roads Association, members of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, whose annual convention will be in session at the time in Ottawa, representatives of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association and of the Ontario Municipal Association. Several city and county councils will also be represented. Many of the members intend to have their representatives in Parliament act on the deputation with them.

Flour Up 15 Cents.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—One of the leading Manitoba milling companies advanced their prices Saturday 15 cents per barrel, making the price $4.65 for patents and $4.35 for second patents. The advance is apparently warranted on account of the prices now being paid to the Manitoba farmers for wheat; a still further advance may be looked for.

Boy Took Cramps and Drowned.

Bleeding Piles and Erysipelas.
Two Severe Cases Which Illustrate the Extraordinary Soothing, Healing Virtues of
Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Scores of people do not think of trying Dr. Chase's Ointment for bleeding piles because they have used so many other treatments in vain and do not believe their ailment curable. It is by curing when others fail that Dr. Chase's Ointment has won such a record for itself. It will be found to promptly relieve and completely cure any form of piles, no matter how severe or of how long standing.

Mr. James Uriah Pye, Marie Joseph, Guysborough Co., N.S., writes: "I was troubled with bleeding piles for about four years and could get no help. Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me in a very short time, and I cannot prise it too highly for this cure. Mrs. Thomas Smith was troubled with erysipelas in the feet and legs and was all swollen up. I gave her some of the ointment, which took out the swelling and healed all the sores. She had tried many treatments before, but none seemed to do her any good. I am telling my friends about the wonderful cures which Dr. Chase's Ointment made for Mrs. Smith and myself, and would say that it is only a pleasure for me to recommend so excellent a preparation."

Wherever there is irritation, inflammation, ulceration or itching of the skin Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring quick relief and will ultimately heal and cure. On this account it is useful in scores of ways in every home for the cure of eczeme, salt rheum, tetter, scald head, itching peculiar to women, pin worms, piles and all sorts of skin diseases and eruptions.

Dr Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase the famous receipt book author, are on every box of his remedies. 6

SLOW THROUGH THE DARK.

Slow moves the pageant of a climbing race;
Their footsteps drag far, far below the height,
And, unprevailing by their utmost might,
Seem faltering downward from each hard-won place.

No strange, swift-sprung exception we; we trace
A devious way through dim uncertain light—
Our hope through the long vistaed years, a sight
Of that our Captain's soul sees face to face.

Who, faithless, faltering that the road is steep,
Now raiseth up his drear insistent cry?
Who stoopeth here to spend a while in sleep
Or curseth that the storm obscures the sky?
Heed not the darkness round you dull and deep;
The clouds grow thickest when the summit's nigh.

NAMED FOR CANADA

CHRISTENED GREAT BATTLESHIP IN HONOR OF THE DOMINION.

Princess Louise Performed the Ceremony, Using Pelee Island Champagne—A Terrible Fighting Machine—One of Five New Warships Which Are the Most Formidable Afloat—Canada's Interest in the Event.

"Dominion" is the name which the British Government chose when wishing to christen a great battleship in our honor. The newest of Britain's huge man-o'-war was launched at Barrow on the last Monday in August, in the presence of a distinguished company. The ceremony of naming the ship was performed by Princess Louise, and to add "local color" to the event Pelee Island champagne was used. The vessel being new and unsophisticated was just as well pleased as though Veuve Cliquot had been permitted to trickle down her nose.

Terrible Fighting Machine.

The Dominion, when she is completed, will represent the highest type of battleship ever built. She will be one o, the largest vessels in the navy. Her guns are of the most powerful ever constructed, and in one minute they will be capable of firing one projectile of 850 pounds, sixteen of 380 pounds, and eight of 100 pounds. In pursuit of an enemy, the Dominion can fire ahead four projectiles of 850 pounds, eight of 380 pounds, and sixteen of 100 pounds. Anything that she can approach within twelve miles she can throw a shell aboard of. In other words, the Silver Spray would have little chance in an encounter with her. Her speed will be 18½ knots an hour, and her officers and crew cost will exceed $5,250,000, and she is named after Canada.

Five New Warships.

The Dominion, as stated, belongs to the most powerful type of battleship in the British navy. She shares with four sister ships the honor of being the most formidable man-o'-war floating the Union Jack. They are the King Edward VII., launched at Devonport; the Commonwealth, building at Fairfield; the Hindostan, building at Clydebank; the New Zealand, building at Portsmouth. These are all 16,350-ton ships. The weight of metal discharged by one of these vessels in a single round is 5,020 lbs., and is greater than that of any other British ships. Two American men-o'-war, the Georgia and the Connecticut, exceed this figure, tremendous as it is, the latter being capable of unloading 7,380 pounds of sudden death at one discharge.

Theoretical Improvements.

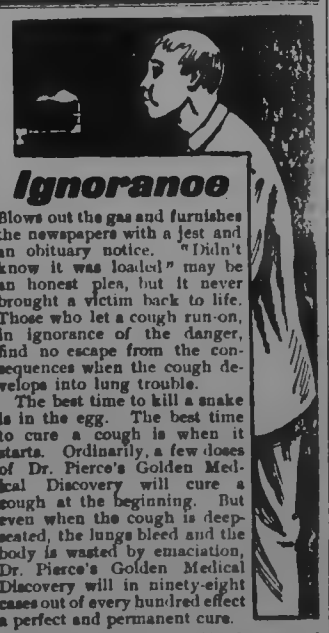
Experts declare that the Dominion and the four other ships of her class exemplify the new tendency of battleship designers to afford better protection to the secondary battery, and to increase the calibre of the guns. The improvement—for such we must assume it to be—was first noticeable in the Mikasa, a battleship built for the Japanese Government by Vickers and Maxim, the builders of the Dominion. In lieu of the scattered casement system, a central battery is used. It must be admitted, however, that most of the "improvements" which each of these great ships shows on its predecessor are of a theoretical nature. There is no finality about them. They represent experiments. The reason is that there has been little or no opportunity to test in action the merits of the different systems of armaments. The bombardment of Alexandria in 1882 was the first and last time that modern British ships have been engaged. The Spanish-American War was not as suggestive of the power of these leviathians as it might have been had the navies of the two countries been more evenly matched. The same remark applies to the naval battles between China and Japan.

Where Canada Stands.

Canada's interest in discussions of this sort will be more personal now that she has a ship for which she will stand sponsor. True, the Dominion is not ours, in the sense that the Good Hope belongs to Cape Colony, inasmuch as this magnificent vessel, which bore Joseph Chamberlain to South Africa, was a free gift of Cape Colony to the Motherland. Canada, however, through her Government, expressed her unwillingness to make any such contribution to the Empire's navy at the colonial conference. Australia is giving a million dollars a year for this purpose, New Zealand $200,000, Cape Colony $250,000, Natal $175,000, and even Newfoundland has promised to contribute $15,000 annually, besides $9,000 for fitting up a drill ship. The ancient colony also maintains a naval reserve force of 600 men. But where is Canada? This country is standing modestly by, and permitting the rest of the Empire to name vessels in her honor.

A Gift From the Dominion.

On this occasion, however, Canada will not fail in showing appreciation of the honor done her. She will desire to follow the precedent established by Godparents, who grace somewhat similar occasions by presenting a mug or a spoon to their little namesake. This custom is very popular in the United States, where the practice is made of naming vessels after the various States. The State so honored never fails to present to the vessel some magnificent present, beautiful dinner plates being probably the favorite gift. Most of the large American men-o'-war have exquisite services, and much rivalry is shown by the various States, each being anxious to outdo her sisters. The Dominion Government will probably not allow the opportunity to pass without presenting to the Dominion some present to show that we are not insensible to the compliment that has been paid us. Whatever gift is chosen, it must be worthy of a great country. The best is none too good for the Dominion, and only the best would be worthy of Canada.



Ignorance

Blows out the gas and furnishes the newspapers with a jest and an obituary notice. "Didn't know it was loaded" may be an honest plea, but it never brought a victim back to life. Those who let a cough run on, in ignorance of the danger, find no escape from the consequences when the cough develops into lung trouble.

The best time to kill a snake is in the egg. The best time to cure a cough is when it starts. Ordinarily, a few doses of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure a cough at the beginning. But even when the cough is deep-seated, the lungs bleed and the body is wasted by emaciation, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred effect a perfect and permanent cure.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people frankly told me that he would go into consumption," writes Mrs John Shireman, of No. 265 25th Place, Chicago, Ill. "He had such terrible coughing spells we not only grew much alarmed but looked for the bursting of a blood vessel or a hemorrhage at most any time. After three days' coughing he was too weak to cross the room. The doctor did him no good. I stated the case to a druggist, who handed me a bottle of Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husbands recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around, and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Why He Quit.

Hal—What, you've stopped calling on the girl with the plaid waist!

Tom—Yes; it's all over there.

Hal—Why? Father object?

Tom—Bless you, no! And I had nerve enough to dodge all her hints about popping the question also, but the last time I called she had the sign "Do It Now" stuck on the center table. That floored me, and I've quit.

The Real Thing.

"This," said the young Benedict, who was just realizing that he had caught a Tartar, "is what I call real married life."

"I'm glad you're satisfied with something," she snapped.

"Oh, I'm not. I merely meant to inform you that it is not ideal."

The Day Did Come.

His chest heaved convulsively, and the veins stood out upon his forehead. In his anger he advanced toward the other with outstretched fist. But by a strenuous effort he controlled himself.

"No matter!" he muttered savagely. "The day will come!"

Sure enough, at dawn the next morning faint streaks of gray pencilled the east. Later, at its accustomed hour, the sun arose.

Thus was the prophecy fulfilled.

A WEAK STOMACH.

It May Be Strengthened by Wearing a Wide Flannel Bandage.

All who suffer from poor digestion should wear a ten inch width of flannel bandage next the skin, pinned fairly tight round the body over the stomach. No liver or digestive pill or pepsin preparation helps the stomach a twentieth part as much as his flannel prescription. A poor circulation in the stomach, causing that chilly, "miserable" feeling, is at the root of half the indigestion that mortals are heir to. That is why hot water drinking gives relief. It helps the circulation. A flannel bandage worn day and night all the year round cures the faulty blood circulation of the stomach; consequently it cures dyspepsia. Five hours' interval between meals, avoiding fried foods, made dishes and mixtures and observing three or four "Lenten meals" in every week are golden rules for good digestion. A good dinner at night is necessary for those whose pleasure or work keeps them up very late, but for ordinary folk who dine at 7 and go to bed about 10:30 only a light, wholesome repast should be taken at the end of the day, when the muscles and nerves are more or less exhausted. A "tired stomach is a weak stomach" is a golden rule to remember, yet how often one hears people say:

"I've been rushing about all day and am tired to death. I must have a big meal to make up for it." You may put the big meal into the stomach, but you cannot make the stomach digest it.—Exchange.

Killed Him In Cold Blood.

It was after dinner in the little cafe beloved by literary Bohemia and the diners at the end table were swapping stories of their most startling experiences. Each had told a thriller, and all eyes turned to the long haired poet who wrote only martial lays.

"I had a terrible experience once," he said. "The memory of it haunts me now. I inflicted the most awful fate possible to imagine upon a fellow creature. It was in Germany. I didn't know the language very well, and I suppose I must have made some blunder in addressing a fiery looking chap at a hotel there. What it was I don't know, but at any rate he declared he had been insulted and demanded a duel on the spot.

"'One of us,' he cried in tones of fearful wrath, 'shall never leave this room alive!'

"I knew him to be an expert swordsman. But was I afraid? No! 'So let it be,' I said. And then I rushed out of the room, locked the door behind me and left him there to die!"

Messrs. E. M. Poussett & Co. have received the following:

Liverpool opening- wheat steady 1-4 d higher; corn dull 1-8 higher. 1.30 wheat steady unchanged; corn dull 1-8 to 1-4d higher.

The new week opens with little encouragement for those who hope for improvement and with more confidence on the part of believers in higher prices. Saturday's unfavourable bank statement, the action of the banks in retiring a large amount of circulation at a time when the treasury is endeavouring to help the market, the unsatisfactory showing made by the B. R. T. for the year, the uncertainty regarding weather and the crops during the remainder of the month and the absence of the public from the market are all in favour of the bears. Weather in the corn belt over Sunday was not favourable and the predictions are for frost in that locality. There is much bear talk on the coal stocks and the steel shares and the only support likely to develop will come from buying on part of short interests. The Atchison report does not justify any bullishness on that stock although it is likely to be manipulated up at every opportunity. The market will continue narrow and the active stocks will be a sale on a moderate turn on rallies. London for Americans was steady with closing prices on a parity.—Town Topics.

BEAUTIFUL DISPLAY OF PLANTS AND FLOWERS.

Promenade Concert in the Drill Hall.

The Horticulturist Society's Show in the Drill Hall was fairly well attended on Saturday night, when the band gave a programme concert, at which a number very popular pieces were excellently played, characteristic of the band.

The display of flowers, plants, ferns and vegetables was a very good one, and there were more entries this year than on any previous year since the Society began holding their annual shows.

It is very discouraging for the directors to see their beautiful show neglected by persons when crowds are to be seen liberally patronizing entertainments less meritorious, less beneficial and less in the public interests. It was thought that there was a decided taste for flowers among the people, judging from the excellent condition in which such a large percentage of the lawns are kept. However, it seems as if the taste were purely artificial and is only done through necessity in order that the grounds may look tidy.

The directors of the Society with the energy and self-sacrificing efforts they have exercised in the past, will continue their laudable if rather up-hill work of interesting the citizens in a work which means so much for the beautification of the town at large, and they will have another good flower show next year.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Rev. J. G. Potter preached both morning and evening. His text in the morning was taken from Psalm xc., 1, "The Home of the Soul; in the evening he took for his subject "Personal Force," based on Mat. iv., 5.

Next Sunday will be the anniversary of the Young Men's Guild, when Rev. Dr. D. D. McLeod of Barrie, will conduct the services in connection therewith.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

At St. John's church yesterday morning Mrs. Killin-Keough sang an aria from Gaul's "Holy City." In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Keough sang "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Smart, and Mr. Keough sang the "Beautiful Land on High," by Taylor.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

At the morning service in All Saints', Rev. W. B. Heeney, M. A., of Belleville, travelling secretary of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, gave a capital address on "Witnessing for Christ," and also a splendid address to a large number of the men of the congregation at 4.15. It is probable that a Chapter will be formed in this parish.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt preached in the evening, the Rector preaching in St. Luke's church.

The annual Harvest Festival will be held on Friday of this week, when Rev. C. J. James, M.A., of Toronto, will preach. Special music for the service is already well prepared, and the choir will also practice on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

A meeting of the Advisory Board will be held in the Vestry this evening at eight o'clock sharp.

The anthem, "While the Earth Remaineth," was well rendered by the full choir on Sunday morning, and Miss Mary Rush gave a most sweet and effective interpretation of the sacred solo, "Face to Face," during the offertory in the evening.

The Senior Girls' Guild will be organized and elect officers this evening at eight o'clock.

The orchestra was used in the Sunday school yesterday afternoon with excellent effect, for the first time.

For British Columbia.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons received an order this morning from Nelson, B.C., for a large flag for the Hotel Strathcona.

Having bought out the business and stock of the Singer Supply Co., on the understanding that they were leaving for North Bay, I have had another lucky chance to pick up a large consignment of still better bargains. By paying spot cash I bought part of two big Toronto wholesale stocks at such a great discount that I can afford to sell far lower than any other dealer can buy at regular wholesale prices. People ask how I can sell so cheap? The reason is, I keep a buyer in the city who is on the watch for snaps, I pay spot cash, my expenses are light, and I prefer to sell for small profits and double quick returns.

Mr. Osias Laplante Almost run Over by a Train.

While riding his wheel down George street across the C. P. R. tracks at 9.30 o'clock this morning, Mr. Osias Laplante nearly came to his death by being knocked over by a train. It is learned that he attempted to cross in front of a shunting train with the result that his wheel was struck by the engine, throwing him forcibly to the ground. He miraculously escaped a horrible death.

It is further learned from Mr. Laplante that the gates were up. A train was shunting on one track and he did not notice another one on the further rails. His arm and leg were bruised and scraped.

Coats that have a swagger touch, yet every garment a "Lady's" garment.

No loudness about a "Sutcliffe Coat." They're made to wear, and wear comfortably, yet with the chic little touches that women appreciate.

The cloths vary nearly as much as the styles, Zebilenes or rough effects having quite a prominent place. Grays and Black and White mixtures are bound to have a big run.

We have some select Plain Black Garments that are especially worthy of notice.

Our Mantle Department is free to inspect. Increased stocks demanding a change in arrangement, we have materially increased the capacity of the department, and thus more room for the accommodation of our customers. We value your inspection.

PETERBOROUGH IN MOURNING.

Death of Rugby Club Last Night.

ANNUAL MEETING'S RESULT.

Owing to Lack of Interest on the Part of the Citizens Generally the Club has Disbanded.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club was held last night in the Oriental Hotel at 8.30 o'clock with the following attendance:—Mr. Hal. Burnham, chairman; and Messrs. E. S. Clarry, secretary; H. R. H. Kenner, A. W. MacPherson, Capt.; Dr. Bradd, A. Noble, E. Shortell, F. Burnham, H. Munroe, E. Simpson, B. Cameron, E. Hartubuise, T. Thornton, W. Crowley, J. Crough, J. F. McGill.

The secretary stated that the club was about $12 or $13 behind.

The matter of entering a team into the senior series of the O.R.F.U. was brought up and discussed.

The chairman said that practically only the players had taken an interest in the scheme and that the Club must be put on a different footing with some financial backing.

Mr. Kenner remarked that the financial situation was far from bright. He said that if some officer could be got to look to the success of the Club he would withdraw his clause, saying that he would only give $25 on condition that Messrs. MacPherson and Burnham played, and would donate that sum if four others would do the same. He said he knew of two other gentlemen besides Mr. Calverwell and himself who would give that amount, and added that only one other similar donation was needed. The prospective team was a good one and could probably win the championship. Mr. Kenner concluded with stating that he was so occupied that he could not accept any office in the Club.

Mr. MacPherson said that owing to his pending departure he did not like to take a stand one way or the other. He corroborated Mr. Kenner's statement that there was good material. There was no need of that, he said, what was wanted was finances. There had been organized a junior league and if a senior team were found the boys could learn how to play the game. He suggested Mr. W. Crowley take the position of captaincy, for he felt assured that player could make a team which would be a credit to the town.

Mr. H. Burnham said that, like Mr. MacPherson, he would be leaving town and did not like to say much in the matter. He thought Mr. Crowley would make an excellent captain and concluded by asking some of the players to comment upon the situation.

Mr. T. Thornton suggested that if each player paid $1 the back debt, which was the first consideration, would be cleared up.

Mr. E. S. Clarry remarked that he thought $350 or $400 would carry the team through the season.

Mr. W. Crowley very emphatically said that it looked as if a football team could not be organized. He regretted having to say it, but he added that there were good men but no money.

Mr. Noble also said it seemed hopeless to organize a team.

Mr. Clarry moved, seconded by Mr. Crowley, that in view of the lack of interest displayed by the people of Peterborough towards the support of a Rugby Club, for the coming season this meeting is of the opinion that the Peterborough Club should withdraw from the O.R.F.U. for the present season, at least, and that the O.R.F.U. be immediately notified to that effect; also that the thanks of the Club be extended to the few gentlemen who voluntarily offered financial aid.—Carried.

Mr. Clarry regretted having to move to this effect in view of the splendid record of the Club during the past four years, but it had become quite apparent that there was insufficient financial assistance in view, and it was a fact that there was no one who had as yet volunteered their services as officers of the club for the ensuing year.

Mr. Kennor moved, seconded by Mr. Thornton, a vote of thanks to the T.A.S. Hockey Club for their generous financial aid.

Mr. Crowley moved, seconded by Mr. Noble, that a similar vote of thanks from the club be tendered the Peterborough Hockey Club for similar aid.

Mr. H. Burnham remarked that there seemed no necessity for the election of new officers.

Mr. H. R. H. Kenner moved, seconded by Mr. Crowley, that the Peterborough Rugby Club be formally disbanded, owing to the lack of support by the citizens of the town generally.—Carried, unanimously.

Mr. MacPherson, the late captain, immediately moved the adjournment of the meeting.

"Doggie's" Complaint.
